At the Twenty-fourth Annual Meeting of the Church Missionary Society for Africa and the East, held in Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen Street, on Tuesday, May 4, 1824.

The Right Hon. LORD GAMBIER, Vice-Patron and President, in the Chair.

The Report of the Committee having been read by the Secretary, and the Statement of the Accounts of the Twenty-third Year,

On a Motion by the Right Hon. Lord Barham, seconded by the Right Hon. Charles Grant, M.P., it was

RESOLVED UNANIMOUSLY,

That the Report now read be received and printed under the direction of the Committee; and that, while this Meeting contemplates with thankfulness the continued augmentation of the income of the Society, and the gradual extension of its operations and of those of kindred Institutions, the Members notice with pain a growing manifestation, in various ways, of a spirit hostile to those benevolent exertions; and they recognise in these "signs of the times" an accumulating weight of obligation on all Christians, both to cultivate a right spirit in their labours, and to pray for the abundant influences of the Holy Spirit, in order to the more rapid success of that great Cause which it is the object of the Society to advance.

On a Motion by the Right Hon. Lord Calthorpe, seconded by T. Fowell Buxton, Esq. M.P., it was

RESOLVED UNANIMOUSLY,

That the Members of the Society deeply sympathize with the Missionaries in Sierra Leone and their Congregations, on the removal of so many valuable Labourers from the sphere of their usefulness, and on the destitution of religious instruction to which those Congregations are in consequence reduced: yet, animated by the recollection of the signal success with which the Society has been blessed in that Mission, this Meeting rejoices in the prospect afforded of a strenuous prosecution of the Society's objects in Sierra Leone with augmented means; persuaded that while the places of those who have been removed by sickness or death in the civil and military departments are eagerly sought for and speedily filled, it would be a dereliction of duty in Christians, inspired by higher motives and aiming at nobler ends, to desist from their undertaking, or to relax in their exertions.

On a Motion by the Hon. and Right Rev. the Lord Bishop of Lichfield and Coventry, seconded by Major Phipps, it was

RESOLVED UNANIMOUSLY,

That this Meeting, while it deplores the ravages of war on the shores of the Mediterranean, yet cannot but anticipate the overruling of these evils for the furtherance of the Gospel; and rejoices in the increasing opportunities for the circulation of the Scriptures and the establishment of Christian Missionaries, in the countries connected with that sea.

On a Motion by Sir Robert Harry Inglis, Bart. M.P., seconded by the Rev. Richard Waldo Sibthorp, it was

RESOLVED UNANIMOUSLY,

That the happy effects which have resulted to the interests of Christianity from the Ecclesiastical Establishment for our Eastern Possessions, encourage this Meeting to look forward with enlarged expectations to the most salutary consequences, both to the Free and Slave Population, from that recently formed for the West Indies; and it affords the Members peculiar satisfaction to express the sense which they entertain of the advantages derived to the Society from the countenance and patronage of the Lord Bishop of Calcutta.

On a Motion by the Rev. Joseph Parson, seconded by the Rev. Frederick Spring, it was

RESOLVED UNANIMOUSLY,

That the increase of Schools in the Society's different Missions, and particularly of those for the instruction of Native Females in India, offers to the Meeting matter for sincere congratulation; and it especially rejoices in the augmentation of Seminaries for training Native Teachers, as the importance of employing as extensively as practicable Natives in the communication of religious knowledge to their countrymen becomes more manifest, in proportion as the operations of the Society are enlarged.

On a Motion by the Rev. C. James Hoare, seconded by the Rev. John William Cunningham, it was

RESOLVED UNANIMOUSLY,

That the sincere thanks of the Society be given to the Noble President of the Institution, to the other Vice-Patrons, and to the Vice-Presidents, for their continued protection; to the Treasurer for his assistance; to such Clergymen and other Gentlemen as have, during the last year, prepared or supported Associations; to the Younger Friends of the Society; to those Ladies who, in various places, have very successfully exerted themselves in promoting its interests; and to the Committee for their exertions.

LAWS AND REGULATIONS

OF THE

CHURCH MISSIONARY SOCIETY FOR AFRICA AND THE EAST.

I. THIS Institution shall be designated "The Church Missionary Society for Africa and the East;" and shall be conducted by Patrons, Vice-Patrons, a President, Vice-Presidents, a Committee, and such Officers as may be deemed necessary, all being Members of the Established Church.

II. The office of PATRONS of the Society shall be reserved for such Members of the Royal Family as may honour it with their Protection. VICE-PATRONS shall be appointed exclusively from among the Peers, Spiritual and Temporal. The PRESIDENT shall be such Peer or Commoner, and the VICE-PRESIDENTS such Commoners, as may be appointed thereto.

OF MEMBERS AND GOVERNORS.

III. Annual Subscribers of One Guinea and upwards, and if Clergymen, Half-a-Guinea, with Collectors of Fifty-two Shillings and upwards per Annum, shall be Members of the Society during the continuance of such Subscriptions or Collections. Benefactors of Ten Guineas or upwards, Clergymen making Congregational Collections to the amount of Twenty Guineas, and Executors paying to the amount of Fifty Pounds, shall be Members for Life.

IV. Annual Subscribers of Five Guineas shall be Governors during the continuance of such Subscription; and Benefactors of Fifty Pounds and upwards shall be Governors for Life.

V. Members and Governors of Associations who contribute the above sums shall be considered as Members and Governors of the Parent Society.

VI. The Committee shall have the power of appointing such persons as have rendered essential services to the Society, either Members for Life, or Governors for Life.

OF GENERAL MEETINGS.

VII. An Annual Meeting of the Members of the Society shall be held in London, on the First Tuesday in May; unless that day shall fall on the 7th of May, in which case the Annual Meeting shall be held, for that year, on Tuesday the 30th of April. To such Meeting, those Members of the Society shall be summoned by Letter who reside within ten miles of the Metropolis: when the Proceedings of the foregoing year shall be reported, the Accounts presented, and a Treasurer and Committee chosen.

VIII. A Special General Meeting of the Members of the Society, at which not less than Thirty shall constitute a quorum, shall be called at any time, at the requisition of the General Committee, or by any Thirteen Members, on addressing a Letter to the Secretary, specifying the object of the Meeting. Ten days' notice shall be given in three public Newspapers, of any such intended Meeting, and of the purpose for which it is called; which shall be deemed sufficient publicity.

IX. None of the Rules of the Institution shall be repealed or altered, nor any new ones established, but at the Annual Meeting, or at a Special Meeting called for that purpose.

X. An Anniversary Sermon shall be preached at some Church in London by a Clergyman appointed by the General Committee. An Annual Report of the Society shall be printed for the use of its Members.

ON THE COMMITTEE.

XI. The Committee shall consist of Twenty-four Lay Members of the Established Church; and of all such Clergymen as are Members of the Society. Eighteen Members shall be annually appointed from the Old Committee, and Six from the General Body.

XII. The COMMITTEE shall elect, at their First Meeting in every year, either from among themselves, or from the other Members of the Society (being Members of the Established Church) a Committee of Patronage, a Committee of Funds, a Committee of Correspondence, and a Committee of Accounts. Each of the said Committees shall keep minutes of its Proceedings, and shall report the same to the General Committee.

XIII. The Office of the Committee of Patronage is, to procure patronage and support to the Society; and to nominate, to the General Committee, proper persons, as Patrons, Vice-Patrons, and Vice-Presidents of the Society.

XIV. The Office of the Committee of Funds, is to circulate information respecting the Institution; to adopt proper means of augmenting the Subscriptions and Benefactions; to obtain Collections in Churches and Chapels; and to nominate, from time to time, to the General Committee, suitable persons to act as agents for the Society in the principal towns throughout the Empire.

XV. The Office of the Committee of Correspondence, is, to seek for proper Missionaries, to superintend their instruction, and to correspond with them when sent out.

XVI. The Office of the Committee of Accounts is, to see that the Subscriptions are duly received, regulate the accounts, and undertake the charge of fitting out and conveying the Missionaries to their places of destination.

XVII. The General Committee shall receive the Reports of the other Committees, shall appoint the places where Missions shall be attempted, shall direct the scale upon which they shall be conducted, and shall superintend the affairs of the Society in general.

XVIII. The General Committee shall meet on the Second Monday in every Month, and oftener if needful, the other Committees as often, and at such places, as shall be by them agreed on: their Meetings to be always opened with reading a Form of Prayer composed for that purpose, or one or more suitable prayers selected from the Liturgy. Five Members shall be necessary to compose a General Committee, and Three each of the others. In case of equality of votes, the Chairman shall be entitled to a second or casting vote.

XIX. The Patrons, Vice-Patrons, and President, Vice-Presidents, Treasurer, Secretaries, and Assistant Secretary shall be considered ex-officio Members of all Committees.

XX. Governors, being Members of the Established Church, shall be entitled to attend and vote at all Meetings of the General Committee.

XXI. All Payments on account of the Society shall be signed by Three of the General Committee, in Committee, and the Secretary or Assistant Secretary.

XXII. The Committee shall have power to appoint such Officers and Assistants as they shall deem necessary for the well-conducting of the affairs of the Society, subject to the approbation of the next Annual Meeting.

XXIII. Five Auditors shall be appointed by the Committee annually, for the purpose of auditing the Accounts of the Society, of whom Three shall be chosen from the General Body. Three shall be a Quorum.

XXIV. The Life Subscriptions, or a sufficient part thereof, to be equal to the Subscriptions of the existing Members for Life, shall be placed in the Public Funds, in the names of Four of the General Committee; who, on their acceptance of the trust, shall sign a declaration of the nature of it, and that they will relinquish the same whenever called upon for that purpose by the General Committee.

OF MISSIONARIES.

XXV. In the appointment of Candidates for the Missionary Office, the following course shall be pursued.——The Committee of Correspondence having found a person supposed to be suitable, shall determine by ballot to nominate him to the General Committee. Previous to the day of nomination, each Member of the General Committee shall receive notice of such nomination. On the day of nomination, a report shall be made by some Member of the Committee of Correspondence of his qualifications, and the General Committee shall then proceed to ballot for him, unless any Member shall declare that he wishes for further information; in which case the ballot shall be deferred till the next meeting of the General Committee. In the ballot of either Committee, the agreement of at least three-fourths of the Members present shall be necessary to his election.

XXVI. A Candidate thus chosen shall receive instruction in such parts of knowledge, and be prepared in such a manner for his future employment, as the Committee of Correspondence shall judge expedient.

XXVII. If, during such preparation, any Two Members of the General Committee should see cause to disapprove of his principles or conduct, they may submit the subject to a special meeting of the Committee; and, if deemed proper, the Committee may appoint another ballot to determine whether he shall be continued as a Candidate; of which special notice shall be given to each Member.

XXVIII. Each Candidate shall consider himself as engaged to go to any part of the world, and at any time, which the Committee shall choose; respect however being had to his personal circumstances, or to any previous stipulation made by him with the Society. As soon as he quits England, he shall keep a regular Journal of his studies and proceedings; a copy of which he shall send, as often as opportunity shall serve, to the Secretary.

XXIX. Each Candidate, after due preparation, shall, if not admitted to Holy Orders, be appointed by the Committee to act as a Catechist. If admitted to Holy Orders, he shall be appointed a Missionary.

XXX. The Missionaries who go out under the direction of this Society shall be allowed to visit home, permission having been previously obtained from the General Committee: and after having laboured in the cause of the Society to the satisfaction of the Committee, at the Stations committed to their care, until age or infirmity prevent further exertion, suitable provision shall be made to render their remaining days comfortable. The General Committee shall have the power to assist also, in particular cases, the dependent relatives of those Missionaries, who, by devoting themselves to the service of the Society, are prevented from contributing to their support.

XXXI. A friendly intercourse shall be maintained with other Protestant Societies engaged in the same benevolent design of propagating the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

XXXII. It is recommended to every Member of the Society to pray to Almighty God for a blessing upon his designs, under the full conviction, that, unless he "prevent us in all our doings with his most gracious favour, and further us with his continual help," we cannot reasonably hope to meet with persons of a proper spirit and qualifications to be Missionaries, or expect their endeavours to be crowned with success.

Besides these Teachers, there is a considerable number, particularly in Antigua, who act gratuitously. No Return has been received of the Scholars in some of the Schools: and those at Cochin and Allepie, in the want of more recent Returns, have been taken from the last List.

STATIONS AND NAMES OF MISSIONARIES AND OTHER LABOURERS.

By MISSIONARY, in the preceding List, is to be understood one who has been admitted to Holy Orders—by TEACHER, one who, not having been Ordained, engages, as a Catechist, in such religious care and general instruction of the people as may be consistent with his character as a Layman—by ASSISTANT, one who is chiefly occupied in School Instruction, as Superintendant, Master, Mistress, or Usher.

CHURCH MISSIONARY ASSOCIATIONS.

WHEN a disposition appears in any place to assist the designs of the Society by establishing an Association in its support, a Meeting of persons favourable to such a measure should be called. The friends who meet for this purpose should form themselves into a "Church Missionary Association, in aid of the Church Missionary Society for Africa and the East;" and should proceed to appoint a Committee and proper Officers.

In large Towns, comprehending several Parishes, it may be expedient to appoint a President, Vice-Presidents, a Treasurer, and a Secretary; with a pretty numerous Committee, composed of persons from the different parishes.

In Parochial Associations, a Treasurer, a Secretary, and a smaller Committee, under the Presidency of the Clergyman, may be best suited to conduct the business.

It may sometimes be found expedient to form Associations in Separate Congregations in the same Parish, rather than one Association in the parish at large; and in this case also, a Treasurer, Secretary, and Committee, under the Presidency of the Clergyman, will suffice to accomplish the object.

In a Voluntary Union of Friends, whether the members of the same family, the children of a school, or persons connected by affinity or friendship, such arrangements may be made as may prove most convenient to themselves.

In this manner, benevolent persons, willing to assist the designs of the Society, from the domestic circle to the largest town, may unite for a purpose most beneficial to their own minds, while it expresses a due regard to the glory of God in the salvation of the Heathen, and a proper sense of their own infinite obligations to Divine Mercy.

At Meetings held for the formation of Associations, an INTRODUCTORY RESOLUTION should be moved and seconded, approving the object and proceedings of the Church Missionary Society. A SECOND RESOLUTION may follow, recommending the establishment of an Association for the Parish, Town, or County, as the case may be, in aid of the Society, and appointing the Laws and Regulations; when some such Laws and Regulations as those stated below may be adopted. In a THIRD RESOLUTION, the Patrons, Officers, Committee, &c. should be named and appointed.

LAWS AND REGULATIONS SUITABLE FOR ASSOCIATIONS.

I. Annual Members of this Association shall be, all persons subscribing annually One Guinea or upward, or, if Clergymen, Half-a-Guinea; and also such Persons as shall collect in its behalf One Shilling or upward per week.

II. Life Members shall be Benefactors of Ten Guineas or upward, or, if Clergymen, such as shall contribute Congregational Collections to the amount of Twenty Guineas, and Executors paying bequests of Fifty Pounds.

III. Annual Governors shall be Subscribers of Five Guineas per Annum.

IV. Life Governors shall be Benefactors of Fifty Pounds.

V. Members will be entitled to receive the Reports of this Association, and also the Annual Reports of the Parent Society, and to vote at all their General Meetings: but Collectors of One Shilling and upward per week will further receive a Copy of each Monthly Number of the Missionary Register.—Governors will be entitled to receive the Reports; and, if Members of the Established Church, to vote at all Committee and General Meetings of both the Association and the Parent Society.—Clergymen will have the same privilege as Governors.

VI. The business of the Association shall be under the management of a Patron, a President, Vice-Presidents, a Treasurer, Secretaries, Governors, and a Committee not exceeding ——— Lay Members of the Established Church, and of all Clergymen who are Members of this Association. The Committee to meet on the ——— in the months of January, April, July, and October, at ——— o'clock; Five Members being competent to act.

VII. The object of the Committee shall be, to call forth the zeal of well-disposed Persons, and particularly those of the Established Church, in support of the Church Missionary Society; and to recommend proper persons who may offer themselves as Missionaries to the Parent Society—to disperse as widely as possible Missionary Information—to promote the formation of Branch Associations—and to procure Collections and other Contributions.

VIII. The whole of the Funds so obtained, after deducting incidental expenses only, shall be remitted to the Church Missionary Society in aid of its designs.

IX. A General Meeting shall be held annually, on such day in the month of ——— as shall be found expedient (of which due notice shall be given), when a Report of the Proceedings of the Association shall be presented.

LADIES' ASSOCIATIONS.

RULES RECOMMENDED FOR ADOPTION BY LADIES' CHURCH-MISSIONARY ASSOCIATIONS.

I. THAT an Association be now formed, in connection with the ——— Church-Missionary Association, and that it be denominated "The Ladies' Church-Missionary Association for ——— and its Vicinity."

II. That every person subscribing One Penny per Week or upward, or Sixpence per Month or upward, be a Member of this Association, and, as such, be supplied with a copy of the Quarterly Papers of the Society.

III. That this Association be under the direction of a President, Treasurer, One or more Secretaries, and a Committee; consisting of all such Ladies as collect One Shilling and upward per week; who shall be respectively furnished with a copy of the Missionary Register and the Annual Report of the Parent Society, copies of the Quarterly Papers for the use of their Contributors, and Annual Collecting Cards to assist them in gathering the Weekly and Monthly Contributions.

IV. That the Committee meet on the ———* day in the months of January, April, July, and October, at Twelve o'clock precisely; when the Members shall pay the amount of their Collections to the Treasurer, and receive the requisite number of Quarterly Papers for their Subscribers.

V. That a statement of the accounts of this Association be annually prepared at a special Meeting of the Committee, preceding the Anniversary of the "——— Church-Missionary Association;" and, after being signed by the Treasurer and two of the Committee, shall be transmitted to the Secretaries of the said Association.

* When these Regulations have been adopted, it will be proper to appoint the President, Treasurer, and Secretary of the Association, and to take down the Names of Collectors.

The Day of Meeting should be fixed with reference to the times of receiving the Quarterly Papers, which are despatched from London on the First Day of the respective Months specified in the Rule.

N.B. The only BOOKS required by a Ladies' Association, are,

1. A Minute Book, to be kept by the Secretary, wherein the Proceedings of every Committee Meeting should be entered.
2. A Cash Book, to be kept by the Treasurer, wherein the amounts received from the Collectors, Quarterly, should be entered, as well as all payments on account of the Association.

The Secretary should always keep a stock of Collectors' Cards, for the supply of the Members.

All Communications relative to Associations may be addressed to the Secretaries, at the Church Missionary House, Salisbury Square, Fleet Street, London; where every information and assistance may be obtained in the establishment and support of Associations.

NOTICE RESPECTING COLLECTORS.

BY Collectors is to be understood Persons who gather, in behalf of the Society, the Contributions of such of their Friends as may be able and willing to render assistance to the great Work of Christian Charity in which the Society is engaged, but who may not have it in their power to give their Annual Guinea.

Those who may have leisure for this service, are Members of the Society, so long as their Collections amount to Fifty-two Shillings per Annum. They may collect this sum in such way—weekly, monthly, or quarterly—as may best suit their own convenience, and that of the Contributors.

Collectors will, of course, exercise due discrimination. While they bestow their own time on this work, from a just conviction of the misery of the Heathen and the duty of sending to them the Gospel, they should ask no contributions but from such as may be able to give them; and should endeavour that their contributors may give on the same just sense of duty as they act themselves.

For this purpose, they will be regularly supplied, on writing to the Secretaries, with the Numbers of the Missionary Register, and Tracts calculated to diffuse information and excite attention, and with Cards to assist them in making their Collections. They will be furnished, also, with a sufficient quantity of Quarterly Papers, to supply a Copy to each Contributor. These Quarterly Papers consist of a few pages of striking Facts and Anecdotes; with Addresses and Exhortations, adapted to the level of the Labouring Classes and the Young; and are illustrated by Engravings on Wood.

If Five or Six or more Collectors unite together in any place, the Committee will send the Monthly Numbers and the Quarterly Papers in a parcel; but, in order to this, it will be requisite for the parties to procure the permission of their Bookseller in the country, to have such parcel sent with his monthly packet of Magazines, and to apprise the Secretary of the names of the Bookseller, and of his Correspondent in London.

A single Collector, or any number short of Five or Six, may purchase of the nearest Bookseller, both the Missionary Register and the requisite Quarterly Papers, and deduct the cost from the sum collected, and remit the remainder to the Society. This method is, on the whole, more convenient and economical to the Society than that of sending the Numbers and Papers in a parcel, in cases where the Collectors are less than five or six.

While Collectors render important aid to the designs of the Society, they both contribute to the strength and honour of that Church with which the Society is connected, and confer also great benefit on those persons whose contributions they gather.

This system of engaging, according to their power, the Labouring Orders and the Young in this work of charity, has a direct and important influence on the real strength and honour of that Church of which we are Members. Facts are multiplying daily which demonstrate the growing attachment of those persons to the Church, whose minds are interested in the great objects of the Society, and who are themselves associated in its charitable labours.

For the Contributors themselves, the regular diffusion among them of intelligence respecting the state of the world and the efforts now making for its conversion, enlarges and elevates their minds. Many, who may not be able to give their Annual Guinea, would gladly take their share in this noblest work of Christian Charity. That numerous class have, in our days, the opportunity given them for the first time, of regularly contributing, according to their power, to extend the kingdom of Christ in the world: and HE, who accepted the two mites of the Widow, will accept every gift when offered from love; and will look with especial approbation on that servant of His, who, "remembering the words of the Lord Jesus, how he said, It is more blessed to give than to receive"—"labours, working with his hands the thing which is good, that he may have to give to him that needeth."

ACTS II. 17.

AND IT SHALL COME TO PASS, IN THE LAST DAYS, SAITH GOD, I WILL POUR OUT OF MY SPIRIT UPON ALL FLESH.

THE great and glorious promise, here specified, is a part of the Prophecy of Joel: and though particularly applied by the Apostle Peter, in its primary fulfilment on the day of Pentecost, to the miraculous gifts of the Holy Ghost which were then communicated; yet we cannot hesitate to receive it as a general promise, which regards the propagation of the Gospel throughout the whole world, by the ordinary operations of the same Spirit on the hearts and energies of the servants of God, in every succeeding age. Like many other prophecies of similar import, it stands as an encouragement to patient faith, and lively hope, and persevering prayer.

Indeed, if such portions of the Prophetic Word were to be limited to the Pentecostal Period, of how much consolation would the Church of God be deprived! What glorious expectation, what joy and peace in believing, would be snatched from her, if she might not, as she journeys through the wilderness, look on such prophecies as referring to the coming of the Lord her righteousness, for whose approaching kingdom and glory she longs and waits, as those who watch for the morning.

It is true, the Apostle declares, in his address to the people—This is that which was spoken by the Prophet Joel: but, while he declares, afterward, the promise is unto you and to your children, he adds, and to all that are afar off, even to as many as the Lord our God shall call.

We cannot but conclude, therefore, that it is a prophecy, the gracious fulfilment of which will be co-extensive with the whole Christian Dispensation —a prophecy, which only BEGAN to be fulfilled at the Day of Pentecost; and which shall not be ENTIRELY fulfilled, till the last days shall INDEED come, when the knowledge of the Lord shall cover the earth, as the waters cover the sea.

Considered in this light, the text brings before us, most distinctly, a great and all-important subject—a subject, which, however appropriate to all occasions of this nature, could never have been presented under any circumstances of the Christian Church, more strikingly illustrative of its importance than those under which we now live: and, I may add, that it is one which seems the rather to commend itself to our attention, inasmuch as, at the last Anniversary, our minds were led to the awful contemplation of the baneful influence of ANOTHER Spirit—the God and Prince of this world—the Spirit which worketh in the children of disobedience, leading them captive at his will. It will console us, while it will humble us, to cherish the conviction, that it is the Spirit of the Lord alone, that can raise up a standard against the enemy; and that it is to that mighty and holy influence, that we must look, in the use of suitable means, "to beat down Satan under our feet."

I propose, therefore, to offer to your consideration —first, Our NEED OF THE DIVINE INFLUENCE, promised in the Text, for the successful prosecution of Missionary Labours; and, secondly, the ENCOURAGEMENT afforded in the work, by the expectation of the plenary and ultimate accomplishment of the prophecy. And may HE, the Spirit of Truth, whose gracious presence is promised to the assemblies of His people, now "come among us, and with great might succour us;" that the attempt, about to be made in His Name, may be accompanied with His blessing, and redound to His glory!

I. We are to consider our NEED OF THE DIVINE INFLUENCE, promised in the Text, for the successful prosecution of our Missionary Labours.

This we shall best perceive, by a reference to the natural state and condition of every individual.

What, then, is that state?—Dead, the Apostle says, in trespasses and sins. How, then, shall he "turn, and prepare himself, to faith, and calling upon God?" It is the Spirit that quickeneth: he must be born again. He has a carnal heart, and that is enmity against God. How, then, shall he draw near unto God?—only under the influence of that Spirit, whose office it is to renew and sanctify, and to make him spiritually minded. He has a dark understanding, a perverse will, unruly affections; and, in short, his whole self is alienated from the life of God, through the ignorance that is in him, because of the blindness of his heart. Where shall he find help, in such a state as this, but from the new-creating, the life-giving energy of the Holy Ghost?—of that Spirit, which alone can take of the things of Christ, and shew them to such a soul; discovering to it the fulness and the freeness of Salvation, the sufficiency of the Atonement, the completeness of the righteousness of the Redeemer.

By whatever expressions the Scriptures describe the turning of a sinner's heart to God, we are always referred to one and the same Spirit, as the great first cause of the change. If the love of God has been shed abroad in his heart, it is by the Holy Ghost. If the kingdom of God is established within him, the righteousness and peace and joy of it are in the Holy Ghost. If he abounds in hope, it is through the power of the Holy Ghost. If he is saved with an everlasting salvation, it is by the renewing of the Holy Ghost. So that we may say, with the Apostle, All these worketh that one and the self-same Spirit.

So many of you as have experienced the blessed effects of which I am speaking, are living witnesses of the power of the Holy Ghost. You know that you were in utter darkness, until He enlightened your mind—shewed you your sin and danger—exhibited to you Jesus, in all His beauty and excellency—pointed you to Him, as the only refuge—wrought in you the desire to apply to Him for pardon, peace, and salvation: and, having thus become your Teacher and your Guide, became also your Sanctifier and Comforter—purifying your hearts by faith—cheering them by a sense of divine love—pouring into them the consolations of the exceeding great and precious promises—giving you occasional foretastes of the heavenly joy—and sealing you unto the day of redemption. You know, that, without His influence, all is still DARKNESS and DEATH in the soul: ye were sometimes darkness; but you hath he quickened.

What is thus declared of a single soul, is necessarily applicable to a family, or a tribe, or a nation, or a world. See, then, at once, the cause of all the darkness that covers the earth!

See, for instance, in the first place, the reason why the PROFESSING CHRISTIAN WORLD AMONG OURSELVES exhibit so little, comparatively, of the life and power of religion. With the name of Christ upon their lips, and His cross on their foreheads, and His vows on their consciences, Christians OUGHT to be lights shining in a dark place. But what is the fact? Of how large a portion of professed Christians are we compelled to say, the light that is in them is darkness! How fearfully extensive, among the avowed followers of the Crucified Jesus, is that appalling designation, Having not THE SPIRIT! To this it must be ascribed, that, in our own favoured land, we are so continually displaying a form of godliness without the power; and shewing to the world around us, in such a multitude of instances, a CHRISTIANITY WITHOUT CHRIST! To this, also, we trace the lamentable fact, that we exemplify so little the description given of the Primitive Christians, who, because they were filled with the Holy Ghost, were of one heart and one soul.

If we pass on, to view the ANCIENT CHURCHES OF CHRIST ABROAD, we find, in their withered and decayed state, a testimony to the truth, that where the Spirit is not poured out, all is barren, and dry, and dead. How have the Greek, the Syrian, the Coptic, the Armenian, and other Churches felt the want of that holy influence! How do they now sit in the dust, while Ichabod seems written on their walls! In proof of their affecting condition, I need but to refer you to the Sermon preached before this Society, and to the Volume of Christian Researches, by its Representative in the Mediterranean: and I may renew his appeal to you, in the words of his Text upon the occasion just referred to, and say, He, that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the Churches.

And why is ISRAEL yet an outcast from the Lord? Why have they, as a people, the eyes that cannot see, and the ears that cannot hearken, and hearts that cannot understand, unto this day? To what cause is it owing, that Jerusalem, at the present moment, is a desert, and Zion a desolation? The Prophet Isaiah will answer—Upon the land of my people shall come up thorns and briars; yea, upon all the houses of joy in the joyous city: because the palaces shall be forsaken, the multitude of the city shall be left, the forts and towers shall be for dens, a joy of wild asses, a pasture of flocks; UNTIL THE SPIRIT BE POURED UPON US FROM ON HIGH, and the wilderness be a fruitful field, and the fruitful field be counted for a forest: (Is. xxxii. 13—15.) Israel waits, in fact, the fulfilment of the promise in our Text.

The desolations of the Holy Land have so deeply impressed the mind of that devoted servant of the Society whom I have just mentioned, on a visit from which he has lately returned; and he has felt the affecting descriptions of what that country should become, contained in the prophecy of Jeremiah, so literally and exactly fulfilled; that he has urged the Society to print the Book of that Prophet, and to circulate it widely throughout the ancient scene of Israel's glory.

But I hasten to that part of the subject, which claims our more particular attention at this time. If we would see our need of the Spirit's influence, let us cast our eyes on the moral condition of the HEATHEN WORLD. Why, but for want of that influence, are so many of the nations still sitting in darkness, and in the shadow of death? It is true, the efforts of Christians to evangelize the nations have been blest, wherever they have been made. But to how small a portion of that moral desert does such an observation apply!—only to a few spots of the earth, which have been visited with the dew of heaven; bearing no greater proportion to the world at large, than Gideon's watered fleece did to the surrounding land. Here and there, a passing cloud has dropped a gracious rain upon the earth, and refreshed it when it was weary; but the exigencies of the case require a pouring out of the Spirit. God forbid that I should undervalue the labours of those, who, by the teaching of His own Spirit, have ministered the word of life to the Heathen, and yet do minister. No! I would unite with them in praise to Him, who has permitted us to cultivate ANY of that barren land, and that He has condescended to water it from above. Still, we have had as yet but a SPRINKLING of the promised blessing, some DROPPINGS merely from the heavens. We wait the pouring out of the Spirit. The dark places of the earth have their cruel habitations still: the gods of the Heathen have their deluded worshippers still: nay, the Devil himself has his temples and his houses still; and will keep them, as the strong man armed kept his palace and his goods, in peace, until the Spirit be poured out from on high.

How obvious is it, then, that, in the further prosecution of our Missionary Labours, we need increased manifestations of this Divine Influence!

Let us, however, but FEEL our need of this more abundant influence, the PROMISED influence of the Spirit of the Lord—and let that conviction excite to earnest SUPPLICATION—and immediately difficulties vanish. Natural improbabilities give way to divine certainties, while the ear of faith hearkens to the sure word of prophecy, which declares, I WILL pour out of my Spirit upon all flesh.

When the Second Temple was building, under Joshua and Zerubbabel, the Prophet Zechariah had a vision which referred to the work that they had in hand, and is recorded in the Fourth Chapter of his Prophecies. He saw a candlestick of pure gold (representing the Church of God), which was supplied with oil in a supernatural manner; for he saw two olive-trees growing, one on each side of the bowl which was on the top of the candlestick; and a branch of each of them distilled, of its own accord, abundance of oil, through a golden pipe, into the bowl: thus intimating the out-pouring of the Divine Influence, independently of human power, on the sacred work which had been undertaken. Hence, when the Prophet asked the meaning of what he saw, the reply of the Angel was, This is the word of the Lord unto Zerubbabel, saying, Not by might, nor by power, but by MY SPIRIT, saith the Lord of Hosts: and then, as if to shew what that Spirit would effect, and how impossible it should be for any obstacles or opposition to impede the work, it is immediately demanded—Who art thou, O great mountain? before Zerubbabel thou shalt become a plain; and he shall bring forth the head-stone thereof with shoutings, crying, "Grace! Grace!" unto it.

Words like these are calculated, and doubtless were intended, to lift up the hands that hang down, and to strengthen the feeble knees, of the servants of the Lord, engaged in building a temple to His glory, a habitation of God through the Spirit, in any part of the world, or at any period of time.

What, then, are the DIFFICULTIES which lie before us? Let us bring them, in supplication, to our God; and beseech Him to apply to them that influence which can reduce these mountains to plains.

Do they arise from Barbarism and Ignorance and Superstition abroad? The power on which we are to rely, in the use of appointed means, is such, that, when the Prophet Isaiah would describe it, he says, that, under its influence, a man shall cast his idols to the moles and to the bats.

Do they arise from the Prejudice and Opposition of the Carnal Mind at home? The mighty Helper, to whom we are directed to look, can cause the wrath of man to praise Him, and the remainder of it He can restrain.

Do they arise from Unhealthy Climate, and the consequent loss of the valuable lives of our beloved brethren who have gone forth to preach Jesus? Let Faith look at the power of Him, who hath promised help; and immediately Despondency vanishes, Hope appears, and we are persuaded that all shall yet be well. The departed servants of the Lord were taken, in mercy, to their rest, after having borne their share of the burden and heat of the day. He, who raised up them, can and will raise up others. By taking them from us, the all-gracious Jehovah calls upon us to rely more simply and implicitly on himself — teaching us the lesson which He taught Gideon, when, fearfully diminishing the numerical strength of his army, He said, The people are too many: (Judges vii. 2. &c.)

Do our difficulties arise from a Fear, in the Choice of our Missionaries, lest they should not be suited, as to talent or attainment, for the work to which they are appointed? God the Holy Ghost can make them able, as well as willing, in the day of His power. It is, undoubtedly, our duty to use the utmost vigilance in the choice of the instruments which we employ, and to see that they are thoroughly furnished unto the good work on which we send them, as it regards the peculiar qualifications necessary for it: but let it never be forgotten, that the PRINCIPAL qualification of the Missionary is that which our Church requires of all her Ministers, when she asks, "Do you trust that you are inwardly MOVED BY THE HOLY GHOST, to take upon you this office and ministration?" Send out men "moved by the Holy Ghost," with all their talents and attainments thus sanctified; and you may, in humble confidence, leave the event with God, and cast yourselves upon the word of promise, that before Zerubbabel the mountain shall become a plain: but if you send your soldier forth to battle in any other armour than this; if he take with him any shield but that of FAITH, or any sword but that of the Spirit; harness him against the enemy as you may, cover him with what other panoply you will, he shall suffer continual defeat; and every communication which he may send to you, every despatch which you may receive from him, shall have, as it were, this superscription written on it—Not by might, nor by power, but by MY SPIRIT, saith the Lord of Hosts. In what manner did men go forth to the service of the Lord, in the earliest days of Missionary Labour? It came to pass, that, as the Disciples ministered to the Lord, and fasted, the Holy Ghost said, Separate me Barnabas and Saul, for the work whereunto I have called them: and when they had fasted, and prayed, and laid their hands on them, they sent them away: so they, being sent forth by the Holy Ghost, departed. In that transaction, there was nothing peculiar to the Apostolic Age, except the MANNER in which the mind of the Spirit was communicated: WE expect no such external manifestations, nor do we need them; but we do need, and therefore we are to seek and implore, the blessed influences of the same Spirit on the instruments which we use, in order to produce the same effects, viz. the turning of sinners from darkness to light, and from the power of Satan unto God.

In fine, do our difficulties arise from our Utter Inability to produce, of ourselves, any good effect by our labours; or from the Complicated and Extensive Nature of the Work which is to be conducted by us, as imperfect creatures; or from the Subtlety and Malice and Power of that great Enemy, who sets himself against the kingdom of God, and stirs up the hearts of the wicked, and acts on the infirmities of the good, as was so fully shewn in the last Anniversary Sermon?—How delightful, then, is the conviction, amidst these and all our other difficulties, that the Holy Spirit can pervade all lands, and change all hearts, and remove all obstacles!—that if He direct our hearts and hands, our prayers and efforts, our counsels at home and our ministry abroad, the Gospel must eventually come, not in word only, but also in power—the truth must be received in the love of it—the Saviour must be welcomed, and His kingdom established—Satan must fall, as lightning from heaven, before Him—and the truth of that declaration must be made manifest, Now is the Prince of this World cast out; and I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto me.

II. We come, therefore, to the second point which we proposed to consider—the ENCOURAGEMENT afforded us, in our Missionary Work, by the anticipation of the plenary and ultimate accomplishment of the prophecy before us.

Lift up your eyes, Christian, and look eastward, and westward, and northward, and southward. Survey the wilderness of the world. It shall all blossom as the rose. Has it been a grief to you, that only here and there a spot is at present cultivated?—the time is coming, when all these little parcels of cultivated ground shall so multiply and extend, as to touch one another, and form one garden of the Lord! Year after year, we shall find the thorns and the briars torn up by the roots; and, in their place, shall be planted, by the hand of Jehovah, the myrtle and the oil-tree, the fir-tree, and the pine, and the box-tree together; and He will open rivers in high places, and fountains in the midst of the valleys: He will make the wilderness a pool of water, and the dry land springs of water (Is. xli. 18, 19.): in other words, He will pour out of His Spirit upon all flesh.

Do we lament that darkness yet covers so large a portion of the earth, and gross darkness the people? At the fulfilment of our prophecy, they shall arise and shine, their light being come, and the glory of the Lord having risen upon them. Then, Superstition and Delusion shall vanish before the realities of Gospel Truth. The infatuated Widow shall burn no longer on the funeral pile. The ignorant Devotee shall no more torment himself, in order to procure favour with God; but shall understand of whom the Prophet speaks, when he says, HE was bruised for our iniquities, the chastisement of our peace was upon Him, and with His stripes we are healed. The waters of Ganges shall no longer be mistaken for the fountain opened for sin and for uncleanness. Juggernaut shall be dethroned, and his reign of blood and impurity shall yield to that of the King of Righteousness; while the Idol's car shall give place to the chariot of the Gospel, and the senseless shout of his countless worshippers shall be changed into Hosannah to the King of Kings!—Blessed is He that cometh in the name of the Lord! Ethiopia shall then stretch out her hands unto God. In short, every place which is now barbarous, or merely civilized, shall be subjected to the full power of our Holy Faith. The Lord shall be King over all the earth.

And how consolatory is it to the Christian Mind, to contemplate the results of the ultimate fulfilment of the prophecy, to the VISIBLE CHURCH OF CHRIST!

Then, behold how those Christians will love one another! What a healing of divisions! What meekness, and mutual forbearance, and tenderness toward one another! How will Formality, and Hypocrisy, and Self-righteousness then hide their heads! When He, the Spirit of Truth, is come, according to the plenary intention of the prophetic word, He will guide the Church into all truth, dissipate all the mists of error, harmonize all discrepancies, subdue all prejudices, soften all hearts, and cause the unity of the Spirit to be kept in the bond of peace. Happy period! when the GENERAL experience of the Church shall prove the influence of that Spirit to be, what the Scriptures so expressly declare it, a renewing, illuminating, strengthening, comforting, and sanctifying grace—when zeal, and love, and holiness shall abound—when sin shall be men's greatest dread, a saving interest in Christ their highest aim, holiness to the Lord their unceasing pursuit, and His honour and glory their pleasure and delight—when God shall abolish for ever the idols, which the love of the world now sets up in men's Hearts, as well as the gods many and lords many of the Heathen; and shall exhibit, throughout the whole world, one Lord, one Faith, one Baptism, one God and Father of all, who shall be KNOWN as above all, and through all, and in them all.

Yet, in this universal prevalence of divine love, it is by no means necessary, I conceive, and probably will not be found to be the fact, that all Christians shall have the same views precisely on points not essential to salvation. The Church's earliest and best days will be renewed: Christians will continue stedfast in the Apostles' doctrine and fellowship: the multitude which believe will be of one heart and of one soul; but difference of views on subordinate points may, as then, prevail, and will but serve to give exercise to the spirit of divine charity. Of that temper we rejoice to witness an increasing measure in the Church of Christ, in the present day; and we know no feature in the aspect of the present times more truly indicative of the approach of that blissful period.

Having thus endeavoured to shew some of the blessed results which shall attend the fulfilment of the prophecy, it remains to APPLY this great subject to ourselves, as Members of a Society, whose object it is to assist in bringing on the glory of the last days.

This I shall attempt to do, by a THREEFOLD EXHORTATION relative to the fulfilment of the great promise contained in the Text—LOOK, in faith, for that fulfilment—PRAY for it—LABOUR to promote it.

1. LOOK for the fulfilment of the promise.

The Church is to expect what God has promised. And, though the Christian see not the gathering of the harvest into the garner, yet let it rejoice him to behold some fields white already unto the harvest, and some first-fruits already shewing themselves. David saw not the Temple built; but how did it gladden his heart to witness the preparations made for building—to view the stones, and the cedars, and the silver, and the gold, and all the offerings of the people, who offered willingly unto the Lord!

Such joy must every real Christian feel, at the preparations now making, on all sides, for the coming of Messiah's Kingdom. Surely there is a cry in the wilderness, Prepare ye the way of the Lord! make straight in the desert a highway for our God! For the glory of the Lord shall be revealed, and all flesh shall see it together; for the mouth of the Lord hath spoken it. (Is. xl. 3, 5.)

Yes, His way is preparing. The signs of the times declare it. Labourers, from all parts of the Protestant World, are beginning to take a share in the noble work of evangelizing the whole earth. The prejudices of the Heathen are already giving way. The importance of Christian Knowledge begins to be duly appreciated by those, who, a short time since, were enveloped in all the darkness of Ignorance and Superstition. Christian Schools are established in the heart of countries hitherto wholly given to Idolatry. Christian Churches are built there; and, in various quarters, are occupied by large and attentive congregations. Christian Ministers are received with joy; and are hailed, in many places, in almost the Prophet's language—How beautiful upon the mountains are the feet of him that bringeth good tidings, that publisheth peace, that saith, Behold your God! (Is. lii. 7.)

And does not ISRAEL itself, the obdurate and blinded Israel, present a less mournful aspect than heretofore? Yes! we cast our eyes here and there upon the valley of dry bones, and we discover a noise, and a shaking, which may intimate to us, that the time is approaching, when the breath shall come into them from above—when the word of the Lord shall be accomplished, I will put my Spirit in you, and ye shall live. (Ezek. xxxvii. 5—8.)

Add to this the immense diffusion of the Word of God. The Holy Scriptures are translated into many languages, and scattered throughout many countries. The Angel of the Apocalypse seems to have already begun to wing his flight in the midst of heaven, having the Everlasting Gospel to preach to all nations.

Surely these are circumstances, which warrant the Christian to expect, at the Lord's hand, a fulfilment of His promise. Is there not to be discerned a cloud, at least, in the heavens, portentous of the coming shower of mercy upon the earth, the promised outpouring of the Spirit of the Lord?

2. But we must not only expect this event—we must PRAY for it.

When the Prophet sent his servant to look for the cloud which was to bring rain upon Israel's thirsty land, he was himself prostrate before God IN PRAYER; and it was, AS he prayed, that the cloud, at first no bigger than a man's hand, overspread the whole heavens. So let the Christian pray, while he watches the signs of the times.

God has, it is true, promised this blessing; yet for all this He will be inquired of, to do it for us. He had promised a victory to Israel over Amalek; yet it was only while the hands of Moses were lifted up before the Lord, that Joshua prevailed against Amalek: and while our Missionary Warriors are fighting the battle of the Lord against a more deadly foe, in Heathen Lands, it becomes us to lift up our hands in prayer, for a victory through our Lord Jesus Christ.

Prayer is a mighty weapon. It obtained for Hezekiah, what the swords of his armed men could never have accomplished without it. The Prophet's message was remarkable—Thus saith the Lord, Whereas thou hast prayed unto me against Sennacherib—not because thou hast sent forth thine armies, and marshalled against him thy great men, and thy strong men, and thy chief captains, and thy mighty men; but, thus saith the Lord, Whereas thou hast prayed unto me against Sennacherib, therefore he shall not come into this city. (Is. xxxvii. 21, &c.)

Whatever be the help which WE need against our great adversary, it shall not be withheld from the fervent, the united, the persevering prayers of the Church of Christ.

Would we usher in that glorious state which we have been speaking of as PROMISED?—let the Church PRAY, as Daniel did, BECAUSE it is promised. When he understood, by books, the number of years that God would accomplish in the destruction of Jerusalem, THEN he set his face unto the Lord his God, to seek it by prayer. So let the signs of our times, and all the favourable circumstances which intimate that the period of promised mercy is approaching, warm our hearts to more earnest and fervent prayer for its full accomplishment.

What stronger encouragement could be afforded, than that which the Word of God holds out to us? Ask, and it shall be given; for He giveth His Holy Spirit to them that ask Him. And, as if to magnify the power of prayer, the very promise of the kingdom is conveyed to the Redeemer (Psalm ii. 8.) in connection with His own supplication—Ask of me; and I shall give Thee the Heathen for Thine inheritance, and the uttermost parts of the earth for Thy possession.

Oh that we had not suffered time and opportunity to pass, without availing ourselves of this high privilege! Now let us awake to a due sense of it. Let us call to mind that we are to be the Lord's Remembrancers in this matter; and that we are charged and commanded to give Him no rest, till He make Jerusalem a praise in the earth; in other words, till He pour out of His Spirit upon all flesh.

And may I not press upon you here the necessity of special prayer for the interests of our own Society? Pray that the Spirit's influence may be poured out upon every department of its labours—on those who direct its counsels at home; that wisdom, and zeal, and patience, and whatever graces may be necessary for them, may abound among them—for its Missionaries, Teachers, and Agents abroad; that faith in Jesus, and love for souls, and a growing ardour in their holy work, may characterize their efforts among the Heathen. Lay before the Mercy-seat the state of the various Missions; with the particular wants of each, whether on the part of the newly-converted, or of those who are still in the error of their way.

3. Lastly—I would say to you, with regard to the accomplishment of the promise, LABOUR to promote it, in every way in your power.

Though God works not now by miracles, yet He continues to work by means. If exertion without prayer would be presumption, prayer without exertion would be enthusiasm. How has it come to pass, that any thing has been effected toward the melioration of the Heathen? We owe it to the blessing of Jehovah on HUMAN instrumentality; we owe it to the labours of those men of God, whose praise is in all the Churches here below, and whose happy spirits have departed to join the Church triumphant above: we owe it to those, who have been raised up in their stead, to carry on the same work, to fight the same battle, depending upon the same Spirit, receiving the same blessing, and therefore certain, eventually, of the same success.

God still works by MEANS: and we are to remember, that though we are not all called to the same labours, we are all involved in the same responsibility. Missionaries must be supported, and we must take our part in supporting them. The Apostle's argument respecting the Heathen (Rom. x. 14, 15.) is as forcible now as when he first urged it—How shall they call on Him, in whom they have not believed? and how shall they believe in Him, of whom they have not heard? and how shall they hear, without a preacher? and how shall they preach, except they be sent? Missionaries must be sent. And what a mockery is our prayer "for all sorts and conditions of men, that God would make His ways known unto them, His saving health unto all nations," if we do not shew a corresponding endeavour to promote the object of our prayers, by the use of appointed means!

And, we ask, Where is that charity, Christian, which ought, in every partaker of divine mercy, to be kindled at the Cross of a dying Saviour, if you can look calmly on the state of millions living without God in the world, and not make an effort to rescue them? What man is there among you, who has HIMSELF tasted that the Lord is gracious, and has felt, in his own heart, the constraining love of a crucified Redeemer? HE will feel it a DUTY to put his hand to this Gospel-plough, with which we are cultivating the wilderness of the world; and will burn with a holy zeal, to point his perishing fellow-sinners to the refuge which he himself enjoys.

Did I call it a Duty? It is a PRIVILEGE, Brethren! no less than a duty, to be thus engaged; a privilege of no mean character, to take the least share in this work of faith and labour of love, by our counsels, our influence, our labours, our contributions, or our prayers. It is an honour worth living for, and for which every disciple of Jesus will be thankful to eternity.

All numbers fail, and all comprehension, except that which is infinite, is baffled, when the worth of an immortal soul and its eternal happiness or misery are to be estimated. Place yourself, in imagination, before the throne of the Infinite Jehovah. Behold there a redeemed spirit; no longer a rebel and an outcast, but a Child of God, and a possessor of heaven! Sin washed away in the blood of the Lamb! Conflicts ended! The victory won! The state of glory entered upon, never to terminate, but to increase and brighten throughout countless ages! Weigh the value of that soul, and of the blessings treasured up for it, against all the silver, and gold, and pains, and labours, which can possibly be expended as instrumental to its eternal felicity, and tell me if these amount to more than the small dust upon the balance. But our object is, to procure eternal joy and blessedness, not for one soul, but for almost countless millions. What object can be more consonant with the mind of Jehovah; what object more holy in its nature, more rational in its operation, or more glorious in its accomplishment?

To promote this object is not only, as we have already seen, the Duty of all professed Christians, and confers an Honour upon all who are engaged therein; but I will add, as a fact which the History of Missions has continually verified, that, wherever this Sacred Cause has found admission, it has brought with it, and dispersed around it, the richest and most permanent blessings. It repays its patrons sevenfold into their bosoms. We cannot approach it, without feeling a benefit from its holy contact.

I appeal to your experience particularly, my Reverend Brethren, whether this be not the case. Have not your parishes and congregations found a blessing in its introduction among them? Has it not been the means of kindling a spirit of real piety there, and of promoting the highest objects of your own ministry? Has it not led to pastoral communication with them, of the most beneficial kind? Has it not proved a stimulus to family and personal religion?—shewing to those committed to your care, their privileges as Christians, which before perhaps were not sufficiently valued—teaching them the worth of their own souls, and inducing them to search into their own state before God, while admonished to strive for the promotion of the Gospel among the Heathen? When, to this, I add the important results arising to the Young, by sanctifying their time and talents, occupying them in the service of God, and employing them in doing good; and the immense advantages derived by the Poor, from being permitted to take an interest in the work, and encouraged to contribute to it, thus raising the tone of moral feeling among them, and cherishing the kindliness of Christian Sympathy—when all these relative benefits are considered, I may venture to ask you, whether you have not occasion to thank God for the introduction of this subject among your people, if you consider merely the blessings which it has been the means of communicating to THEIR souls.

And how peculiarly, then, must that Cause have the stamp and impress of the Divine Favour upon it, which thus blesses and sanctifies whatever is connected with it; and makes our efforts for the salvation of the distant Heathen, to redound in mercy upon our families, our parishes, our country, and ourselves!

It cannot now be known, but the day is coming which will reveal it, in how great a multitude of instances the work of saving grace, by the influence of the Spirit of the Lord, had its first commencement, or its most abundant increase, in the hearts of Christians at home, by means of Missionary Sermons, Missionary Meetings, and Missionary Information. It is one of those collateral blessings, by which Jehovah is continually testifying to us, that the work is His, and that He will be with us always, while we labour in it. May He be graciously pleased to mark this, and every Anniversary, with some such testimony of His presence, His power, and His love! May many among ourselves have occasion to remember this Sacred Festival, as the period when the Holy Ghost was poured out upon THEM, quickening, illuminating, sanctifying, and comforting their souls! This will afford us the best pledge of cooperation and support. This will form the strongest bond of Missionary Union. This will lead to the most enlarged pecuniary liberality, the most fervent and unwearied prayers, and the most active exertions. Nay, it will do more: it will furnish us with the MISSIONARY HIMSELF—find out, from among our people, the man whom we seek for; the very soul, of all others, most particularly designated and fitted for the work of the Lord. It will be to him what the live coal from the altar was to the Prophet; and he will say, Here am I! send me.

This augmentation of devout Labourers, we especially need, and we especially desire. The cry of Heathen Nations is, almost universally, that of the Man of Macedonia, Come over, and help us! Our Eastern Stations call upon us for more Browns, and Buchanans, and Martyns—"Men of the Beatitudes," as they were termed: and Africa asks us for other Johnsons and Dürings—and prays us to send with them such faithful and beloved companions as those, who, counting not their lives dear unto them, have finished their course with joy. Sure I am, that if the Spirit of the Lord be poured out upon those, among us, whose circumstances justify the measure, the cry will be heard, the boon will be granted, the vacancies will be supplied.

To the great Head of the Church we will commend this, and every other concern of our Society; praying Him "to direct, sanctify, and govern, both our hearts and bodies, in the ways of His laws, and in the works of His commandments;" and to grant, "that those things which we have faithfully asked, according to His will, may be effectually obtained, to the relief of our necessity, and to the setting forth of His glory, through Jesus Christ our Lord."

REPORT

OF THE

COMMITTEE.

DELIVERED, IN SUBSTANCE, TO THE ANNUAL MEETING,

HELD MAY 4, 1824.

AT FREEMASONS' HALL GREAT QUEEN STREET.

REPORT,

In presenting to the Society a statement of the Proceedings in its Twenty-fourth Year, the Committee have to display a chequered scene. While it has pleased God, in His wise and righteous Providence, to bring on some parts of the Missions very severe trials, He has vouchsafed to temper and alleviate these trials, and to grant a steady progress to the Society in its various labours.

The Committee desire to recognise in these dispensations of Divine Providence that gracious purpose, which becomes prominently marked in the History of Missions—to lead His servants to unite, with fervent zeal and patient labour, a more unfeigned and unmingled affiance in the Wisdom, Grace, and Power of Him in whose Cause they are engaged.

The Committee are thankful that they are able to report, as in former years, a considerable advance in the state of the FUNDS.

This steady increase of the Society's means of exertion in its various Missions is to be chiefly attributed, under the blessing of God, to the zeal of its Auxiliaries and Associations throughout the United Kingdom, encouraged and animated as they have been by the visits of the Assistant Secretary, and of the many friends who have this year also rendered herein most valuable aid; a brief report of which will now be given.

EXERTIONS OF FRIENDS.

The increasing pressure of that department of labour which has fallen on the Secretary has prevented him from rendering any other assistance, during the year, in reference to the Associations, than attending the Anniversaries of the Colchester and East-Essex and of the North-East London.

The Assistant Secretary has, as usual, devoted to this object a considerable part of the year. From the period of the last Anniversary till near Midsummer, he was occupied in an extensive Journey in several of the Midland and Northern Counties, accompanied by various friends; in the course of which he attended the Anniversaries of the Derbyshire, Lincoln, Gainsborough, Retford, Bradford, Halifax, Huddersfield, Doncaster, Hull and East-Riding, Knaresborough, York, Pontefract, Leeds, Manchester and East-Lancashire, Preston, Kirkby-Lonsdale, Warrington, Liverpool and West-Lancashire, North-Staffordshire, Leicestershire, and Sheffield Associations: by this extensive Journey, 2000 Guineas were added to the Funds of the Society; and the foundation was laid, in various places, of an enlarged interest in its concerns. During the latter part of June and the beginning of July, after attending the Clerkenwell Anniversary, he visited Norwich and Lynn; and, on his return, assisted at the Blackheath Anniversary, and at the formation of a Ladies' Association for St. Leonard's, Shoreditch. From the end of July to the middle of August, he attended the Anniversaries at Staines and at Harrow, at Weymouth, and in the Island of Guernsey; and, on his return, at that of Edmonton. In the early part of September, he was present at the Anniversaries of the South-Bucks, Berkshire, and Faringdon Associations, held, respectively, at High Wycombe, Reading, and Faringdon. Having visited, in the latter part of September, the Suffolk Association and that of the Colchester Ladies, he proceeded to Ireland, and reached Dublin on the 1st of October. Till the 18th of that month, besides attending, in Dublin, Meetings of the Ladies' Association and of the Committee of the Auxiliary, he was occupied, accompanied by the Rev. R. H. Nixon or the Rev. Peter Roe, in visiting Drogheda, Naas, Cappoquin, Youghall, Cork, Bandon, Fermoy, Fethard, Clonmell, Kilkenny, Gorey, Arklow, Belfast, and Dundalk; and was everywhere received with a hearty welcome: the Military, quartered at Clonmell and Kilkenny, had contributed liberally to the Society, and manifested great interest in the details which were given. On his return, the Assistant Secretary, in November, preached at various places in Berkshire and near London; and attended the formation of Associations at Pinner, at Southgate, and at Hertford. Resuming his labours in January of this year, he assisted at the formation of an Association and a Ladies' Association at Walthamstow; and visited one which had been formed, in August, at Louth, by the Clergy and other Gentlemen of that place and its vicinity. In March, he attended Meetings at Turvey, at Olney, and at Northampton, with the Leicestershire and Bedfordshire Anniversaries, and those of Southwark and Clapham. At the end of March and beginning of April, he paid the Annual Visit to the Associations connected with the Five Cities of Bath, Bristol, Gloucester, Hereford, and Worcester; with that of the Ladies' at Monmouth, formed after his visit to that place last year. In the remainder of April, he assisted at the formation of an Association at Carshalton, and of a Ladies' Association at Pentonville; and attended the Anniversaries of the Bromley and Beckenham, Broadway, Chichester and West-Sussex, Portsmouth, and Surrey Associations.

In these journeys, the interests of the Society were greatly promoted by friends who accompanied the Assistant Secretary, at the request of the Committee: and, as it was quite impracticable for him to visit all the Associations, part of this labour was very kindly undertaken, in compliance with the request of the Committee, by other Clergymen, in taking the following journeys:—in Cornwall, during the greater part of July, by the Rev. Henry Berkin and the Rev. George Hodson, assisted by the Rev. W. H. Black—in Somersetshire, Devonshire, and Dorsetshire, in the latter half of July and the beginning of August, by the Rev. Thomas Bartlett and the Rev. J. D. Wawn—in some of the Midland Counties, at the latter part of August and the beginning of September, by the Hon. and Rev. H. D. Erskine, the Rev. Thomas Mortimer, the Rev. R. W. Sibthorp, and the Rev. W. Spooner—and in several of the Northern Counties, during the latter half of April, by the Rev. Thomas Dikes, the Rev. R. W. Sibthorp, and the Rev. J. D. Wawn.

The places at which these and other friends attended, at the desire of the Committee, in the course of the year, will be seen in the following enumeration:—the Rev. Thomas Bartlett, at Yeovil, Taunton, Wellington, and Exeter with the Branches of the County Association—the Rev. H. Berkin, at Lostwithiel, Liskeard, Helston, Penryn, Camborne, Redruth, Falmouth, and Penzance—the Rev. H. Budd, at Bath and Bristol—the Rev. Edward Burn, at Colchester and Witham; at Newcastle-under-Line; and at Worcester and Stratford—the Rev. J. W. Cunningham, at Staines and Hertford—the Rev. T. Dikes, at Haltwhistle, Carlisle, Penrith, Darlington, Sunderland, North-Shields, and Newcastle-on-Tyne—the Hon. and Rev. H. D. Erskine, at Shrewsbury and in its vicinity, Yoxall, Tamworth, Birmingham, Atherstone, and Epperstone—the Rev. Professor Farish, at Derby and in its vicinity, Lincoln, Gainsborough, Retford, Bradford, Halifax, Huddersfield, Mirfield, Hull, Knaresborough, York, Pontefract, Leeds, Nottingham, and Sheffield; and at Hertford and St. Neots—the Rev. T. S. Grimshaw, at Hull, Knaresborough, York, Pontefract, and Leeds; at Norwich and Carleton-Rode; and at Penrith and Carlisle—the Rev. G. Hodson, at the same places in Cornwall as Mr. Berkin; and at Norwich and Wymondham—the Rev. James Hough, at Derby and in its vicinity, Lincoln, Gainsborough, Bradford, Halifax, Huddersfield, Dewsbury, Doncaster, Hull, York, Leeds, Manchester, Preston, Warrington, Liverpool, Newcastle-under-Line, and Sheffield; at Darlington and Sunderland; and at Dublin, on occasion of the Tenth Anniversary of the Hibernian Auxiliary—the Rev. John Langley, in Montgomeryshire—the Rev. John Marriott, at Bristol—the Rev. Professor Lee, at St. Neots—the Rev. T. Mortimer, at Leeds, Manchester, Preston, and Warrington; at Blackheath; and at Yoxall, Tamworth, and Birmingham—the Rev. W. Marsh, at Kettering; and at Chichester, Portsmouth, and Guildford—the Rev. R. H. Nixon, in Ireland, at Sligo and Boyle; and at Drogheda, Naas, Belfast, and Dundalk—the Rev. Robert Phelips, at Guernsey—the Rev. E. T. M. Phillipps, at Manchester, Preston, Warrington, Liverpool, Newcastle-under-Line, and Sheffield—the Rev. T. Robertson, at Hackney—the Rev. Peter Roe, in Ireland, at Cappoquin, Youghall, Clonmell, Kilkenny, Gorey, and Arklow—the Rev. James Scholefield, at Manchester, Newcastle-under-Line, and Leicester; at Lynn; at Southgate; and at St. Neots and Kettering—the Rev. R. W. Sibthorp, at Shrewsbury and in its vicinity, Chester, Yoxall, Tamworth, Birmingham, Bewdley, and Atherstone; at Ipswich and in its vicinity; at Leicester and in its vicinity; at Bedford; at Bath, Bristol, Gloucester and in its neighbourhood, Hereford, Worcester, and Stratford; and at Carlisle, Penrith, Sunderland, and North-Shields—the Rev. W. Spooner, at Shrewsbury and in its vicinity, Chester, Yoxall, Tamworth, Birmingham, and Atherstone—the Rev. H. Venn, at Maidstone—and the Rev. J. D. Wawn, at Yeovil, Taunton, Wellington, Exeter with the Branches of the County Association, Bridgewater, Dorchester, and Weymouth; at Epperstone; and at Haltwhistle, Carlisle, Penrith, Darlington, Sunderland, North-Shields, and Newcastle-on-Tyne.

Assistance has also been rendered in this work several of the Society's Missionaries, about to proceed to different Stations abroad—the Rev. Joseph Fawcett Beddy, at Ipswich and in its vicinity; at Edmonton, Southgate, Kettering, and Walthamstow; at Turvey, Olney, Northampton, and Leicester and in its neighbourhood; and at Bath, Bristol, Monmouth, Gloucester and in its vicinity, Hereford, Worcester, and Stratford—the Rev. John Raban, at Bedford, Carshalton, Bromley, and Broadway Chapel—the Rev. S. Ridsdale, at Walthamstow and in Southwark.

On several occasions, in the preceding visits to the Associations, the practice recommended in the last Report, of holding a Meeting specially for the benefit of the Labouring Class, was resorted to with such advantage, as to induce the Committee to urge the adoption of it in all populous places where local circumstances may not render it inexpedient. At such a Meeting held at Manchester, upward of 1200 persons were present, and listened with great interest to the details brought before them. At Sheffield, at Norwich, at Gloucester, and at Carshalton, similar Meetings were held with the best effect. They afford opportunities to the Representatives of the Society to state a number of circumstances, relative to the Heathen and the labours of the Missionaries among them, which cannot, for want of time, be sufficiently brought before the regular Annual Meetings of the Associations.

The Committee beg to return sincere thanks, on the behalf of the Society, to all the friends who have thus, by their visits to the Associations, not seldom with much inconvenience to themselves, so greatly promoted the interests of the Society: while they also request the Conductors of the different Auxiliaries and Associations, and the Clergymen and other friends in and near the places where they are formed, to accept the cordial acknowledgments of the Society for the efficient share which they have taken in advancing its prosperity, they consider the gratitude of the Meeting as especially due to two of these bodies.

In reference to Bristol, the Committee remark, that though many other Associations have made exertions equally proportioned to their means, it will be readily allowed to the Committee to renew their particular mention of one which has furnished to the Funds, in the Eleven Years of its liberal aid, no less a sum than 23,677*l.*—which contributed, at its Anniversary just passed, upward of 700*l.*—and which has, on the present occasion, sent us its devoted Secretary to plead before the Society that Great Cause, in the promotion of which he has himself for many years taken a distinguished share.

To the Auxiliary Society of the Sister Island, the peculiar acknowledgments of the Members are due, not only for the very ample sum which it has contributed during the year, but because this sum was raised under circumstances of domestic difficulty which give it the exalted character of even Macedonian Charity. But this Charity is as wise as it is beneficent. The liberal deviseth liberal things, and by liberal things shall he stand: not only will the dew of heaven, which waiteth not for man, nor tarrieth for the sons of men, refresh and gladden the hearts of those who out of their deep poverty abound unto the riches of their liberality, but a reciprocation of kind acts will be ensured and enlarged on the part of Christians among us; and the objects which are more immediately Irish, on account of local circumstances, will be more than ever felt, as they ought to be, the common care of every lover of his country throughout the United Kingdom.

NEW ARRANGEMENT IN THE DEPARTMENT OF SECRETARY.

The Committee have now to state an arrangement in the Society's domestic concerns, which has been rendered necessary by the increase and great extent of its business. Additional help has been obtained, from time to time, in the Secretary's Department, by as the immediate exigencies seemed to require. The Secretary has occupied that office since December 1802: in December 1815, he was joined by the Assistant Secretary; and, since June 1820, Mr. Coates has devoted himself to the work of this department. The Income and Expenditure of the Society, by the amount of which an estimate may be formed of the extent of its business, are at present more than double what they were when the Assistant Secretary entered on his office, and nearly one-third more than at the time of Mr. Coates's engagement with the Society. While the business of this department has been thus rapidly augmenting without an adequate increase of assistance, the Secretary himself has been progressively but unavoidably withdrawn from the active share in it which he had so long taken; the Missionary Register having occupied the chief part of his time, as the proper conducting of that publication requires a constant and vigilant attention to all that is passing in respect of Missionary Exertions throughout the world.

It may be proper to remark that the Missionary Register is not an official Publication of the Society. This Work was suggested by the Secretary: but, as its avowed object was to awaken the public attention to the state of the Heathen, by giving information derived from all quarters, and by regular reports of the proceedings of all Protestant Societies aiming at their conversion, the Committee considered that they could not officially issue a Publication of that nature; but were desirous of making it the medium of an early and detailed communication of the Society's proceedings to its Members.

Connected with the suggestion of this Publication was that of giving a copy of it to each Collector of fifty-two shillings and upward per annum. To what extent this plan has benefitted the Society, will be seen by the fact, that the Committee now require 7500 copies monthly, chiefly for the use of such Collectors, whose united contributions form a very large portion of its Annual Income. The Society has had the advantage of procuring, at cost price, all the copies of this work which it uses; the Secretary considering himself compensated by the Stipend which he has continued to receive as Secretary. As he now relinquishes that Stipend, the Society cannot receive the Missionary Register, as heretofore, at the price of paper and print; but the Bookseller will charge a small advance on that price.

In consequence of the intimation from the Secretary that he felt it incumbent on him, on the grounds before stated, to retire from the responsibility of an office, the duties of which he had it no longer in his power to discharge, and aware that the great augmentation of the Society's concerns required new and efficient arrangements in his department, the Committee entered into a full investigation of the nature and amount of the Society's business, in order to ascertain the measures which it had become necessary to adopt on the occasion. The result has been, a full conviction, not only that a new arrangement of Officers was required, but some addition also to their number. Two Clerical Secretaries being found inadequate to discharge the duties of the department, even with the very efficient assistance of Mr. Coates, and when the Secretary could devote his time more exclusively to those duties, it became necessary, not only that a Secretary should be appointed in conjunction with Mr. Bickersteth on Mr. Pratt's retiring, but that another Clergyman should be added. These three Clergymen, under the title of "Secretaries," together with Mr. Coates, to whom that of "Assistant Secretary" has been assigned, will divide among themselves all the duties of the Secretary's Office: and the Committee recommend, for the better despatch of the business of the Society, that the Secretaries and Assistant Secretary be considered ex-officio Members of Committees.

Your Committee received with real concern Mr. Pratt's resignation of the office of Secretary of the Society, which he had held for a period of one-and-twenty years with the highest advantage to the Society.

The Committee attest, with grateful satisfaction, the distinguished share which, under God, the zealous, judicious, and unwearied labours of your late Secretary have had, in drawing forth the large resources now enjoyed by the Society, and in gradually enlarging its operations to their present wide extent. While they express the strong sense which they entertain of Mr. Pratt's long and able services in the Society, the Committee cannot refrain from recording, also, the lively feelings of personal esteem and respect, which have grown up and been matured during their long official intercourse with him. In taking a reluctant leave of him in the capacity of Secretary of the Society, the Committee have requested that he will allow them to retain his name in connexion with their transactions, under the designation of "Chairman of the Committee of Correspondence." By this arrangement, the Committee will continue to avail themselves of Mr. Pratt's counsel and co-operation, in the prosecution of their labours; and their future proceedings will participate in the advantages to be derived, as well from his intimate acquaintance with the Society's concerns, as from his extensive information on all topics connected with the undertakings and operations of Missionary Institutions.

When the Committee shall have been enabled to complete the arrangements before detailed, in uniting two other Clerical Secretaries with Mr. Bickersteth, it will be in the power of the Society's Officers more effectually to promote its interests throughout the country than has hitherto been possible. Notwithstanding the exertions which have been made, Associations might be formed in various places where as yet there are none; and the present Associations might be rendered still more productive, if adequate time could be devoted to these objects. It is obvious, too, that visits of this nature make such large demands on the spirits and strength, that they cannot be regularly engaged in without serious detriment to the health of the Society's Officers, unless connected with proper intervals of repose.

NEW ASSOCIATIONS.

During the year, New Associations were formed, at Lostwithiel and at Redruth, in Cornwall; at Pinner, Walthamstow, and Carshalton, in the vicinity of the Metropolis; at Hertford, and at Northampton, for the respective Counties; at St. Neots, in Huntingdonshire; at Stratford-on-Avon, in Warwickshire; at Louth, in Lincolnshire; and at Stockton-on-Tees, in the County of Durham.

Branch Associations have been formed—at Lynn, for that town and the western part of Norfolk, in aid of the County Association—at Lane-End and at Burslem, in aid of the North Staffordshire; at Atherstone, in aid of the Tamworth—at Coleford, for Newland and Coleford, in aid of the Gloucestershire—at Prescot and at St. Helen's, in aid of the Liverpool and West-Lancashire—and at Haltwhistle.

Ladies' Associations have been formed—at Redruth—at Monmouth—at Painswick, in aid of the Gloucestershire—at Shoreditch, in aid of the North-East London; at Southgate, in aid of the Edmonton; at Walthamstow, in aid of the Association in that Parish; and at Pentonville, in aid of the Clerkenwell—at St. Neots—at Kettering—at Bedford—and at Wrexham.

In Ireland, Associations in aid of the Hibernian Auxiliary have been formed at Naas, Fethard, Clonmell, and at Dundalk for the County of Louth.

Among the Individual Friends who have continued their zealous exertions in behalf of the Society, the Committee particularly notice the receipt in the year of 113*l.* 5*s.* by Mrs. Williams of Moor Park, making a total of 324*l.* 15*s.* 7*d.*—125*l.* 3*s.* 10*d.* by the Rev. John Hill of Oxford, making a total of 763*l.*—and 100*l.* from a few friends by S. Bellbroom, Esq. making a total of 1100*l.*

LEGACIES.

The remembrances of departed friends are always received with a melancholy pleasure by the Committee. Under this head they have to enumerate the following—

Mr. Gerrard Eggers, late of Kingsland Road—all his funded property.

Mr. Benjamin Starey, late of the Poultry—the sum of 100*l.* in contingency.

James Lake, Esq. late of Broadmayne, Dorset—the sum of 100*l.* at the death of Mrs. Lake; and a portion of the residue of his property in contingency.

Rev. Cornelius Neale, late of Chiswick; in the event of Mrs. Neale's death before the deaths of the majority of her children, and during the minority of any of her children—the sum of 100*l.* annually.

Miss Sarah Scott, late of York—the sum of 100*l.* free of Legacy Duty.

Mrs. Ann Ogle, late of King's Lynn—the sum of 25*l.*

Mrs. Parry Price, late of the City of Chester—the sum of 100*l.*

Rev. Isaac Aspland—a moiety of his property, after the death of Mrs. Aspland.

Robert Giles, Esq. late of Charlotte Street, Fitzroy Square—the reversion of 33*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* Three-per-Cent. Consols.

The revered name last mentioned revives the painful recollection of the loss which the Christian World has suffered in the departure to his eternal rest of that distinguished individual. Your Committee thought it right on the melancholy occasion of his death to put on their Minutes a record of the respect with which they cherish his memory, and which they will now lay before the Meeting.

The death of Charles Grant, Esq. one of the Vice-Presidents of this Society, having been communicated to the Meeting, the Committee, in recording the event, feel that it is due to the memory of their lamented friend, and to their own sense of his value, to record, also, the expression of their deep regret for the loss of one, who, for more than half a century, was the cordial and consistent Friend of the Principles of their Society. In early life, and amidst the multiplied disadvantages and temptations of India, as it then was, he maintained the purity and integrity of the Christian Character; and, before he quitted that country, which he had benefitted alike by his public labours and by his private example, he was enabled, through the Divine Mercy, to provide, for those whom he left behind, the blessings of Christian Instruction, by purchasing the Mission Church at Calcutta, and presenting to it the late excellent David Brown. He conferred his first appointment on Buchanan also—a name ever to be associated, in the gratitude of England and of India, with the growth of the Missionary Spirit in this country: and he promoted the nomination of a large number of pious and active Chaplains to every Presidency in India. In all his labours for the benefit of the Church, he united a cool and correct judgment and talents of the highest order, with an affectionate zeal for the cause of Christ and the salvation of his Brethren; and, in his more immediate connexion with this Society, of which he was one of the First Seven Governors, he established lasting claims to its grateful recollections. He assisted it in every season of difficulty by his counsel; and continued, to his death, his cordial support of its objects. Even in the last evening which he spent on earth, he mingled his thankful contemplation of the light actually spreading in the East, with the hope that his Children would be permitted to behold the fulness of that day, of which he had lived to enjoy the dawn.

The Committee have also painfully to record the death of another friend of the Society, the late Lord Viscount Powerscourt, who was one of its Vice-Patrons. His Lordship attended the last Anniversary Meeting of the Society, but evidently laboured under much debility and suffering. His dying regard to the interests of Religion is strongly indicated, in his liberal bequest of 2000*l.* per annum for pious uses till his Son shall come of age; and of the sum of 3000*l.*, to be appropriated, in equal portions of 1000*l.* each, at the discretion of Trustees, to the Poor of Ireland, the Blacks of Sierra Leone, and the Natives of India.

INCOME AND EXPENDITURE.

The Income of the Year, without deducting the expenses incurred on account of the Associations, has exceeded that of the Twenty-third year by nearly 2000*l.*: if the amount contributed toward the proposed Seminary at Islington be added, the gross Income will reach about THIRTY-NINE THOUSAND POUNDS. But the Expenditure of the Year has rather more than equalled the Society's available income: and this fact leads the Committee to remark, that the expenditure of the past year confirms the propriety of that Appeal, which was made in the last Report for extra Contributions to a Separate Fund for the establishment of the Seminary at Islington. While the amount of Stock in the Society's possession will barely discharge its obligations in its various Missions, and the Annual Expenditure continues to absorb the Annual Income, it is obvious that the Funds required for the Establishment in question must be supplied from other sources.

The Committee have remarked with pleasure, in the Reports of the various Associations, a very general and cordial support of the increasing efforts and new plans of the Society. The design of a Missionary Seminary, the interest taken in the Bishop's College at Calcutta and the aid rendered to that establishment, the opening for Female Education in India, the appointment of Bishop Heber to the See of Calcutta, the commencement of a New Mission for the Indians of North-West America, and the afflictions and success of the West-Africa Mission, have all been noticed in a manner which indicates a warm feeling for the enlargement and efficiency of the Society, and which may well serve as a strong encouragement to proceed with vigour in the accomplishment of every promising plan.

In reference to the augmentation of the Society's Funds, and its relation to other Institutions, the Committee quote, with much pleasure, the liberal sentiments of one of the County Associations. After stating the Missions, Labourers, Converts, and Scholars connected with the Institution, it is added—

> Such a Society, conducted, as it is, by Members of the Church of England and in full accordance with its principles, needs, as the Committee would hope, but to make known its claims and its wants, to insure the zealous co-operation of those, who, attached to that Communion, are earnestly desirous of seeing the kingdoms of this world become the kingdom of Christ.
> And they are encouraged in this hope, by the increasing zeal and exertion in the Missionary Cause, of which they hear in almost every corner of their beloved land. They have been glad to announce an improvement in the income of their own Society; but they have been not less glad to observe, that this improvement has taken place without any diminution in the funds of those other Institutions, which have the same glorious object in view. They cannot look upon any who are employed in the animating Cause in which they are engaged, as rivals: they behold in them fellow-labourers—the servants of the same Lord—the promoters of the kingdom and the glory of one common Redeemer.

As to the two venerable Institutions in connexion with the Church of England, they sincerely and ardently desire to see them maintaining a station worthy of their distinguished patronage and influence: they wish (and, as far as their weak services can aid the work, they will be willingly afforded) to see the whole weight of that influence brought to bear upon the congregations of our Churches, in enlightening their minds as to the state of darkness in which the Heathen World is involved, and in stirring up a grand and persevering effort to make known the blessings of Salvation. With respect to the Institutions unconnected with their own Communion, they sincerely and heartily wish them prosperity in the Name of the Lord: they rejoice at their successes, and lament their disappointments. The Missionary Cause is too important, and too sacred, to admit jealousies and envies to disturb its progress: your Committee would, therefore, wish to banish both from their own breasts, and from those of all their friends, the smallest desire to promote the welfare of their own Society at the expense of any similar Institution; but they cannot bring themselves to believe, that the exertions already made, either within or without the pale of the Established Church, are at present at all commensurate with their great object, or the wealth and population of the British Empire; and therefore do not hesitate to urge upon you, not merely the continuance, but an increase of your support.

The Committee of another Association remark—

It has been said, that the Society lives upon credit—that its capital is the good wishes of its friends. This would be bad speculation in a commercial concern: it would be poor security for mercantile transaction. But have we been disappointed of our hope? In this point of view, has any good thing failed toward us, of all that the Lord hath spoken? That Being, who has declared the gold and silver to be His, has not been wanting in exciting His servants to bring their gifts to the treasury of the Institution. And though it may happen to this Society as to others, that there may not be a regular rate of increase, still the announcement of Thirty-five Thousand Pounds collected in the past year is a sufficient warrant of the deep root which it must have taken in the affections of no small number of our countrymen, and a delightful earnest of the conspicuous station in objects of benevolence which we doubt not that it is destined to occupy.

MEANS OF AUGMENTING THE FUNDS.

The Committee will quote, on this subject, the suggestions of several of the Associations; as these suggestions, arising from local experience or vigilant observation, may become generally beneficial.

It is very justly remarked by the Committee of one of the County Associations, in reference to the constituent parts of their own Association—

All these have contributed, not invariably in proportion to their size, but, usually, according as the friends of the Institution there were active or inactive in making it known, in explaining its plans, and in distributing its reports and papers. Your Committee cannot press this too earnestly on your attention —that they have almost always found men's indifference toward the Society to have proceeded from their knowing little about it; their prejudices against it, from having heard of it chiefly from its enemies; and their small contributions to it, from their never having been asked for greater. The most momentous truths are not written with a sunbeam; nor are they to be read by every one, traced in flaming characters on the sky: no—if truth is to be known or good done, commonly it can only be through the instrumentality of candid explanation and enlightened exertion. It is notorious, that the best men have a strong tendency to live and act too exclusively within a narrow world of their own: they require to be told, often and plainly, that millions, out of sight, are perishing for lack of knowledge, which it is in their power to give them—that a Christian's efforts to do good, should be limited only where it is impossible to attempt it—and that the Sons of Light must make good their name, and be unconfinedly active and diffusively beneficent.

On the same subject the Committee of another County Association observe—

Notwithstanding the loss of some valuable friends of this Institution by death, and the removal of others to a distant residence, the improving state of the funds affords a cheering indication of a steady attachment to this Sacred Cause. This circumstance is worthy of particular notice, because no new Association has been formed during the limits of the past year; although there is a prospect of receiving several important additions, by means of Auxiliaries of this kind, before another Anniversary. To the more general perusal of the Scriptures, and the more mature consideration of the language of prophecy respecting the general diffusion of Christian Knowledge in the world, this improvement is to be traced; and it is to be hailed as a grateful pledge, that all our congregations will, at no very distant period, cordially unite in forwarding the most interesting undertaking that can occupy the mind or employ the energies of man. No better guarantee for the prosperity of Missionary Societies can be desired, than the devout reading of God's Word. Even among the Labouring Classes, it is found, on particular inquiry, that there exists a lively concern for the happiness and salvation of the idolatrous nations of the earth; the Quarterly Papers, containing, from time to time, the most affecting details of Pagan Worship and Pagan Misery, serving not only to enkindle the spirit of gratitude for the distinguishing mercies enjoyed by the humblest individual in their own enlightened nation, but to create and preserve a benevolent regard to all who dwell beyond the bounds of Christendom.

On the advantage of visits to the Contributors, at short intervals, one Report states—

Great benefit has been found to arise from collecting weekly, or at most monthly, instead of quarterly: where the interval between the Collector's visits is long, there is less interest felt in the object by the contributors; and the sum being larger, greater difficulty is found in keeping up the subscriptions, which would have been most cheerfully paid by smaller instalments.

In some Villages in Norfolk, the practice of lending Tracts to the Weekly Contributors has been adopted with the best effect. An adequate supply of Tracts for this purpose, from the numerous sources now open, might be obtained by the Collectors at a small expense; while the interest of the Contributors in objects of benevolence and the desire to do good, would be likely thereby to become intelligent and abiding.

BENEFICIAL INFLUENCE OF THE ASSOCIATIONS.

In proof of the pleasure and advantage to the humbler contributors themselves, which arise from their connection with the Society, the following instances are adduced by one of the Associations.

A Female Servant, resident in one of the districts belonging to this Association, formerly subscribed a-penny-a-week to its funds; but, from the removal of the Collector and her own change of residence, it had not been received for some time, and indeed was no longer expected: however, on the Friday preceding the Annual Sermons for the Society, this Young Woman, having discovered the abode of the Lady who collected in the vicinity of her present residence, brought to her, not only her own subscription, but that of two of her Sisters and five other Female Servants; thereby adding eight Weekly Contributors to the funds of this Association. This incident deserves honourable mention, not only for its own sake, but as an example to other persons in similar situations of life. None, however humble their circumstances, can tell how much they may be enabled to do for the glory of God and the good of their fellow-creatures, who have not fairly, like this indidual, begun to make the trial.

A poor Woman, who had long subscribed a-penny-a-week, feeling the pressure of the late severe winter, told the Collector that she must discontinue it, for that the weather was so very cold she really needed all that she could save to purchase coals. The Lady, in consequence, suspended her usual weekly visits; but, after the lapse of about a month, it occurred to her that she would look in again upon the woman, and inquire how she was going on. She had no sooner entered, than the woman, unsolicited, gave her sixpence, saying, that her "conscience" would not let her withhold it—she "MUST" give it.

The Committee of the Association add—

Incidents like this, which frequently occur, will serve to shew how unfounded is the opinion, that the collections of this and other similar Institutions are suffered to press as a burdensome tax upon the poor. The Collector did not solicit the money: she had even declined calling to receive it: yet this humble contributor had silently laid it up, and was anxious out of her poverty to bestow it, rather than lose the privilege of doing something toward an object, for the neglect of which her conscience would reproach her.

In the Report of another Association, the following testimony is borne on this subject:—

In looking back upon the origin and steady growth of the Association, within the short period of three years and three months, there appears abundant reason to conclude, that the dew of God's blessing has rested upon it. Many particular instances might be quoted, of great good having been effected through its instrumentality. Persons, who had never seriously reflected on the degraded and perishing state of the Heathen, have been led to condemn themselves for their former supineness and hardness of heart, in the noblest cause which can call forth the charity of the Man or of the Christian; and have heartily engaged in it, to the utmost of their ability. In the sentiments of one of these, as they were expressed to a Collector of the Association, though they are not new, every sincere Christian must rejoice to coincide. She observed—"The more we feel the importance of religion, and experience the power of it on our own hearts, the more we become desirous that others should be rescued from the dominion of sin and Satan, and be brought to the glorious liberty and enjoyment of the people of God." Persons, who were not ignorant of the lost condition of the Heathen, but who had repeatedly been solicited to contribute to rescue them from it, without the desired effect being produced, in consequence of the pressing public appeals which have been made to them are now become, not only contributors to the funds of the Association, but its zealous friends.

MISSIONARIES AND STUDENTS.

The Different Missionaries and other Labourers, stated in the last Report as having sailed or being about to sail, all safely reached their respective destinations. Mr. and Mrs. Clarke arrived at Port Jackson on the 16th of October, 1822, having passed about a month at Van Diemen's Land. The Rev. Henry Williams and his family reached Van Diemen's Land on the 10th of February of last year, and Port Jackson on the 27th: he had found Mr. Marsden at Van Diemen's Land, he having visited that Settlement on public duty. Mr. T. W. Smith arrived at Calcutta in the beginning of September. The Rev. Michael Wilkinson, with Mrs. Wilkinson and Miss Cortis, after much delay by contrary winds, finally left this country on the 18th of May, and reached Calcutta on the 1st of November: Miss Cortis was to proceed from Madras to Ceylon; but the ship did not touch, as was expected, at Madras, and she had no opportunity of landing at that island. The Rev. David T. Jones took leave of the Committee on the 30th of May; and embarked, the following day, on board the Hudson's-Bay Company's Ship, the Prince of Wales: he reached York Fort on the 16th of August, where he met the Rev. John West on his way home, and conferred with him on the concerns of the Mission: he arrived at the Red-River Settlement on the 14th of October, after a tedious passage occasioned by a head-wind on the Lakes.

Offers of service have been nearly as numerous as during the Twenty-third Year: but, of 54 persons who have proffered their aid to the Society, the Committee, in reference to that combination of good talents with sound piety which the work of Missions requires, have been able, as yet, to accept only 16 of this number: 12 are, indeed, still under consideration; but 26 have been definitively declined. There are, at present, 23 Students under the Society's care—17 in different parts of this country, and 6 in the Seminary at Bâsle.

The Committee cannot report on the present occasion, as was done at the last Anniversary, that the Society has not to lament the death of any Missionary during the year. On the contrary, as was stated in Notes to the last Report, the year has been one of heavy and unusual bereavement, but entirely confined* to the West-Africa Mission. As some details will be given under the head of that Mission, the Committee will not, in this place, enlarge on the melancholy particulars, but will only state, that, from the 20th of April of last year to the 28th of June, nine of the Society's Labourers or Friends were carried off in Sierra Leone, chiefly by a violent fever of very rare occurrence in that Colony, and others have since followed.

Several of the Society's Labourers have returned home in the course of the year—Mr. Francis Hall, from New Zealand, in July; the Rev. John West, from the North-West America Mission, in October; and Mr. and Mrs. Norman, from Sierra Leone, in * Intelligence has arrived, since the Anniversary, of the death of the Rev. T. C. Deininger, of the Mediterranean Mission, on the 22d of April, at Malta: and the Committee have also to report the death of Mrs. Dawson, Wife of the Rev. Thomas Dawson, who have, since their return from India, resided chiefly in Yorkshire. A Memoir and Obituary of this excellent Woman, who died on the 8th of January, in her thirtieth year, at Dewsbury, her native place, is printed in the Missionary Register for March.

January last. The occasion of their return will be stated under the heads of the respective Missions.

Ten Labourers have proceeded to different Missions, in the course of the year.

At a Special Meeting, held on the 3d of October, Mr. John Pope and his Wife were addressed by the Secretary in the name of the Committee; and were dismissed to their appointment, as Schoolmaster and Schoolmistress in the Freetown Schools in Sierra Leone. They embarked at Gravesend, on the 6th, in the Sir Charles MacCarthy, Captain Eldridge; and arrived in the Colony on the 1st of December.

At the ensuing Monthly Meeting, on the 10th of November, Mr. Richard Davis, with Mrs. Davis and Mr. Charles Davis, were addressed by the Assistant Secretary; and were dismissed to their appointment, as Settlers in New Zealand. Mr. Richard Davis is a Farmer, and has Six Children. Mr. Charles Davis, not a relative though he bears the same name, is a Carpenter. They embarked at Woolwich, for New South Wales, on the 22d, on board the Brothers, Captain Mottley; and sailed from the Downs on the 6th of December. Government granted them a free passage.*

The Rev. William Adley, the Rev. Joseph F. Beddy, the Rev. John Raban, and the Rev. Samuel Ridsdale, who had been ordained Deacons for Colonial Service, by the Lord Bishop of London, on Sunday the 21st of December, were admitted, on the Sunday before last, the 25th of April, to Priests' Orders, by the Lord Bishop of St. David's, on Letters Dimissory from the Bishop of London, at Bentinck Chapel, St. Mary-le-bone. They are now present; and will proceed, as soon as circumstances will allow, to their respective destinations†—Mr.

* It has been learnt, since the Anniversary, that the Brothers arrived off Rio Janeiro on the 1st of February. The weather had been fair, and the voyage prosperous.

† Soon after the Anniversary, the Missionaries destined for the East left this country—Mr. and Mrs. Adley, on the 11th of May, from Portsmouth, for Ceylon, in the Lord Amherst, Captain Lucas; and Mr. and Mrs. Beddy and Mr. and Mrs. Ridsdale, on the 29th, from the same place, for Madras, in the Cornwall, Captain Bunyon.

Adley, to assist the Rev. Joseph Knight, at Nellore, in Ceylon; Mr. Beddy and Mr. Ridsdale, to the South-India Mission; and Mr. Raban, to Sierra Leone.

A considerable increase has taken place among the Native Teachers in the Society's Missions. The Committee rejoice in this addition to this class of Labourers, as they fully coincide in the view which one of the Associations takes of this subject in the following extract from its Report:—

No Mission can obtain its full efficiency, nor accomplish to any great degree the object which it has in view, until some of the Natives, among whom it is established, be raised up by Providence, to take some part in its labours. Teachers of this class, whose hearts are zealously affected to the good cause, and whose minds are under the guidance of that wisdom which is from above, and enlightened with a just measure of human knowledge, possess advantages, as it has been well observed, which cannot be acquired by others: they are inured to the climate, intimately acquainted with the peculiarities of the manners and of the language, and readily discern, by what they once thought and felt, how the Gospel may be rendered acceptable to their countrymen. An increase of such Teachers in any Missionary Settlement should be gratefully acknowledged as a peculiar blessing: it may be considered as a mark of the Divine Favour: it may be hailed as a token for good; and we may look to it as a pledge, that the work which we have in hand will of a surety be accomplished, since the Almighty has furnished instruments so well suited to perform it. Your Committee would not willingly leave this subject, without endeavouring to impress on all who feel an interest in this cause, that it is their reasonable and Christian duty to pray earnestly in behalf of these Native Teachers—that the Divine Spirit, who divideth to every man severally as He will, would be pleased to communicate largely to them those gifts, which are best suited to the work in which they are engaged—that they may become diligent and faithful Ministers of that Word, which before they despised and disregarded—and, now that they are converted, that they may strengthen their brethren.

Your Committee maintain, with pleasure and advantage, their connection with the Missionary Seminary at Bâsle. Some modification has taken place, in the course of the year, in that connection; it having been found expedient to send hereafter chiefly English Missionaries to those Missions where the English Tongue is much used, and to employ Foreign Brethren in the Missions where the knowledge and proper pronunciation of English may be less necessary. It had been agreed with the Rev. Mr. Blumhardt, on his visit to this country in the Spring of 1822, that a regular plan of education should be pursued at Bâsle, with reference to the wants of this Society. Arrangements were to be made for giving such a course of instruction to Students then in the Seminary or to be admitted into it, as might supply to the Society seven or eight Missionaries for each of four successive years, all of whom should have been four years under instruction. There were at that time in the Seminary twenty Students, divided into two classes: a third class was formed toward the end of that year; and, at the close of 1823, a fourth was added. The total number then amounted to forty-three, of whom twenty-eight belonged to the Society. Circumstances having, in the mean while, led to the modification, above mentioned, of the Society's plans, the Committee were apprehensive that they should not be able to appoint so large a number to suitable Stations. With much regret they saw it likely that their friends at Bâsle might hereby be put to inconvenience; but the Conductors of the Seminary very kindly accommodated themselves to the new arrangement; and there is reason to believe that the Students now in the Seminary will either be appointed by the Society, as they shall finish their education, to suitable Stations in the Mediterranean or the East, or will be employed advantageously under the German Evangelical Missionary Society with which the Seminary is in immediate connection. To this Seminary*, indeed, your Committee will look for a future supply of well-prepared and pious men, for its Missions in those quarters where their labours can be most advantageously directed.

Six of those who will have completed, in the ensuing Autumn, the fourth year of their studies at Bâsle, will, after their admission to Holy Orders, come over to this country, with the view of perfecting their knowledge of English, and becoming acquainted with the Committee and Officers, previous to their appointment to different Missions.

With respect to the projected Institution at Islington, the Committee beg to return sincere thanks to all who have contributed to this object; and to request the aid of every Member who can afford assistance, and may not have yet sent in his name. The events of the year, in occasioning, particularly in the West-Africa Mission, a most pressing demand for Missionaries, have increasingly manifested the necessity of establishing the Institution in question. The Committee are desirous, however, of proceeding with the utmost deliberation and caution in accomplishing the object. Contracts have been entered into for preparing the substantial Dwelling-House on the premises for the reception of a Teacher and a number of Students; and the ultimate plan, as detailed in the last Report, will be carried into effect, as the amount of the Fund may enable the Committee, and the exigency of the case may require. The Committee notice, with much satisfaction, the Resolutions entered into at the Anniversaries of the chief Associations in support of this design.*

They observe also, with pleasure, the efforts which some of the Associations are making to call forth to the work suitable Labourers, from within their own sphere of influence. Such appeals as the following, extracted from the Report of one of the County Associations cannot long be made in vain:—

While we contemplate the encouraging aspect of things—

* An Address, delivered by the Rev. George Hodson at the Anniversary of the Gloucestershire Association, detailing very ably the advantages of the purposed Seminary, has been printed, since the Society's Anniversary, at pp. 246—248 of the Missionary Register for June.

the manifest growth of public opinion at home, in favour of Missions—the curiosity and inquiry about Christianity, and the disposition to receive it, abroad—the unequivocal countenance and patronage of some of the Authorities at the respective Stations in foreign parts—the still-steady increase of the funds in our own country; which manifests that the Society possesses the confidence of the Christian Public—the prevailing harmony among the Christians of different denominations, embarked in the same cause—the spirit of prayer, for the outpouring of the Holy Ghost—the fidelity, piety, and zeal of the Missionaries—the means of future supplies from the Bâsle Institution—the Missionary zeal now beginning to awake in France—the Churches built—the converts added—the spirit diffused—the souls saved—the kingdom of Christ enlarged—your Committee call upon you to behold so many incentives to renewed zeal and perseverance and prayer; as well as to express the most heartfelt gratitude to God, for the encouragement thus afforded to the Labourers in this cause.

They would urge you, also, to the performance of one duty more—the obligation of Associations to furnish the Society with Candidates for Missionary Employment. And is it too much to hope, that some of the Clergy among ourselves might be urged to go on this labour of love? The Society is about to establish a Seminary at Islington for the preparation of Missionaries: and, for this, she calls upon the friends of Missions for support, in providing a separate fund. But cannot this Association do even more than they ask? If we must descend from the higher ground of furnishing Ministers already prepared to go out, cannot we find among us Youth, with zeal enough, and other requisite qualifications, to be trained in the Islington Seminary for this holy labour? But if we must descend to lower ground still, let us at least try to discover, within the range of our Association, some pious Schoolmasters to go out as Assistants in the Mission. This Report will not be heard or read in vain, if, by the blessing of God, such a result be produced. May, then, every Member of the Association bear the subject in his memory and in his prayers!

MISSIONS.

WEST-AFRICA MISSION.

In reference to this Mission, the Committee scarcely know whether to speak in the language of grief or of joy, of sorrow or of triumph—so mingled have been, of late, the Divine Dispensations. In no one year has it ever suffered a greater loss in its Friends and Labourers—while in no one year, has there been a more evident blessing on their labours. The alleviations of its heavy trials have been remarkable. They have given occasion for a special manifestation of Divine Grace. Those who have died, have died in the Lord; thanking God for calling them to this work, and glorifying His Holy Name in the midst of their sufferings. Their surviving relatives around them have expressed entire resignation to the Divine Will, in the very midst of their trials, and that, just before they themselves were called to their everlasting reward. The surviving Missionaries seem to have had their faith elevated above the trying circumstances in which they have been placed, and to have become more entirely united, and devoted to their work.

The Society will see, in this state of things, a peculiar manifestation of the character of this work, whose Labourers have often had to say—As dying, and behold we live—as sorrowful, yet always rejoicing. Their Heavenly Master illustrates the power and the abundance of His own grace, in the very weakness of His servants; and carries on His own work, while He removes to their eternal reward those instruments whom He has most highly honoured. Great mortality prevailed, last year, generally, among the Europeans. The Governor himself was absent, at the height of the fever, to which the Chief Justice and other Officers of the Colony, both civil and military, fell victims*. It is some satisfaction, in reference

* Exaggerated accounts of the mortality which prevailed at Sierra Leone appeared in this country. Some remarks on this subject, addressed by Sir Charles MacCarthy to the Society, are printed at p. 5 of the Missionary Register for January. The Committee will here add some observations on this subject, from the Sierra-Leone Gazette of the 20th and 27th of September:—

By the census taken in January 1822, it appears that there were 94 Europeans (men) then resident in Freetown, and 16 in the country towns and villages; making a total of 110. Of the 94 then residing in Freetown, 24 have died; of the 16 in the mountains, the Rev. W. Johnson is the only death. Thus the grand total of deaths, among those who were present on the 1st of January 1822 to

to this fever, to reflect, that it is rarely permitted to rage, with a like degree of mortality, as has been stated by medical men, oftener than four or five times in a century. It should be recollected, also, that the greater elevation of Sierra Leone above that of any other part of the maritime outline of Africa, through upward of a thousand miles of extent, from the Rio Grande to the Gold Coast, together with its rich and unrivalled supply of water, renders it, notwithstanding such occasional visitations, less insalubrious than any of the adjoining Settlements, which have hence had to mourn over a still more extensive infliction of mortality. Of this, examples are especially to be found in the Isle of Bulam and at Cape Coast. In the ordinary course, moreover, of Providence, as the swamps which skirt the sides of the river Sierra Leone become progressively cleared of their wild vegetation and subjected to human industry, there is well-grounded reason to expect, that the climate will, in the same proportion, improve, as it has done in other cultivated regions, and much of its baneful effects be thus overcome.

It would be very gratifying to the Committee, to report any effectual deliverance of these shores from that traffic, which has so long proved their chief bane: but they have still to renew the expression of

to this day, is 25—and not 80 out of 110 persons, as has been stated. Not one Coloured Person was even attacked by the malignant fever.

On the 1st of January 1822, we had 18 European Females in the Peninsula—10 residing in Freetown, and 8 in the mountains. We lost one out of the ten—Mrs. Lisk, who died on her passage to Europe: the remaining nine are either in the Colony, or have returned to their friends. From the eight in the Mountains, three have gone to England, and five to this day are residing there.

Thus, after nearly two years, and the most fatal dry season ever experienced by the oldest nhabitants, out of a population of 128, we have lost, including all casualties, 26 individuals—a severe loss undoubtedly, and which will long be deplored by those who wish well to Africa.

That the climate of Sierra Leone was healthy, we have never asserted; but that, of late years, from extensive woods having been cleared and more comfortable houses built, it has been improving in salubrity, we believe will be borne out by the Medical Reports: and if our new arrivals would make up their minds cheerfully to take things as they find them, and not be disappointed and depressed that they do not meet all the comforts of England in Africa, we are convinced that the proportion of deaths would be much lessened.

their regret, that this traffic is pursued with callous indifference to public opinion*.

The Committee notice, with pleasure, the progress of the American Colony at Cape Mesurado. It has lately received the name of Liberia; and its town that of Monrovia, after that of the President of the United States. At the date of the latest advices, the Colony was beginning to overcome its difficulties†.

A report has just reached this country, truly distressing to the friends of Africa, of the death of Sir Charles MacCarthy, in a conflict with the Ashantees on the Gold Coast‡.

* The conduct of the Continental Powers and of Great Britain, in reference to the Slave Trade, is stated at pp. 465—469 of the Missionary Register for 1823, in an abstract of the Seventeenth Report of the African Institution.

† See pp. 14, 15 of the Missionary Register for January.

‡ Since the Anniversary, the rumour of the Governor's death has been but too fully confirmed. The most unfeigned regret has been awakened in all classes by this melancholy event. An Official Notification appeared from the Members of Council at Sierra Leone, expressive of the high sense entertained of Sir Charles's public character, and the general sorrow at his melancholy death: see pp. 275, 276 of the Missionary Register for June. Lieut.-Col. Sutherland, on whom the duties of Commander-of-the-Forces devolved on Sir Charles's death, issued a General Order on the 16th of April, in which he bears honourable testimony to his lamented predecessor:—

The Lieutenant-Colonel wants words to express his grief on this most melancholy occasion; or his sense of the great loss to the command, which is likely to result from His Excellency's death at this particular crisis: and, indeed, feels that any attempt, on his part, to eulogize the public services (meritorious as they undoubtedly were) of his late immediate Commander, would not only be supererogatory, but presumptuous. He will, however, take the liberty to record, that, as Sir Charles's life was humanely occupied in constantly devising and executing measures to meliorate and civilize the condition of the wretched Natives of Africa, so it was bravely, honourably and consistently, although unfortunately, sacrificed in open warfare, in opposing barbarian violence and unprovoked aggression.

In the Sierra-Leone Gazette of the 24th of April, a just eulogium is pronounced upon Sir Charles, by those who were eye-witnesses of his measures:—

Thus has fallen, by the hands of ruthless savages, our brave and revered benefactor and friend! While with sincere yet unavailing regret, we deeply deplore his loss, we bow with humble resignation before the will of the Almighty Disposer of Events, who hath been pleased to visit us with this heavy affliction, satisfied that He doeth all things well. To Him must we look for that consolation and support in this disastrous hour, which He alone is capable of affording: we must call upon Him to enable us to bear, as Christians, the loss of one who possessed all those qualities which could secure the fidelity and attachment of every class of inhabitants; and the memory of whose bright example, as the true father of the people placed under his Government, will remain engraven in the hearts

COLONY OF SIERRA LEONE.

Mention has been already made of the severe losses sustained by the West-Africa Mission. Some particulars will now be given of these losses.

At the last Anniversary, it was matter of congratulation and thankfulness that no deaths had occurred among the Labourers during the preceding year: but, at that very time, the most distressing mortality was beginning its ravages in Sierra Leone. The melancholy details have been laid before the Members in the Missionary Register*; but the Committee cannot let the mention of these sad events pass without some further notice of them on the present occasion.

The first who fell victims to disease were—Mr. James Bunyer, on the 20th of April; the Rev. William Henry Schemel, on the 25th; the Rev. William Johnson, on the 3d of May; the Rev. Samuel Flood, on the 6th; and the Rev. Henry Palmer, on the 8th —all after a few days' illness; Mr. Johnson and Mr. Flood dying at sea, on their voyage to this country. Mr. Flood and Mr. Palmer were not, indeed, Missionaries of the Society; but, though Chaplains of the Colony, their attachment to the object of the Society led them to identify themselves with its concerns.

Your Committee thought it right, on the receipt of these afflicting tidings, to put on record a Resolution, expressive of those feelings which they wish ever to cherish under all painful dispensations:—

Resolved, that, while the Committee record with grief and regret the death of these valuable friends and labourers of the Society, and sympathize with their afflicted widows and hearts of the present and be handed down to future generations. We ourselves, who have lived so long under his paternal care, and have so frequently witnessed the blessings which he has dispensed to all, and the beneficial effect produced by his talents and virtues, are, alas! too well aware of the loss which we have sustained by this awful event. Under his mild and judicious administration, we have seen every endeavour to promote the spiritual and temporal welfare of the people; and the Colony, by his exertions and example, advance, in a few years, to a state of prosperity and happiness which has far outstripped the expectations of the most sanguine; while the greatest evil of the present melancholy catastrophe will be found to arise from the non-completion of those beneficial plans which our late Governor had formed for the welfare of Africa.

* See pp. 292—294, 299—307, 369, 370, and 379—383, of the Missionary Register for 1823.

relatives in their bereavements, they desire to bow with submission to the Divine Will; and to urge on all the Members of the Society the duty of special prayer to Almighty God, that He would sanctify to all concerned this trying Dispensation of His Providence—would take the African Missionaries and Converts under His gracious protection—and would render efficient, by the influence of the Holy Spirit, the endeavours of the Society to supply faithful Labourers in the Mission, and especially to prepare Native Teachers who may be the means in His hand of perpetuating and extending in Africa the saving knowledge of Christ.

The friends, whose death is referred to in this Resolution, were soon followed by four others—Mrs. Palmer dying on the 6th of June, Mrs. Bunyer in the same month, Mrs. Vaughan on the 25th, and the Rev. C. W. Beckauer on the 28th. To these must be added Mr. Vaughan, who departed, at Freetown, on the 25th of November; and, as there is now little doubt, the Rev. Henry Düring and Mrs. Düring, lost, as it is believed, by the foundering of the vessel in the mouth of the Channel, on their return to this country—the vessel, the Hadlow, having left Sierra Leone on the 31st of August, and nothing to this day having been heard of her.

Thus, in the short space of about seven months, from the 20th of April to the 25th of November, the Society has been deprived of TWELVE of its friends and fellow-labourers; nine of whom were in immediate connection with it, and the other three devoted to its objects*.

Under this succession, however, of painful intelligence, the Committee have been supported and encouraged by the dying testimonies of their departed friends, and the holy composure and unabated zeal of the survivors. They have already referred for full details on this subject to the Missionary Register: but they cannot refrain from quoting, on this occasion, some of the communications which they have received; as the Members of the Society will feel, that they may, indeed, well repose their own hope in God, when they hear the sentiments of those who speak from the midst of the scene of desolation. One of them writes—

* To the above melancholy list are to be added Mr. Pope and Mrs. Schemel; intelligence of whose death (that of Mr. Pope on the 30th of March, and that of Mrs. Schemel on the 17th of June) has arrived since the Anniversary.

Under the afflictive providence of sickness and death, reigning in this Colony at the present season, grace is given to your unworthy servants who still survive, for humble resignation to the will of our Merciful Father in heaven, and for cheerful perseverance in the work committed to them. If the being brought NEAR to the grave can thus improve the mind, when God grants His blessing to such providences, what must be our state beyond the grave—when this corruptible shall have put on incorruption, and this mortal shall have put on immortality; when death and the grave shall have been swallowed up in victory! Well may we reckon, with the Apostle, that the sufferings of this present time are not worthy to be compared with the glory which shall be revealed in us, if we live, and work, and suffer, and die in Jesus. And this blessed hope the Gospel of our Saviour sets before you, our Directors and Benefactors, and before us your Servants: may it then be our continual comfort and encouragement to persevere, even unto the end!

Mr. Nyländer feelingly says, in the Letter last received from him, dated Feb. 12, 1824—

We are all, at this present moment, enjoying our health; and every one stirring about in his own circle, sowing our seed in tears, hoping that we shall ere long reap with joy. May the Lord add His blessings to our Labours, and give you grace to select useful Labourers for Africa!

The Committee have been not a little encouraged, moreover, by the stedfast faith and self-devotion manifested, both by those who have since gone forth on this arduous service, and by others who are under preparation for this scene of toil. None who had devoted themselves to this work have shrunk back through fear: in various instances, indeed, those who were willing to go, not counting their lives dear unto themselves, were appointed to other Missions, because medical men considered their constitutions unfit to encounter the climate; for the Committee make a point of regulating their proceedings, in this respect, by the advice of medical friends.

The want of Labourers has been greatly increased, as might be expected, by the serious losses which have been sustained.

An extract of a Letter from the Rev. G. R. Nylander, dated July 21, 1823, very feelingly details the destitute state of the Colony, and of Freetown in particular, in respect of religious instruction:—

By the removal of so many of our number, places have become vacant; and others, that were vacant before, remain still unprovided for. Freetown is almost destitute. I attend to it as much as possible, and that with some loss to my own Congregation; and, even then, I can but do what is absolutely necessary, such as preaching occasionally, administering the Sacraments, and marrying. I was desired to ask Br. Düring to assist me; but he has three or four Parishes to attend to in the Mountains. Besides, he is very ill again; and his illness is such, that it will take some time before he gets over it, if at all: there are a great many doubts as to his perfect recovery. Mr. Vaughan attends the burials at Freetown in my absence. Two simple-hearted and pious Chaplains are much wanted in Freetown; and two Missionaries of the same description will find plenty of employment.

There is a Congregation of about 200 Disbanded Soldiers, in a place called the Camp: these people, and about 200 more near the Camp, have no Teacher. Mr. Flood attended to them, as health and weather allowed, while he was here; and now Mr. Vaughan occasionally does so. One Sunday, after having attended to the duties of the Church at Freetown, I called at the Camp; and saw about 100 people assembled in their little Church—a wattled house with grass roof: one of the Soldiers had acted as Minister. If Missionaries are appointed to the Camp, they ought to live there among the people, and have a regular Chapel built for Public Worship: and they must attend to Morning and Evening Prayers with the people, as we do in our places; which they could easily manage, having nothing else to attend to.

Freetown Schools call again for help; and, possibly, many more places may become vacant through this rainy season, which has just commenced, but appears pretty fair. Perhaps the Lord will remember us in mercy, and spare useful lives; yet His will be done!

In a subsequent Letter, dated Nov. 21, 1823, the destitute state of several of the Country Towns is forcibly depicted:—

Though I have to relate no deaths in the Mission, yet I have to call your attention once more to its distressed state.

Br. Norman has been dangerously ill, and so has Mrs. Norman. Br. Vaughan is ill in bed now, and has kept his bed ten days. It is the united opinion of the Medical Gentlemen, that Mr. Norman should return to England as soon as possible; and what will then become of Regent, Gloucester, and the Christian Institution? I have been to Regent twice, since Br. Düring left; and each time administered the Sacrament to about 400 Communicants; including the people of Gloucester, who came to Regent on those occasions. I have also administered the Sacrament at Charlotte, where the Communicants from Leopold joined us. Once a month I likewise attend the Church at Freetown; so that I am but one Sunday in the month with my own people. Br. Vaughan reads prayers at Freetown, on Lord's Days; and then usually visits Gloucester, and spends the remainder of the day with the people there: but, at present, even this is prevented.

Regent and Gloucester are like sheep without a shepherd: though Br. Norman, when well, pays every attention to them, even above his power and strength; and thereby, no doubt, has debilitated himself to such a degree, that he cannot continue with us much longer.

It is not to be wondered at, that, under such circumstances, disorder should manifest itself among the people of these places, particularly among those of them who have not felt the influence of religion. Mr. Nyländer gives an instance of this kind:—

About 100 men met together at Regent, refused to work, and actually engaged in battle. Several were wounded; and even Mr. Norman received blows with sticks and stones, and was carried home. They were, however, subdued by superior force; and about 50 of them arrested, and punished according to law: among these, I am sorry to say, were some to whom I administered the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper on the Sunday before. I was present at the examination of the rioters. No blame was attached to Mr. Norman. The rebels said to the Chief Justice, or before him and the Council—"Mr. Norman is a good man—never done us any bad."

It will easily be understood by intelligent Christians, that many evils may break out among the irreligious part of such a community as is assembled at Regent; and that some who have appeared to be under the influence of religion may be drawn into these evils, when the restraint of an affectionate Pastor, who had acquired great influence with them all, is removed. Such persons will see in disorders of this nature, not an impeachment of the truth of representations, resting on combined and varied testimony, as to the influence of religion, under more favourable circumstances, in its real power over many, and in its restraining power over the great body of the people; but they will feel the imperious necessity of supplying these assemblies of Natives with affectionate and devoted Ministers.

The urgent want of Teachers is affectingly displayed, in a brief communication transmitted by Mr. Nyländer in January. He writes—

Missionaries and Chaplains are much wanted: as a proof of which, I inclose a Letter, sent me from Leicester Mountain, begging, for Christ's sake, to send them a Teacher.

This short but expressive Letter is from one of the Liberated Africans:—

I humbly beg thee, in the name of Christ, to give us one Teacher, for to teach us the way of the Lord Jesus Christ, that we may not perish as Heathens which have not the light of the countenance of the Lord. I hope that my writing may receive good encouragement; and I know not how to write better, but I hope the Lord will teach me better; and this, Master, I would feel obliged.

In February, Mr. Nyländer adds—

Missionaries are, as always, so much more now, called for. I sent you a Note from a man of Leicester Mountain, wherein he begs us, for Jesus Christ's sake, to send them a Teacher; and, on Saturday last, two men, from the same place, applied to me for the same thing, and also for some body to teach their children. These people lived at Leicester Mountain, at the time when Mr. Butscher was there: they keep Prayer Meetings among themselves now, and attend Divine Service at the nearest town to which they can go, which is Gloucester or Freetown. Congo Town, which also reaped benefit in the late Mr. Butscher's time, is in great distress for a Teacher: they, like the people at Leicester Mountain, meet among themselves; and, as the distance is too great to go to Freetown on Sundays, they do what they can: the Wesleyan Missionaries used to attend to this place, but they are as badly off as we are; and the people seem to think that they have a claim on the Church Missionary Society, and therefore apply to us. Oh, may the Lord in great mercy, speak the word, that great may be the company of preachers!

Sir Charles MacCarthy, in the midst of these trials, pleaded earnestly for further aid:—

As long as I have my health, and His Majesty may require my presence on the coast, I shall promote, to the utmost of my power, the religious instructions of this part of his Dominions; and more particularly so, of the Liberated Africans, who, from the forlorn condition in which they are landed, more peculiarly call for assistance. Here, as everywhere, assistance and means are required; otherwise all must end in unavailing wishes.

I shall end this Letter, by again expressing my sincere thanks for the aid which I have obtained from the Society; and leave it to the liberality of your own feelings to be thoroughly convinced, that, in regretting the want of a sufficient number of zealous Missionaries, I am thus bearing the strongest and most positive testimony to the value which I set upon the labours of those whom I have had.

The Committee have been anxious, not only to supply the Colony with Teachers in its present state of urgent need, but to make the best arrangements in their power for the future. They have not been disheartened; but have made every effort to repair the losses which have occurred. It is, however, comparatively easy to supply losses in the Civil or Military Service of our Colonies, out of the multitude of persons who are pressing for employment; while Christian Teachers must usually be such as voluntarily quit employments at home, out of a noble zeal to promote the present and eternal welfare of the Heathen, and are, previously to embarking in their work, to undergo a laborious preparation.

In reference to this subject, the Committee wish to apprise the Society, that, having had frequent and serious deliberations on the state of this Mission, and the necessity for adopting some plan by which its want of Christian Teachers might be more effectually supplied, it was determined to propose to His Majesty's Government, that the Society should take on itself the preparation and support of all the English Clergymen which were found necessary for the service of the Colony, whether in Freetown or in the towns of the Liberated Africans —these Clegymen to be approved by His Majesty through the Secretary of State for the Colonial Department—the Society having the power of placing them, with the concurrence of the Governor, as local circumstances may require. In addition to the stipends of these Clergymen and the requisite provision for their families, if any should survive them, the Colonial School at Freetown and the Christian Institution at Regent will continue in the charge of the Society: but it is proposed that Government should provide, in each of the Country Parishes, for the education of its inhabitants, and for their civil superintendence, under the authority and direction of the Clergyman; and also, as opportunity may offer, the requisite buildings for Public Worship and Schools, and Dwelling Houses for the Clergymen and other Teachers, with land for gardens and sufficient glebe.

A Deputation of the Society, consisting of the Lord Bishop of Lichfield and Coventry, Lord Calthorpe, Lord Bexley, Mr. Parry, and the Secretary, laid this Proposal before Earl Bathurst. His Lordship's official answer has not yet been received; but some slight modifications suggested by him having met the full concurrence of the Committee, it may be anticipated that this important measure will be adopted.*

The Committee are aware, that, in making this Proposal, they subjected the Society to considerable increase of expenditure on behalf of the Western-Africa Mission: but they are well convinced, that any increased expenditure on account of a plan which promises the most practicable supply of an efficient body of devoted Clerymen, as Labourers in that field which has been so greatly blessed, will be cheerfully supported by the whole body of the Society.

While thus contemplating an augmentation of Labourers in a quarter generally so ungenial to the health and lives of Europeans, it is right to observe, that the Military and Civil Officers of Government, and the Europeans resident in the Colony for purposes of Commerce, have suffered, under the late severe visitation, equally with the Labourers of the

* The arrangement above referred to has been since settled, and will regulate the future measures of the Society.

Society: yet men are not found wanting, who are ready, for the attainment of their purposes, to encounter all dangers to which they may be exposed; setting herein an example, which not only abundantly justifies the Servants of Christ in meeting these dangers, in pursuit of the high objects of their calling, but would fix on them an indelible stain if they abandoned, through fear, this sphere of prosperous toil.

In considering the past circumstances of the Colony, with reference to the Liberated Africans, the Committee are struck with the importance of every Missionary's cherishing toward them a spirit of tender and patient affection. They cannot but attribute to this, as a predisposing cause, under the blessing of God, the distinguished success of Mr. Johnson and Mr. Düring.

The Committee refer to this point on the present occasion, because they deem it of great importance, when exertions are about to be made to increase the Labourers in this field, that all who engage in this work should specially feel the duty of cultivating that temper, which the state and character of those among whom they will be called to labour will require. And they do this the rather, because, in some instances, those who have been placed over Liberated Africans, not availing themselves, as they should have done, of the experience of others, have at first seriously failed, both in the spirit which they manifested toward the people committed to their care, and in the endeavours made for their religious instruction.

The PARENTAL spirit is that, which is alone likely to influence people circumstanced as the Liberated Africans are. The MAGISTERIAL spirit, which, in its mildest actings, must still tend to coercion and restraint, will repel and shut up the minds of men who have known little of Europeans but as tyrants and oppressors: while a wise exercise of authority, tempered by warm affection and unwearied patience, will win the heart; and fix its attachment so firmly, that the people, as has been seen in repeated instances, will scarcely know how sufficiently to express their grateful feelings.

The sentiments of the late Mr. Johnson on this subject come with the authority of successful experience. In reference to some refractory Boys, who had given him much trouble, he says—

When the African once gets a bad opinion of an European, there is no help. Oh, that Missionaries and Schoolmasters would make it their principal object, at the beginning, to gain the hearts of their people! I know, by experience, that the Missionary who has the affection of the people can do more with two words spoken in season, yea with a sorrowful look, than another with never so severe means. I have seen some who have used the most entreating language, but to no purpose: why? because the individuals entreated did not believe that it came from the heart.

Considerable difficulty has arisen in conducting the Adult Schools among the Liberated Africans. At Kissey, Mr. Nyländer complains of the indifference of the Adults to instruction: he has always thought it wrong to compel their attendance at school, and very few will voluntarily attend. At Waterloo, Mr. Wilhelm fined for absence; which led to complaints of hardship, that, after working all the day, they should be obliged to frequent the schools. At Charlotte, the evil has strongly manifested itself; and at Leopold, in a considerable degree. The case is confessedly difficult. It appears, however, as might indeed be expected, that, in proportion as religion influences the people, a desire of knowledge and diligence in attaining it discover themselves.

The Fourth Anniversary of the Auxiliary Church Missionary Society was held at Regent, on Tuesday the 9th of March; His Honour the Chief Justice in the Chair. A Sermon had been previously preached by the Rev. G. R. Nyländer, from Rom. x. 12 &c. The Resolutions were proposed and seconded by the principal Gentlemen of the Colony, including the Members of Council and the Senior Officers of the Civil Service.

The Contributions of the Liberated Africans to the objects of the Society in the year 1823 were as follows, so far as the returns have been received—

Charlotte	15	4	8
Gloucester	12	0	2
Kissey	24	0	2
Leopold	17	12	6
Regent	30	0	6
Waterloo	19	9	3

This sum is about 33*l.* short of the contributions of 1822: but there are no returns, as there were in that year, from Bathurst, Hastings, and Wellington, which places contributed about 20*l.* in 1822. Gloucester has fallen somewhat short of its contributions in 1822, and Regent has contributed less than half what it did in that year: but this might be expected; and furnishes a proof, in addition to various others, that the Liberated Africans, in their present state, are peculiarly dependent on the presence and assiduous care of their Instructors. The contributions from the places which have continued to enjoy the benefit of their former Guides illustrate the same point; Charlotte and Leopold having nearly doubled the contributions of 1822, and Kissey tripled them, which was also done at Waterloo besides a Collection and Benefaction.

To NATIVE TEACHERS the Committee look, under the peculiar circumstances of Africa, with earnest hope, that, while special attention is paid to their due instruction and preparation, the blessing of God will be granted. They have, on former occasions, adduced satisfactory proof of the competence of the Natives to acquire all needful knowledge: and they will quote, in further evidence of this point, the Letter of one of them, addressed to the Secretaries, in answer to a communication from the Committee not acceding to the late Mr. Johnson's wish that this Native should accompany him to this country; as it will shew what progress this Native Teacher has already made in preparing himself to become an instructor of his countrymen:—

I have received the Letter which you sent concerning my accompanying Mr. Johnson to England. At the first, I felt disappointed: but, when I take it into consideration, I firmly believe that the hand of the Lord is in it; for my constant prayer is, that the Lord may do with me just as it seems good in His sight: therefore I am quite satisfied with His good and wise providence, for I do not know what is best for myself: the Lord only knows what is good for His people; therefore I wish to be resigned to His holy will and pleasure.

I thank you for the kind manner in which you have made it known to me; although I should feel very happy indeed to see you, as you would to see me. But if we should never be permitted to see each other upon earth, I trust the Lord will prepare us to meet in His heavenly kingdom, where we shall part no more for ever.

I cannot fully express my gratitude to the Rev. W. B. Johnson for the trouble he has taken in educating me. He has done all that lies in his power to get me forward. Every day at four o'clock, except on Sundays, I and others of my friends attend at his house for instruction, which he imparts to us with great pleasure; for which I am indeed thankful. In all circumstances, Mr. Johnson has used me just as he would his own child, and I believe more too: and I look to him just as my natural father; and I believe and trust he is my spiritual father also.

The Committee trust that the arrangement with Government before referred to, in connexion with the supply of Labourers by means of the Institution at Islington, will enable the Society to pursue its objects in Sierra Leone on that scale, which is required both for the good of the Colony itself, and for its efficient influence on the surrounding tribes: for both these objects, as has frequently been stated, are comprehended in the Society's design.

To instruct the many thousands of Natives who were liberated from Slave Vessels was a task of peculiar difficulty, under the circumstances of a climate so unfavourable to Europeans. Before any considerable progress could be made herein, these Natives, speaking many different languages and dialects, were to be made sufficiently acquainted with the English Language: as it was most important to melt them down, as soon as possible, into one community; and to bring them, for that end, acquainted with the language which was to be the medium of intercourse and of knowledge among them and their descendants, and by which they were most speedily to be brought to the full enjoyment of all the advantages of a Christian Life.

But a second object has never been lost sight of. The design of the Christian Institution, as stated in the Nineteenth Report, was to train Native Teachers, not only for the service of their countrymen in the Colony, but to convey the knowledge of Christianity to their own Tribes, whenever a way should be open to them. For this purpose, it is necessary that the various languages and dialects of those Tribes should be fixed, and elementary books be prepared therein. The pressing wants of the Colony, with the continual loss of health and life, having demanded more Labourers than the Society, with its utmost exertions, has been able to supply, no attempt has hitherto been made to fix any other of the African Languages, in addition to the Susoo and Bullom, before fixed and studied: but the Committee hope, that, when the new arrangement is brought fully into action, they shall be able to pursue this object.

The want of sufficient help has also retarded those improvements in the system of instruction, which might propably, by a supply of lessons and elementary books specially adapted to the ideas and capacities of the scholars, have greatly facilitated their progress. To the increased number of Labourers the Committee look for particular attention to this subject. All things, they are aware, proceed slowly and with difficulty, under the distressing loss and change of Teachers, which the Mission has suffered; and they are thankful to God, that, under such circumstances, so much has been accomplished.

The Committee continue to avail themselves of every opportunity in their power to obtain accurate information relative to the Mission, especially from persons unconnected with responsibility for its concerns, and therefore under no bias to give any improper colouring.

The death of the Rev. Henry Palmer, the last-appointed Chaplain of the Colony, was stated in a Note to the former Report. The following extract of a Letter from him to a friend, dated on the 2d of May of last year, only four days before his death, will be heard with peculiar interest, as his dying testimony to the work of God:—

Shortly after my arrival here, Mrs. Palmer and myself visited Regent, previous to the departure of Mr. Johnson to England. We went on a Saturday. I was obliged to return for my duties on the Sabbath: Mrs. Palmer remained, and heard Mr. Johnson preach. She received the emblems of our Redeemer's body and blood, in company with 420 Blacks. She wrote to me in raptures on the subject. Since that period, I have preached there three times. I confess to you, that I do not think that the accounts of Regent have been exaggerated. When you first catch a glimpse of the place, a thousand thoughts crowd upon your mind. The situation is beautiful. The picture given in the Register and Quarterly Papers is tolerably correct, though not quite so.

It is truly cheering to see, every morning and evening, as the Church-going bell vibrates through the surrounding mountains, the inhabitants, amalgamated out of every nation of this part of Africa, hastening from their different huts to hear the glorious Gospel of the blessed God. At the same time, the Youths from the Christian Institution ascend, in order, from their habitation, each with his Bible—the Boys and Girls of the Schools parading in lines before the Pastor's door, under their respective teachers, and all concentrating in the House of God. Then to mark their devout behaviour, their earnest ejaculations, and hundreds of Bibles opened at the delivery of the Discourse, to discover whether these things are so, is truly delightful.

Mr. Palmer expresses his delight at the fervour with which the responses are made, in the Service, by the Natives; and his full conviction that our Bishops, Priests, and Deacons, and our gracious Sovereign himself, would cordially rejoice to witness the earnestness with which the petitions of the Litany in their behalf are followed by the response—"We beseech Thee to hear us, Good Lord!" He adds the following testimony to the loyalty of the people, and to the grounds on which the British Government justly claims their gratitude:—

I find, generally, that gratitude to our King and to our Society are intimately associated: and so it well may. I had no idea, till I came here, that Government did so much. It does a great deal. It builds every habitation for every Missionary: it builds every Church: it builds every School-house: it feeds and clothes every Liberated African: it furnishes every drop of oil for every Church: it gives to every Missionary and Schoolmaster who is a Superintendant, which most of them are, 200*l.* per annum; and it liberates every African from captivity. I think, therefore, that I am justified in saying that Government does a great deal.

The Committee have been also furnished with the testimony of a Naval Officer on the Station, addressed to a Lady, who put into his hands the statements which had been published relative to Regent in particular, with a request that he would verify or disprove them. An extract from his Letter follows:—

Regent, and the other Liberated Towns, have surpassed my most sanguine expectations, in all points of view; and I trust this good work will prosper. If God is on its side, who can be against it? And that His Spirit has wrought wonderfully in the hearts of hundreds, I think there are evident marks. Indeed, I myself found such, in the visits which I made to their huts. Their conduct at Church is, beyond every thing, good. I had the pleasure to see about 1700 in the Church at Regent, and to join with them in praising God from whom all blessings flow. My feelings, on this occasion, were more than I can express. I was present, most likely, at the liberation of many of these people, when I was on this station, some years ago. Then the place was an impenetrable wood, the haunt of wild beasts: and now, to find myself in a good Church, with so large a Congregation, offering up my humble prayers and thanksgivings to that God who has been pleased hitherto so mercifully to preserve me—you may better conceive, than I can express, the feelings of one so situated.

The Children's improvement astonished me much. I passed four days in the mountains. Regent was my head-quarters, and I did all in my power to elicit truth; and you may judge what delight I have experienced, from finding every thing so much to surpass my expectations.

Before they proceed to survey the respective Stations, the Committee will give a succinct view of the Labourers at the different places, as they were left by the last Report; and of the changes, which sickness and death have made among them in the course of the year.

Of the Teachers appointed to the Freetown Schools, Mr. Bunyer dying on the 20th of April and Mrs. Bunyer and Mrs. Vaughan in June, Mr. Vaughan was the only European Teacher who survived. Mrs. Schemel, having lost her husband, was placed in charge of the Girls' School. Mr. Vaughan dying on the 25th of November, the Schools were left under Mrs. Schemel's care, and that of George Fox and Mrs. Fox, the Native Assistants, who had continued in their useful labours all the year. On the very seasonable arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Pope, in the beginning of December, immediately after the death of Mr. Vaughan, they also were appointed to these Schools; and, in addition to these labours, Mr. Pope was obliged, in the destitute state of the Colony, to render every assistance compatible with his character as a layman, in the duties at Freetown —At Kissey, the Rev. G. R. Nyländer has continued to labour: but was obliged to attend, so far as practicable, after the death of the Rev. Henry Palmer on the 8th of May, to the duties of the Chaplaincy at Freetown; the Schools at Kissey being conducted by George Thomas, John Bannah, and Mrs. Wenzel, all Natives. At Christmas, David Johnson, a Native Young Man from the Christian Institution, and his Wife, Maria Johnson, who had been lately married, were appointed to assist in the Schools—John Sandy, Native Teacher, continued through the year, under Mr. Nyländer's superintendence, in charge of Wellington—The Rev. John Godfrey Wilhelm and Mrs. Wilhelm, with W. Lawrence, Native Assistant, continued their labours at Waterloo. Mr. and Mrs. Lisk having removed to Regent at Christmas, to supply the place of Mr. and Mrs. Norman who were returning home, John Johnson and his Wife, Native Assistants from Regent, were removed to Waterloo. W. Neville, Native Assistant at Waterloo, left at the end of April, to accompany the Rev. S. Flood to this country—For Hastings no Teacher could be provided—Of Kent Mr. and Mrs. Beckley have remained in charge. Mrs. Renner had the chief care of the Girls' School till she removed, in August, to Gloucester. William Bickersteth, a Native Youth from the Christian Institution, had the care of the Boys' and Men's Schools during most of the year. His Wife accompanied the Rev. W. Johnson, in charge of Mr. Düring's child: on her return, she and her Husband were regularly appointed, at Christmas, as Native Assistants at Kent—At York, the Rev. C. W. Beckauer dying on the 28th of June, no Teacher could be appointed to succeed him: he had entered on this Station at the end of April; but did not preach, through sickness, till Whitsunday, the 18th of May. The Native Assistant, W. Allen, is still at Kent—At Charlotte, Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, with John Jackson, Native Assistant, and at Leopold Mr. and Mrs. Davey, have remained in their respective labours—The Rev. W. H. Schemel being obliged to leave Bathurst, on account of the sickness of which he died on the 25th of April, the Rev. John Gerber and Mrs. Gerber, having resided some months at Kissey, were placed at Bathurst at Lady Day. William Neville, Native Assistant, on his return from England, was appointed to the Schools—On the Rev. W. Johnson leaving Regent, at the end of April, Mr. and Mrs. Norman were placed in charge of the people; the Rev. H. Düring undertaking to assist, from Gloucester, in every way in his power: but Mr. and Mrs. Norman being obliged to leave Regent at Christmas, on a visit home, Mr. and Mrs. Lisk removed thither from Waterloo, to undertake the instruction of the people; Mr. Reffell, Chief Superintendant of Liberated Africans, charging himself for a time with the care of their secular concerns: of the Native Teachers connected with Regent, William Tamba was placed at Gloucester, but William Davis and David Noah rendered great assistance to Mr. Norman. The Christian Institution pressing too heavily on Mr. Norman, John Johnson, Native, was appointed, at Michaelmas, to take charge of it; and continued therein till removed at Christmas, as before stated, to Waterloo—On the Rev. H. Düring and Mrs. Düring leaving Gloucester in August, William Tamba, Native Teacher from Regent, was placed in charge; and Mrs. Renner, from Kent, in care of the Females;. Mr. Nyländer undertaking to visit, occasionally, in order to administer the Sacraments. At Lady Day, before Mr. Düring's departure, Mark Joseph Tamba, a Native, had been appointed to assist — From Wilberforce, the Rev. G. W. E. Metzger and Mrs. Metzger were, at Michaelmas, removed to Kissey, in order to improve themselves, by Mr. Nyländer's aid, in a knowledge of the best manner of conducting a Settlement; but their place could not be supplied—At the Plantains, Stephen Caulker, Native Schoolmaster, continued in charge of the Schools.

This abstract will shew, most impressively, under what difficulties the Mission has laboured: but it will be seen, by the following extract of a Letter from the Rev. J. G. Wilhelm, that these difficulties are met in the true spirit of Christians:—

To the Lord there is no restraint to save by many or by few. He has often upholden and saved His Church under greater conflicts. May it please Him to hear and answer the prayers of our Christian Friends in England, and all over Europe, and bless us abundantly! What a comfort is it to be assured that there are many prayers daily ascending to heaven in our behalf, and rendered acceptable by the Great Intercessor who continually pleads for the reward of His sufferings! May the Lord support and defend the Missionary Cause! It is the noblest in which we can be engaged. Yet it ought, under the circumstances of our West-Africa Mission, to become a matter of most serious self-examination for us all, whether our motives are simple and pure; for, doubtless, trials are sent to rectify our motives, as well as to purify our faith and other graces.

Freetown Schools.

The Return of Scholars for the year is as follows:—

	Lady-Day.	Midsummer.	Michaelmas.	Christmas.
Boys' Day School .	261	269	267	280
Girls' Day School .	149	159	107	180
Adults' Evening School	91	63	88	67
Total	501	491	462	527

These were the numbers on the books: the attendance may be judged of by the return of average attendance at Christmas, which was—Boys 149, Girls 125, Adults 32; Total 406, out of 527.

Mr. Vaughan reported, at Michaelmas—

In my information respecting my Schools, there is a mixture of joy and grief—of joy, that the children have more regularly attended school during the Rains than I could expect; and that the progress which they have made in learning, and the knowledge which they have obtained of the National System of Education, far exceed my most sanguine expectations. But it is a cause of grief to me, that I have been prevented by other duties, from paying due attention to the Adult School: Mr. Fox has regularly attended; and his instructions, I hope, have not been in vain.

I am requested by Mrs. Schemel to inform you, that the progress of the Girls has been very slow; but she is much pleased with the knowledge which they have acquired of the National System.

Kissey.

Of the Schools, Mr. Nyländer reported, at Michaelmas, that they contained 95 Boys, 84 Girls, and 20 Adults: at Christmas, the Boys were 87, and the Girls 80. Of their state he writes, at Michaelmas—

Our Schools go on but indifferently: the larger boys have gone to learn trades: young women have married; and a small number of very little ones are, at present, at School. Of our Evening School, I am sorry to give but a poor statement: it is attended by very few, perhaps not twenty on an average: others despise instruction, to their own injury: they will not be warned.

At Christmas he states—

The Girls are making considerable progress in sewing and marking.

Of his own labours Mr. Nyländer reports at Michaelmas—

During this last quarter, my time and my labours have been so variously divided between Freetown and Kissey, that neither the one nor the other has been regularly attended to. By the removal of Messrs. Flood and Palmer, I was called to take charge of the duties of the Church at Freetown, which I have attended to hitherto as often as I was able: in addition to which, by Br. Düring going home, and by the death of our much-lamented brother Johnson, I am also called to attend to these bereaved Congregations in the Mountains. I have, therefore, but little time to be with my own people; and that, after having travelled and wearied myself in other Stations.

Of the state of the people, he adds—

It pleases God still to carry on His own work among my people: about half-a-dozen have been preparing for Baptism for several months; and would have been admitted into the Church, had I not been absent so many Sundays from home as has been the case lately. The Communicants, I am happy to state, continue to walk as it becometh Christians: there are stumblings and fallings among them; but, blessed be God! they are raised again by Divine Grace, and enabled to pursue their Christian Course in faith and humility. Two of my Communicants have departed this life, and I have cause to hope that they have entered into the joy of their Lord: one died so suddenly, that I had no opportunity to visit him: the other had been long afflicted, and submissively bore her sufferings, dying in the blessed hope of soon beholding the face of Jesus. This is the first instance which I have witnessed among my people of the grace of God in the heart of a sinner on her dying bed; and may the Lord seal instructions upon the hearts of His people, that many more may be enabled to bear testimony to the truths of His Holy Word in their dying hours!

Church on Sundays, and Public Prayers morning and evening during the week, are regularly attended. There are frequently not fewer than 700 persons present on Lord's Days, and about 400 on Week Days; so that there is yet hope in casting out the net of the Gospel, and in sowing the seed of God's Word.

At Christmas, he states—

Great and many are the mercies, which God has bestowed on me during this Quarter. He has wonderfully supported and strengthened me; so that I have, in some measure, been able to attend to the duties of my situation. It is true I have not been able to attend to Freetown and other places, so frequently as their spiritual wants require. In consequence of my long residence in this place, my memory fails; and I feel such a degree of bodily weakness, that I am not able to exert myself so much as I am inclined to do, and as my present situation requires: however, I keep stirring; and, blessed be God! I have the pleasure and satisfaction to see that I am not labouring altogether in vain. Five-and-twenty Communicants still continue faithfully walking in the ways of the Lord, though sometimes staggering and stumbling. Those whom I mentioned last Quarter, as preparing for Baptism, continue steady in their heavenly pursuits, and will be soon admitted into the Church.

Certainly we see that the hand of the Lord is not shortened, by the loss of so many Labourers. He carries on His work; and thus prepares the fields for those Labourers, who shall hereafter be sent into this benighted land.

In January last he writes—

I enjoy my health tolerably well, considering all things. My children are well; and so is Mrs. Wenzel, and very usefully employed.

Wellington.

At Christmas, Mr. Nyländer writes—

John Sandy's reports from Wellington are very interesting. The people attend Church on Sundays, and Weekly Morning and Evening Prayers, regularly. The Adult School is well attended, and some of the men are beginning to read. Several Men and Women are under the influence of religion: some have applied for Baptism: three Women have been preparing for this holy ordinance for several months, of whose sincerity there is no doubt; and they will be admitted as soon as I shall be able to attend for the purpose.

Waterloo.

The population of this place has been increased, by the birth of a number of children, and by the addition of 30 men whom the Governor directed to come hither from Leicester Mountain: it consisted, at Christmas, of 750 persons, whom Mr. Wilhelm classes as follows—

Discharged Soldiers (Pensioners) 88—their Wives, 74—Liberated Men, in rations, 188—Liberated Women, in rations, 62—Liberated Men, maintaining themselves, 29—Liberated Women, ditto, 14—School Boys, 80—School Girls, 105—Little Children, 110.

Of the state of the Settlement, Mr. Wilhelm reports at Michaelmas—

However slow our progress may be, we have reason to be thankful that we are still going forward, and not backward: for we have also had our hindrances, our sicknesses, and various difficulties to encounter. We would humbly and thankfully acknowledge, Hitherto the Lord hath helped us! Thus the work was kept going on, with little interruption upon the pulpit, in the Schools, and in the management of the secular concerns connected with our Station; although we had alternately to relieve each other, like sentinels, from the post of duty: while one was laid on the bed of sickness, the other was enabled to act for the sufferer. One Young Man has been added to the number of Communicants.

The Boys' School consists of 80 scholars; about 40 of whom can read, and have also much advanced in writing and arithmetic under Br. Lisk. Mrs. Lisk was, for the most part of this Quarter, unable to attend the Girls' School; but Mrs. Wilhelm was preserved in health for the greater part of it: the Girls are getting on, though by slow degrees as to their books; yet their progress is by no means to be despised as to sewing, washing, and cooking. The Mechanics and the Married Women appear to be the most unwilling and unfit for learning; though not without exception.

At Christmas he states—

I feel thankful, in testifying to you at the close of this year of peculiarly afflictive visitation in this Colony, that the people of Waterloo, both young and old, have had, through the mercy of God, the means of instruction and of grace and salvation continued to them. Though it was a very sickly season throughout this year for us Europeans, in this Station as well as in others, yet our sicknesses did not materially interrupt us in the work of the Lord. The Schools have been well attended to, especially the Boys' School; considerable progress having been made in reading, writing, and arithmetic. The Evening Schools are rather in a declining state, most of the Mechanics neglecting to attend. The Meetings of Communicants I have not kept for the last six weeks; some unhappy differences having taken place, which are not yet rectified: as, however, I can see nothing criminal in the case, I hope, that, through the mercy of God, charity and union will be restored among us.

One of the inhabitants having been convicted of manslaughter, Mr. Wilhelm makes the best use of the event:—

Although he never was a professor of religion—nay, I never saw him in the Place of Worship—and although he was acquitted of the charge of murder; yet he proves to me a very humbling instance of many who have hitherto despised and neglected the means of salvation. However, let me hope the best. While such are spared in life, they are not out of the reach of mercy.

Mr. Lisk writes of Waterloo, during his residence there—

While at Waterloo, scarcely any palavers came under my observation. The School was chiefly my employment. Being blessed with uninterrupted good health and spirits, I have been enabled to pursue my work, and felt oftentimes encouraged at the progress of the boys. On the 19th of September, the Governor and some other Gentlemen examined the Schools, and expressed their satisfaction with the children's proficiency.

Being much grieved at the backwardness of the Adults in attending Evening School, Mr. Wilhelm fined them a quarter of a dollar per month: they complained to the Governor, who told them that a Master was sent, and they must attend. Notwithstanding all entreaties, they will not attend; but suffer the loss of the quarter-dollar, though many of them do not get more than three-quarters of a dollar per month.

Kent.

The return of Scholars for the year is as follows:—

	Lady Day.	Midsummer.	Michaelmas.	Christmas.
Boys' Day School	96	96	84	90
Girls' Day School	100	100	80	83
Adults' Evening School	50	62	56	80
Total	246	258	220	253

The removal of Mrs. Renner to Gloucester occasioned the decrease in the Girls in the Michaelmas Quarter, she having had the special charge of them. Of the other Schools Mr. Beckley reported at Michaelmas—

The Boys and Adults improve under the care of William Bickersteth, who conducts himself with great propriety.

New School-Houses were erecting, when a destructive fire broke out in that for the Girls, which burnt down also 17 of the people's houses.

On the 5th of April of last year, the Quarterly Missionary Prayer-Meeting having been held, a Missionary Association was formed in aid of the Society.

Of the state of the people Mr. Beckley thus speaks at Christmas—

God has been pleased to carry on His work of mercy, notwithstanding the wickedness of some of the inhabitants is great. The Church has been attended during the last Quarter, at both Morning and Evening Daily Prayer, with a zeal which has never before manifested itself among the people of Kent. Our Saturday-Evening Meeting also has been attended by the Commmunicants regularly, unless prevented by sickness, when much Christian Edification is experienced among us. We mourn that we are not permitted to enjoy those means, which are to the strengthening and refreshing of the Church of God below—the commemoration of the Lord's Supper; but we pray that God would raise up Labourers, and send them forth, to feed His sheep and His lambs, among the much-injured tribes of Ham.

The Communicants were 17; but, on the 1st of June, Mr. Beckauer administered the Sacrament to 24, including some Young Women from Regent.

Here, also, are witnessed those genuine influences of Divine Grace, which deeply humble the heart before God. At one of the Evening Meetings, a Communicant, who had been very sick, thus expressed his feelings—

Blessed be God for His mercies toward me! I have been sick very much; and I see, the more I try to do good, the more bad I do. That time I sick, I pray to God to have mercy upon me. I beg God to shew me, suppose I die, I was going to hell or to heaven. I say, If I go to hell, it is no more than I deserve. If I go to heaven, I thank God through Jesus Christ. Sometimes I was not able to bow my knee. I feel trouble. I want to get up, but I no able. I say, "Lord have mercy upon me!" Then I felt glad. One Sunday, when I hear people sing in Church, I try to get up. I think myself strong to go to Church, but no able: I was very sorry, and much troubled. Me hear all the same as one man calling me: he say, "No fear, I can deliver thee." I have been believe once; but I get careless: but I thank God that He has made me sick; yes, because He bring me back. May He keep me, and make me thankful, as I cannot keep myself.

On another occasion, a Communicant expressed, in other words, the Apostle's meaning when he said,

What I hate, that do I—the evil which I would not, that I do.—

I feel so much my wicked heart, that thing I no want to do live in my heart all day; and that thing I no want to see, I carry all the day: and I do not know what to do.

Bananas.

Of these Islands, which lie off the coast a short distance from Kent, Mr. Beckley writes at Michaelmas—

It has pleased God to open a new sphere of usefulness on the Bananas. The Superintendant, Mr. F. Campbell, having erected a house for holding Divine Worship, entreated me, on behalf of the people, to visit the Bananas for the purpose of exhorting them, once or twice a week; and I feel thankful to God, that He has enabled me to hold Divine Service once a week, during this month and part of last.

At Christmas he adds—

Our new field at the Bananas appears with prospects the most encouraging. I have been enabled to keep Service, with few exceptions, once a-week during the past Quarter; when between 60 and 70 assembled, who, from outward appearance, seem desirous of obtaining inward and spiritual grace.

York.

The late Rev. C. W. Beckauer first preached here on Whitsunday, and was heard with great and even eager attention. A few weeks afterward, and but four or five days before he died, he reported—

I believe that the work of the Lord is begun in some of the Disbanded Soldiers; but, being ignorant of the will of God, they do, sometimes, things which are not at all becoming a disciple of Jesus Christ. This experience I have already acquired—that much prayer, patience, and perseverance are required.

Morning Prayer is held here very early, viz. half-past-five, or a-quarter-before-six; and Evening Prayer at seven.

In the Day School are 14 children, mostly boys; and in the Evening School, 16 boys.

Since my arrival I have married four couples, and baptized four children.

May the Lord bless every attempt to spread the knowledge of His Salvation among the people at York; and may He pour down His Holy Spirit, and give them the light of the knowledge of God in Jesus Christ!

This was written on the 24th of June. On the 29th of that month Mr. Beckley gives the following account of the early end of Mr. Beckauer's labours:—

Having received a note last night, that the Rev. Mr. Beckauer was very ill, I went, notwithstanding the rain, accompanied by Mrs. Beckley. When we arrived at York, we found Mr. Beckauer had been insensible, and in a dying state, since twelve o'clock. I spoke several times to him, but he was too far gone. I then prayed. His sufferings were great, until a-quarter-past-eleven o'clock, when he departed this life. With respect to his immortal soul, I had no doubt but that he left this for a better world; for a more conscientious Christian I have seldom met with: he was like a child, fearful of taking a step, lest he should fall. The Scripture was the daily rule of his life. I never heard him enter into argument: he always considered it best to leave the Word of God as it was. He has left upon the minds of the people of York, the character of a Christian indeed.

Charlotte.

The foundation-stone of a Church, dedicated to St. John, was laid on the 6th of January last, by Mr. Reffell, in the absence of the Governor *.

Mr. Taylor sees a manifest improvement in the people; though, with a few exceptions, they occasion him much trouble and anxiety. This has been particularly seen in the Adult Evening School.

The Return of the Schools, at Lady Day of last year, was, Boys 54, Girls 61, Adults 136—total 251: at Midsummer, it was, Boys 64, Girls 58, Adults 136—total 258. Of these last, the following read the Scriptures—Boys 27, Girls 40, and Adults 39; making a total of 106 out of 258. At Michaelmas the Boys' and Girls' Schools continued much the same; but, of the Evening School, Mr. Taylor reports—

I have now but few Adults attending Evening School, sometimes none, and never more than five: they have agreed together to absent themselves, without assigning any cause whatever, and seem determined not to be taught.

* An interesting account of the proceedings on this occasion has appeared, since the Anniversary, in the Missionary Register for July, pp. 309, 310.

At Christmas, the Boys were 40, and the Girls 36; and the Evening School was attended by 45 Youths and 6 Men—making a total of 127. The diminution in the number of the Girls arose from many of the elder among them having married.

The amount received from Government for Cassada and Cocoa, in three of the Quarters of the year, was 307*l.* 10*s.* 1*d.* Much more might have been sold, if a market could have been found.

Mr. Taylor gives the following view of the Settlement, in the beginning of the present year:—

The difference in the appearance of the place, in a temporal view, is indeed great. It may well be said, the wilderdess blossoms as the rose. Instead of a huge forest, are now to be seen a large town of about 250 houses, with schoolhouses for both sexes, a large tract of land under cultivation, and every convenience of civilized life; and now, to crown the whole, a Church is begun to be erected for the worship of God. Oh, that I could say the moral aspect was as pleasing to the view of the Christian! Alas! but few yet know that Saviour, *whom to know is life eternal.

Leopold.

Mr. Davey makes the following Returns of the Schools:—

	Lady Day.	Midsummer.	Michaelmas.	Christmas.
Boys' Day School . .	50	62	54	52
Girls' Day School . .	37	46	50	51
Adults' Evening School	227	218	177	110
Total	314	326	281	213

Of the reductions in the Adult School, Mr. Davey says—

They have been occasioned by a part of the Adults who attended being struck off rations, and by others considering themselves too old to learn.

At Christmas, he thus speaks of the Children's Schools:—

I am happy to say, that, out of 103 children, 64 can now read the Scriptures. The Girls have made great progress in reading, writing, and marking.

* Extracts from Mr. Taylor's communications on the State of the Settlement, with the Sentiments of the Native Converts, have been printed, since the Anniversary, at pp. 341—343 of the Number for August.

I cannot say that any decided marks of a spiritual change are visible in any of them; though there are some, of whom we can say that they are almost Christians.

The place appointed for Public Worship having become incapable of accommodating the people, it was under enlargement, so as to receive upward of 1000 persons; and would be finished, it was expected, in March. Mr. Davey reports, at Christmas—

Morning and Evening Prayers, with the Services on Sundays, have been regularly kept up and well attended. The number of Communicants is seven, and there are two Candidates. One has been suspended for irregular conduct.

The right use which some of the people make of the Scriptures will be seen in the following extract:—

One of the Communicants said, "Massa, my heart so wicked, sometime my heart so hard, I cannot pray. Last week, when my heart stand this fashion, I read in the Gospel of St. John this word—I will pray the Father for you: this make my heart glad very much. Afterward, I read again—The Father himself loveth you." I asked him whether he thought God loved him for any thing in himself. He answered, "No, Massa, not for any thing in me, but for sake of Jesus Christ." Another said, "This week I been read in the Seventh Chapter of Matthew this word—Many will say to me in that day, Lord, Lord, &c. I feel these words very much, and think that's so I stand—I think no more I just say Lord, Lord; and this gives me trouble: but, last night, you read this same Chapter in Church, and talk about it, then I begin to get comfort."

The Contributions of the year to the Society have been already stated as 17*l.* 12*s.* 6*d.* Of the sale of produce Mr. Davey says—

The people of this Settlement have sold to Government during the past year 6112 Bushels of Cocoa and Cassada, for which they have received 296*l.* 18*s.* 7½*d.*

Bathurst.

The Rev. John Gerber and Mrs. Gerber entered on this Station on the 26th of March. The following Return of the Schools has been made for the remaining Quarters of the year:—

	Midsummer.	Michaelmas.	Christmas.
Boys' Day School . . .	33	33	30
Girls' Day School . . .	15	15	12
Adults' Evening School . .	50	60	55
Total	98	108	97

Divine Service and the Schools have been regularly kept, with but little interruption from ill health. William Neville, Native Schoolmaster, now conducts the Boys' and Evening Schools.

In the Communicants, 10 men and 9 women, whom Mr. Gerber found at Bathurst, he had, at first, but little satisfaction: several were excluded, but the rest became more decided in their walk as Christians. Two Candidates for Baptism had given satisfactory proofs of a real change of heart: of these he says—

Their first awakening was connected with circumstances new and refreshing to me.

Regent.

The destitute state of this interesting Settlement after it had lost the benefit of its late Pastor's affectionate and assiduous care, with renewed testimonies to its flourishing condition while he lived, and the provision made for its superintendence since his death, have been already noticed*.

The Committee will quote Mr. Johnson's Report of the state of the Settlement, at Lady Day of last year, little more than a month before his decease, as his closing Official Communication relative to the great work of which it had pleased God to make him the instrument.

Dear Brethren — Grace to you and peace, from God our Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ!

Again it has pleased the Lord our God to spare us to labour in His vineyard, and to prosper us in the work of love which He has given us to do. It is true, I have suffered and continue to suffer much from ophthalmia; but I trust that even this is among the all things that shall work together for good.

As it respects Regent's Town, the work of the Lord is proceeding as before. Divine Service has been regularly attended by the Communicants and the other inhabitants. The Schools continue to improve. We have had several additions to our Congregation and the Schools, by the arrival of Slave Vessels; and our population now amounts to upward of 2000 persons. The people behave quietly and orderly, so that we have very few palavers, indeed less than ever before.

I stated, in my last, that we had 50 Candidates under trial and instruction, for the Holy Ordinance of Baptism: one of them, a woman, has since died in the faith; and another, a man, has been excluded for improper conduct: the remaining 48 will, if it please our gracious God, be baptized on Easter Sunday.

The Youths in the Seminary continue to walk worthy of the high vocation wherewith they are called. They have made considerable progress in their studies, and promise well for future usefulness: indeed their conduct is such, that I think it my duty to notice it in the present Report.

The Number of Scholars is as follows:—

Boys residing in the School House . .	195
Boys residing with their Parents . . .	56
		251
Girls residing in the School House . .	180
Girls residing with their Parents . . .	50
		230
Men's Evening School		551
Women's Evening School		20
Christian Institution		27
Total Scholars		1079

There are 710 persons who can read.

The number of the Communicants, with the addition of the 48 Candidates mentioned above, will be about 450.

Our last Anniversary of the Regent's-Town Branch Missionary Association was very interesting. The collection after the Meeting amounted to 10*l.* 6*s.* 0½*d.*

The new people receive half rice and half cocoa or cassada. Since October last, 7470 bushels of cassada and 1421 bushels of cocoa have been issued; and there is now enough in the people's farms to supply them with half rations throughout the year.

The new road to the Sea is nearly completed. Some of the people have begun to trade in the country: one canoe has been purchased, and another hired for that purpose: one man has already delivered 2 tons and 16 bushels of rice.

The Fishery has commenced, and promises to become a permanent benefit to the town.

May the God of Abraham, of Isaac, and of Jacob, the Triune and our Covenant Jehovah, be praised for His continual mercies toward us, in carrying on this glorious work! And may He be pleased to keep us humble at the foot of the Cross!

To the character and labours of Mr. Johnson, Sir Charles MacCarthy, in speaking of his death, bore the following strong testimony—

It is a severe dispensation of Providence upon us. His exertions have been great; and may perhaps be equalled, but will never be surpassed. He was esteemed by the whole community. His people feel as they ought; having lost, in him, a Father and a Friend.

The manner, indeed, in which the people received the intelligence of Mr. Johnson's death clearly manifests the power of religion on their minds*. The Committee refer, in this view, with peculiar pleasure, to the sentiments expressed by one of them on this occasion:—

With respect to the death of our dear Minister, Mr. Johnson, I can say this is a great trial, because I loved him. It was through his instrumentality that I was brought from darkness to light. But God had a right to take him away when he pleased. We thought too much of Mr. Johnson, though he was a good man; and God will not suffer us to put confidence in any but the Lord Jesus Christ. My Dear Brethren, I think God took him away, because we looked more to Mr. Johnson than we did to the Lord Jesus. I hope, my Dear Brethren, this trial will make us all to trust more to the Lord Jesus, for He alone can save us. He alone is the Light of the World. Let us go to Him, and beg Him to sanctify this trial to us; and let us shew that we do indeed love our dear Minister, by doing what he told us.

One of the Native Teachers, in a Letter to Mrs. Johnson, speaks on the subject of Mr. Johnson's death, in a manner which sufficiently shews that he has been himself taught, not of man only, but of God:—

My Dear Mother—

I write these few lines to you, hoping they will meet you in good health by the mercy of God, through Jesus Christ our Lord, Amen!

It is a pain and grief to me, and to all the Brethren and Sisters, that our Shepherd is lost, by whose preaching the

* Some affecting particulars on this subject, communicated by Mr. Norman, have appeared at pp. 141 and 142 of the Missionary Register for March. The love of the people to their late Minister is very strikingly shewn, in the Letters written to him by some of them, soon after he left the Colony: they are printed at pp. 483—486 of the last Volume of the Missionary Register.

Lord was pleased to call us from darkness to light. Though he is dead, yet his words will not be forgotten to my ears, if the Lord will; because I remember, when he departed from Regent, I was very near to the grave, with pain in my body. He came to me. The last words which he told me were these—"Look to Jesus Christ, who is the Friend of Sinners." He pointed to me Psalm cxli. 1—3; and Isaiah lv. 1—3. Then I asked him, "Master, what time will you come back?" He told me, that, if the rain done, after Christmas Day he shall come; but I was not pleased. I told him, "I think you will not meet me alive, for I am very sick." He gave me answer, "The Lord will do what He pleases—though we are absent from one another in the body, yet I know that we shall soon see one another."

Therefore, my Dear Mother, look to Him—our Dear Shepherd—by name Jesus Christ the Lord; for He will do what He will. We have no more than a few days to live. Our friend will not return to us, but we shall follow him, for he is gone home to rest. May the Lord, by His great goodness and mercy, enable us to look to Him by faith, through his Son Jesus Christ our Lord, Amen!

Remember me to all the Brethren and Sisters. I hope that it is well with you and them in the Lord.

The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ and the Holy Ghost be with your and our spirits for ever, Amen!

To my dear Mother, Mrs. Johnson.

At Midsummer, he reported as follows:—

During the past Quarter, it has pleased God to afflict my dear partner and myself, not only in our persons, but in the sickness and death of many dear to us. In a very short time, we have had the corpses of five persons† in our house: yet, in the midst of these afflictions, He has supported us by His grace; so that as our trials abounded, His consolations did much more abound.

* Some particulars, communicated, in June, by Mr. Düring to Mr. Johnson, are given at pp. 383 and 384 of the last Volume of the Missionary Register; and, at pp. 303—309 of the present Volume, Extracts from Mr. Norman's Journal have been printed, together with some Addresses of Liberated Africans.

† Of two of the above number, the Rev. Henry Palmer and Mrs. Palmer, some account was given at pp. 303, 304, and 369—371, of the Missionary Register for last year. Mr. Norman gives some further particulars of those exemplary Christians, which are here subjoined.

Our dear friend Mr. Palmer was taken very ill on Sunday, May the 3d, while preaching

I have heard it said, that, as soon as Br. Johnson should leave us, the people would shew that it was nothing but his presence which kept them in order; but I am happy in being enabled to say, that the conduct of the Communicants testifies, that those principles of the Gospel of Christ, which our Brother faithfully preached, have had their proper effect on them.

The behaviour of the people, in general, is becoming. Divine Service is well attended; and, during my sickness, was conducted, with propriety, by the Native Teachers—Noah, Tamba, and Davis. Four of the Communicants have fallen, and have consequently been suspended; but I have yet reason to hope well of three of them: one backslider has been readmitted with the advice of Br. Düring, who has kindly assisted me. Two Youths belonging to the School were admitted as Candidates for Baptism; one of whom has since died, in hope of a glorious resurrection to eternal life: the other, and seven Candidates left by Mr. Johnson, continue to go on well.

The Schools are nearly the same, as to number, as in the last Report. The Boys' School, under David Noah, is improving fast.

preaching from John xvii. 1. Father, the hour is come! He went, however, through the whole Service, and afterwards administered the Sacrament. In the evening, he came up to my house, where Mrs. Palmer was staying. He was then in a burning fever, and appeared to be much alarmed. He observed, soon after he came in, that he believed, if he never had another opportunity of speaking to his Congregation, that he had then faithfully declared the truth. He repeated the words, Father, the hour is come! with peculiar solemnity; and was much affected. We had no apprehension of danger till Wednesday Morning, when we found that he had the black vomit; consequently, had no hope of his recovery. Mrs. Norman apprised Mrs. Palmer of this, and Dr. Shower confirmed the afflicting information. She received it with Christian fortitude, and immediately communicated it to Mr. Palmer. He was rather surprised; but soon recollected himself, and prayed that the will of the Lord might be done. His disorder was of such a nature as made it impossible for him to speak much; but what he said shewed that his treasure was in heaven—that his hope and confidence were in Christ. He was often heard to say "Christ is precious," and to utter similar expressions. He was very frequent in prayer, till about six hours before his death, when he was generally in a stupor. About an hour before he died, Mrs. Palmer sent for me. We prayed by his side. Mrs. Palmer afterward repeated the Twenty-third Psalm—when he opened his eyes, smiled, and soon after expired, at eleven o'clock in the evening of the 7th of May. He was buried, the next day, at Regent: such of the Brethren as could come attended, with the Native Teachers, the Youths in the Seminary, and many of the elder Communicants.

On the 9th of May, Mrs. Palmer left us, to reside with Colonel Sutherland; and, on Tuesday, the 3d of June, I received a Note from the Colonel, stating that she had been delivered of a still-born child the preceding evening, and was then in a fair way of doing well: but, on the following Friday, I received another, requesting me to send for the corpse of Mrs. Palmer, as it was her wish, when alive, to be interred by the side of her Husband. Her funeral was attended in the same manner as Mr. Palmer's.

We are much disappointed in the loss of these two devoted servants of God. We had hoped, that, as they were eminently qualified for the arduous duties of their station, so it would please God to spare them, and give them success in their work. But His thoughts are not as our thoughts; neither His ways as our ways. May He grant that their successors may be like-minded with them, having the same love to God and to sinners!

To Mr. Johnson, Mr. Norman, under the date of June 4, 1823, sent the following additional particulars:—

It affords me the greatest pleasure to be able to inform you, that the people go on much better than I expected. I experience much kindness on all sides. It is true, I now and then meet with a refractory spirit, an old hard-headed Bassa, or an Ebo; but I have no reason to complain: on the contrary, I ought to be, and trust I am, thankful to God for His mercy in keeping us in peace. The Church is well attended at all times; and the people are very attentive and serious in the time of Divine Worship.

But, amidst much encouragement, I have been sorely tried by the fall of four Communicants. Indeed, I do not know that ever I experienced a greater trial than this: but I doubt not that it will eventually prove to the glory of that God, who raises the fallen, heals the backslider, gives power to the faint, and keeps and strengthens those that stand.

We have had some trouble with the Girls in the School; but they now behave much better. The Boys' School goes on well; and David Noah, since his recovery from severe sickness, has been a good help to me. The Evening Schools are also in tolerable order, considering the Rains.

We are proceeding with the Buildings, as fast as can be expected in the Rainy Season. The tower, on one side, is as high as the ridge of the Church: the cornice and parapet of the Church are complete: seven of the large windows of the Church are fixed in: the interior will, I hope, be quite ready for painting at the commencement of the Drys. The walls in the Yard are also in a forward state, particularly on the Boys' side. The building at the Seminary is partly shingled; and I hope will, by the time the heavy rains set in, be well secured.

William Tamba and William Davis attend well. They have been of great service during our sickness: at one time, there was not a European in the Mountains able to attend to his duty, all having fever.

Dear Brother, I hope you will pray for us. We have been greatly distressed. Our medical attendants say that I cannot bear up under another attack. I must confess that I do not fear it, for I am in much the same state as when you left us; but I think that I shall be obliged to follow their advice, and return before the next Rains commence. Should I, however, at that time think that my strength is adequate to stand another Rains, I certainly shall not leave: however, I must depend on the will of God. I trust that He will make the path of duty clear.

In August, Mr. Norman wrote to a friend—

Could you be with us on a Sabbath, I am sure you would rejoice in the power of that grace, which can change the vile and obstinate savage into a devout worshipper of the meek and lowly Jesus. Our Congregation exceeds 2000 persons; and although they sit in the House of God with the water dripping from their clothes, yet they seem glad to be there.

At Michaelmas, he reported—

I have to thank God, that, although I have been in continual affliction, yet I have generally been enabled to attend to my duty. I have been much encouraged, by the affection shewn by the people under my care.

Divine Service has been regularly kept, and well attended: the Church has been crowded, even in the most unfavourable weather. Two Young Men have been admitted as Candidates for Baptism; and, with the others, are daily receiving instruction from William Davis. Several backsliders have been re-admitted.

On account of the heavy rains, the Schools have decreased in numbers: they are as follows—Boys in Day School, 229: Girls in Day School, 170: Men in Evening School, 555: Women in Evening School, 26: Youths in the Institution, 23—Total, 1003.

At Christmas, his Report was as follows:—

You all know how severely it has pleased God to afflict me; yet I trust that I can thank Him, that, not only in the shivering ague, but also in the burning fever, His promises supported me, and His rod and His staff comforted me; and I hope I can say from the heart, that I bless the gracious hand which afflicted me.

In reporting the state of the people, I must observe that I have seen much that distressed me, and much that comforted and encouraged me; for while some, who professed to love and serve the Saviour, have fallen, others, I have reason to hope, have been restored to the paths of righteousness and peace by the good Shepherd and Bishop of Souls. Divine Service has been regularly kept; and, during my inability to perform that duty, by David Noah and William Davis. The Lord's Supper, on account of the illness of Br. Nyländer, has been administered but once: the privation of that Ordinance has been severely felt, both by myself and by the people.

Nine of the persons, mentioned in a former Report as Candidates for Baptism, go on well; and are exceedingly anxious to be admitted to communion and fellowship with the servants of God: the remaining one has removed to Kissey.

In consequence of the small-pox having been introduced into the Schools, they have been very sickly, and some of the new children have died. The Girls' School is also much reduced by marriages, and that of the Boys by their being placed out to trades. The Evening School, through part of the Quarter when I was confined to my bed, was rather thinly attended; but has, of late, attained to nearly its usual numbers. The number of Scholars is as follows:—

Boys residing in the School House . . .	170
Boys residing with their Parents	60
		— 230
Girls residing in the School House . . .	120
Girls residing with their Parents	40
Men's Evening School		549
Women's Evening School		21
Christian Institution		24
Total Scholars		984

In taking charge of Regent on Mr. Norman's return home, Mr. Lisk writes, Jan. 16, 1824—

The removal of Mr. and Mrs. Norman has unavoidably called Mrs. Lisk and myself from Waterloo, to take charge of the spiritual concerns at Regent, and of the Schools. We reside at the Christian Institution: the Hon. Joseph Reffell has the management of the secular affairs. On entering this most important of all our Stations, where the people are as sheep having no under shepherd (Mr. Norman having been so long unwell), my spirits are almost overwhelmed within me, at my insufficiency for the duties required. I was much refreshed by Mr. Nyländer's visit, last Sunday; when he preached from Phil. iv. 19. My God shall supply all your need: after which he administered the Ordinance of Baptism to nine Adults and two Children belonging to Regent, and to several others from Gloucester; and also administered the Lord's Supper.

The Christian Institution.

The difficulties, under which the Mission laboured during the last year, from the sickness and death of the Missionaries, were peculiarly felt in the Institution. Mr. Norman having all the concerns of Regent to attend to, found it entirely out of his power to pay due regard to the Seminary: he applied, therefore, for assistance to the Michaelmas Quarterly Meeting: the Minute entered on the occasion will place in a strong light the disadvantages under which the Students laboured:—

The Meeting, after long and mature deliberation, were sorry that it was out of their power to afford Mr. Norman that help of which he stood in need.

As a temporary resource, John Johnson, one of the Senior Students, was put in charge, as before stated, of the other Youths; and continued in this office, till Christmas, when Mr. Lisk took his place.

An exact return of the number of Youths in the Institution during the year has not been received. At the date of the last advices, early in February, some having been placed in posts of labour and others about to leave the Seminary, the number was likely to be reduced to about ten.

Gloucester.

The death of the Rev. Henry Düring and Mrs. Düring, under melancholy circumstances *, has been already adverted to. The last Reports of that exemplary Missionary, delivered to the Quarterly Meetings at Lady Day and Midsummer, will be read with peculiar interest.

At Lady Day of last year Mr. Düring reported:—

It is with pleasure and joy unspeakable that I am permitted again to lay before you, at this time, the state of this Settlement; from which it pleased the Lord, in His providence, to withdraw me for a season, and to which He has again brought me in great mercy. I left you and my dear people in great distress of mind: and this accompanied me, though in the midst of sympathizing friends, wherever I went; but, thanks be to our God! He has been better to me than all my fears: for, on my arrival, which was one of the happiest days of my life, my fears vanished, and my unbelieving heart was confounded and humbled in the dust.

I had anticipated a great falling-away among the Members of the Church, who are nearest my heart: but, instead of this, I found a considerable addition to the former number. All have walked well, with the exception of two.

I am also happy to state that there are 30 Candidates for Baptism, who have been daily taught in the truths of the Christian Religion.

* The Committee refer to p. 140 of the Missionary Register for March, for some remarks on the death of Mr. Johnson and Mr. Düring.

The number of scholars, Men, Women, Boys, and Girls, who receive daily instruction, is as follows:—Men's Evening School, 187; Women's Evening School, 60; Boys' Day School, 100; Girls' Day School, 68: Total, 415.

The number of Communicants is 97; which is an evident token that the Lord has showered down blessings in rich abundance upon us. Not unto us, O Lord, not unto us, but to thy name give glory, for thy mercy and thy truth's sake!

On Easter Sunday, 25 Adults were baptized; and the Lord's Supper was administered to 127 Communicants, a few attending, probably, from other places.

The following is his Report at Midsummer:—

Great is my joy to be permitted to meet with you once more. Many have been my trials, as is well known to you all; but infinitely greater have been the mercies with which our God has favoured me: for as my afflictions increased, mercies were multiplied; so that the promise, As thy days so thy strength shall be, was fulfilled toward me in a wonderful manner.

To the number of Communicants will be added, on the first Sunday in August, if it please God to spare me until then, 30 more; who have been on trial and under instruction since the 1st of April last: and when these have been baptized, others will be put on trial; but how many I am not able to report now, as I keep no account of them until they are regularly admitted.

Of the progress of the Schools I can say nothing, as my illness and that of Mrs. Düring have disabled me for the last two months from attending them. The number of Scholars, however, remain as they were in my last account, both Day and Evening Schools.

I would add, may the Lord clothe us all with humility, by keeping us low at His footstool! May He enliven us with faith and grace, and more spirituality of mind; and, finally, endow us with all the graces which He, through His servant Saint Paul, has caused to be left on record—We glory in tribulations also; knowing that tribulation worketh patience; and patience, experience; and experience, hope; and hope maketh not ashamed; because the love of God is shed abroad in our hearts, by the Holy Ghost, which is given unto us.

The spirit of this excellent man will be further seen in the following extracts from some of his last Letters:*—

* A copy of the last Letter which Mr. Düring wrote, a few days before he sailed from Sierra Leone, containing a true portrait of the Writer, is printed at p. 141 of the Missionary Register for March.

In April, he wrote—

As it respects myself, I have, this season, had my share of trials, in the loss of one child, and in the necessity of sending the other to Europe, with the uncertainty, not to say, improbability, of ever seeing her again. And though I am fully persuaded, that these and all others are among the all things, which shall work together for my eternal good, yet this mortal has not put on immortality; and, until then, I have to walk by faith, not by sight; which, at times, under such circumstances, is exceedingly hard to flesh and blood.

I am aware of the expense to which I put the Society last year; but I trust that you will yet further sympathize with me, in my distressing situation, in receiving my child. When I think of these things, my mind is almost distracted; for nothing troubles and distresses me more, than to see that I am a burden: but my only relief is to lie passive under the afflicting rod of my God; and to say, with Hezekiah, O Lord, I am oppressed; undertake for me!

In May, in the midst of afflictions, he wrote—

The tornadoes, this season, have been very numerous, and most of them very violent: and we thought, indeed the hope was cherished by every one, that they would clear the atmosphere, and render it pure and healthy; but still this disease, the Yellow Fever, rages with unabated fury.

But shall I murmur and repine? God forbid! Hear ye the rod, and who hath appointed it, is our watchword for the present. And though none of the Society's servants have escaped, yet I am happy to say, there is no one that is in the least discouraged; but all have borne their trials with the utmost resignation and acquiescence in the will of our Lord and Master.

Some persons, perhaps, who are no further acquainted with religion than to imagine that it makes its professors dull and gloomy, may construe a Christian's cheerfulness under severe trials, into want of decorum; but they are either ignorant, or else forget, that the Lord the Spirit who made them Christians, not only commands, but enables them, to rejoice in the Lord alway. Unbelief cannot see this; but true faith knows it experimentally.

On Mr. During's leaving Gloucester, William Tamba and Mrs. Renner, as before stated, were placed in charge, under Mr. Nyländer's superintendence. At Michaelmas and Christmas, William Tamba addressed the following Reports, characteristic of godly simplicity, to the Missionaries:—

Dear Brethren in the Lord—

I have not much to say to you, for you know the feelings and troubles of the mind. I can only say, The will of the Lord be done! I have no doubt God will carry on His work. I am but a poor Black Man; but God is no respecter of persons. At present, there are 127 Communicants and 14 Candidates; prayer is kept morning and evening, at which the people attend regularly. The Day-School Girls are 80, and the Boys 72; the Women in the Evening Schools 20, and the Men 80; making, in all, 252.

May the Lord carry on His work in our hearts, through Jesus Christ our Lord, Amen!

The Christmas Report was as follows:—

During this Quarter, through the mercy of God, I can say the people have been very quiet; though, sometimes, I have met with many troubles, and have been ready to give up all hope: but, no doubt, the foundation of God standeth sure—the Lord knoweth them that are his. Every Sunday Morning, our Church is quite full. Morning and Evening Prayers are kept regularly.

The Day and Evening Schools are regularly kept up. The Girls' School goes on well, under the care of Mrs. Renner, both in reading, writing, and marking: they are all busy in other needle-work, such as making up clothes for the town and also for themselves: though she has been tried sometimes very much with them, yet, I believe, they are a pleasure to her; and I believe she tries to do all she can to bring them forward in their learning, both in Day and Evening Schools: she takes delight in being among them, and tries to make them happy both in soul and body: the School has been kept regularly.

The number of Communicants is 135; and the Candidates are 14.

In the Day Schools there are 62 Boys and 80 Girls, and in the Men's Evening School 56; being, in all, 198.

May the Lord hasten the times, when all the nations shall know Him from the least to the greatest; and that the kingdom of Satan may become the kingdom of our Lord Jesus Christ! May the Lord be with us all, Amen!

Wilberforce.

The Rev. G. W. E. Metzger and Mrs. Metzger entered on this Station on the 20th of January 1822. For the first month, he was disabled by fever; but resumed his labour on the 20th of February.

There were, at first, five Communicants: this number was subsequently diminished; but others were afterward added: at Michaelmas there were nine. A Meeting for Prayer was held on Saturday Evenings. The attendance at the different Services was at first small, but afterward increased. Some of the people still cherished their heathenish practices, but most of them began to manifest affection for their Teacher.

The removal of Mr. and Mrs. Metzger, at Michaelmas, to Kissey, for the benefit of Mr. Nyländer's counsel, has been already stated. This step was found necessary, in order that they might become better acquainted with the right method of directing Africans, under the peculiar circumstances of those in Sierra Leone. At Kissey, Mr. Metzger assisted Mr. Nyländer in the Daily and Sunday Services.

SHERBRO COUNTRY.

Mr. Nyländer reports well of the continued endeavours of the Brothers George and Stephen Caulker to instruct the Natives under the authority of their family. Divine Service is regularly performed in Bullom. They read prayers, and sing hymns; and read portions of Scripture, of Mr. George Caulker's translation, when he addresses the people on the passage read.

Stephen Caulker, the younger brother, who acts as Schoolmaster, made the following report at Michaelmas:—

Blessed be the name of the Lord, I feel that I am a wretched sinner, but my dependence is on the mercy of my crucified Redeemer. I am at a great distance from the means of grace, and greatly feel the want of the same: but must confess, to the glory of God, that He has preserved me hitherto; and has enabled me, according to my own experience of the grace of God, to instruct others in His Holy Word.

I have, at present, a small number of School-boys that can read Bullom; and we are enabled to read our Bullom Services together on Holy Days. The number of our School-boys is 33; and there are, also, 8 Young Men who attend the Evening School.

My Brother is building a Church; and we hope, when it is completed, that the number of Scholars will be increased.

Mr. G. Caulker, anxious for his own improvement that he may be the better able to instruct his people, has applied to the Society for a small Library, which the Committee have readily presented to him. He is erecting stone buildings at the Plantains; and is encouraged therein, by the Colonial Government, in the supply of necessaries for that purpose. He has added some translations into Bullom to those before printed, which will be printed by the Committee. In a Letter to the Secretary, of Jan. 19, 1824, he gives the following account of the School:—

I beg leave to state to you, for the consideration of the Church Missionary Society, that, for the last four years, I have been collecting boys from various places in this part of the coast of Africa, for the purpose of giving them the rudiments of English Education: they are taught by my brother Stephen, who receives a salary through the Rev. G. R. Nyländer, who has done all in his power for the prosperity of the School here, and kindly assisted us with Bibles and Testaments, Tracts, Stationery, &c. Most of the boys can read the Bible, and the rest are getting on according to their respective ages and the time which they have been at school. Some of them can read, in their own language, the Church Service, Hymns, Tracts, &c., which I have translated, and which the Society has had the goodness to get printed for me.

I would willingly carry on this work of the Lord, was I able: but the feeding and clothing of so many boys bears very heavy upon me; and I feel my circumstances so reduced, that I cannot much longer support it. I, therefore, most humbly entreat that the Church Missionary Society may be pleased to take the School under their patronage, and still allow it to be kept here.

The Committee will continue to afford every assistance in their power to this first attempt of Native Chiefs to benefit their own country: and they cannot but hope, that the exertions of this family, while they are, themselves, an evidence of the good effect of Christian Labours in reference to the natives of this coast, will be both the means of extending true religion among their own people, and of rousing other Chiefs to follow their example.

MEDITERRANEAN MISSION.

The return of the Rev. William Jowett to Malta was noticed in the last Report; with the painful state of Mr. Deininger's health, which compelled him, in the course of the summer, to retire to Leghorn. They had engaged in conferences, on various important topics, with Mr. Wolff, the Jewish Missionary, and with the American Missionaries, Messrs. Fisk, Temple, and King. These conferences obviously tend to prepare all parties, to encounter with more advantage their various difficulties, and to proceed with increased prospect of usefulness in their respective labours.

The cause of True Religion cannot, indeed, but have to contend with many and serious impediments, in a Station, surrounded as this is on every side, by the empire of those Antichrists, which God has, in inscrutable wisdom, permitted to degrade and oppress the Church. Till the light of Divine Truth shall be permitted to shine freely among the fallen Churches of Christ, what can be expected from a people, who may be heard assiduously engaged in their daily devotions in their families, not indeed praying to God through the ONE MEDIATOR, but invoking the names of twenty or thirty different Saints, with a response at the mention of the name of each Saint, "Ora pro nobis!" If they are told of their error, they are ready enough, even the poorest of them, to dispute the point with you, and with vehement language to prove to you that they more readily obtain any favour from God through the intercession of the Saints, than they should by praying directly through Jesus Christ!

The design of sending out a Printer for the service of this Mission, mentioned in the last Report, has been accomplished. Mr. Henry Andrews having been, for a considerable time, preparing himself to superintend the various parts of a Printing, Stereotype, and Lithographic Establishment, he and his Wife received their appointment, on the 12th of December, from the Committee; and embarked, on the 26th, on board the Elizabeth, Captain Longridge. He took with him Founts of Greek and Arabic Types, and every material requisite to complete the intended Printing Establishment.

Mr. Jowett continued at Malta, engaged in the various services connected with that Station, till August, on the 13th of which month he embarked for Alexandria; having determined on a visit to Syria, in order to carry his researches into that part of the surrounding shores which he had not before explored, and thus to occupy most profitably the interval which might elapse before the arrival of the Printer and the establishment of the Press. He was well furnished with the Scriptures and Tracts. His purpose was to reach Jerusalem with all convenient speed, and to spend about six months in Syria.

At Alexandria, where Mr. Jowett arrived on the 26th of August, he had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Salt. Here he received an application addressed to him, through the British Consul, by the British Inhabitants of Alexandria, requesting the assistance of the Society in obtaining for them a stated English Minister; an extract of which here follows:—

The late addition to the British Settlers at this place, and the increasing resort of British Register Shipping, render highly expedient the assistance of a Protestant Clergyman: for, while the other classes of Christians, by whom we are surrounded, with more or less zeal co-operate in the culture of Religion and manifest their profession in acts of public devotion, the Protestants alone are here without Church or Minister, or any adequate substitute for Congregational Worship, or even for the indispensable offices of Baptism, Burial, and Marriage. Many Foreign Protestants, also, are here established; to whom, as well as the Protestant Seamen resorting hither, it is equally desirable to offer the means of union with their Brethren in the Faith.

But, though sensible of the advantages which must attend the labours of a zealous Protestant Minister in this interesting field, we are left to regret, that, owing to the still limited resources of our community, our sole means are inadequate to the attainment of the object which we nevertheless have nigh at heart.

We conceive, however, that the objects of the Church Missionary Society and other Religious Societies might be greatly advanced, by inviting them to appoint some qualified and orthodox Minister; who, besides attending to this Cure of Souls, might be devoted to the distribution of the Scriptures, and the promotion of the other laudable objects, respectively cultivated by the Associations referred to. An active and extensive commerce, and the contiguity of many nations and many tongues, here afford boundless channels for the dissemination of the Sacred Writings: and a temporary abode in this city must be considered as an excellent preparation for a more enlarged sphere of utility; offering, as it does, the means of gradual introduction to the Languages and Customs of so many Countries of the East.

We beg leave to add, that, besides the ordinary qualifications of an English Protestant Minister, it is highly expedient that the person, who might be selected for the pastoral office in consequence of this exposition, should be likewise capable of preaching in German: besides which, the Italian and French Languages would be a very useful acquisition; since, as it appears to us, the most desirable course of his duties would be, to perform Divine Service and preach in English every Sabbath Day, and once in German, Italian, or French.

The Committee feel that many circumstances concur in rendering such an appointment as is here proposed highly important: a Clergyman so situated might render most valuable aid to the objects of the Society. They will, therefore, gladly afford the assistance desired, whenever it may be in their power: but Mr. Jowett has so fully expressed their views on the subject, that they subjoin some extracts from his despatch which accompanied the proposal. He writes from Alexandria, on the 2d of September—

During my stay here, I have had the opportunity of communicating fully with our Consul, and the Gentlemen who have made this application to him; and I have stated to them what I apprehend will be the feelings and sentiments of the Society upon the subject. In their enlarged and liberal view of the advantages presented by this Station for promoting the general interests of Christianity, we shall entirely concur; while we feel peculiar pleasure in having the sanction of their local knowledge and mature experience, to confirm the opinions already entertained by our Society, and the various religious Institutions of England and other countries. Most sincerely do we participate, likewise, in the concern thus manifested for the personal religious interests of themselves and others, who have hitherto been so long without a stated Pastor; and, so far as our Society may be able to meet that want, I am sure we should feel the utmost readiness and even anxiety to render every assistance. I have, however, at the same time, represented that a Missionary Society—not merely on account of the expense and responsibility incurred in the selection, training, and equipment of its Missionaries; but still more in consideration of its proper and very extended objects—probably could not engage to fix an Agent in any one place: for the present, at least, our Society would desire that their Missionaries in this region should be free for occasional Travels, at the proper seasons, in Egypt, Syria, &c. It is possible, notwithstanding, that the desire of these Gentlemen might be met, if we had Missionaries in sufficient numbers in the Levant: one might then relieve another. For the first year or more, their residence must be nearly a fixture, for the purpose of acquiring Languages; and, thus, this Station might be frequently, if not constantly supplied. Constantly, indeed, it cannot well be; for, from February to June, during a period of five months, more or less, the Plague makes its appearance, and the Frank residents are then shut up in their houses. At such period, a Clergyman might very properly be on his travels, cultivating the great work of his Master in other parts of this extensive Vineyard. I have particularly acquainted our Consul with the expectations which we have formed—expectations hitherto so well verified—of the good which may proceed from the Missionary Institution at Basle; and I take this opportunity, through you, of reminding that hopeful Seminary, that there are, in these regions, besides the myriads of ignorant Natives, many of their German and other Countrymen, on whose behalf they will naturally feel deeply interested, and whose claim upon our Christian Services is expressly held out in the Document from which I have sent you extracts.

Of the general state of things in that part of Egypt, Mr. Jowett adds—

It has been a matter of great joy to me during these few days, to compare the present state of things with what it was five years ago. God has certainly blessed, and is still blessing, His Cause in these parts. Five years ago I should not have had a Letter like this to communicate: I attribute much to the impression made by Mr. Fisk and Mr. King, in their recent visit: but, indeed, it is impossible to say to whom, or to what, in particular, this is owing—it is the result of a series of impulses, which have, from year to year, been communicated to Egypt. May the Church Missionary Society have the means promptly to meet the wants of the people! But my mind is more deeply impressed than ever, with the need which we have of more Labourers. The experience of every year shews us, more plainly, what we have to pray for—Pray ye the Lord of the Harvest, that He would send forth Labourers into His Harvest! and, that it would please Him to pour out of His Spirit upon all flesh!

In reference to the topic on which Mr. Jowett here touches, he writes, on another occasion—

Let us not be slow to take the counsel which the providential events around us seem to give. I, as one member of the Missionary Body, would take to myself the censure, that, while much has, with reason, been expected from the circulation of the Scriptures, too little has been done in the way of Preaching and Conversation. The world, indeed, will not be slack to take up, in due season, its complaint that Missionaries are too greatly multiplied; but there is, as yet, no occasion given for this censure. On the contrary, our Depôts are furnished with the Scriptures; but the Evangelists are few in number—moving rapidly from place to place; and, as yet, very imperfect in their acquaintance with the languages, modes of thinking, and wants of the people, whom they desire to benefit. It is Men—men well prepared as Evangelists—whom the Cause of Christ wants in these regions.

Having spent some time with Mr. Salt and Mr. Lee, and availed himself of the opportunity of entering afresh into many interesting topics relative to Egypt and Abyssinia, Mr. Jowett left Alexandria, on the 9th of September, and reached Beirout on the 15th. Some of his friends from Malta had preceded him in a visit to these parts; Mr. Fisk, Mr. Lewis, and Mr. Wolff, being at Antoura, five hours from Beirout, and Mr. King at Deir el Kamr.

Mr. Jowett left Beirout on the 28th of October, in company of Mr. Fisk; and arrived in Acre on the 1st of November, having passed half-a-day at Sidon and another at Tyre. On the 5th they left Acre for Nazareth, which they reached in the evening. From Nazareth, he visited Tiberias and Safet, next to Jerusalem the chief residences of Jews in the Holy Land; and, on the 18th, left Nazareth and reached Gennyn. On the 19th they arrived at Nablous, and on the 21st at Jerusalem.

Of his entrance into the Holy City, Mr. Jowett thus speaks—

November the 21st, a day much to be remembered, I had my first view of the City of the Great King—now under the visible displeasure of that Great King. Approaching by the hills from the North, as we did, the first view, at a distance of two miles, is inexpressibly fine. Various passages in the Psalms immediately rushed into my mind—The hills stand round about Jerusalem; even so the Lord standeth round about those that fear Him—Beautiful for situation, the joy of the whole earth, is Mount Zion. But, on entering the gates of the city, meanness, filth, and misery soon tell the story of its degradation—How is the fine gold become dim!

In his way to Jerusalem, Mr. Jowett had, at Acre, drawn a gloomy picture of the present state of the Holy Land:—

I feel myself, in this country, so much affected with the two Prophecies of Isaiah and Jeremiah, and I have so long in this and all my former journeys felt them come to my very inmost soul, that I cannot but think that there would be a peculiar advantage in printing them, in Arabic, in Greek, and in Italian, for distribution, in a separate form, from the rest of the Old Testament. The Prophecy of Jeremiah describes, with a minuteness of fidelity surpassing all human power of description, the real state, both as to principles and facts, of the fallen Christian Churches; and, generally, of the whole population of these regions, at the present moment: while the Prophecy of Isaiah pourtrays, with the most animating figures, chiefly drawn from the natural scenery of this very land, the glorious state to which the whole Church of God will hereafter be exalted. I cannot but feel, that, were I a Missionary constantly travelling in this country, I should wish to have these two Prophecies in such a form that I might constantly recur to them as a Manual, eminently profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness. Mr. Fisk, who is sitting by me, seconds this proposition with all his heart; and were we at this moment with Mr. King, Mr. Lewis, and Mr. Wolff, renewing those interesting and edifying hours which we passed in conference and social prayer while in the College of Antoura, I am sure you would have a unanimous vote.

Mr. Fisk has, in Jerusalem, discovered unexpected channels for Arabic Translations: he has Tracts already translated, which he will hand over to me for our use. The Lithographic System seems to be raised up by a special Providence, to meet the wishes and feelings of two large continents —Asia and Africa.

Mr. Jowett's stay at Jerusalem was not quite a month. He left the Holy City on the 15th of December; and embarked at Beirout, on the 9th of February, having waited fifty days in that vicinity for a passage. He reached Malta, by way of Alexandria, on the 21st of March, having encountered much anxiety and delay, with several severe storms.

In this visit to the Holy Land, Mr. Jowett collected much interesting information on various points connected with the future objects and operations of the Society, which will, in due time, be laid before the Members.

Mr. Deininger had returned from Leghorn on the 8th of November, and had gradually become weaker*. Mr. and Mrs. Andrews had arrived at Malta on the 1st of February: finding Mr. Jowett absent, he employed himself till Mr. Jowett's return in preparing the Press; and he and his Wife entered on the study of Italian.

The Committee have continued to receive testimonies to the impression which has been made by Mr. Jowett's Volume of "Christian Researches." From the many notices of it which occur in the Reports of the different Associations, a few will be selected.

—Your Committee cannot but indulge a confident hope that the judicious and comprehensive Researches of Mr. Jowett, luminously pourtrayed in his volume, will ultimately prove of important benefit to the Missionary Cause. His Station at Malta, so central, commanding, and congenial to the character of his investigating mind, seems providentially designed as a post of enlarged observation on the vast encircling amphitheatre of coast—a coast nearly equal, in the extent of its line, to half the circuit of the globe; and peopled by almost every diversity of character, language, national distinction, and religious prejudice; that diversity stamped, indeed, by the monotonous and melancholy uniformity of an almost universal alienation from the pure simplicity of Christian Truth.

—The communications from the Reverend Mr. Jowett have awakened great interest in the revival of those Ancient Churches, through which we ourselves received the Lively

* Mr. Deininger died on the 22d of April, a few weeks after Mr. Jowett was released from quarantine, which was on the 4th of that month. An Obituary and Character of that worthy Missionary have appeared, since the Anniversary, in the Missionary Register for September.

Oracles of God; not only for their own sake, but with the hope of their becoming efficient labourers in the conversion of Mahomedans and Heathens. In these countries, rendered memorable by the greatest moral movements in the history of mankind—the establishment of Christianity, the dispersion of the Jewish People, and the diffusion of Mahomedanism, nearly co-incident with the rise of the Papacy—there is scope for a peculiar line of exertion. By enlightening, and exciting to holy activity, the yet-surviving Christian Churches, we may expect to bring the Jew and the Mahomedan to the confession of Christ Crucified. We may even confidently hope, that the beams of Christian Truth shall burst, under the gracious influences of the Holy Spirit, on these primæval scenes, to an extent, and with a glow and lustre, of which past history gives no examples.

—The Mission to the Mediterranean must still be considered as in its infancy. Indeed, the measures hitherto taken have been rather preparatory than operative. As yet, the Society has been only laying the foundation, and has scarcely begun to build the superstructure: but that foundation is large and wide. Mr. Jowett's Researches have been very comprehensive—his views large—his suggestions wise and capacious: and so many Stations present themselves, with inviting prospects of success attending the labour that might be bestowed upon them, that the Society could advantageously employ in them as many Missionaries and as large funds, as she is now obliged to spread with a sparing hand over her Nine Missions.

—The Researches of that distinguished agent of the Society, the Reverend William Jowett, have thrown great light upon the present condition of the Eastern Churches; and when that condition is contrasted with their early history, what Christian Mind does not feel the deepest sympathy? The constitution and usages of these Churches mark them out as the peculiar care of the Church Missionary Society: and whenever it shall please Almighty God to bless its exertions to the revival of pure religion in these Ancient Churches, that revival will in all probability contribute to make known the Gospel through a far more extensive portion of the globe, than would result from an equal measure of success granted to it in any other of its Stations. On this subject, Mr. Jowett has the following striking passage: speaking of Mahomedanism, he says—

> Tracing with our eye this wide-extended reign upon the map of the Old World, we must contemplate three great movements, ere Christianity can resume the territory, which for centuries she has lost. When the persuasive power of Truth shall have restored the Gospel to the Turkish Provinces where first the Gospel held its free course, and when the spirit of free inquiry which has spread from Persia into Arabia shall have been sanctified to its proper end, Christian Conviction and Conversion, there will yet remain the huge northern half of Africa to be uplifted from its deep depression. May it not be that Abyssinia, spiritually enlightened and wisely trained, shall mainly contribute toward performing this great work—uproot Mahomedanism, and plant Christianity from the Straits of Babelmandel to the Mountains of Atlas? Nor must we omit to notice, that, while our Christian Institutions are beginning to flourish on the Western and Southern coast of Africa, that which already exists in Abyssinia needs but to be re-modelled and newly put into activity, and the diffusive spirit of the Gospel will make its way from three quarters of that continent to apparently impenetrable Heathen Lands, which are now sitting in darkness, and in the shadow of death.

CALCUTTA AND NORTH-INDIA MISSION.

The appointment of Dr. Reginald Heber to the See of Calcutta is an event of the greatest promise to the Cause of Christianity, in the vast regions of the East connected with the United Kingdom. In reference to this Society, the Committee cannot but warmly congratulate the Members on his Lordship's appointment: having long been its zealous friend and able advocate, his countenance and support in its enlarging concerns in India may be confidently anticipated. In accepting the office of Vice-Patron of the Society, his Lordship's words, addressed to the Noble President, may well assure the Members that their anticipations will be fully realized:—

I can truly say, that the Committee of the Church Missionary Society, however they may overrate the importance of my services, have not overrated my attachment to their Cause, or to the principles on which they have endeavoured, with such distinguished success, to promote a knowledge of Christianity among the Heathen.

It was stated in the Twenty-second Report, that the Committee had placed the sum of 1000*l.* at the disposal of the late Bishop of Calcutta, for the use of Bishop's College: this was to be considered as a Grant for the year 1822; and a confident expectation was expressed that the liberality of the Members of the Society would enable the Committee to appropriate a like sum annually to the benefit of the College.

Information of this Vote was received in India but a short time before the death of the Bishop. The Statutes of the College not having arrived from England, his Lordship deferred the acceptance of the Grant, on an honourable principle, fully explained in the following extract of a Letter from him to the Corresponding Committee, dated May 19, 1822—

It is gratifying to me to believe that the design of the College continues to be approved, when its plan of operations has been somewhat more developed. This second munificent Vote of your Society affords strong evidence to that effect; and I would not be thought to be insensible of their distinguished liberality, if I forbear to consider this gift definitively as a part of the College Resources, till the system under which the Institution will be administered, shall have been completely settled and clearly understood. That system, as I conclude, will be sufficiently detailed in the College Statutes. Your Society express their desire to educate Students in the College. I cannot, therefore, consistently with correct feeling, though no stipulation is attached to the Grant, proceed to appropriate it, until it shall be known with certainty that their wishes on this head may be justified, and what will be finally the conditions of admission. You may, however, be assured, that a copy of the Statutes shall be forwarded for your information, whenever they shall be received from England; and I have reason to expect them very soon.

The Bishop's lamented death occurring a few weeks after the date of this Letter, no further steps were taken in India in reference to the Grant.

On the appointment of the Rev. Dr. Heber to the vacant See, the Committee placed at his Lordship's disposal the sum of 1000*l.* above mentioned, voted to the College for 1822; with a request that he would be pleased to appropriate it in such manner as might seem most expedient, and would apprise the Committee in what way, in his Lordship's judgment, the Society could hereafter most effectually render assistance to the College—the Statutes having been framed with that wisdom and liberality, which affords opportunity, both to the Local Governments and the Religious Societies connected with the United Church, of co-operating with the College to the attainment of its great ends.

The Consecration of the Rev. Dr. Heber to the Episcopal Office took place in the Chapel of Lambeth Palace, on Sunday the 1st of June.

His Lordship was present at the monthly meeting of the Committee of the Church Missionary Society, held on Monday the 9th of June; and stated that he wished to return his thanks to the Committee for the confidence reposed in him, by placing at his disposal the sum of 1000*l*., which had been voted to Bishop's College for 1822: he had reason to believe that the sum might be most advantageously applied, in placing the Printing Department of the College on an efficient footing; but, on his arrival at Calcutta, he would confer on the best appropriation of this sum with the Society's Corresponding Committee, and would hereafter point out what might appear to be the most promising way in which the Society could promote the objects of the College: he entirely approved the principles on which the Society's Missions in the East had been conducted, and was proceeding to his destination with the most cordial disposition to render them every assistance in his power. His Lordship, on leaving the Committee, was assured by the Chairman, Major-General Charles Neville, of the lively interest which the Members felt in his welfare, and of their desire to concur in any measures which he might suggest for advancing the Society's designs in India, and that their earnest prayers would be offered for his continued health and for the Divine Blessing on his important labours. The Bishop replied, that he was much gratified by this expression of the feelings of the Committee, and that he was deeply conscious of the value of their prayers in reference to the arduous duties of the Station to which Divine Providence had been pleased to call him.

His Lordship embarked, with Mrs. Heber and their daughter, on board the Company's ship "Thomas Grenville," Captain W. Manning, at the Lower Hope, on the 16th of June, sailed the same day, and landed at Calcutta on the 11th of October.

The Committee are happy to state that his Lordship has appointed the Senior Chaplain, the Rev.

Daniel Corrie, the warm and steady friend of the Society, to the Archdeaconry of Calcutta; and that the freedom, which his recent appointment has given him from the pressure of parochial and occasional duties, has already been the means of greatly recruiting his strength.

The Sixth Report of the Corresponding Committee, which has just arrived, will enable the Committee to bring the account of this Mission down to the period immediately preceding his Lordship's arrival; and advices of a subsequent date will enable them to report some early and important measures which followed his arrival.

CALCUTTA AND ITS VICINITY.

In reference to the LABOURERS* at this Station, the Corresponding Committee report—

During the past year, the Committee have had the happiness to welcome the arrival of the Rev. Messrs. Maisch and Reichardt, of the Continental Lutheran Church, and the Rev. Isaac Wilson, of the Church-of-England. Messrs. Maisch and Reichardt, after studying some months in England, embarked, in April 1822, in the Agincourt, together with the Rev. W. Sawyer. On arriving at Madras, Mr. Sawyer acceded to an arrangement which had been made between the Calcutta and Madras Corresponding Committees, for the exchange in his stead of Mr. Wilson to Bengal; in consequence of which he remained to carry on the Society's designs at Madras, and Mr. Wilson came to Calcutta soon after Messrs. Maisch and Reichardt.

The Calcutta Committee being desirous of adding as much as possible to the efficiency and permanency of the efforts making by the Rev. Mr. Jetter for the establishment of Schools in Calcutta, recommended to Mr. Reichardt his remaining in Calcutta; and, with the same respect to the labours of Mr. Deerr at Burdwan, Mr. Maisch proceeded to that Station. Mr. Wilson has taken charge of the English Department of labour on the Society's premises in Calcutta; and, with the cordial approbation of the Committee, was, in

* In speaking of the Labourers in this Mission, the Committee are reminded of their late excellent Missionary, the Rev. F. C. G. Schrœter, by a Memoir of him, which has appeared since the Anniversary, at pp. 329—336 of the Missionary Register for August.

April last, united in marriage with Miss Cooke, the indefatigable Superintendant of the Native-Female Schools.

The arrival of Mr. T. W. Smyth, and of the Rev. Michael Wilkinson with Mrs. Wilkinson and Miss Cortis, has been already stated under the head of "Missionaries and Students." It had been determined that Mr. Smyth should remain in Calcutta, to assist in the department of Secretary to the Corresponding Committee; and that Mr. and Mrs. Wilkinson should proceed to Goruckpore, to which Station he was about to be licensed by the Bishop. The Rev. Andrew Jetter had been united in marriage with Miss Cortis.

On the subject of EDUCATION in reference to the East, the Female Schools naturally engage the very peculiar interest of all who wish well to its vast population. On this head the Corresponding Committee state—

The success which has attended the efforts in behalf of Native-Female Children calls for congratulation, on the part of all who take an interest in the improvement of the population of this country.

In the former Report, the Committee stated the number of Native-Female Schools to be eight: they are now increased to twenty-two. The number of Scholars last year was 217: they have now increased to 400.

The difficulty of keeping up any degree of order was at first very great, and has not entirely disappeared; but a growing sense of the benefits likely to arise from education is evident.

Of the persons who were first admitted to the Schools, three Young Women have made sufficient proficiency to be now employed as Teachers. They have each charge of a school containing from 15 to 25 Girls, and acquit themselves with much credit. Three other Young Women will be appointed Teachers of Schools in a few weeks; and ten other Women, who are under a course of instruction, will soon be able to engage in similar work.

The Marchioness of Hastings rendered the most important aid to the Female Schools, in various ways, but especially by visiting them in person. The Committee remark—lanes and gullies where Europeans are seldom seen, and by her condescension to their children.

Considering how generally Divine Providence carries on His designs of mercy to mankind by the instrumentality of one another, it is impossible to say how great may have been the good effected by the silent influence of the example exhibited by one so exalted in rank and station as Lady Hastings. Certain it is, that since her Ladyship's visit to the Schools, the Mistress of the Shyam Bazaar School (the only Female Teacher whom the Committee could at first find) has been called upon to instruct a respectable Brahminee, a widow, with two other adult females, at her own house, during the hours she is not occupied in the School: and this widowed Brahminee, though herself still a learner, attends daily at the house of a Brahmin, to instruct his two daughters. Who does not hail such an event, as a hopeful indication of improvements, which, by opening to Widows a means of respectable provision, shall assist to quench the flames of the suicidal Suttee?

An Examination of the First and Second Classes was held on the 23d of June, at which upward of 100 Girls were present, and acquitted themselves highly to the satisfaction of their friends*.

Encouraged by the many circumstances which favoured the growth of Female Schools, the Corresponding Committee circulated, in February of last year, Proposals† for the Erection of a Central School, for the especial improvement of the First Classes of all the other Schools. Very considerable contributions were in a short time collected, for that object and the general support of Native-Female Education—the Subscriptions amounting to 3320 rupees per annum, and the Benefactions to 2794 rupees.

On the State and Progress of the Boys' Schools, the Corresponding Committee make the following statement:—

* An Account of this Examination, and other details relative to the Female Schools, have appeared, since the Anniversary, at pp. 226—228 of the Missionary Register for May; and at pp. 266, 277 of the Number for June, and p. 312 of that for July, some particulars of an Examination, in December last, before Lady Amherst.

† The Circular issued on this occasion is printed in Appendix I.

In their former report, the number of Boys' Schools at this Station was stated to be six, containing about 600 scholars. Many petitions have since been received for the establishment of new schools; but, from want of funds, only two of them have been attended to.

The number of the Society's Bengalee Boys' Schools in Calcutta is now therefore eight; all of which, except that at Kidderpore, are situated in the Native Town. In these, the number of boys on the respective school lists amounts to 840: the average number in constant attendance is 777. Besides these, a school is established on the Society's premises at Mirzapore, in which about 40 boys receive daily instruction in English and in Bengalee.

An Examination of the children belonging to these Schools was held in the beginning of last March, which was attended by several of the most respectable friends of the Society. It occupied the forenoon of two days; the former of which was devoted to the English Class and the first classes of the Bengalee Schools, and the latter to the second classes: the sum total of the children examined was 110; including the best English Scholars, about 15 in number. Questions were asked in the usual manner, from the class-books already mentioned in the Committee's Reports, and the proficiency of the Scholars appeared very satisfactory. About 30 boys were rewarded, including six boys of the English School.

In one important respect, the proceedings at this Examination were distinguished above those of the preceding year: the Schools at Calcutta, except that at Kidderpore, had not before enjoyed the full benefit of religious instruction. During the past year, the New Testament has been imtroduced into all the Bengalee Schools. By forbearing to press the introduction of the Sacred Scriptures, so long as there appeared any prejudice against them on the part of the parents, a candid hearing has at length been obtained for them, and all opposition to their being read as a class-book has given way. Questions naturally arise out of the portiom of Scripture read; and thus a prominence is given to Scriptural Subjects, and much religious knowledge is imparted.

On the MINISTRY OF THE WORD, the Committee report—

Divine Service in Bengalee continues to be conducted in the English School-room at Mirzapore, on Sunday Morning, by the Rev. Mr. Jetter, as stated in the Committee's last Report. The attendance is usually from 20 to 30; consisting of the Servants, Scholars, and several of the School-Pundits, who attend of their own accord. Though no saving benefit appears as yet to have resulted to any from these Services, that they are not altogether vain appeared on a late occasion, when Mr. Jetter was explaining to the Boys of one of the Schools, that their future happiness or misery will depend on their conduct in this world: the Pundit, in confirmation of what Mr. Jetter had told them, repeated very accurately the Parable of the Rich Man and Lazarus.

Mr. Jetter, accompanied by Mr. Reichardt, continues his Monday-Evening Lecture at Kidderpore; and has also preached, every Friday Evening, in a small bungalow near the Mission Premises. The attendance on these occasions is so irregular, and the difficulty of engaging the attention of the Natives for any length of time so great, as to be exceedingly discouraging. Several persons have come to the Mission Premises during the past year, to inquire respecting the way of salvation by Jesus Christ. Though they seemed in earnest in their inquiries at first, yet, on being told that Christianity teaches to forsake all ungodliness, to deny ourselves, and to take up our cross and follow Christ, they all discontinued their visits, except one young man. This young man is a Brahmin; and having heard, as he says, from one of his Gooroos, that one way of salvation is by Jesus Christ, he came to Calcutta, to inquire concerning this way. His assiduity in reading the Scriptures and other books of religious instruction, his diligence in attending to the explanations afforded him of Scripture Truth, and his conscientious regard to the workings of his own heart, as exhibited in his conduct and inquiries, lead to a hope that the grace of God is with him. The Rev. Missionaries having agreed that his earnest desire to be initiated into the Church of Christ by baptism should be complied with, on Sunday, the 24th of August, the sacred ordinance was administered to him by the Rev. Mr. Jetter.

Of the employment of the PRESS during the Sixth Year, it is stated —

From the following List of Works which have been printed for the Committee, the importance of this branch of the Society's Establishment will be seen: 17,150 Tracts and School-books have been printed, for the use of Schools and for distribution by the Missionaries; and, adverting to the scarcity of Books for the Schools in which English is taught, a short work on the Modern Geography of the world is about half printed off. The Outline of Ancient History is also in progress; but has been much delayed by the ill health and numerous avocations of the Compiler.

It had long been felt desirable, that a CHURCH MISSIONARY ASSOCIATION should be formed at this Presidency, as has been at Madras, for awakening more general interest in the objects of the Society, and obtaining both contributions and personal assistance. Such an Association was happily formed, on the Evening of Thursday, the 28th of August, in the Old Church Room, after a Sermon preached on the occasion by the Rev. Isaac Wilson. The establishment of Mr. Wilson in the Calcutta Mission offered facilities, from his being an English Clergyman, for forming the Association. The Rev. Daniel Corrie was appointed President of the Association; and the other Members of the Corresponding Committee for the time being, Vice-Presidents; G. Ballard, Esq. Treasurer; and the Rev. Isaac Wilson, Secretary. Nearly 3000 rupees were contributed at the Meeting*.

From communications subsequent to the Report of the Corresponding Committee, your Committee have the gratification to state, that the Society's affairs in the North of India have been recently placed under the charge of an AUXILIARY SOCIETY. The Bishop of Calcutta, on his arrival, very early lent his powerful sanction and aid, in placing the Society's concerns in that state of organization, and in that relation to the Episcopate, which give the best promise of extensive and permanent usefulness.

This Society was formed at a Meeting held on the First of December, the Lord Bishop of Calcutta in the Chair*. His Lordship was pleased to accept the office of President; and the Archdeacon to continue in that of Secretary, which he had held under the Corresponding Committee, which Committee have transferred to the Auxiliary the powers heretofore vested in themselves.

* The preparatory measures for forming this Association, and the Rules for its government, will be found in Appendix II. The views of the Corresponding Committee on the nature and advantages of such an Association have been printed, since the Anniversary, at pp. 229, 230 of the Missionary Register for May.

The Committee of the Auxiliary, at a Meeting held on the 3d of December, adopted such Standing Regulations† as appeared best adapted to promote the efficiency of the Society; and, more especially, that of obtaining the Bishop's Licence for every Episcopal Missionary of the Society.

Burdwan.

The Rev. John Perowne, the Rev. W. Deerr, and the Rev. Jacob Maisch, have continued their labours at this Station. Their work increases and prospers. Two more Adult Youths have been added to the Church during the past year. The blessing of God has manifestly rested on the religious instruction which has been afforded to the Elder Youths‡.

To fourteen Bengalee Schools, containing about 1000 Boys, under the more particular care of Mr. Deerr and Mr. Maisch, on the western side of the town, Mr. Perowne has added two on the eastern, one containing 80 Boys, and the other about 100. An Examination of these Schools was held, in March of last year, by the the Rev. Mr. Thomason, in which there was a much wider range, than at former Examinations, of subjects purely religious: the Boys continue to manifest the same zeal and interest in the books which they read; and their sensible

* For the Proceedings on this occasion, see Appendix III.; and pp. 230, 231 of the Missionary Register for May.

† See these Regulations in Appendix IV.; and at pp. 231, 232 of the Missionary Register for May. In the Missionary Register for September 1823, at p. 396, an important Parliamentary Regulation is printed, which facilitates, in several respects, the admission to Holy Orders in the Diocese of Calcutta.

‡ A proof of this may be seen at pp. 189—191 of the Missionary Register for April, in a Letter written by one of these Youths to two of his School-fellows who had left Burdwan.

and pertinent answers to the questions put to them were highly gratifying to the Gentlemen who attended. The Committee state, in reference to these Schools—

Since the Examination, the Boys have continued to advance in reading the Bengalee Scriptures; and are at this time engaged in reading the Epistle to the Romans.

It will be recollected, by those who have attended to the Committee's former Reports, that the Rev. Mr. Deerr prepares a comment on the portion of Scripture which the Boys are reading, in the form of Question and Answer, which he supplies them with in writing. Thus the difficult passages are explained as they occur; and these commentaries are carefully learned by the Boys, and copied out and carried home, which must be a means of conveying much of divine truth to their minds.

The English School has laboured under various disadvantages, but is now in a more prosperous state than at any former period: it contains 55 Boys; about 32 of whom, at an Examination in March, passed very satisfactorily. Mr. Perowne writes—

In point of numbers, the School is as large as I wish to see it, and the Boys are as regular in their attendance as their wretched religion and customs will allow them.

It was stated in the last Report, that Mrs. Perowne had succeeded in forming one Female School. On this subject, it is remarked in the Report—

The Committee have the gratification to state, that Five Schools for Female Children have been recently established at this Station, containing upward of 100 Girls. This has not been accomplished without much perseverance, under frequent disappointment, on the part of Mrs. Perowne. The Schools have been too recently formed, for any account to be given of them; but the patient labour by which Mrs. Perowne has been enabled to succeed thus far, will no doubt, through the Divine Blessing, be rewarded, in due time, with appropriate fruit.

The Corresponding Committee find great difficulty in inducing Native Youths to pursue their studies further than may be necessary to enable them to gain a livelihood; and seem to have little hope of materially improving the Native Character, till the Youths shall become influenced by religious principle.

Christianity alone can furnish an adequate corrective to the defects of the Native Character. As it respects the English School, the evil of this premature close of education is very great; as the chief design of that School is to prepare a body of competent Instructors of their countrymen. It has been, therefore, in contemplation, on the suggestion of Mr. Perowne, as the inducement for the Boys thus prematurely to leave school is to earn a pittance for their families, to give a small monthly allowance, of from two to five rupees, to such as have made a certain proficiency; and, to employ those, who may become duly qualified for the work, in the service of the Society. On this important subject, Mr. Thomason writes—

Employed on monthly salaries of from 20 to 40 rupees, and considered as the regular servants of the Society, it being their profession to employ their time and talents in what may be called literary works, a succession of such labourers would indeed be a great advantage to the country, and would mightily contribute to the dissemination of useful knowledge. It must be many years before such a body can be formed; but, when fairly established, they must constitute such a focus of strong light as must illuminate the districts around to a great distance. Having at their command all the treasures of the English Language, and understanding it to be their proper office to unlock those treasures to their countrymen, a multitude of useful books would in due time be accessible to the Natives: and how great may be the benefits, in a Missionary point of view, if, while the Bengalee Schools are constantly pouring forth their Youths, all of whom are competent to read and understand their native language, another body of Labourers should be growing up for the express purpose of supplying them with useful reading, whether translations or original works, on all the various subjects which tend to form the mind, correct the manners, and meliorate the condition of man!

The finding of proper employment for Native Converts is a difficulty much of the same nature as that which has just been noticed. Major Phipps, who acted, when in India, as a Member of the Corresponding Committee, and assisted at the Examination of the Burdwan Schools in 1822, has, since his return, communicated to the Committee his thoughts on the subject. He recommends the formation, near Burdwan, of a small Agricultural Village of Native Converts. To the judicious remarks on this subject with which Major Phipps has favoured the Committee, they beg to refer the Members*.

Mr. Thomason has communicated, at large, the views which impressed his mind, in reference to the Burdwan Schools, at the last Examination. He expresses himself as highly gratified with the vigilant superintendence exercised over them, and the increase of religious instruction afforded—states the difficulties arising from the character of the Natives—gives proofs of the beneficial effects of the Schools—and earnestly presses the duty of Prayer in their behalf †.

Buxar.

The Corresponding Committee state—

Kurrum Messeeh, the Christian Catechist at Buxar, sends regular monthly reports of his proceedings to Mr. Bowley. The attendants on Divine Service are usually from 20 to 40: of these, 30 are learning the Catechism by rote, and 15 are learning to read the New Testament in their native tongue.

Chunar.

On the labours at this Station, the Committee thus report—

The public Services of religion are conducted as usual; the English, by Mr. Greenwood, and the Hindoostanee, by Mr. Bowley. During the past year, two adults have been added to the Church by Baptism: they are both converts from Hindooism; and had been sufficiently instructed in the fundamental truths of the Christian Religion: one of them had been in attendance about 18 months, and the ordinance was not administered till they had both repeatedly solicited Baptism with tears. Four Adults of the Native Congregation have been removed by death, during the past year: one of them was a Communicant.

The English School, formerly supported by the Society at Chunar, is no longer dependent on its funds: on a suitable representation being made, the Government granted an allowance for a Schoolmaster to instruct the descendants of their European Soldiers; and, through the liberality of those under whose charge the School is placed, Native Lads are also admitted to learn English. Of these, 10 Youths also attend Mr. Bowley, to read a Chapter in the Hindee Gospels, and to repeat a couple of verses out of the Old or New Testament: in this way, they have committed to memory the whole of the Book of Proverbs; and are now employed on the Psalms. In the Christian-Female School, 35 Adult Women and 11 Girls receive instruction, both in English and Hindoostanee. There are 40 Boys in the Persian School, and about 60 in the Hindee School; and another School has been established in a neighbouring village, containing about 40 Scholars. In all the Schools, some parts of the Scripture are committed to memory.

* These remarks are printed in Appendix V.

† Details on these and other topics in reference to Burdwan have appeared, since the Anniversary, in the Missionary Register for May, pp. 232—238.

A number of Heathens attend on the Hindoostanee Worship on Sunday Afternoon, together with the Native Christians. Of these, some appear promising, while several, Mr. Bowley writes, who promised well, have been laughed out of their Church-going, and attend but seldom.

Mr. Bowley continues to itinerate frequently in the neighbourhood of Chunar; and, in the months of May and June, made a long journey to the eastward, where he had not before preached the Gospel*. The interest excited among the people whom he visited appears to have been very great. Many copies of single Gospels, and some entire copies of the New Testament, with many Tracts, were distributed among them; and the bread thus cast upon the waters may be found, though it be after many days.

Mr. Bowley has continued the preparation of Martyn's Hindoostanee Testament for the use of the great body of the people, his entrance on which work was stated in the Twenty-first Report. It has been printed, by the Calcutta Bible Society, as far as the end of the Acts of the Apostles.

Benares.

The Rev. Thomas Morris, with Mr. Adlington and Mr. Stewart, and the Native Assistants, continue their labours at this Station. The Native Teacher, Fuez Messeeh, who was for some time at Bareilly, has been placed under the direction of the Missionaries at Benares; the School at Bareilly having fallen to decay, from the return of its patron to England.

* Extracts from some earlier Journals of Mr. Bowley were printed at pp. 191—197 of the Missionary Register for April.

After much delay, a piece of ground near Benares has been obtained, and suitable buildings begun for the residence of the Missionaries.

The Boys in the City School had increased to 141. A fact stated by the Corresponding Committee strengthens the suggestion of Mr. Perowne, mentioned under the head of Burdwan:—

The allowance for subsistence made to a certain number of Boys, according to the Will of the Founder, has the good effect of retaining them longer in the Schools, than they have been found to remain in the other Schools of the Society.

It is added—

The Superintendant expresses much satisfaction with the effect evidently produced on the minds of several of the Scholars from reading the Scriptures. They generally prefer the New Testament to any other English Books; and, on Sunday Mornings, several of the Elder Boys go as far as Secrole, in order to read and receive instruction in the Old Testament.

There are some other Native Schools at Benares; and a few Girls are instructed there, and also at Secrole.

A Chapel has been erected at Secrole, on the representation of the Chaplain of the Station, for the use of the Native Christians: about half the expense was borne by friends at and near Benares, and the other half by the Society. It was opened in May, when the Chaplain, the Rev. Mr. Fraser, baptized a man descended from Christian Parents, and a Hindoo Woman who had been previously under a course of instruction. About 50 Native Christians usually assemble; and, occasionally, a few Hindoos and Mahomedans attend.

Goruckpore.

An opening for a Mission has occurred at Goruckpore, about 100 miles northward of Benares, of which the Corresponding Committee give the following particulars:—

Some leading members of the European Society at Goruckpore, having long desired the presence of an English Missionary at that Station, and having engaged to provide a house, and also to supply a considerable proportion of the necessary expense, the Rev. Mr. Morris, after consulting the Committee, proceeded from Benares to Goruckpore in March last, with a view to ascertain, from actual experience, the openings for Missionary Usefulness at that place. The difficulties which have usually opposed themselves, from the misapprehension of the Natives, at the commencement of Missionary Labours in this country, were here also met with. Mr. Morris, however, succeeded in establishing a Boys' School, and Mrs. Morris collected a few Girls around her. The following extract of a Letter from Mr. Morris, dated June 30th, exhibits his views of Goruckpore, as a Missionary Station, and also his feelings as to remaining there:—

The town of Goruckpore contains, probably, about 70,000 inhabitants; extremely ignorant, as must be supposed. The Tracts, which I brought with me for distribution, are, in a great measure, useless, as the people do not understand the Devanagari Character; and it is to be lamented that we have nothing, as far as I know, printed in the Kythee. If we may make a comparison, this place is certainly much INFERIOR to Benares: the inhabitants are years in knowledge behind those of Benares, and other large cities: this, however, is a strong reason why they should be instructed. In order to see what impression could be made, and to turn our time to some advantage, a School was commenced shortly after our arrival here; and which, though small, comparatively speaking, yet at some future day may rise into importance.

While I sincerely rejoice in an opening like this, and earnestly pray for the kind people and their good cause here, I must beg to be excused from giving any further opinion on the subject of settling permanently here, till I shall have again visited Benares; and till I shall have seen how the work is likely to succeed at that place, of which, as a MISSIONARY station, I have formed the highest expectation.

The Committee are concerned to learn that a severe attack of fever greatly debilitated Mr. Morris, soon after writing the above Letter, which required a temporary cessation from all labour.

The Rev. Michael Wilkinson and Mrs. Wilkinson were about to proceed to Goruckpore.

Lucknow.

On the School which had been, for some years, maintained in this place, it is said—

Respecting Lucknow, the Committee have to report, that it has pleased God to remove Mr. Hare by death; so that the School, which he conducted for the Committee at that Station, no longer exists. On many accounts, the Committee consider this a subject of regret: many Native Christians, as well as European Adventurers, resort to that city, in search of employment, under the King of Oude; and children of persons of this description are often left destitute, and even during their parents' life-time are not unfrequently without the means of education. In consequence, it is apprehended, they are under great temptations to renounce the Christian Name altogether; and certainly grow up in ignorance of the principles of the Christian Religion. For the sake of this class, as well as in order to the gradual introduction of education into that quarter, it would have been desirable to keep up the School; but no person could be found to undertake the charge.

Meerut.

Several Christian Natives are here labouring under the direction of the Chaplain, the Rev. H. Fisher, who thus speaks of them, in a Letter to the Corresponding Committee:—

Behadur and his wife and family are here; and he acts as Reader in my Native Congregation, visiting the sick, reading the Scriptures to different hearers in the week-days, and occasionally visiting the neighbouring villages: he is an industrious, sincere man. Oomeed is still exercising his labours among the barrack-people; and Matthew Phiroodeen, the steady, consistent, and upright Christian which he has ever been since his conversion, remains, as described to you in my last Letter:

—— rejected, by his earthly Commander, as a Soldier, BECAUSE HE IS A CHRISTIAN; but a Champion, fearless and faithful, notwithstanding, under the Captain of Salvation.

I have baptized several Natives in the course of last year; among them, one whole family—Peter Dilsook, his wife Ruth, and three children, fine boys, from eight to eleven years old. He has been employed by me, now some months, to teach a School, consisting principally of the country-born Drummers and their wives and children, and he is diligent and successful. The women constitute my choir in the Native Congregation; and sing Abdool's Hymns, translated, I imagine, from ours. Peter has 18 scholars. I have reason to entertain a very high opinion of him. He and Matthew are intimate friends. Many of my Native Congregation, by Peter's diligence, have learned to read well.

Delhi.

Anund Messeeh continues to labour at and near Delhi. He sends his Diary to Mr. Fisher, at Meerut. He accompanied Mr. Principal Mill in visiting the Saadhs. On the opinion which that Gentleman formed of these people, Mr. Fisher, to whom he communicated his views, remarks—

I perfectly coincide with him, that these people, however interesting, and however promising of a productive harvest if the reapers were among them, are sadly too much entangled by peculiarities and fancies of their own, to possess sufficient simplicity and teachableness: although they cannot be considered equally indisposed as the rest of the multitudes of Asiatic Heresies and Superstitions, to the reception of the truth; for they have renounced caste, and are curious to read and understand our books: yet, it is obvious, they highly estimate their own creed; and are anxious to establish and to conciliate from us a concession to that effect, that there is a great RESEMBLANCE between Christianity and its Divine Author, and their own traditions and fabulous records of Satgur Uddeas.

Mr. Fisher adds—

I still think that great good might be done among them, if a regular system of uninterrupted Missionary Labour was established, at least among those simple villagers whom I have seen at and around Kowabee.

Henreepore.

The School at this place has been relinquished. Mr. Fisher writes—

David, the converted Saadh, is no longer in the list. The poor old man has been for some time incapable of doing any thing in his School from weakness in his eyes, and is now quite blind. His friends at Henreepore take care of him. I have not heard of him, or from him, for some months; but Anund told me he is well in every other respect, save the loss of his sight.

Agra.

Of the venerable Abdool Messeeh and his labours, the Corresponding Committee thus speak—

The most satisfactory testimony is borne, by the Chaplain at the Station, to the character of Abdool Messeeh; but he is understood to be in so infirm a state of health, as obliges him greatly to circumscribe his labours. Public Worship is carried on as usual at the Kuttra; and, recently, Abdool Messeeh has officiated at the Military Cantonment, on Sunday Afternoon, to the Native Christians connected with the Native Regiments. The last account received stated the addition of seven men and three women to the Church by baptism.

The English School in the Kuttra has been given up, from want of a suitable teacher; but the Native-Christian Children are still taught the native languages, and instructed by their venerable Pastor in the principles of religion. The loss of the English School is, in a measure, made up, by the establishment of a School for all classes at the cantonments by the Chaplain.

On a review of the different Stations of the North-India Mission, it appears that there are now employed therein 12 Missionaries, two of whom are Natives, and the rest Europeans. These are assisted by 10 Europeans, of whom six are Females; and by 75 Native Men and Youths, and 28 Native Females —making a total of 125 Labourers in this Mission.

The Schools of the Mission, at the last Returns, were in number 65; and there were under instruction in these Schools, 2453 Boys, 520 Girls, and 65 Adults—making a total of 3038 Scholars.

The Expenditure, from the 1st of July 1822 to the 31st of August 1823, amounted to 84,588 rupees; or about 10,573*l.* reckoning the rupee at 2*s.* 6*d.* This total consisted of the following particulars:—Buildings at Mirzapore, 2227*l.*—Calcutta and Kidderpore Boys' Schools, 1870*l.*—Female Branch, 1149*l.*—Burdwan, 1494*l.*—Benares and Chunar, 1991*l.*—Lucknow, 50*l.*—Bareilly, 81*l.*—Meerut, besides Subscriptions at the Station, 76*l.*—Agra, 106*l.*—Printing Office, 1091*l.*—Books, Stationery, Writers, and Incidentals, 438*l.*

The Receipts, in Calcutta, were, in round numbers, as follows:—Benefactions and Subscriptions, 457*l.*—Female Branch, 1140*l.*—Sale of House belonging to the Mission at Burdwan, 375*l.*—Benefactions and Subscriptions at Burdwan, 40*l.*—Donations from Government to the Schools at Benares, 442*l.*—Rent of Houses at Benares, 440*l.*—Printing, Binding, and Sale of Books, 1082*l.*—making, together, the sum of 3976*l.*; and forming, with Bills drawn on the Society for 59,096 rupees, or 7387*l.*, a total of 11,363*l.*

On the subject of the Funds, the Corresponding Committee make the following statement:—

The necessity of providing suitable accommodations for the Missionaries of the Society continues to be an occasion of much expense. At Benares and Calcutta, not less than 20,000 Rupees have been expended in building; and further sums will be required to finish the buildings in hand. Where a Mission seems fairly established, the Committee feel justified in causing substantial houses to be erected; both as the most economical in the long run, and as necessary toward preserving the health of the Missionaries.

By these necessary expenses the Funds of the Committee are in danger of falling in arrear. Two-thirds of the Annual Grant from the Parent Society are expended, while half the current year has not expired.

The Parent Society generously supplied the sum of 3000*l.* beyond the Annual Grant, for the purchase of the premises at Mirzapore; but the Committee would deeply regret being under the necessity of making any further call upon home for similar purposes.

The Missionary Cause has now, indeed, so powerful a sympathy in the hearts of Christians in Britain, that scarcely any appeal, made on reasonable grounds, on behalf of Idolatrous Nations, especially of the Natives of this Country, would be disregarded: but the Committee have reason to indulge the hope, that, in cases of obvious necessity, such as the necessary accommodation of Missionaries, their countrymen in this land will not feel less disposed to attend to the obligation which they are under to assist in holding forth the Word of Life; and, as they have nearer opportunities of knowing the miseries and the dangers attending false religion, will more readily aid the exertions necessary for accomplishing the conversion of the Natives to the Faith of Christ.

The direction of the Society's affairs in this Mission has passed, since the publication of the Sixth Report of the Corresponding Committee, into the hands, as before stated, of the Members of the Auxiliary Society recently formed under the patronage of the Lord Bishop of Calcutta.

MADRAS AND SOUTH-INDIA MISSION.

The Corresponding Committee at Madras have continued, with the best effect, their vigilant superintendence of the Society's concerns in the South of India.

While the Committee report the arrival of the Society's active friend, the Rev. Marmaduke Thompson, at Madras, on his return to his Station, they lament to state that his health was still so seriously affected that his continuance in India was uncertain*.

* The death of the Rev. Charles Church, Chaplain at Madras, who greatly assisted the Society's designs in India, was stated in a Note to the Twenty-second Report. A Memoir of Mr. Church has appeared, since the Anniversary, in the Missionary Register for May.

The Committee very much regret that the Sixth Report of the Madras Corresponding Committee has not yet been received. Full details, however, of the proceedings have reached them; and from these they will be able to furnish a satisfactory view of the past year *.

MADRAS AND ITS VICINITY.

The Mission in Madras and its more immediate neighbourhood, under the direction of the Rev. James Ridsdale and the Rev. William Sawyer, is becoming more systematic in its various parts; and proceeds steadily under those trials of faith with which so many of the Servants of Christ are at present exercised, in waiting for the more abundant blessing of the Holy Spirit on their labours. Mr. Ridsdale writes—

I might relate many pleasing and encouraging appearances; but these, like the morning cloud and early dew, so often pass away, that to relate facts only would generally give a false impression. We are sowing the seed; and though it be upon a hard rock where there is no depth of earth, we are encouraged by the persuasion that there is a power which can soften that rock. Supported by the sure word of prophecy, we are content to sow that others may reap, assured that both they who sow and they who reap shall rejoice together.

Mr. Ridsdale has the more particular charge of the English Department of the Mission and of the Printing Office, while Mr. Sawyer has succeeded the Rev. G. T. Bärenbruck in the care of the Native Department; Mr. Bärenbruck having proceeded, as was stated in the last Report, to another Station: having for some time laboured with much acceptance among the Natives, Mr. Bärenbruck separated himself with regret from a people who had become much endeared to him.

On the MINISTRY OF THE WORD, Mr. Sawyer reports, in reference to the Native Department of the Mission—

It is well understood, that, although Mr. Ridsdale and I have consented, for the more expeditious and exact management of the concerns of the Mission, to take separate parts in action, there is, in all points, the strictest union in design.

* The Sixth Report of the Madras Committee arrived soon after the Anniversary. Its statements have, therefore, been incorporated with those previously received.

Since the removal of the Rev. Mr. Bärenbruck, the preaching of the Word has necessarily been committed, from my incompetency in the Tamul Language, very much to the Catechist. His addresses have been simple; and, it is hoped, not unedifying to his countrymen. On Wednesday the 12th of February, I commenced the Reading of the Prayers; and, on Sunday the 8th of June, made my first attempt in preaching in the native language. This I continue as circumstances allow; and hope, by the end of the present year, to be able to relieve the Catechist from the whole of his Sunday Duty.

The number of regular attendants on the Sunday Morning and Wednesday Evening varies very much with the season, many having to come from a considerable distance. The average will not exceed 90 on the Sabbath and 30 on the Week-day. Among these, it is hoped that some few have experienced the transforming efficacy of the Divine Spirit upon their souls, and are living a life of faith in God's dear Son: two or three might be adduced as living examples; and, in the happy end of one lately departed, the grace of God was singularly magnified. Of the mass of the congregation, although many appear to walk decently in the sight of men, it cannot be said that they are more than Nominal Christians.

In my weekly visits to their respective habitations, I have sometimes had much satisfaction. At these opportunities, though spiritual advice and reproof are considered as most prominent, hints are occasionally given with regard to domestic economy and other points of minor consideration.

The Sunday-Afternoon instruction to the Christians residing at Koorookapettah is continued. The Assistant Catechist usually attends.

In the course of this year, one man* and two women have been baptized from Heathenism; three received from the Roman-Catholic Communion; five marriages solemnized; and five children of Christians baptized. During the same period, three have been called away by death.

It appears, from the communications relative to the state of the Native Congregation, that the following Weekly Course of Services is maintained in this Department of the Mission:—

* The baptism of this Native was by Mr. Ridsdale, on the 1st of January 1823. It has been mentioned, since the Anniversary, at pp. 321, 322 of the Missionary Register for July: but he is there, by mistake, identified with another Convert, mentioned immediately afterward. This last Native was baptized by Mr. Sawyer on the 1st of January 1824.

Tamul Service is regularly held at the Mission Church, every Sunday Morning, from nine o'clock to eleven; and the Lord's Supper administered on the First Sunday of the month. Every day in the week, Sunday excepted, Morning and Evening Prayer, in Tamul, is attended by the children of the First School, and the servants of the Mission and the Mission House; and, occasionally, by some of the Tamul Christians. On Tuesday, there is a Meeting in the Fort of such as may be prevented from regular attendance at the Service in the Church. On Wednesday Evening, from half-past-six to eight, Tamul Service is held at the Church. On Thursday Evening, a Chapter in the New Testament is expounded, in the Second School-room, which is situated in a large street near the Bazar; where, besides the Christians who assemble, many of the Heathen attend and some receive Tracts; the doors and windows being frequently occupied by hearers, who listen with the greatest attention, and have, several times, continued to stand there even during rain, as they hesitate to enter and sit down with Christians. On Saturday Evening, a Meeting is held for reading and prayer on the subject of Missions, and is attended by the Native Assistants and others.

Mr. Sawyer had suffered much from an affection of his eyes during the hot weather, but he writes in November—

It is with thankfulness to God, that I am enabled to say that this affliction has not been so serious an impediment to the acquisition of the language as might have been expected; for, during the days that I could not see, I endeavoured to speak. I have now been preaching (if I may be allowed the expression) for upward of five months. This is a very delightful part of my duty; and I cannot but feel much gratitude, that I have been permitted to enter upon it so soon. My prayer now is, that the necessary qualifications, for preaching to the Heathen the unsearchable riches of a Saviour, may be speedily added. It is one thing to be intelligible to Christians, and another to make yourself well understood by Heathens. The Christian's vocabulary is despised by the greater part of the Natives: in fact, most of its terms are unintelligible to them; and much circumlocution is necessary, to convey to their minds the least idea of any thing abstract or spiritual.

The nature of Mr. Ridsdale's employment, in which he is assiduously and usefully occupied, has unavoidably retarded his acquisition of Tamul. On his department of the Ministry the Committee report—

The public Church Services in English continue as in the preceding year, and the numbers who attend are much the same. The Church Missionary Association formed in the Congregation continues its stated meetings, and its endeavours to aid the funds of the Society; and the Female Association, though reduced by deaths and removals among its members, proceeds with equal zeal in its useful sphere of exertion. The two Associations have paid the sum of 302 rupees to the Treasurer, in the course of this year.

Mr. Ridsdale thus notices the advantages of the Lending Library, mentioned in the last Report as recently established:—

It is a very valuable Institution; and any additions to it from the Society will be thankfully received. Many Young Persons have substituted its Volumes for novels and such trash, which before occupied their attention.

Under the head of SCHOOLS, Mr. Sawyer reports—

In this interesting field of Missionary Labour, there is much to encourage hope; at the same time that there is sufficient to keep our too sanguine feelings within bounds.

During the past year, a considerable accession has been made to the total amount of children attending our Schools.

The following is a List of the Town and Country Schools, with the number of boys in each.—

Madras Central School . . .	152 Scholars
Madras Second School . . .	60
Madras Third School . . .	34
Madras Fourth School . . .	42
Koorookapettah	43
Kannipootoor	38
Trivaloor	37
Great Conjeveram	34
Little Conjeveram First School . .	33
Little Conjeveram Second School .	36
Madabaram	34
Girls' School in the Mission House .	15
Total . . .	558

A general examination of the Town Schools took place on Thursday the 6th August: 377 Boys were present, including the Seminarists, and 15 Girls. Several Gentlemen attended, and expressed themselves much pleased with the progress of many of the children. The rewards consisting of various articles of clothing were given without respect to any qualification but merit.

The Country Schools have been visited within the last fortnight, and their various proficiency exactly ascertained. Those parts of Dr. Bell's System of Education which were with great difficulty introduced into these schools, upon my last journey, have been productive of great good; much deceit, both on the part of the masters and scholars, being effectually prevented.

Of the Scholars in the Central School, 57 are English and 95 Tamul,

The pressing want of good Teachers leads the Corresponding Committee to anticipate, with pleasure, the efficient operation of the SEMINARY. On this subject they state—

The Committee have great satisfaction in announcing the establishment, in the course of this year, of the long contemplated Seminary at this Station, for training up Youths for eventual employment, according to their capacities and dispositions, in the Society's Missions. The Institution being at present in its infancy, the Committee will content themselves with giving the following account of its establishment and present state, from the report of its assiduous Superintendant, Mr. Sawyer.

Upon the arrival of Twelve Native Boys from Tranquebar, in January of this year, the Rev. Mr. Bärenbruck transferred to me five Young Men previously under his care. From that time to the present, others have been received. The establishment, at this date, consists of 17 Natives and 6 Country-born Young Men, all entirely supported by the Society.

The education of these youths is at present limited to the Tamul and English Languages.

In the Tamul, 11 of the Native Boys have made very considerable proficiency: the rest are advancing. They are formed into three classes, upon Bell's System, under the superintendence of a respectable Moonshee,

In English, four of the Country-born Young Men are quite competent; and, of the Natives, five can read with accuracy and fluency.

The First English Class of Natives under a Native-Christian Master is, at present engaged with Murray's Grammar and Exercises, together with the elements of Geography.

The Second English Class of Natives is reading the Testament; and can repeat the first seven chapters of Pinnock's Catechism of Geography, with 27 pages of Murray's Abridgment of English Grammar. Three of the Country-born Young Men spend their leisure hours in reading standard English Works on History, &c.

Viewing the Seminary as a Christian Institution—a Nursery for the training up of Youths to be the future Missionaries and Instructors of their countrymen—it assumes a considerable importance in the Mission. In this light, the religious education of the Young Men is my principal care and concern. In the exposition of the Holy Scriptures at Morning and Evening Prayer, while the knowledge of Scripture History and Geography, as well as Chronology, are not overlooked, the truths of the Gospel, both doctrinal and practical, are simply stated and enforced.

The following statement is made in reference to the PRESS:—

The expectation expressed in the preceding Report, of this Department of the Mission proving a resource for the funds of the Committee instead of an expense, has begun to be realized. The sums received for work done at the Press during this year, have defrayed all its ordinary expenses, and covered the charge of all work done for the Society's Missions; and considerable additions made to the buildings, materials, and establishment of the Office, will be more than covered by a balance of Bills for work, remaining to be realized on account of the past year.

Among other additions made to the materials of the Office are one new Printing Press, making the third constantly in use; and the forming a set of punches, on the premises, for a fount of Teloogoo Types, which is nearly completed. The possession of these types will enable the Printing Office to undertake the printing of School-Books, Tracts, and copies of the Scriptures, in a language in which they are urgently wanted.

7000 Copies of the Gospels, for the Madras Auxiliary Bible Society.

500 Copies of a translation of the Indian Pilgrim, nearly completed.

2000 Copies of the Principles of the Christian Scriptures, a Tract by the Rev. Mr. Rhenius.

11000 Copies of New Editions of various Tracts on the Society's List.

15000 Copies of Tracts, for the Religious-Tract Association.

In English, there have been printed—

1000 Copies of the Calcutta Collection of Hymns—for sale.

500 Copies of Joyce's Scientific Dialogues, altered—for the Madras School-Book Society.

Besides these, various work has been executed both for Public Institutions and for individuals. Ten Tracts and Eight School-Books are on sale at the Mission Depository.

An interesting notice occurs in reference to the Press, in Mr. Ridsdale's communications.

To-day we began to work a New Press, a circumstance in the history of which is rather interesting. A little while ago, an old chariot, belonging to the Pagoda near the Mission House, was sold; and from a part of one of the wheels, we made the platen of our New Press. This suggested to me the idea of turning Satan's weapons upon himself; and, accordingly, with this piece of wood, which had been for years employed in his service, we struck off 1000 copies of that beautiful portion of Holy Scripture, the Fortieth Chapter of Isaiah, in the form of a Tract. May these little messengers of heavenly wisdom contribute to sap the foundations of Idolatry, and to dissipate the shades of Heathen Superstition!

On the subject of TRANSLATIONS, the Committee state—

They are happy to remark, that the Rev. Mr. Rhenius, who is an accomplished Tamul Scholar, has advanced as far as the Seventh Chapter of St. Paul's Epistle to the Romans, in revising the present Version of the New Testament into that language. He has also completed the revision of a Tamul translation of Mrs. Sherwood's Indian Pilgrim, which a kind and intelligent friend to the Missionary Cause had sent him for that purpose. The Tamul Collection of Evangelical Meditations, principally translated from Thomas A. Kempis by the Rev. Bernhard Schmid, has likewise been enlarged during the year. Sundry other Works, on Religion, History, and Grammar, have also been undertaken; and are either finished or in progress. Besides a few copies of the New Testament in Tamul, and a few versions of parts of it in Teloogoo, the Missionaries have, in the course of the year, distributed 4916 Religious Tracts.

It has been already reported, under the head of Missionaries and Students, that a reinforcement of Labourers has been appointed to this Mission. How acceptable further aid will be in Madras, appears from the following statement by Mr. Sawyer:—

There are many inducements here for zealous and prudent men to join our labours—an immense Heathen Population—a few Christians, just emerging from the darkness of idolatry, and needing the constant and vigilant eye of an affectionate and enlightened Minister—a Seminary of Christian Youths, whose intellectual and religious education would fully occupy the time and talents of an intelligent man, whether a Layman or a Minister—and the various Town and Country Schools, affording ample employment for another Missionary: these are calls which should rouse Young Men to energy, and fire them with holy zeal. Blessed be God, that the power of sending forth true Labourers is with him!

Mr. Ridsdale states many promising indications among the Country-born. Mr. Bärenbruck's labours among the Heathen, in which he has been succeeded, as before stated, by Mr. Sawyer, had been very assiduous: his Journal, and the Diaries of the Native Assistants of the Mission, discover an activity in diffusing light and urging right principles, which, steadily pursued, cannot fail, under the blessing of God, of preparing the Heathen, for that change which awaits them. The same Diaries furnish satisfactory evidence of faithfulness and wisdom in admonishing and instructing the professed Christians among the Natives*.

Poonamallee.

The Corresponding Committee state—

Six Females were baptized in the Country Church here, in the early part of this year; and public worship is regularly conducted by the Catechist attached to the Church, for the benefit of the Christian Natives who live in the neighbourhood.

In respect of Schools, this Station has not afforded satisfaction, as will appear from the Report:—

The difficulty of finding suitable Schoolmasters for the care of the Schools at this place—a difficulty which has been constantly experienced, in various degrees, at all the Stations, and which will continue to obstruct the plans of the Missionaries until properly-qualified persons are furnished by the Seminaries of the different Missions—has occasioned the two Native Schools at this Station to fall into disorder, which has been hitherto only partially corrected.

TRANQUEBAR.

Mr. and Mrs. Bärenbruck arrived at this Station, from Madras, in February of last year. Having acquired, in Madras, a competent knowledge of Tamul and a familiarity with the character of the Natives, it was wished that he should ultimately fix himself in the most convenient place for superintending the Society's establishments in this part of the country, and for the exercise of his Ministry among the Natives.

The Corresponding Committee state on this subject—

The place of the Rev. Mr. Bärenbruck's permanent residence in the Tanjore Country has not yet been fixed: but the matter has engaged the anxious and deliberate attention of the Committee; and it is hoped, that, at an early period, the station of his Mission will be finally settled. The subject involves some important considerations, on which the Committee are particularly solicitous to form a mature judgment.

In the mean while, Mr. Bärenbruck has been pursuing his MINISTERIAL LABOURS in connection with the Society's establishments, as he has had opportunity. To these the Corresponding Committee bear the following testimony:—

In respect to his Ministerial Labours, the Rev. Mr. Bärenbruck has furnished an interesting narrative. He does not, indeed, record any cases in which his Ministry has been blessed to the conversion of souls: but he describes a course of proceeding, which strongly indicates that he feels a lively interest in his work; and which, with diligence and perseverance, promises, under Providence, an ample reward to his exertions. His practice of inculcating largely the fundamental principles of Christianity, his endeavours to adapt his Discourses to the wants and capacities of his hearers, and his efforts to render his Native Assistants useful toward the advancement of the Cause of Truth, all demand the expression of the Committee's approbation.

In reference to the SCHOOL ESTABLISHMENTS connected with this Station, it is observed—

The Report of Mr. Bärenbruck on the state of the Schools is, upon the whole, satisfactory. It contains matter of encouragement to diligence in the Education of Youth; while, at the same time, it excites the hope, that, under Providence, Mr. Bärenbruck's personal superintendence will materially contribute to the improvement of the Schoolmasters and to the progress of the Scholars.

At Michaelmas 1823, there were 31 Schools, and the following was the general summary of the Scholars:—

---

* Extracts from the Journal of John Devasagayam, with a detailed account of Mr. Bärenbruck's proceedings, and other matters connected with the Tranquebar Mission, have been printed, since the Anniversary, at pp. 344—349 of the Missionary Register for August.

Protestant Christians	516
Roman-Catholics	306
Brahmins	383
Soodras	4175
Mahomedans	224
Christian and Heathen Girls	44
Total Children admitted into the Schools	5648
Number who have successively left them	3898
Number remaining	1750

Of the SEMINARY attached to this Mission, Mr. Bärenbruck gives a gratifying account. He delivers to the Seminarists, who are 17 in number, Weekly Lectures on Ecclesiastical History, Mythology, Geography, &c. In the intervals of study, he endeavours to benefit them by his conversation; and, in his watchful care over their morals, he causes them to sleep near his own room. They all appear desirous to devote themselves to the service of Christ; and brotherly love has so much influenced their conduct as hitherto to exclude differences from among them.

John Devasagayam, in October, bears the following testimony to the Youths of this Seminary:—

Of the elderly Youths, two especially are commencing to render us some service in Missionary Work, and recommend themselves for employment as Readers. The conduct of most of our Youths among themselves, and also to those Heathen Youths and Children that come to us daily for instruction, has been hitherto much to my satisfaction. They are sensible of the great benefit which they enjoy; and some of them appear to have some serious impression on their minds.

TINNEVELLY.

At Palamcottah, in Tinnevelly, Mr. Rhenius and Mr. Bernhard Schmid are proceeding with activity and with success. Their Journals, which furnish an example to other Missionaries for copiousness and fidelity, will furnish much information to the Members.*

* Very detailed extracts from these Journals have appeared, since the Anniversary, in the Missionary Register, occupying from p. 349

The Corresponding Committee thus speak of the general state of this Mission—

The Committee have derived much satisfaction from the accounts which they have received of the proceedings of the Missionaries in Tinnevelly, in the course of the past year. The Ministry of the Rev. Mr. Rhenius and the Rev. Mr. Schmid has been particularly successful; and the Committee desire to acknowledge, with gratitude to the Author of all goodness, the happy results which have attended the labours of those servants of the Lord.

On the subject of the MINISTRY, the Missionaries, after premising that the manifestation of the Divine Blessing on all branches of their labours enabled them to present to the Committee, with unusual pleasure, a summary of their transactions during the year, give details of their proceedings, and then add—

There have been baptized, since our last report—

10 Heathen Men,
3 Ditto Children,
2 Christian Ditto.

Total 15

Married . . 1 Couple
Died . . . 1 Child.

The total Number of Christians, and persons waiting to be received into the Church, belonging to this Mission, in its different Stations, are—

30 Men.
17 Women.
11 Children of the above, of different ages.
31 Seminarists—Boys.
14 Ditto———Girls.

Total 103 Souls, of whom seven persons are candidates for Baptism.

In the following list of the SCHOOLS which are under the care of the Missionaries, the number of

There are some variations in this List from that in the last Report, which the following extract from the statements of the Missionaries will explain:—

At Mylappalum and Courichy, not only the Masters continued unfaithful in carrying on their schools, but also the people shewed no great willingness to send their children to school or to have the means of instruction continued; on which accounts both the Masters have been dismissed and the schools discontinued. The school at Pettah has given us little or no satisfaction for two years, because of the sickness of the Master, a well-inclined Roman Catholic. He died lately: upon which we placed there a pious Christian Master from the Central School; so that we have now the prospect, please God, of seeing that school also carried on in a proper manner.

Instead of the discontinued schools, we established, in the month of August last, a new one in the village of Tiroopoolangoody, about 17 miles from hence south-east; with Titus, a pious young man, as its Master; who promises, in every respect, to become a useful servant of the Mission. Another new school is building at Streevagoondam, about 15 miles from hence in the same direction; and a third at Kanabadinadenoor, about 25 miles distant north-west from hence, toward Courtallum. Some of the people in each of these places, though poor, have contributed or are contributing toward the erecting of the buildings, which at the same time are to be also Prayer Houses. A fourth new school is just going to be commenced in the southern part of Tinnevelly, where the people prepare a school entirely by their own means.

On the assistance rendered by Natives in education, the Committee remark—

The Schoolmasters now enter more into the spirit of Dr. Bell's System of Education, and seem more sensible of the excellency of the Holy Scriptures, and more solicitous to impart the knowledge of them to their pupils than they were formerly. The Committee remark, with great satisfaction, that the Missionaries consider themselves to be materially aided by their Native Assistants in the superintendence of the Schools.

Of the FEMALE SCHOOL, the establishment of which was before noticed, Mr. Schmid writes—

Our Native Girls give us much satisfaction and encouragement. We have now 23; consisting of one Soodra, four Shanars, and the others of Low-caste: but, as our views respecting the unreasonableness of the distinction of caste have been fully explained to the parents, the little girls eat together in one room without the least hesitation; and they live together, in all respects, like members of one family: and although we have only one Soodra girl, experience has taught us, that, if only a beginning is made with one girl, others will soon overcome their prejudices, and offer themselves, when they see the great advantages of a proper education.

Mrs. Rhenius has them daily several hours with her, and teaches them different female work: which they like so well, that they frequently must be told, more than once, that it is time for them to go; and when, from some hindrance or other, they come later than the time fixed, they beg to be allowed to stay, and work a little longer.

I have them daily, about half-an-hour, when I teach them our First Catechism, according to the National System. I am often quite pleased with the attention and progress of many, indeed of most of them.

It is astonishing how quickly they improve. Their very features appear to me to become daily more expressive and pleasing. May only the Lord prosper our endeavours; and shower down His Spirit upon them, that they may become inheritors of His Kingdom, and lead others also into the way of Zion!

The re-establishment of the SEMINARY, after being broken up by the Youths refusing to stay unless the distinction of Caste were allowed, was noticed in the last Report. It will appear from the following statements of the Corresponding Committee, that the special blessing of God has attended the labour of the Missionaries with the Seminarists:—

The Seminary at Palamcottah continues to be a source of satisfaction to the Missionaries, whose solicitude for the welfare of the Seminarists, as evinced in the minute superintendence which they exercise over them, merits the approbation of the Committee. The pupils, who are 31 in number, besides being instructed in the doctrines of Christianity, are taught the English and Tamul Languages, and receive lessons in Geography and History. Native Ciphering is also a subject of their study; and, when they are thoroughly grounded in it, the Missionaries intend to direct their attention to European Arithmetic. The general character of the Students is pleasing, and presents an agreeable prospect of their future usefulness.

But the Committee notice, with peculiar delight, the pleasing effects which the devotional and ministerial exercises of the Missionaries have been the means of producing on the Seminarists: of whom at least twenty appear to have become true converts to Christianity; and to have evinced, by their conduct, the sincerity of their profession.

Mr. Schmid gives the following statement of the daily occupations of the Seminarists, from which it will be seen that they are kept in vigorous and useful employ:—

At day-break, they rise; and afterward labour nearly an hour in the garden, for which purpose we have given them a piece of ground to cultivate according to their own taste—then, for a short time, they learn hymns—about seven o'clock, we have Family Prayer with them; and they are exercised, by Br. Rhenius, in singing from notes—at eight, they go to the Central School, where they commit to memory various little tasks—at nine, 14 of them have a lesson in arithmetic, on European principles; and the younger of them attend the Central School, where the Sermon on the Mount, and (every second day) Aveyar's Sentences, are dictated in the sand, and committed to memory—at ten, all are in the Central School, either learning by heart our printed Catechism and Psalms, or having spelling-lessons—from eleven till twelve, they have English Writing-exercises three days in the week, and three days Native Ciphering—from twelve till one, they have the proper reading-lesson in the School; and a part of the time I employ in explaining, successively, the books which are committed to memory—from one till two, they have their dinner and recreation—from two till three, they are employed in the School—from three till five, they have Tamul Writing-exercises on paper, and English Lessons—from five till half-past-five, they learn a Manual for Catechumens by heart, and attend the instructions which Br. Rhenius gives to the Catechumens—after which, except the Evening Family-prayer at half-past-seven, when Br. Rhenius reads and expounds, the evening is at their own disposal; and they carefully employ it in reading and committing to memory, some of them till a late hour.

The opportunities for distributing PUBLICATIONS, both in the vicinity of the Station and in Journeys, are abundant. In reference to this subject, the following passage occurs in the Report of the Corresponding Committee:—

Regarding the Distribution of Tracts, the Missionaries make these judicious and gratifying remarks—

These Tracts have been scattered in all parts of this Province, among Heathens, Moormen, Roman Catholics, and Protestants: and, though some of them have been abused, either from enmity to the cause or from wantonness—for what good thing is not exposed to abuse!—yet there are many proofs, that most of them have been and are well used. They have excited the minds of many to inquire about religion: many have been pleased with the truths contained in them; and, from some places in the most distant corners of the district, persons, having heard of them, have come and requested copies. They have come into the hands of females as well as males—among the mountains, and on the plains—in public places of resort; and in others, from which superstition and custom have excluded the feet of strangers, or those of different castes. Idiomatically, clearly, and soberly-written Tracts, are well accepted of the people in general; and are an excellent auxiliary to the Preacher of the Gospel, both preparing his way before him, and making his footsteps to be remembered after him. May Providence enable us to do still more, in this department, next year!

The following Resolution of the Corresponding Committee sufficiently attests their cordial approbation of the proceedings of the Missionaries:—

Resolved, That a Letter be addressed to the Missionaries in Tinnevelly, expressive of the Committee's satisfaction at the accounts of the state of their Mission, the Schools, and the Seminary; and encouraging them to persevere in their assiduous endeavours for rendering their Mission a blessing alike to the Christian and Heathen population of the country.

TRAVANCORE.

At Cotym, Cochin, and Allepie, among the Syrians and their neighbours, Mr. Bailey, Mr. Fenn, Mr. Baker, and Mr. Norton have pursued their steady course, when not interrupted by sickness; by which, however, they have not unfrequently been hindered. The last reports, indeed, from this Mission have awakened the fears of the Committee, lest a serious interruption should be thus occasioned to their labours. They have long wished to strengthen the hands of the Missionaries by additional help; and greatly regret that they have been prevented from doing this. With much pleasure, therefore, they have appointed, as before stated, the Rev. Joseph Beddy and the Rev. Samuel Ridsdale for service in this part of India; and they hope, at no distant period, to despatch others to this quarter.

The following Resolution of the Madras Committee, while it attests their view of the favourable state of the Mission, forcibly indicates the want of additional aid:—

Resolved, That a Letter be written to the Missionaries at Cotym, expressive of the Committee's great satisfaction at the state of their Mission, as described in their recent Reports—assuring them of the continued entire confidence and approbation of the Committee—and encouraging them to pursue their various plans of usefulness with unabated diligence; depending rather on themselves and their own resources, than upon any uncertain additional help from home, where the difficulties experienced by the Parent Society in procuring suitable English Missionaries appear to be so great, as to discourage the expectation of any addition being speedily made to the establishment at Cotym. The Committee, however, will draw the attention of the Society again to the importance of endeavouring to meet the wishes of the Missionaries for additional co-adjutors there, and the nomination of a Missionary for Cochin.

The Members will hear with pleasure, that mutual confidence and regard continue, unimpaired, between the Syrian Church and the Missionaries. The improvement of that interesting body of Christians, under their devout and exemplary Metropolitan and the fostering care of Colonel Newall the British Resident, is proceeding steadily, by the blessing of God on the assiduous labours of the Missionaries.

The maintenance of such entire harmony, between the Syrians and a body of Clergymen of another Communion whose avowed object is their reformation, while it must be viewed with thankfulness to Him who has graciously bestowed the blessing, yet cannot but be regarded as indicating on both sides a large measure of true wisdom and charity. The Rev.

Mr. Mill, Principal of Bishop's College, Calcutta, in a Journey which he took round the Peninsula in the year 1822, spent some time among the Syrians. His testimony to the spirit and measures of the Missionaries will be heard with pleasure:—

The persons to whom I was chiefly indebted for my intercourse both with the Priests and Laity of this extraordinary people (of whose Indian language I was wholly ignorant), were three Clergymen of the Church of England resident at Cotym, in Travancore; and actively employed in superintending the College and the Parochial Schools; the former of which, by the grant of the Heathen Government of that country, the latter, by the desire and contribution of these Christians themselves, have been recently established in their community. Singular as such superintendence may appear, and almost unprecedented, there is nothing in it, as exercised by these Clergymen, which opposes the order, either of that Episcopal Church which they visit, or, as far as I am capable of judging, of that to which they themselves belong.

Of the considerate and candid spirit maintained toward the Syrian Church by the Missionaries, Mr. Mill thus speaks:—

They do nothing but by the express sanction of the Metropolitan consulting and employing them: their use of the Anglican Service, for themselves and families at one of his Chapels, is agreeable to the practice of these Christians (who allowed the same 250 years ago to the Portuguese Priests, as to persons rightly and canonically ordained, even while they were resisting their usurpations), and is totally unconnected with any purpose of obtruding even that Liturgy upon the Syrian Church: while their conduct with respect to those parts of the Syrian Ritual and Practice, which all Protestants must condemn, is that of silence; which, without the appearance of approval, leaves it to the gradual influence of the knowledge now disseminating itself to undermine, and, at length, by regular authority, to remove them.

Cotym.

Mr. Baker reports on the PAROCHIAL SCHOOLS—

We have just completed the number, which we think at present called for among the Syrians. There is not, strictly speaking, a school to every Parish; but there is not a place where 15 children can be brought together, to which a Schoolmaster has not been appointed.

The following is a List of the Parochial Schools, with their Masters, and the number of Scholars:—

Of these Schools, 27 are situated to the south of Cottayam, or Cotym; and are under the inspection of Govenen Nair: the remainder are to the north, and are superintended by Shuncaren Nair.

The Corresponding Committee have been induced, by the increasing prospect of benefit from these Schools, to double the allowance granted for them: the expense is now 400 rupees per quarter.

Of the GRAMMAR SCHOOL, which serves as a nursery to the College, and which contained, at the last dates, 43 pupils, Mr. Baker reports—

There is abundant cause for gratitude and praise to God, for the blessing which He continues to bestow on the instructions given.

The COLLEGE had 45 Students. Their attendance is punctual, and their application praiseworthy. Their progress, however, has been slower than it would have been if more adequate assistance could have been rendered to the College. From Mr. Fenn's report of the studies of the pupils, the Committee will make some extracts:—

Marcus is reading Nowell's Catechism and Cæsar's Commentaries, both which he translates into English and into his own Language. He also translates from English into Malay-alim, and from Malayalim into English. His studies are much interrupted by indisposition.

The First Latin Class, consisting of nine, have been reading Selectæ è Veteri Testamento, and have begun Cæsar. I believe they understand tolerably well what they read. They translate also the sentences in Clark's Introduction to Latin, first into Malayalim and then into Latin. All their translations from Latin are first made into English. They have read and learnt by heart, in English and Malayalim, various passages of the Scriptures and selections from the English Liturgy.

There is another Latin Class, which has been formed since the last Report, consisting of twenty-three. They are well acquainted with the Accidents, but have not begun translating. Many of these have also learnt, like the First Class, various passages of Scripture, &c.

Those who are learning English only, have read a little of Goldsmith's Roman History; but their progress is not great.

It may be as well to mention, to avoid any misconception, that all the Students are very backward in speaking English, and in reading it fluently, and in spelling, writing, and arithmetic.

Of the Sanscrit Studies, Mr. Fenn says—

I leave the Sanscrit Tutors quite at liberty to instruct after their own method: a great improvement may, I think, be made; but, as yet, I feel myself incompetent to suggest it. The plan is this—

The Student first learns by rote the first two parts of the "Amera Cosha," or "Amaresa" as it is more usually called here: these contain upward of 2000 verses. After he has finished this, he learns the "Sidharupa," containing about 186 declensions of nouns, and 11 forms of conjugations of verbs: of the declensional forms, 77 are forms of nouns ending in vowels, and 109 of such as end in consonants: this book contains no principles of Grammar, no Syntax or Prosody; nothing but mere declensional and conjugational forms. Then follows a little work in Malayalim, called "Bala Rabbod'ha," containing an explanation of the meaning of the cases and tenses: and then the first poem "Sri Ramodanta." The instruction is entirely vivâ voce. After the Tutor has read the verse (which the Student repeats after him) he divides it into its component words; which is rather difficult in Sanscrit, on account of the great change of the final and initial vowels by juxta-position. Then each word is regularly parsed, and its cases told; if a verb, the occurring tense only: then the verse is construed, and then translated. In all this, until the Student has read many verses his memory only is exercised. Many years elapse before the "Amera Cosha," which is learnt in childhood, is serviceable to him. He has no Dictionary to consult, nor any principles of Grammar to guide him.

Whatever may be the deficiency of the Students in Sanscrit Literature, they will, I am sure, suffer no disgrace by a comparison with any of the Schools in Travancore, even where Sanscrit alone is taught. I owe this testimony to the Sanscrit Tutors; one of whom is a Vara, the other a Nair.

In reference to the PRESS, the Corresponding Committee report—

The establishment of a Printing Press at the College was announced in the preceding Report, and the transmission of a fount of Malayalim Types from the foundry of the College of Fort St. George. Unfortunately, however, that fount proved to be very defective, both in point of form, of number, and of construction; and has, in consequence, been nearly useless: 600 copies of a Pastoral Letter, addressed by the Metropolitan of the Syrian Church to his Clergy, and 400 copies of the Sermon on the Mount, and some small works for the use of the Students in the College, have been struck off: but a fresh fount of types is required to render the press effective; and it is feared that much time will elapse, from the delays incidental to all business of this nature in India, and from the uncertainty still attaching to the form of the characters, before a new and perfect fount can be supplied.

In reporting on the SYRIAN CLERGY, TRANSLATIONS, and CHURCHES, Mr. Bailey thus states the importance of a free use of the Scriptures—

When the Scriptures, or some parts of them, are printed, we can get the Catanars to read them regularly to the people, on the Sabbath Day at least: and this, I doubt not, will be attended with blessed effects, as the people, in general, are very anxious to have the Scriptures among them; and nothing can exceed the desire of the Metropolitan for the Scriptures to be printed and circulated among his people.

In the preparation of the Malayalim Version for this important end, Mr. Bailey had proceeded as far as the Eleventh Chapter of the Epistle to the Hebrews.

On the state of the Clergy, Mr. Bailey thus speaks—

In a short tour, which I made a few months ago, to some of the Churches south of Cotym, I was gratified to see a little activity excited among some of the Catanars; as well as to hear that the congregations on the Sabbath Days had considerably increased. This was the effect produced by the distribution of the Pastoral Letter of the Metropolitan among the different Churches, and its being read to the people on the Sabbath; and we trust, that, through the blessing of God, that Letter will be the means of much good among the whole body of Syrians.

For the repair of the Churches, the chief dependence is placed on the Subscription set on foot by the British Resident, which was mentioned in the last Report. To this Subscription, the Committee remark, Colonel Newall was pleased to contribute a Donation of 500 Rupees. The subject will require no further recommendation to the liberality of the friends of Christianity in India.

Mr. Bailey's general view of the Mission will be seen with pleasure:—

Unity and love continue to prevail in our Missionary circle; which I consider no small mercy: and I trust that the Lord is with us indeed, and that His blessing is resting upon us all. He gives us proof of this, time after time, by the many mercies which He is graciously pleased to confer upon us. My colleagues and myself have full employment, in our different departments of the Mission; and more, a great deal, than we can possibly attend to. According to the measure of health and strength which our Heavenly Father vouchsafes to us, we continue to labour in His cause, looking to Him for every assistance; and He gives us cause to hope, that our labours are not in vain. It is true, we meet with many discouragements; but, at the same time, we have far more encouragements to prosecute our endeavours to promote the glory of Christ among this ancient and interesting people.

The Metropolitan continues to put the fullest confidence in us; being quite persuaded that we have nothing in view, but the promotion of his best interests and those of his people. All our proceedings meet with his entire approbation: indeed we should not think it proper to attempt any thing contrary to his wish. He is very anxious to see his Church and people raised as from the dust, and restored to their primitive purity; and I trust that God will grant him his desire, and permit him to see a revival of true religion among them.

Allepie.

Mr. Norton has continued to feel very severely the loss of his Wife, both in respect of his own comfort and in her particular department of labours; but he has been strengthened for his work, and supported under his affliction. The Hindoo Youth, mentioned in the last Report, has been baptized, and, with another Convert, affords satisfactory evidence of the reality of a change of heart.

Of the Schools, the Corresponding Committee report—

Their state is pleasing, both as to numbers in attendance and the progress of the Scholars. Several Roman-Catholic Children have recommenced attendance.

They add, in reference to the Roman Catholics and Mr. Norton's Ministry—

In compliance with the usages of the country, Mr. Norton has deemed it expedient to compose a Form of Abjuration for the use of converts from Popery. Mr. Norton writes—

I have now Public Worship every Feast Day, as appointed by our Church; and think it likely to have a good effect. It, in a measure, disarms the Clergy of the Church of Rome in speaking against us, and wears away the prejudices of their people. The other day I was pleased by seeing almost all the children of that persuasion at Church, which, here, is a circumstance scarcely to be looked for.

The numbers of the English Congregation are about the same as those of last year: the Native Congregation has experienced a small increase: but Mr. Norton does not expect many additions from among the Natives until the Scriptures in Malayalim shall have been distributed more largely.

In a Letter addressed to the Secretary, Mr. Norton thus opens his heart in reference to the state and prospects of his Mission:—

I heartily unite with you, in praying that true concern for the soul may become prevalent in these parts; and I humbly hope, nay, I am convinced, that, ere long, it will be so. Independently of the Prophecies and Promises of Holy Writ, the two or three that have been, I trust, savingly wrought on—the secret desires and whisperings of others—the conversations, arguings, and disputings—and even the opposition which we have to encounter—all lead me to expect, that, at no great distance of time, our God will make bare His holy arm, in glorifying Himself by the rod of His strength; and that He will here, as elsewhere, make many willing in the day of His power. Oh glorious day! Thou God of Grace, when shall it come! When shall we see the proud, the superstitious, the idolaters, the idle, the licentious, the filthy, the dishonest—all under the influence of illuminating, almighty, and sanctifying grace, coming by faith to Jesus—giving up themselves to Him in Holy Baptism—and, with heartfelt love, serving Him in all His ordinances!

At present, it is hard work—to stem a strong current—to cope with a host of most stubborn enemies; and, while we look at the influence of prejudice, idolatrous superstitions, stupidity, cold indifference, inactivity of mind, with all the customary family and individual obstacles—it is heartless work. But we know what the Almighty Saviour, by His Spirit, has already done; and we know what, in His Holy Word, He has promised still and again to do, so that we cannot despair; and, balancing the value of one single soul with millions of irrational worlds, and finding it to outweigh them all, I cannot but feel gratitude for the little, little as it is, that has been accomplished. It is more than all the Angels, with the Church in Heaven, and all the men on earth were they disposed to assist, could of themselves have effected. A soul born again is a new creation—the work of Almighty Power!

My dear little Boys are well. The elder is beginning Latin; and I pray God, by the grace and gifts of His Holy Spirit, to fit them for and render them useful in His vineyard: and should He, of His infinite mercy, thus answer my petition, and place them in this part of it (which is what I long for), knowing the languages &c. as they will, they will be far more efficient than their Father.

TELLICHERRY.

The Report of the Corresponding Committee on this Station is as follows:—

The Committee have to record, with much regret, the Rev. Mr. Spring's departure from this Station. Mr. Spring sailed for England, in the month of December; having previously made the best arrangements in his power to secure the continuance of the School established by him, and now maintained by the Committee. A Gentleman of the Station has kindly engaged to look after its concerns; and a very good report has been received of its state at the close of the year, when it contained 53 Scholars of various castes.

The Committee feel it due to Mr. Spring, to express their grateful thanks for the uniform kindness and valuable assistance rendered by him to the interests of the Society; and their sense of the important services afforded by him to the cause of Christianity, during a residence of eight years in the Province of Malabar. They rejoice, that, in addition to the establishment of the School now transferred to their exclusive charge, he has left, as the permanent fruit of his exertions in the service of Religion, a complete translation of the Gospels into the Malayalim Dialect of North Malabar, besides other works in the same language.

The reduced state of the small Mission Establishment at Cannanore was noticed in the last Report. At a later period, Mr. Spring thought it advisable to place the Catechist Jacob Joseph at Coimbatoor, where a very promising field of usefulness had been opened for him; but he had hardly entered upon its duties, when it pleased God to permit the sudden termination of his life by an attack of Cholera.

VIZAGAPATAM.

The School at this Station has been transferred to another body, as will appear from the following statement of the Corresponding Committee:—

In consequence of there having been no resident Chaplain at this Station for a length of time, and in consideration of the place being occupied by the London Missionary Society, the Committee have lately acceded to a proposal of the Missionaries of that Society to receive the School, hitherto maintained by the Committee, under their charge; and it has been transferred accordingly.

The Committee reflect, with satisfaction, that they have been instrumental in supporting, from its foundation to the present period, a School, which is declared to have been of the greatest benefit to a number of poor children of the Invalid Regiment stationed here, who, without the instruction and other advantages afforded by it, would have been left a prey to ignorance and vicious indulgence. The School, at the period of its transfer, contained 25 Boys and 45 Girls; whose improvement had attracted the approbation and encouragement of the European Gentlemen and Ladies of the Station, and led to further measures for bettering their condition.

In the different Stations of the South-India Mission, there are employed 9 European Missionaries; who are assisted by 8 Europeans of whom 7 are Females, and by 143 Native Men and Youths—forming a total of 160 Labourers.

The Schools, at the last Returns, amounted to 119; and contained 4287 Boys, 40 Girls, and 45 Students at Cotym College—making a total of 4372 Scholars.

The Corresponding Committee have collected, at the request of your Committee, by means of communications* made to them in answer to queries which had been put in circulation among the most competent and intelligent persons, a mass of information relative to the State of the Natives in some of the chief Districts of the Madras Presidency, which cannot fail to afford most valuable aid to the Society. These communications are well characterized, in the following extract of the Secretary's Letter which accompanied them when they were sent to your Committee:—

These Reports you will will find to comprise much interesting and important information on the various subjects which form the matter of their contents. The geographical and statistical notices which they supply will serve to point out the vastness of the field, that lies open to Missionary Enterprise in the South of India; and the sundry intimations which they contain respecting the religions, languages, and occupations of the people, will shew that their Religions mainly consist of various modes of Hindoo Superstition, with a comparatively small admixture of Mahomedan Delusion—that their Languages are chiefly comprehended under the terms Tamul, Teloogoo, and Canarese; tongues which bear so great an affinity to one another, that the acquisition of any one of them must materially facilitate the acquirement of either of the others—and that the Occupations of the people are most restricted to agriculture, commerce, and the employment which Public Offices afford.

Protestant and Roman-Catholic Missions, you will perceive, have been established, at different periods, in several parts of the countries composing the southern portion of the Indian Peninsula.

The information which has been obtained relative to the number and the temporal and moral condition of the Natives professing Christianity, is less ample than could be wished; but it leaves no room to doubt, that they are, in general, sunk in extreme ignorance. Symptoms of a desire for improvement, however, are not altogether wanting among them; and there is reason to expect, that, as the means of religious instruction are extended, their condition will be meliorated. You will observe, with satisfaction, that, in the districts to which the Reports refer, Brahminical Influence is generally on the decline—that at least there is no aversion, on the part of the people, to receive books, or to listen to discourses on religious subjects—and that, if the obstacles which arise from the estrangement of the heart of fallen man from God be excepted, there appears to be no material hindrance to the work of a Missionary in the prosecution of his evangelical labours.

The following extract from one of these communications very forcibly represents the greatness of the occasion which exists for an increase of Missionary Labours;—

There are Twenty-one Districts under the Madras Presidency, which would require the aid of ONE-HUNDRED-AND TWENTY-SIX MISSIONARIES, for a very moderate diffusion of General Education and Religious Instruction; calculating three Stations in each District, and two Missionaries at each Station. But, if two Missionaries were stationed in each District, with a sufficient number of Schools under them, much good might be effected. In Vizagapatam, Bellary, Tanjore, Trichinopoly, and Tinnevelly, there are Missionaries; and Seringapatam might, perhaps, be inspected by the Missionaries of Bangalore: still, there are Fifteen Districts which require Thirty Missionaries.

Tranquebar and Travancore also have Missionaries; but those Districts are not under the British Government.

The Corresponding Committee thus conclude their Sixth Report:—

Every year witnesses an increase of the establishments, and consequent increased expenditure: but every year also witnesses increased proofs of the value and importance of Missionary Establishments in this country, and their growing efficiency and utility. The Committee advert particularly, in this view, to the formation and progress of the Seminaries attached to their Missions, for instructing Youths destined, under the Divine Blessing, for the future service of the Society, as Schoolmasters, Catechists, and Missionaries: if these Institutions should be favoured in their progress as they have been in their commencement, the happiest results may be reasonably expected to the cause of Religion among the present Native-Christian Population, and for its extension in the country generally. Under a deep sense of the importance of the objects embraced by the Society's various Establishments and of these Institutions especially, the Committee conclude this Annual Review by commending the labours of their Missionaries to the prayers of the Church, and their measures to the support of its Members throughout this Presidency.

BOMBAY AND WESTERN-INDIA MISSION.

The Rev. Richard Kenney continues his Schools at Bombay. By the last Returns, it appears that they were four in number, and contained 110 Boys. He is also engaged in translating the Liturgy into Mahratta.

Mrs Kenney and their children remain in England, on account of their health. His separation from his family is painful; but, feeling it his duty to remain and endeavour to establish a Mission, he bears his difficulties with Christian resignation.

The Corresponding Committee urge the appointment of more Missionaries, this side of India being very much unoccupied. As the Scriptures and Elementary Books are, in a great measure, prepared in the chief native languages, which object might require residence at the Presidency, they now recommend the establishment of Missions at second-rate Towns, from which the adjacent Villages might be visited.

The Association under the superintendence of the Rev. Henry Davies, mentioned in the Twenty-second Report, contributes to the support of the Mission. It is intended to build a Chapel near one of the Bazars, when sufficient funds shall have been obtained.

Your Committee have the benefit of intercourse and correspondence with pious and enlightened men, who have formed their judgment on the state of the Heathen from personal observation; and have thus acquired practical views of the best means of benefiting them. They are happy to put on record communications from such persons, as the Members are thereby enabled to enter, with increasing intelligence, into the difficulties of that work in which the Society is engaged. Of this nature are the following remarks, by a Member of the Madras Corresponding Committee, on the character and qualifications of the Missionaries, who are best fitted to labour among a population like that of India.

Missionaries are required of cultivated minds and enlarged views—of distinguished character, as Divines and Logicians—and of eminence in the ready application of that description of talent, which enables the possessor to anticipate and answer objections to any part of the Christian System, to explain difficult and to illustrate obscure passages of Scripture; while it qualifies him to reconcile such as, to a superficial observer, or to a sincere but uninformed inquirer, may appear contradictory—men, who have ploughed deeply into the depravity of the human heart, and experienced strong convictions of the evil of sin; who are impressed with a lively sense of the unmerited goodness of God, in imparting to them a knowledge of the Saviour, through the benign influence of His Word and Spirit; who deem it an honour to spend and be spent in the service of their exalted Redeemer; who entertain just conceptions of the inappreciable worth of the soul, and are capable of bearing and sympathizing with their fellow-creatures on whom the Sun of Righteousness has not arisen to dissipate the gloom of ignorance and vice which surrounds them—men of a subdued and patient spirit, of mild and conciliatory manners and address—men in whose tongue is the law of kindness, and in whose heart is the love of God and of their neighbour.

These endowments and acquirements are especially requisite in the character of an ambassador of Christ to persons so acute, so capable of discrimination, and so far advanced in Arts and Sciences as the better-informed inhabitants of India, and so far removed from barbarism as the mass of its people; and, considering the patience, the mildness, and the timidity which mark the conduct of all classes of the community in their intercourse with Europeans, too much stress cannot perhaps be laid on the importance of self-government, and of forbearance and of meekness in the private walk and public ministry of a Missionary. He must, indeed, be himself an example of the salutary tendency of the doctrines which he preaches; otherwise there is no warrant, in reason or in Scripture, to expect much benefit from his labours.

In addition to the qualifications above enumerated, it is obviously necessary that a Missionary should be completely master of the vernacular tongues of the country, both in their regular construction and in their idiomatic use; and it is highly desirable that he should possess a knowledge of the Sanscrit Language and of Hindoo Mythology, and that he should not be ignorant of the practice of Medicine or without skill in Mechanics. A Missionary, acquainted with Sanscrit and conversant with Hindoo Mythology, would have particular attractions in the eyes of the learned natives: and this knowledge would not only procure for him their respect and attention, but would prove a powerful auxiliary to his other acquirements in his endeavours to lay open the obscenity and wickedness of their corrupt system; while an acquaintance with the practice of Medicine, and with the application of the Mechanical Powers to the common purposes of life, could scarcely fail strongly to recommend him to all ranks in society, and might, through the Divine Blessing, materially subserve his benevolent designs for their spiritual welfare.

It may also be remarked, that men of a hardy frame of body and of few personal wants might, in some situations, be singularly useful; for, although the general tone of the reports in respect of climate is not unfavourable, yet it must be borne in mind, that this part of India presents few conveniences for itinerating, and does not always supply the means of procuring medical aid.

The Missionaries in both the North and South of India continue deeply to feel the necessity of Divine Aid in that arduous work in which they are engaged. From Calcutta, one of them writes—

There is evidently, on the whole, a great work going on in this country, and much is done by Missionaries in India; but, so far as I have had opportunity of seeing, I am constrained to say, that the bulwarks of Satan still stand amazingly fast and firm, and that an Almighty Power alone is sufficient to shake them. Discouragements, trials, and disappointments attend us on every side; and, indeed, if we were not enabled, by the Grace of God, to believe firmly in all His promises, we should sometimes not know what to say or what to think of our work. Here we have to realize an Abrahamic Faith, because we are not permitted to see much.

The indifference toward the salvation of their souls and religious concerns, which these Hindoos manifest, is incredible; and persons, who have not lived among them, can hardly form any idea of it. Money is their God; and all their endeavours and exertions tend to the acquisition of riches. They are constantly meditating how to deceive. The sensuality which prevails among them is beyond conception; and the foolishness of their worship and religious services is an utter disgrace and shame to a reasonable being. Such are the people among whom we live! It is not uncommon, and I heard it this very evening when we were riding through the town, that the people hiss at us, crying out, in mockery, the name of our Blessed Saviour.

Oh when shall the Satanic bonds of this poor deluded people be loosed! When shall the time arrive, that India shall bow at the Cross of our Gracious Redeemer! We want more prayers, for the blessing of God on those means which are already used, and for the outpouring of the Holy Spirit on Missionaries, and on those who hear them.

From Madras, another Missionary thus urgently entreats the prayers of Christians:—

Cease not to pray for us, that the Spirit may be poured upon our souls in more abundant measure. If I had known the great need in which Ministers stand of the continual abiding influence of the Blessed Spirit upon their souls, in order to any thing like usefulness in the cause of Christ, I should have pressed it much on the consideration of those Meetings which I had the happiness to attend before I left my native country. Let us entreat our friends who visit the Associations, to insist particularly upon this point—that not only are we to pray for the general outpouring of the Holy Spirit upon all flesh, but, in an especial manner, upon Missionaries: then, I do confidently expect, we shall have to fill our Letters, as well as our hearts, with praises to Him who will have magnified His grace and mercy in the bringing of MANY out of gross darkness into marvellous light.

In reference to this vast scene of Christian Labours, the Committee are happy to state that there are Gentlemen present both from Calcutta and Madras, who have taken an active part in the Society's concerns in India. Your Committee regret the loss of their services in the East, and beg to thank them and all who have laboured with them for the very efficient aid which they have rendered to the common cause; and trust that the Members will hear from them to-day such testimonies to the importance and good promise of labours in India as may serve to stimulate their zeal.

CEYLON MISSION.

To the two Stations before occupied among the Cingalese, Kandy and Baddagame, a third has been added, as was stated in the last Report, at Cotta, a large village, of about 4500 inhabitants, near Colombo. Mr. and Mrs. Browning remain at Kandy, and Mr. and Mrs. Mayor with Mr. and Mrs. Ward at Baddagame. Mr. Lambrick had been joined, at Cotta, by Mr. and Mrs. Bailey from Nellore; the state of Mrs. Bailey's health rendering it necessary for her to remove from the northern part of the island. At Nellore, in that quarter, the Fourth Station of the Society, Mr. Knight continues to labour among the Tamul Population. Mr. Knight's Sister has been married to the Rev. Daniel Poor, one of the American Missionaries in the vicinity; and Mr. Knight has married Mrs. Richards, the widow of another of the American Missionaries. The Rev. W. Adley and Mrs. Adley have been appointed, as has been before stated, to assist at Nellore.

To these Four Stations, therefore, Twelve Europeans have been sent out from this country. They are assisted by 24 Natives, and have opened 24 Schools; of which, 4 are at Cotta, 5 at Kandy, 6 at Baddagame, and 9 at Nellore. Of the Scholars at Cotta no return has been received; but, at the other Stations, there are 724 Boys and 141 Girls; of these, there are at Kandy 120 Boys and 7 Girls, at Baddagame 254 Boys and 69 Girls, and at Nellore 350 Boys and 65 Girls.

The Fifth Annual Meeting of the Missionaries was held at Cotta, in the end of October and the beginning of November. At this Meeting it was resolved, in conformity with the suggestion of your Committee, that a Christian Institution should be formed for the advancement of the general objects of the Mission; and that as Cotta presented many advantages for the purpose, the Institution should be formed at that Station.

COTTA.

The Rev. Samuel Lambrick entered on this Station in December 1822. He says of it—

Its nearness to Colombo in actual distance, together with its seclusion from it by the state of the roads, are both together singularly advantageous: and it appears, on the whole, to be very promising at present; and still more so in prospect of the blessed period, which will surely in its appointed time come, when the Lord will pour out His Spirit upon all flesh, and bring this people near who are now afar off. We are encouraged amidst all our difficulties, by hearing that the people of God are stirred up to more earnest prayer for this glory of the latter days.

After residing there some time, Mr. Lambrick adds—

Experience has proved it to be a most desirable place for a permanent Missionary Establishment. It is in the midst of a numerous population; among which, Schools might be established to an extent sufficient, together with preaching, to fill the hands of two or three Missionaries in superintending them. It is very favourably situated for maintaining communication with Colombo, both by water and land; and, at the same time, is sufficiently distant from it, to avoid the evils connected with a large town. It is very cool; and appears to be as healthy as any part of the Island.

A piece of ground of about five acres has been purchased in perpetuity from Government, and is now assigned to the Society; and a Dwelling-House and Printing-Office have been erected thereon. The PRESS sent out for Kandy has been set up at Cotta; the design, stated in the last Report, of transferring it to Nellore for the use of the Tamul part of the Mission, having been superseded by another being sent out for that Station. The Gospel of St. Matthew, in the more colloquial Cingalese, would be put to press by Mr. Lambrick, as soon as a fount of types was received from Calcutta, with a view to private circulation, in order to obtain such remarks as might tend to its improvement.

The people among whom this part of the Mission is established, are nominally Christian, though many of them profess to hold Buddhism also: they seem, in fact, to be Buddhists in heart; while, for temporal interest, they call themselves Christians. Lamentable ignorance, however, generally prevails among them.

Five SCHOOLS had been established, but one was given up as inefficient. Applications had been made for more Schools than Mr. Lambrick could superintend: the union of Mr. Bailey's labours, when he shall have acquired the language, will enable them to do more in this department.

Mr. Bailey was appointed to assist Mr. Knight, at Nellore, in the Tamul Mission; and arrived there, with Mrs. Bailey, as was stated in the last Report, in the beginning of March 1822. Their removal to Cotta has been already mentioned. They left Jaffna on the 5th of March of last year, after twelve months residence there; and reached Colombo, by sea, on the 21st. A visit to Europe was judged requisite, as her complaint was a severe affection of the liver: an abscess, however, bursting, she was much relieved; and was so far recovered by a residence on the coast, about two miles from Colombo, that, in August, it was determined that they should join Mr. Lambrick at Cotta.

In the discharge of his MINISTRY, Mr. Lambrick preaches, on Sunday Mornings, in Cingalese: besides the Masters and Scholars of three of the Schools, from 12 or 15 to 40 or 50 Adults have attended. On Sunday Afternoons, he preaches at the Fourth School, about half-a-mile from Cotta, to the Master and Scholars, and to 10 or 12 Adults who generally attend. He goes out among the people on Week-days, and converses with as many as will listen to him.

KANDY.

In the exercise of his MINISTRY, Mr Browning has laboured under much discouragement, from the reluctance of the people to receive instruction, and the little influence apparently produced on those who do receive it. After earnestly pleading with them one Sunday, and explaining the motives which brought him from his native land, to study their language that he might instruct them in the things belonging to their everlasting welfare, he had the pain afterward to learn that some of them said one to another, "He came to this country to get a living, not to preach in Cingalese." He met this discouragement as it became a Christian, with the earnest prayer, "O Lord, increase my faith—awaken my zeal—invigorate my hope!"

His prospects began, soon after, to improve. On the last Sunday in 1822, he assembled his Congregation in a temporary School-room erected on the Mission Ground: the attendance was larger than usual; and was likely to improve, from the convenience of the situation. In May last, he removed into temporary buildings on the ground: a more substantial House and School-room were erecting. In June, his Congregation had considerably increased; and he had recently opened, at six o'clock in the morning, a short Service of exposition and prayer, for the servants and others, which many of the Scholars attended.

In the close of the year, Mr. Browning reported to the Annual Meeting—

The regular Service on Sundays is now more numerously and respectably attended, than at that period: the average attendance may be reckoned from 30 to 200, including children: several, also, of the Modeliars, Mohanderums, and Aratchies have occasionally attended, for some months past.

Several adults had applied for baptism; but finding them ignorant, and yet to grow weary of the necessary instruction, he suspected their motives, and proposed to the other Missionaries the following question:—

I should be happy to hear the opinion of my Brethren, on the propriety of admitting to baptism, persons who profess their firm belief in the truths of Christianity and their fixed determination to lead a Christian Life, and who yet manifest no real marks of genuine conversion.

The Missionaries give it as their judgment, that Baptism ought not to be administered to any adult, whose object in applying for it was evidently of a secular nature.

The Caffre Drummer, Jonathan Gambier, has been removed to Colombo. Of his associates, Mr. Browning writes—

I had feared that my little company of Caffres would be quite broken up by his removal; but I am happy to find that they still come to me and listen attentively to the Word of God.

A competent acquaintance with Portuguese, Mr. Browning finds, would much increase his means of usefulness.

The Cingalese Prisoners confined in the Jail, from 60 to 70 in number, have opened to him another sphere of labour. They, in general, receive his services with thankfulness; and some of them manifest a great desire to hear the Word of God, and to attend to religious instruction.

The attendance of the Beggars, mentioned in the last Report, on the Cingalese Service, seems to have ceased with their ceasing to receive alms.

During the absence of the Chaplain, last Spring, on a visit to the coast for his health, Mr. Browning took charge of the Services of the Garrison, at the Church and the Hospital.

In reference to a New School, about to be opened near Kandy, Mr. Browning writes—

It will furnish, I hope, a place for regularly preaching a Sermon on the Sunday. This is one great object of Schools —that they may become places for preaching the Gospel to the Adult Natives. But I fear it will be a very long time before much can be effectually done in this way, the Natives never having been accustomed to assemble, except in obedience to an order from Government for that purpose. Unless, therefore, a Missionary has time to go from house to house, in the villages into which he goes to visit his Schools, and, by conversing freely with the people, to induce them to attend his Ministry, little, I fear, can be done in this way. But while there is only one Missionary at the Station, it is not practicable, from the multiplicity of his duties, for him to spend much time in such visits. But we may hope, that, when time can be devoted to this object, or when the Missionary shall be able to go and live more immediately among the people, these Schools will afford facilities for preaching the Gospel to the Adult Natives.

Of the five SCHOOLS mentioned before, one is the Boys' School in Kandy with 72 scholars; and a second is Mrs. Browning's Girls' School, with 7 scholars, which promises to become, in time, a useful establishment. The Village Schools were still three in number—Danture, with 15 Boys; and Embilmegama, with 14. Hurekade had been given up, on account of the children's irregular attendance; but another had been opened, at Doombara, and had 19 scholars. Another School was about to be opened, near Kandy. The average attendance of these 127 scholars was 71. Of the Five Orphan Boys supported by the Society, two had died: two of the survivors are very promising. Some of the scholars make good progress: irregularity of attendance retards others. Under the discouragements arising from the indifference of the Adults, the hopes of the Mission rest very much on the Young, who receive daily religious instruction, and many of whom regularly attend Public Worship. During the last year, Christian Books had been introduced into all the Schools, and received without opposition. Schools might be increased to almost any extent; but little good, Mr. Browning states, can be expected from them, unless frequently visited, or unless they offer places for preaching the Gospel to the Adult Natives. He has engaged a person for the express purpose of going very often, from School to School; in order to ascertain their real state, and to stir up the Masters to diligence and zeal.

Additional aid is greatly needed at this Station. Mr. Browning finds abundant occupation in Kandy; while there would be full employment, in the surrounding villages, for a number of Missionaries: and he expects that, in time, there will be no difficulty in the way of their settling in the midst of the people. He earnestly entreats, in reference to his own scene of labours, that, while the African, the Indian, and the New Zealander are remembered in prayer before God, the benighted Kandian may not be forgotten; and adds—

For the preaching of the Gospel we want pious Natives—may it please God in due time, to raise them up for us! who will go out among the people, and declare what the Lord has done for their souls, and thereby encourage others to hear and receive the Gospel. This is the grand means, under the blessing of God, to which we must look for an extensive diffusion of Divine Knowledge among the people: but until the Spirit be poured upon us from on high, it is necessary that as many European Missionaries as possible should enter into the field; for, the more extensively we sow, so much the more abundantly may we hope to reap. The few whom I am able to collect, from time to time, to hear me, are so much like strayed sheep, that I can hardly recognise them as my flock. What pleasure and delight would it be, to witness two or three of them joining themselves together in a perpetual covenant, to love and serve the Lord! But, instead of this, we are constantly pained to behold vast numbers infatuated with the mummeries of Popery, or deluded by the lying stories of Buddhu, or prejudiced with the fancies of Mahomet, or enslaved by the dread of Devils; or, else, living without any religion at all! These devices of Satan, to ensnare unwary souls, are so captivating to the carnal mind, that we might well despair of finding one willing to come and listen to the plain, awakening, and humiliating truths of the Gospel, did we not depend on a Power superior to that of human skill or eloquence. But the power of God is superior to all the devices of Satan; and when HE is pleased to accompany the preaching of His Word, by His power and blessing, neither earth nor hell can make it ineffectual. Oh for faith, to look more simply to Him, and to depend on His aid!

BADDAGAME.

The Missionaries have pursued their MINISTRY, with diligence, at this Station; preaching twice on the Sunday at Baddagame, and occasionally at the Schools. The Congregations are irregular: upward of 100 Scholars attend. The Church was finished at the last dates, and was about to be opened: its tower attracts much notice, and has made the Station at Baddagame well known, no object of that kind having been before seen in Ceylon.

Mr. Ward thus speaks of the course of their labours:—

One of us takes the Services at home; and the other goes to some village, not more however than three or four miles distant. He who stays at home has two Services—one in the morning, in the School-room; and the other in the afternoon, at some house in the neighbourhood. He who goes out has, in general, two places where he preaches before his return. We have, besides, an English Service in the evening, when our Interpreter, and all the Boys who understand, attend. Almost every evening in the week, we are both out among the people. On Saturday Evenings, we meet together for prayer.

Of their daily Ministration of the Word, Mr. Mayor gives the following interesting particulars:—

We go out among them daily, and collect a Congregation in the following manner. We send a messenger to the most respectable Native living in the neighbourhood of other inhabitants, and tell him that we intend to come and preach at his house in the afternoon, or on the morrow, as it may be; and request him to give notice to his neighbours, and to collect them together: if it be not convenient to him to receive us on the day fixed, he will request us to come on another day. At the appointed time, we set out. When we approach within a reasonable distance of his house, we begin to look round the fields to see if there are any people at their labour: as many as we find we invite to come and hear us. Sometimes we meet with a group of women, weeding the paddy-fields: after pleading the excuse of not having on a clean cloth, they yield to our importunities, and go forth to hear the preaching of the Word. The men who are working with the hoe tell us sometimes, that hearing us will not fill them with food; but it is seldom that any refuse ultimately to accompany us. Formerly, they would run and hide themselves, when they saw us coming toward them; or, if they promised to come, they would remain behind: but they seem now less unwilling to hear than they were; and they seldom turn back, when we have persuaded them to set out. They put their hoes across their shoulders; and, unconscious of the advantage which they may hereafter receive from their compliance, they proceed, from a feeling of respect and attachment to us, to hear the strange sound of the Gospel. Besides gathering them thus from the fields and ways, we call at their houses, and persuade as many as are at home and able to leave the house to attend also. When we are arrived at the house, we find mats laid on the ground beneath the shade of the trees, on which the people sit down; the women distinct from the men. Near the house there is usually a sort of court, or level spot of ground, well shaded with trees: we find this a much more convenient place to assemble them in than inside their houses, which are small and close. On these occasions, we have sometimes as many as 100, seldom fewer than 30 hearers. They listen with much attention, and are very orderly in their conduct. We know not that there is an individual near us, from the highest to the lowest, who would not receive us gladly, and allow of the people assembling about his house to hear the Word of God—not that they have renounced Buddhism, or the Worship of Devils: their eyes are not yet open to discern the sin and folly of their former vain superstitions and idolatry. But they have a sort of respect for religious ceremonies; and, while they believe our religion to be a good one, they still regard their own as good also.

Mr. Mayor adds—

We never felt more happy in our work, than we do at this time; nor had a fuller conviction, that we shall yet have abundant cause to praise the Lord for having put this honour upon us, of calling us to labour among those who had never heard of His Name. We have lately been stirred up to pray more earnestly, and to labour more diligently; and our faith and hope have much increased: so that though we cannot tell you of any who are yet truly brought out of darkness into the marvellous light of the knowledge of God, we feel a full assurance that God will glorify His power in the salvation of this people.

In reference to the course of labours just described, Mr. Ward says—

In this manner we are striving to fulfil our Lord's command, and our own ordination vows. In this way, too, we have daily proof of our own utter helplessness; for, though we may urge the most cogent arguments, and seek to find out acceptable words, and the people seem to hear with attention, yet God alone giveth the increase. We rejoice that this feeling is becoming more prevalent in the minds of Christians. Oh pray that your Missionaries, especially, may have it indelibly written upon their hearts! In ourselves, helpless! but we can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth us.

The Missionaries continued to discharge the Garrison Duty at Galle, which they had voluntarily performed for three years, till the arrival of a Chaplain at the end of June. Besides the Morning Service at the Church, they had latterly opened the Church on the Sunday Evening. The effect of their labours was manifest in the increasing attendance; every family, civil and military, being present in the morning, and generally both morning and evening. From late advices, however, it appears that the Chaplain at Kandy having returned home, the Chaplain of Galle had taken his place, and the Garrison Duty had again devolved on the Missionaries.

The SCHOOLS, as it was stated in the last Report, had been reduced from seven to four: two have since been re-opened, with better prospects; and the general attendance had much improved. Schools might be readily multiplied; but the difficulty of providing Masters of intelligence and principle must, at present, limit them to a small number.

These Six Schools were the following:—Baddagame Boys' School, 69—Baddagame Girls' School, 69—Marjuana, 66—Kembia, 34—Gannegame, 37—Lelwella, 48.

The Missionaries have endeavoured to procure an English Schoolmaster at Colombo, that they might be more at liberty for the exercise of their Ministry, but without success. Two Youths, Elias and Abraham, both of them baptized, are employed by Mr. Ward in the School, and are very useful in teaching the younger scholars: both are attentive to the religious instruction which he gives them.

On the arrival of the Chaplain for Galle, the superintendence of the Government Schools was resigned to him; the Missionaries finding, that, though access was opened by them to numbers of the Natives, yet the distance of their situation, the want of suitable Masters, and the secular business connected with the Schools, prevented them from devoting the requisite attention to their own immediate work and neighbourhood.

The state of the people continues deplorable. It had been hoped that their degrading superstitions were giving way, and this appears to have been the case for a time; but Mr. Mayor writes, in a late communication—

The people around us are still in bondage to their superstitions. We still hear, almost nightly, the noise of those who are assembled at the Devil's Dance. I really believe that there is scarcely a Native, even of rank and education, in the southern part of the Island, who is entirely free from all confidence in these sinful ceremonies. They sometimes come to us in the commencement of a disease, and receive medicine; but if the patient does not very speedily recover, they have recourse to their heathen practices.

Sometimes the friends will meet round the sick person, and tell him that they perceive him getting worse and worse, and that he will certainly die if they do not send for the Cappua and make an offering to the Devil. They relate also in his hearing the wonderful recoveries which they had witnessed after they had performed such services; and, thus urging him on the one hand by fear and on the other by hope, they generally prevail with him to abandon his trust in medicine, and seek help from the Devil. His disease, it may be, was slight; and, without the use of any means, might have subsided: but they persuade him to think that he is worse than he really is. After the nightly ceremony has been duly performed, and all his unfounded apprehensions and fears have vanished, the sick man experiences much relief; and his friends, who before convinced him that he was at death's door, now persuade him that all danger is over, and that they perceive that a great change has already taken place—the frightened man is encouraged—he dares to eat his rice, and feels refreshed and invigorated: and thus the Devil binds him as his slave—and thus the whole neighbourhood are held in bondage by the Prince of Darkness!

Mr. Mayor still, however, finds those who are glad to avail themselves of his friendly services, in healing their maladies. He writes—

My labours among the sick and diseased have drawn people from a distance. I have frequently had patients from a distance of 100 miles. The relief afforded makes them value our residence among them; and not only warmly attaches individuals to us, but causes them, I hope, to entertain a good opinion of that religion, which teaches us to shew kindness to all without looking for any thing again. Our influence among the Natives is now very considerable; and I trust will be the introduction to a far better union, even that of Christian Fellowship.

The house, mentioned in the last Report as about to be built for Mr. Ward, has been erected on a hill opposite to that on which Mr. Mayor's stands, and was entered on in the early part of last year: it is a substantial stone-house. A large School Room, of stone, for 100 Boys, was in preparation; and another stone-building, for the reception of 25 Benefactors' Boys, was in contemplation.

On the removal of Mr. and Mrs. Ward to their new dwelling, the care of the Girls devolved on Mrs. Mayor, as it was judged best not to make any separation among them. Mrs. Mayor has been disappointed in the aid expected from Miss Hannah Cortis, as has been before stated. Of the charge entrusted to her, Mr. Mayor says—

A more promising sphere of usefulness was never opened before any one desirous of promoting extensively the welfare of a benighted people.

The statements made by the Missionaries in the Cingalese Division, and quoted in former Reports, on the necessity of a Version of the Scriptures in a colloquial style for the general body of the population, in addition to that already prepared in the higher style, do not accord with the sentiments of some of their friends in the island. In the judgment of your Committee, a presumption is established on behalf of the Missionaries' view of the case, by the analogy of the Hindoostanee, Tamul, and Malayalim Languages; in all which, both high and colloquial Versions have been found requisite, and are under preparation. But the Committee wish the subject to undergo full investigation; and have desired the Society's Missionaries to print portions of their Version for private circulation, in order to obtain such remarks and assistance as may enable them, before they put any part into general circulation, to establish such principles of translation as shall meet the approbation of judicious and impartial men acquainted with all the facts and bearings of the case. In the mean while, the Committee notice with pleasure the information conveyed in the following passage of a Letter from Mr. Ward—

We have received from Dr. Twisleton 700 copies of an abridged History of the New Testament, in Cingalese. The original is a work of the present Bishop of Winchester. It was translated by the Archdeacon's Interpreter, and was submitted to us for our correction. The style of it is easy and familiar; and, in general, destitute of the high and honorific terminations. It is a cause of thankfulness that the prejudices of many of the more learned Natives against the familiar style of language are giving way. We rejoice, too, that the first work in such a style that has appeared in public is from the hand of a learned Native, and published under the auspices of the Head of our Church in Ceylon.

NELLORE.

Mr. Bailey, till his removal, already mentioned, continued the English Service at the Fort Church, in Jaffna, on Sunday Mornings, once a fortnight; and, on the alternate mornings, assisted Mr. Knight in his MINISTRY at Nellore, and preached at one of the Schools on Sunday Afternoons. The unavoidable loss of his assistance was much felt by Mr. Knight:

as, in the course of last summer, the congregation much increased, chiefly by the addition of Scholars; and the labours of the Mission began, in various ways, to multiply.

Some difficulties which had retarded the legal transfer to the Society of the Mission House and Premises having been removed, the requisite additions for School Rooms were about to be made. Government had granted to the Mission an old Church with a piece of land annexed, contiguous to the Mission Premises: on part of the site, a new Church was erecting; and, on another part, offices for a Printing Establishment. Mr. Knight had the advantage, in these building concerns, of a competent superintendant, who relieved him of labour and anxiety.

The urgent demand for Tamul Books and Tracts, and the difficulties and delays attendant on the supply of them from other quarters, rendered the establishment of a PRESS in this District an object of great importance. The Jaffna Bible Society, with two Associations and a Tract Society, have greatly increased this demand. In March, 2700 copies of the Tamul translation of Bishop Tomline's Abridgment of the Bible were received from the Archdeacon of Colombo; and, in May, a supply of Ostervald's Abridgment: about the same time, Tracts arrived from Madras; and all these formed a welcome but very inadequate supply. Application having, therefore, been made to Government, to grant permission for the establishment of a Press by the Society, the request was not only readily acceded to, but an old press was very liberally presented by Government, till a new one could be procured from England. A new press was, in fact, on its way; having been forwarded in compliance with Mr. Knight's representations.

Mr. Knight, with his Sister and Mr. Bailey, left, on the 6th of September 1822, to attend the Annual Meeting at Baddagame; and did not return, from various hindrances, till the 17th of December. Having embarked for Galle in a small brig, they had an opportunity of visiting, from Tutecoryn, on the opposite coast of the Peninsula, their Brethren Rhenius and Schmid at Palamcottah. During the absence of the Missionaries on occasion of the Anniversary, four of the SCHOOLS were suspended. On their return, three were re-opened; and, in February, the Seven Schools had 261 Scholars, one of them having 12 Girls. In April, the Schools were nine in number; and are reported, in June, to be in a flourishing state as to Scholars, and encouraging as to progress. At the close of the year, Mr. Knight reported—

For the last four or five months, in addition to hearing catechisms, reading, &c., on the Sabbath-Day, I have examined every individual child at the close of the month; and, instead of paying the Masters for the numbers in attendance, as heretofore, I have paid them according to the actual progress of each child through the month, which is regularly registered at each examination, and serves as an effectual check against deception. For this plan, I am indebted to my American Brethren. During the last year, I have opened two New Schools; one of which is large and prosperous, the Master being very efficient.

The obstacles to Female Education around him are found by Mr. Knight to be much fewer than he had expected. Between 60 and 70 Girls attend School with regularity; and, on Sundays, from 30 to 50 are present at Public Worship. He writes—

The progress of many of them, in reading and committing to memory, is quite encouraging; and I trust that we shall live to see even greater things.

Mr. Knight had taken a few Children to board; but the marriage of his Sister with the Rev. Daniel Poor, of Tillipally, had, for a time, deferred the prosecution of his plan. By his own subsequent marriage, however, with Mrs. Richards, he says—

My prospects in my Missionary Work, especially with regard to the instruction of females, is much enlarged. We shall soon be able, I hope, to take children to support and educate, according to the plan recommended by the Committee; and to enter on other plans of usefulness, which, while alone, I could not attend to: and I humbly pray that the Lord may succeed our united endeavours. My dear partner is blessed with more than an ordinary share of health and energy of mind; and, having considerable acquaintance with the Native Language, she will be under very favourable circumstances for forwarding the objects of the Mission.*

AUSTRALASIA MISSION.

The trials of this Mission, it is well known, have been great—second only, indeed, to those of the West-Africa Mission, though from a very different cause. The Committee are happy, however, to state that there are no grounds of serious discouragement. The Mission has disburthened itself of some incumbrances which pressed heavily upon it; and has continued to receive, during the year, accessions of real strength, in truly pious and devoted Labourers.

His Excellency Sir Thomas Brisbane continues to co-operate most kindly with Mr. Marsden in promoting, in every way, the interests of this Mission; which, after all its trials, at this moment gives better promise of an ultimate reward to patient labour than at any time since its establishment. On the arrival of the Rev. Henry Williams in February of last year, His Excellency readily granted permission to Mr. Marsden to proceed with Mr. Williams, on his Fourth Visit to New Zealand; and assured the Committee, in a Letter of April the 29th, addressed to the Secretary, of his zealous co-operation with Mr. Marsden in such measures as he might find it expedient to adopt in New Zealand for the good of the Mission. His Excellency added—

I am deeply sensible of the dilemma in which the Committee is involved in their affairs in that quarter: still, I shall never cease to cherish the hope, that the same kind Providence, which has blessed the labours of their other Missionaries, will yet allow the light of the Gospel to shine through the present apparent gloom.

Mr. Williams I have repeatedly seen, and I am most favourably impressed in his behalf: he will proceed to

New Zealand, accompanied by my most cordial wishes of success in his arduous labours.

NATIVE INSTITUTION OF NEW SOUTH-WALES.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarke, whose arrival was stated in the last Report, continued at Parramatta till the 1st of January of last year; and were then placed, till they should proceed to New Zealand, in charge of an Institution, formed in 1814 by the Governor, for the civilization and instruction of the Native Black Children: it was first established in Parramatta; but has been lately removed to a distance of about twelve miles.

Mr. Marsden, with the Rev. Richard Hill, and the other friends of the Society in the Colony, have felt much interest in the Aborigines of New South-Wales, and have been desirous that the Society should render every practicable aid in any measures which might be undertaken for their benefit. In a conversation with Governor Macquarie, previous to the formation of the Native Institution in 1814, Mr. Marsden stated that he was authorised by the Society to assist any plan that was likely to benefit the Aborigines; but no demand was made on the Society. A School was opened at Parramatta; but the situation being found inconvenient, the Committee who conducted it recommended, in the close of 1821, that it should be removed; and that on the spot where it has since been fixed, workshops, schools, and a Place of Worship should be erected; with the reservation of 500 acres of land for the use of the Institution, in the allotment of farms to the Natives. The Committee further recommended, that the assistance offered by Mr. Marsden from the Society, which offer had been renewed by him, should be accepted.

In March 1822, a Resolution was passed by that Committee, requesting the Society to send out a Master and Mistress for the instruction of the Aborigines, and the superintendence of the Native Settlement. The arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Clarke, in October of that year, led to their being provisionally appointed to this duty; and the Native Children were, in consequence, removed from Parramatta to the New Settlement on the 1st of January of last year. Soon after Mr. Williams's arrival, in February, he visited the Institution; and thus speaks of it, in a Letter to the Secretary of March 10, 1823:—

Mr. and Mrs. Clarke are in a situation likely to be extensively useful. We paid them a visit in their Black Settlement, where they are deeply engaged in, and much delighted with their work; though they are quite in the bush, with but a few sheds for the women and children. A substantial building is in preparation, but will not be finished for six months. Mr. and Mrs. Clarke have great attachment to their work and the Society. In the question of remaining here, they wish to act entirely under the direction of Mr. Marsden.

In July, Mr. Williams wrote—

Mrs. Clarke, for these three months past, has been a great sufferer. While at the Native Institution, the dwelling being neither wind nor water tight, she was too much exposed; and had, in consequence, successive inflammations in her chest. She was, therefore, removed to our house at Parramatta. The greater part of the time she was confined to her bed; and, for the whole of this period, in a greater or less degree, has had repeated abscesses forming in her breast. The pain was extreme; so much so, that she has been delirious for many days together: but her patience has equalled her pain, and given unto many a lesson not soon to be forgotten.

Mr. Clarke had, in the mean while, a difficult duty to discharge. He had charge of 12 Native Children, with Public Instruction twice on Sundays among the Europeans; and had often 150 miles to ride on horseback during the week. Mr. Williams thus speaks of him in the above Letter of July:—

Mr. Clarke has had much to struggle with: but, under his indefatigable care, the children have been advancing in knowledge; and the dwelling for them, which is a fine substantial building, 70 feet in length, will soon be finished. I think it may be said, that had not Mr. Clarke been on the spot to take this duty, it had long since fallen to the ground; or rather never would have been raised above it. Mr. Clarke has also officiated as Chaplain on the Sabbath to the Government Gangs in the neighbourhood. Great order and vigilance prevail in his establishment. At this place we are now leaving him, where Mrs. Clarke will soon join him.

It had been intended that Mr. and Mrs. Clarke should accompany Mr. and Mrs. Williams to New Zealand; but Mrs. Clarke's illness having occasioned unavoidable delay, and in the mean while Mr. Clarke's continued care of the Native Institution becoming, for the present, indispensable, it was at length determined that they should not proceed to New Zealand, more particularly until the state of Shunghee's mind had been ascertained, that Chief having been led to suppose that Mr. Clarke would be at his service to make and repair his guns. His friends having, therefore, sailed without them, he continued his care of the Native Institution. Of its state he thus writes, in October:—

The Natives are, I believe, the poorest objects on the habitable globe. I have seen the miserable Africans first come from the holds of Slave Ships; but they do not equal, in wretchedness and misery, the New Hollanders. I have in some measure been the means of removing from the minds of a few of them the prejudice excited by the Heathenish conduct of those around them calling themselves Christians, and have the pleasure of seeing ten or twelve regularly attend the Service here on the Lord's Day. We have now a commodious Mission House, with room to accommodate at least Sixty Native Children. I had 12 under my care, but one promising little Boy died. I have as good hopes respecting them, as I should have of as many European Children.

On Mr. Marsden's return from New Zealand, about two months after Mr. Clarke wrote this Letter, the altered circumstances of that Mission induced him to take measures for Mr. and Mrs. Clarke's proceeding to their original destination. It was with reluctance that they were withdrawn from the Native Institution; but the state of the New-Zealand Mission seemed plainly to call for their assistance there. The Committee will gladly render, in future, every practicable degree of aid to the Native Institution, and the Aborigines of New South Wales.

BAY OF ISLANDS, NEW ZEALAND.

With Mr. Marsden and Mr. Williams, a carpenter, Mr. Fairburn, who had before been at New Zealand in the Society's service, returned thither, with his family. Some Missionaries, also, of the Wesleyan Society accompanied them. They sailed from Port Jackson in the Brampton, Captain Moore, on the 23d of July, and arrived in the Bay of Islands on the 3d of August.

In a little more than a month, on the 5th of September, Mr. Marsden re-embarked in the same vessel, with Mr. Kendall and his family, who were to return to New South-Wales: but the ship was wrecked in the Bay on the 7th; without the loss, however, of lives or property. Mr. Marsden was, in consequence, detained in New Zealand till the 14th of November, when he sailed, in the Dragon: but Shunghee having, in the mean time, returned from a war-expedition, Mr. Kendall refused to leave the island. The Rev. John Butler and his family, with Mr. and Mrs. Cowell, returned to Port Jackson in the Dragon; circumstances having rendered this measure requisite. Several Chiefs, who had been promised a passage in the Brampton, could not be accommodated in the Dragon; but six Native Youths, at their own earnest entreaty, were permitted to accompany Mr. Marsden, as they readily engaged to sleep on the deck. The Dragon arrived at Sydney in the beginning of December.

Mr. Francis Hall, who for several years maintained in the Mission, under very trying circumstances, a most exemplary and unimpeached character, arrived in England in July, having returned with the full approbation of both Mr. Marsden and the Committee. He paid much attention to the Natives, in relieving them in sickness; and has urged the Committee to provide medical advice for them: he states—

> Their prejudices against the use of medicine are fast declining, and they are daily coming to the Stations for aid. It has often grieved me to see the poor sufferers linger, without being able to relieve them; when a man of medical skill might easily have restored them.

At Rangheehoo, Mr. W. Hall and Mr. John King continue to reside; and, at Kiddeekiddee, Mr.

Kemp and Mr. Shepherd. The Rev. Henry Williams and Mr. Fairburn were forming a New Station at Pyhea, on the south of the Bay of Islands. Mr. and Mrs. Clarke were to join Mr. Kemp and Mr. Shepherd at Kiddeekiddee.

The sailing of Mr. Richard Davis and his family, with Mr. Charles Davis, appointed to this Mission, has been already mentioned. Mr. Richard Davis, as an experienced farmer, would enter on a post of immediate usefulness. Mr. Marsden, with the view of giving the Missionaries the means of becoming independent of the Natives for a supply of food, had, several years since, sent over some head of cattle. These have increased to a considerable number, and he has liberally presented them to the Society. The care of these cattle and the enlargement of cultivation require that assistance which Mr. Davis is well prepared to render. The cattle had increased, at the latest dates, to above 50 head; and the Chiefs were beginning fully to appreciate their value.

Before Mr. Marsden left New Zealand in the Dragon, he established some Regulations, for the guidance of the Missionaries and Settlers in their intercourse with the Shipping which visit the Bay. He found some Rules of this nature absolutely necessary, to prevent the recurrence of the serious evils which had injured the Mission. Besides other mischiefs which were felt, it is quite sufficient to mention one which Mr. Marsden has thus stated:—

This intercourse encourages a spirit of idleness and trifling; and of petty barter and traffic, which excites the love of money, calls avarice into exercise, and turns the whole attention of the Missionaries from their proper object—exposes them to a thousand other temptations, wounds their own consciences, and strikes at the root of every Christian Principle, and greatly injures the minds of those who are anxious to be found faithful.

The Regulations appointed by Mr. Marsden were the following:—

1. That no Missionary, Servant, or Mechanic, in the service of the Mission, shall, directly or indirectly, carry on any private trade; or purchase any articles from Masters of ships, without the knowledge and consent of the existing Committee, to whom is entrusted the local management of the concerns of the Society.

2. Should circumstances render it necessary, for the comfort or convenience of the body, or for that of any individual or individuals employed in the service of the Mission, to make purchases from the ships which may anchor in the Bay of Islands, the articles so required shall be stated to the Committee, and the sanction of the Committee first be obtained; and two members from the Committee shall be appointed to transact the business with the Masters of the ships. If this rule is attended to, it will remove all jealousy from the minds of some, and all suspicions and reflections from others.

3. No timber of any kind, either in plank or log, is to be hereafter supplied to any ship or vessel by any Missionary or other person in the service of the Society, without the full consent of the Committee, which shall be first obtained; and the proceeds of all such timber shall be carried to the credit of the Society.

Should any of the Missionaries, directly or indirectly, violate any of the above Regulations, their Colleagues are solemnly enjoined to report such violation to the Society's Agent in New South-Wales, and to the Parent Committee in London; in order that such Missionaries may be punished by suspension or dismission, as the nature of their offence may require.

4. It is further ordered, that all transactions with ships which the Missionaries shall have, either as a body or as individuals, shall be recorded in a book kept for that purpose, as a public record; in order that the Missionaries may at all times be able to justify their conduct to their superiors, and to stop the mouths of gainsayers.

The above Regulations to remain in force until the Parent Committee shall rescind them.

Rangheehoo.

Of this Settlement, Mr. Leigh, one of the Wesleyan Missionaries, says—

It is near a large and populous native town called Tapoonah. Within seven miles, there are eight or ten villages, all of which a Missionary may visit by a pleasant walk; and, in every village, a number of children and adults may be daily collected together for instruction. This place I consider to be a grand Station, for active and extensive Missionary Operations.

The Natives about this Settlement have made considerable advances in civilization. It is four years since I first saw this place; in which period a change for the better is to me quite visible. I consider Rangheehoo a very suitable place for a School, for civil and religious instruction.

Mr. Marsden writes, just before his return—

A School is now begun here. The Natives are all quiet, and the Settlers live in as much peace as they would in any civilized country. They assure me that they have no trouble now whatever with the Natives.

He adds, on the following Sunday—

I preached to-day at Rangheehoo, both morning and evening. It gives me much pleasure to see a School at length begun. The children are capable of learning any thing which we wish to teach them.

Mr. W. Hall thus speaks, in a recent communication:—

We are going on in peace now at our Settlement, thanks be to Almighty God! Here are only Mr. King, and myself. We have a School, to which we attend every day, consisting of from 10 to 15 Native Boys, from six to nine years of age. They are all victualled and clothed by the Society. Mr. King attends regularly to their instruction. They attend the Church, all clean, twice every Sunday. In the morning, Mr. King and I read the Service alternately, with a printed Sermon. The Natives all kneel, and join us in prayer, and repeat the Lord's Prayer. In the afternoon, Mr. King goes to catechize the Natives at the village; and I attend the Church, with the women and children of the Settlement, the School Boys, Native Servants, and as many others as choose to attend. I read the Afternoon Service; and conclude with a Native Service, in which they all stand up and sing a hymn, and repeat the Apostles' Creed and the Ten Commandments, and then kneel down and repeat a prayer, and the Lord's Prayer, sing another hymn, and conclude with prayer.

I have been long of opinion that the education of the Native Children in Schools is one of the most effective means that can be used for the enlightening of the Heathen; and, after finding myself much worne down by labours, and not much appearance of good resulting from it in a religious point of view, I resolved, at length, with Mr. King, to make an effort in the supporting of a School: and, when Mr. Marsden came over, our proposals met with his approbation, and he promised his assistance; and resolved that Schools should be formed at the other Settlements also. I pray and hope that the Divine Blessing will attend the means; and never cease, until the dawn of Gospel Day be followed by the rising of the Sun of Righteousness, with healing in his wings.

The writer is an industrious and skilful man: he understands the language well, and is very successful in his method of managing the Natives: he has rendered great assistance to the shipping which have stood in need of repairs; and his house has always been open to the officers of these vessels. Mr. King was engaged in the instruction of his five children, and the native children of Rangheehoo; with those at the village of Kaishiki, about four miles distant.

Kiddeekiddee.

Mr. Leigh thus speaks of this Second Station of the Society:—

Kiddeekiddee resembles a neat little country village, with a good School House lately erected in the centre. When standing on an eminence near, we may see cattle, sheep, goats, pigs, and horses—houses—fields covered with wheat, oats, and barley—and gardens, richly filled with all kinds of vegetables, fruit-trees, and a variety of useful productions. In the yards, may be seen geese, ducks, and turkeys; and, in the evening, cows returning to the Mission Families, by which they are supplied with good milk and butter. Indeed the Settlement altogether forms a most pleasing object, and especially in a Heathen Land.

Within twenty miles of this Settlement, there are several very populous native towns and villages, in which are hundreds and thousands of inhabitants ready to receive useful instruction, and I hope even the Word of Life, from the Servants of God. Indeed it may be truly said, with respect to this place and the Bay of Islands in general, that the fields are white already to the harvest. Double the number of Missionaries which your Society has hitherto sent to New Zealand, may be fully and usefully employed in the Bay alone; and I have no doubt but that the Natives will, by and bye, be brought to a knowledge of the Living and True God.

Mr. Marsden, anxious that the business of Education should be prosecuted with all efficiency and despatch, took measures with that view before he left New Zealand; and writes, in reference to Kiddeekiddee, in September—

As no building had been erected for a Public School, I told the Missionaries, that, as they were all comfortably provided with houses, there was no necessity for delaying any longer the erection of a School House. They most readily offered to assist in this work. The foundation must be laid in the education of the rising generation. The Children possess strong minds, are well behaved and teachable; and would make great improvement.

On the 10th of November, a few days before he sailed, Mr. Marsden adds—

I took leave of Kiddeekiddee this morning. I have no doubt but a Church will be raised there to the honour of the God of Israel. In time, this will become a great Settlement. It possesses many local advantages; and is one of the best Missionary Stations that I have met with for a principal Settlement. Had I to select again, I should fix upon this spot.

Mr. Butler states, that, at the time of his leaving Kiddeekiddee, there were about fifty Natives, chiefly such as had been employed by the Settlers, who could read a little, sing hymns, and repeat prayers in their own tongue.

Mr. Shepherd has continued his attention to the language. He has begun a translation of the Gospels, is preparing a Vocabulary, and has composed several Hymns, with a Tract on the Creation, Fall, and Redemption of Man.

Much attention has been paid to cultivation at this Settlement, and a considerable quantity of wheat raised. Its cultivation by the Natives is retarded by want of means easily to grind it: the labour of the hand-mill is heavy, and disinclines the Natives to the growth of corn. A water-mill would conduce to the rapid advance of agriculture, as the Natives would feel encouraged to grow wheat, whenever they could get it readily ground. Mr. Marsden fixed on a spot well adapted for such a mill; and proposed to send a millwright, with materials, for its erection. Mill-stones have been forwarded from England.

It had been intended that Mr. Williams should settle at Whangarooa; but, as the Wesleyan Missionaries had fixed themselves there, Mr. Marsden chose a spot for a New Settlement, at Pyhea*, on the south side of the Bay of Islands, about 16 miles to the south-eastward of Kiddeekiddee, and about 10 miles across the Bay southward from Rangheehoo. The situation is beautiful, and the land good. The country is populous, and there are numbers of fine children. The inhabitants are orderly and well-behaved. The Chief has been at Parramatta, and is well known to Mr. Marsden. His Son afterward died at Mr. Marsden's house; which has much attached him and his Wife to Mr. Marsden's family. Within a few miles of this Station, there are ten or twelve large villages, the inhabitants of which are not only willing that Missionaries should visit them, but most gladly and thankfully receive their visits. The Committee extract some notices from Mr. Marsden's communications, a few days before he sailed:—

Oct. 9, 1823—This day I spent with the Rev. H. Williams. I rejoice to see him go on so well. He and his family are now comfortably settled; and are happy in their new situation. I think they will prove a great blessing to the Society. I hope he will be able to correct and remedy, in time, many evils that have existed; and also to set an example to the rest, what they, as Missionaries, should do.

Oct. 10—Mrs. Leigh accompanied me to Pyhea, on a visit to Mrs. Williams, who expected to be confined every day. The local situation of Mr. Williams's Station is most beautiful, and the Natives are very well behaved. They are as quiet, and feel themselves as secure, as if they were in any part of England. I have no doubt but they will be blessed in their work.

Nov. 2, Sunday—I spent this Sabbath at Pyhea, where I preached and administered the Sacrament, and baptized a little boy, born here since our arrival, son to the carpenter, Mr. Fairburn. Our congregation of Europeans was but small; only eleven, besides Natives: yet we found it good to wait upon the Lord. I always feel comfortable at Pyhea. A Church of Christ, I hope, will be raised here, against which the Gates of Hell will never prevail.

Nov. 10 — Mrs. Williams was safely delivered of a boy. She had a very easy birth. The Lord is good and gracious, a very present help in time of need, and never faileth those that put their trust in Him. Mrs. Williams is a woman of strong faith and sound piety; and has no idea of fear: and, on these accounts, she is well suited for her present situation,—happy and content at all times.

The testimony of Mr. Leigh, an experienced Missionary of another Society, who has been several times in New Zealand, and is well acquainted with the state of the Mission, will be heard with great satisfaction. He writes—

The situations of all the Settlements in the Bay of Islands are such as do great credit to the friend who first fixed on them; and prove, at once, that he could look forward, and secure the safety and prosperity, which would, by the blessing of God, attend the establishment. I have no doubt but these Christian Settlements will stand for ages to come, as a proof of the charity and liberality of the Church Missionary Society and of the British Public. May the inhabitants of New Zealand never want a friend to plead their cause with the Christian World!

The Servants of the Church Missionary Society have had many trials in the prosecution of their work; but they have not laboured in vain. The Society has had discouragements; but the cloud has, in a measure, disappeared, and now greater light begins to dawn. A number of Native Youths in these Stations can repeat the Creed, Ten Commandments, the Lord's Prayer, and several Hymns, in their own tongue; and can unite in singing the praises of the Lord. Any person visiting these Stations may soon perceive that civilization has made considerable advance, and that they are Stations which hold out great prospects of usefulness to the Christian Missionary.

The shipwreck which we have experienced will, I have no doubt, prove favourable to the reputation of the New Zealanders. For several days we were in their power; and they might have taken all that we had with the greatest ease; but, instead of oppressing and robbing us, they actually sympathized with us in our trials and afflictions. Mr. Marsden, myself, and Mrs. Leigh, were at a Native Village for several days and nights, without any food but what the Natives brought us: what they had, they gave us willingly; and said—"Poor Creatures! you have nothing to eat; and you are not accustomed to our kind of food." I shall never forget the sympathy and kindness of these poor Heathens.

I do hope that the Rev. S. Marsden will be successful in his endeavours to put an end to the frequent wars in New Zealand. I have heard many Natives and Chiefs say—"It is no good to go to fight, and eat men. We wish to cease from war, and retire to some peaceful place." I pray God that this object may be soon effected among this people.

The Christian World, and especially the Church Missionary Society, will never be able fully to appreciate the valuable labours of the Rev. Samuel Marsden: his fervent zeal, his abundant toil, and his extensive charity in the cause of Missions, are beyond estimation. May he live long, as a burning and shining light in the Missionary World!

Mr. Butler states the following evidences of improvement in the general conduct of the Natives:—

They have ceased to annoy us about guns and powder: they sometimes ask for these things, but are not troublesome when denied.

They are not so hostile and insolent to us, as they have been. Many of the Chiefs are anxious to put their children under our care.

They shew a general readiness to hear, and join in prayers, in their own tongue.

Mr. Marsden gives the following instance of just discrimination in an aged Chief:—

While at Mootooroa, I endeavoured to purchase the island from the Chief, as it is a most excellent station for a Missionary, especially for a medical man. It is situated in the middle of the harbour, in the very centre of the other Missionary Stations. When I asked the Chief to sell it to me, he said, that if I should give him axes, hoes, spades, &c. for the island, all these articles would be soon bartered away for mats, or canoes, or some other things; and then he and his Tribe would be no better off than they were then: but if I would send them a Missionary to live upon the island, he would give it to me for nothing, as a Missionary would be a permanent advantage to them. The old Chief made many other judicious observations. I told him, if it was in my power, I would send him a Missionary at some future time.

Mr. Marsden makes some forcible remarks on the state of the New Zealanders, and pleads their cause with his accustomed energy. He writes—

The minds of the Chiefs are much enlarged, and the way is gradually preparing for the Gospel. A nation does not easily part with its Gods, more especially its False Gods. The New Zealanders are very much under the influence of the Prince of Darkness. He will not quietly give up his prey.

Nothing has happened, since the establishment of the Mission to the present time, but what might have been expected, especially from the Natives. As Shunghee justly observes, "We have made no new laws: we have established no new customs: we are only following the institutions of our forefathers, which we cannot as yet relinquish: our forefathers ate human flesh, and taught us to do so." Many of their superstitions are, however, giving way.

Wars they will carry on, but I think the body of the Chiefs have less inclination for it. Whykato has only been once to war since his return from England; and he assured me that he intended never to go again: he had resisted Shunghee's solicitations, in his last expeditions.

When the horrid acts of their cannibalism are stated to the Christian World, the causes should be stated at the same time; their laws and customs sanctioning these acts. We do not abhor their cannibalism more than they abhor our custom of hanging felons: they think it much better to kill a man with one blow, than to hang him.

We do not see the New Zealanders drinking, swearing, fighting, and murdering one another, as is the case among us. I never saw a woman struck by a man in New Zealand, nor two men fighting together; nor did I ever hear of a private murder, unless theft, adultery, or some other crime had been committed, meriting that punishment according to their laws. Horrid deeds of cannibalism are committed, I readily admit; and human sacrifices are offered up by them: yet these acts of ignorance and superstition only call more loudly on the Christian World to help and deliver them. Satan holds them in sore bondage: their miseries are great, both mental and bodily. In my Journal, I have stated every thing as fairly as I could, in order that the Committee may form a just idea of their real situation*.

Persons forming their opinion of the New Zealanders from some detached statements, might be led to think that it would not be safe for Europeans to live among them. But this opinion would not be correct. Their conduct, for years, has proved that the Europeans have been safe in the midst of them. Their national religion and their laws and customs should be fairly weighed, in forming a true estimate of their character. If a battle is fought, or if a woman or man hang themselves (which is common), or if a slave is killed, on inquiry the New Zealanders will always immediately tell you the cause. A Chief's wife, whom I knew, hung herself when I was there, in a fit of jealousy: her husband, for her sake, determined to follow her example. Another Chief's wife told me that her husband had taken another wife; and she would, therefore, hang herself: I pointed out to her the sin of such an act—she contended that it was meritorious. Their attachments are strong; and the Great Enemy takes advantage of their natural feelings to destroy them: they have yet no spiritual weapons to resist Satan with: they have no sword of the Spirit, no shield of faith, no hope full of glory, to support and comfort them in the hour of temptation. We cannot be astonished at any acts which they do, while under the sole dominion of the God of this World. They have no written laws, human or divine, by which to govern themselves—no Courts of Public Justice to appeal to. I am surprised—not at the number and greatness of their public crimes—but that they govern themselves so well without laws. When the light of Divine Revelation once shines upon them, it will be like the sun rising upon the benighted world. But we must wait until the Lord of Glory arises, and has mercy upon them; and must continue to sow in hope.

In the midst of the evils which have arisen to this Mission from the sins of some who have been engaged in it, and the infirmities of others, God has not left Himself without witness in this land; but has maintained among his people, under all the trials endured from the Natives, and the still greater trials from some of their own body, faithful and devoted Labourers, who, though they have felt, to use their own expression, as "living Martyrs," have continued to lift up holy hands in the midst of these savage tribes, to labour unweariedly for their good, and to cause the light of a meek and holy conversation to shine around them.

One of the Settlers at Kiddeekiddee writes, in a late communication—

Our Prayer-Meetings among ourselves were the commencement of good to the Natives. A door of usefulness seems to be presenting itself, for we have begun to keep a School for the Natives at Kiddeekiddee. We all exert ourselves, and attend it three times a week; Sundays, Tuesdays, and Thursdays. Singing and prayer are connected with the business of the School. May we not hope that better days are about to dawn? We are going to build a place for the Natives to meet in for Divine Worship. Pray for us, that the Word of God may run, have free course, and be glorified. May the Lord Jesus Christ draw us nearer to Himself by faith! then shall we be more useful and more happy.

A Volume has lately appeared, entitled "Journal of a Ten Months' Residence in New Zealand." It is the work of Captain Richard A. Cruise, who sailed on board H.M.S. Dromedary, in command of a detachment of the 34th Regiment, when that vessel was sent to procure timber at New Zealand. The Members may recollect that Mr. Marsden sailed in the Dromedary from Port Jackson, on his Third Visit to the Mission. Captain Cruise's Journal confirms the representations of Mr. Marsden and the Missionaries; and contains various particulars relative to the Natives.

This Mission has very much drawn toward it the attention of the different Associations. That the Members of the Society are thus led so generally to sympathise in its difficulties, and to bear its trials on their hearts before the Throne of Grace in prayer, not only strengthens the hands of your Committee in their work, but will animate and stimulate those Labourers who stand firm amidst surrounding evils. The Committee will quote a few passages on this subject from different Reports.

—The calamities which impend over New Zealand would discourage those who do not feel the immense value of human souls; but they merely call for deeper humility, more persevering and affectionate zeal, and more earnest prayers from the devout Christian. Western Africa for some years presented the greatest discouragements: the Society persevered in dependence on God, and they now reap a rich spiritual harvest.

—Doubtless it was necessary that the efforts of the Church Missionary Society should be thwarted in one quarter, lest its friends should be too much elated by its success in others; and in order to shew that all success, the power, and the might, are of God. The afflicting dispensation calls not for distrust and despondency, but for stronger faith, greater patience, more fervent zeal, more earnest prayer. God shall arise, and His enemies shall be scattered.

—In New Zealand, the aspect has been hitherto so inviting, the influence of the Rev. Mr. Marsden among the Natives so considerable, the progress toward civilization so rapid, as, perhaps, in some measure, to have cherished too much dependence upon human exertion; and to have blunted the lively remembrance, that conversion is solely the work of God; and, consequently, to have rendered Christians less fervent and persevering in prayer for the descent of the Holy Ghost upon that Mission, than they would have been, had the difficulties assumed a more alarming appearance. May the Members of the Society be moved to implore the protection and blessing of the Almighty upon His servants, the Missionaries there, who, though distressed, have not been obliged to quit the scene of their labour.

—In New Zealand, a mysterious and solemn Providence still hangs over the affairs of the Mission, and calls for the exercise of faith and prayer. Your Committee refrain from the detail of those instances of cruelty, with which the Missionaries of the Society have been made awfully familiar. And yet who can look at the present state of that island, and remember what the Society Islands once were, without applying to its inhabitants that striking prophetic declaration—The devil has come down to you, having great power, because he knoweth that he hath but a short time! Yes! dark as is the present dispensation, a brighter hour will arrive; and future Anniversaries will, doubtless, have to report of New Zealand, that its savage tribes have been themselves conquered by the grace of the Gospel, and been made the willing subjects of the Prince of Peace.

In another Report, the best use is made of that which has been the most distressing view of the case —the unfaithfulness of some of the Labourers:—

Intelligence like this is truly afflictive and humbling. Let Christians, whose hearts glow with warm expectation of Missionary Success, remember, that the most active Labourers in the Lord's vineyard can effect nothing but by His grace, and that their fidelity and steadfastness depend on the continual supplies of the Spirit of God.

WEST-INDIES MISSION.

This field of the Society's labours may be considered as connected with that in West Africa, the objects in both being the same—the remuneration, by the blessings of the Gospel, of Africa and her Children, for those enormous wrongs which they have suffered at our hands. For wrongs they are, and wrongs they will continue to be, how many ages soever have passed since they were first inflicted, and whatever may be the period which must elapse before they can be done away!

It is one part of the awful retribution which attends the commission of evil, that he, who repents and desires to make restitution, is trammelled and harassed by the effects of the very evil which he originated, or in which he has participated. Our Country finds itself in this exact situation, with relation to Africa and her Sons. Her conscience is, blessed be God! now enlightened. She has denounced her own past errors and crimes—has made a firm stand against the further feeding of the evil, in any shape or in any degree—and has put out of the pale of civil society any one of her sons, who shall disgrace the nation by the recreant spirit of one who can make prize of his fellow-men. She is ready to re-purchase all those legal rights in human beings, in the acquisition of which her own subjects have been countenanced and protected by her erroneous laws; and she is eager to raise, to the full privileges of Social and Christian Life, every Child of Africa which she holds in bondage. But her wisdom, and her humanity itself, interpose: her errors have brought these bondmen into a state, in which they are disqualified for the immediate enjoyment of those rights which belong to them as the creatures of our Common Father in Heaven.

If blind self-interest, or the exercise of cruel authority over human beings, have disqualified any persons from cordially entering into the just and humane views which now actuate the Government and the country, we may well hope, from the success which the question of the Abolition of the Slave Trade obtained, by the patience and perseverance of its friends, over feelings and opinions even still more hostile, that a steady course of wise and humane proceedings will carry with it, at no great distance of time, the whole mind and conscience of the country.

While this Society will ever honour those Kindred Societies, which have been the means, by a patient course of self-denying labour, frequently under contumely and persecution, of rescuing from spiritual bondage such a multitude of our West-India Slaves, it must be allowed to feel especial pleasure in the plans which the Legislature has adopted, in the appointment of Bishops and Clergy, with a direct view to the instruction and conversion of the Slave Population.

The Society's labours in this quarter have hitherto been limited to Education. In the Islands of Antigua, Barbadoes, Dominica, and St. Vincent, it has Fourteen Schools; which contained, at the last returns, 2172 Scholars: of these, 935 were Boys, 1104 Girls, and 133 Adults; who are under the care of Thirteen Superintendants and Teachers, besides a great number of gratuitous Instructors.

Mr. Dawes, of Antigua, returned to that island in July, after an absence of about six months on the visit, mentioned in the last Report, to other islands, for the purpose of extending the benefits of Education. The greater part of this period was spent at Dominica, where he was detained, by various circumstances, much longer than he expected: in this island, an Auxiliary Society was formed on the 14th of February* of last year, under the patronage of the Governor, His Excellency the Earl of Huntingdon. Mr. Dawes was able to visit only one other island on this occasion, that of St. Vincent, where he established a School. He wishes four or five European Teachers to be sent to Antigua, in order to be ready, after due preparation, to enter on the fields of labour which seem to be opening.

Many applications have, indeed, been made to the Committee, by Proprietors of Estates, to supply their Slaves with Teachers, and liberal offers have been made to assist in their support. The Committee will gladly do all in their power to second these just and benevolent views.

The Auxiliary Societies at St. Christopher's and Nevis, mentioned in the Twenty-first Report, have not contributed to the funds since the collections made when they were formed: that at Nevis has, in fact, been dissolved.

tinued, there remain, of those stated in the last Report, the following seven:—Bethesda, Hope, Old Road, Sion Hill, Carlisle's, Cook's, and Union: an eighth was opened on Sir George Thomas's Estate, on the 19th of February; a ninth, on the 14th of August, at Seaforth's; and a tenth, which was first established, at Cedar Grove, in August 1817, but was discontinued in August 1821, was revived on the 31st of August last. These Schools are all under a course of regular inspection; and contain 774 Boys, 1029 Girls, and 133 Adults.

The following remarks on these Schools are extracted from the communications of Mr. Dawes:—

'The first five of these Schools are, strictly speaking, Sunday Schools: a large portion of the Church Service is read in them, previously to teaching. On 28 of the Estates in this division, there is teaching also on two or more of the working days in each week.

'The last five Schools are also Sunday Schools, but they have more week-day teaching than the others. At Cook's, there is teaching, at noon and night, three times a week—at Union, every day except Saturday, at noon and night—at Thomas's and Seaforth's, every day, at noon and night—and at Cedar Grove, throughout the whole of every working-day except Saturday.

A great avidity for reading is created and cherished by these Schools. On this subject it is said—

'We look impatiently for the books which you promise us. If our benevolent friends in England knew how much benefit has been derived, and how much more is derivable to children of all classes here (particularly that class whom they and we are most anxious to serve) from reading good books, they would cheerfully lay out a few guineas in this way for us. The avidity for reading is so great in the young people here, that if we do not supply them with GOOD books and others come in their way, they will eagerly seize them, and that too without being aware of their evil tendency.

BARBADOES.

'In the two Schools, containing 93 Boys and 50 Girls, about half the children are free, and half slaves. In the last year, 33 quitted school; which make a total of 91 who had left, being 49 free, and 42 slaves. Of one of the scholars, the Master, Mr. Charles Phipps, says—

I attended the death-bed of one of our Scholars, a Boy about nine years old: he met death with Christian fortitude; resting his hope solely on the merits of his Crucified Redeemer.

DOMINICA.

Soon after the formation of the Auxiliary Society in this island, Mr. Alexander Scott, a young man from Ireland, was appointed Schoolmaster. The School was opened on the 3d of May. Mr. Scott did not, however, long survive. At the time of his death there were 43 Boys in the School. Another Master was about to be appointed.

ST. VINCENT.

Mr. Dawes obtained the signatures of 30 persons, who were willing to support Schools, but no Society was formed. He appointed a Schoolmistress, Anne Claxton. At the last dates, 50 names of Scholars were on the books, but the attendance was very irregular.

NORTH-WEST AMERICA MISSION.

The meeting of the Rev. John West and the Rev. David Jones, at York Fort, in October last, has been already stated under the head of Missionaries and Students.

Mr. West had left Fort Douglas at the Red River on the 11th of June, and reached York Fort on the 2d of July. That place he left on the 11th, in order to visit the Esquimaux near Fort Churchill: after a journey on foot of about 180 miles, in company of some of the Natives, he reached Fort Churchill, on the west shore of Hudson's Bay, on the 21st. On the 19th of August, after a walk of seven days, he returned to York Fort. With Mr. Jones, who had arrived three days before, he spent about three weeks, conferring on the best means of promoting the objects of the Mission. On the 10th of September, he sailed for England; and landed in the Thames on the 24th of October, after an absence of nearly three-years-and-a-half, employed in laying the foundation of this Mission. The privations attending such a separation from an affectionate Wife and Young Family will not be forgotten, when the future progress of this Mission shall recall to memory the circumstances under which it was formed. It was Mr. West's intention to return to his labours: but, on several accounts, it has been agreed, that, for the present, the Mission shall be left under the care of Mr. Jones and his co-adjutors; the Committee increasing the number of Labourers, as opportunities for exertion may open, and as they may be able to supply Labourers.

From a Report made by Mr. West, the Committee will give a summary of his proceedings in the Mission:—

I had no sooner landed at York Factory, August 15, 1820, than I felt the obligation of seeking to afford moral and religious instruction to numbers of HALF-BREED CHILDREN running about the Factory; and, consequently, drew up a proposal for collecting, from the Company's different posts, 100 of them, to be clothed, educated, and maintained at the Red-River Settlement. This proposal I submitted to Governor Williams, who was pleased to signify his approbation of such a measure; and the plan was forwarded to London for the consideration and approval of the Committee of the Hudson's-Bay Company.

I felt that I had also an immediate duty to perform relative to the INDIANS; and, with the aid of an Interpreter, an Indian cheerfully promised me two of his Boys (one of whom embarked with me for the Red River) to be educated and maintained, by the appropriation of charitable funds for the introduction of Christianity among them: on my arrival at the Company's Post, Norway House, I obtained another Boy, reported to me an orphan, the son of a deceased Indian and a half-breed woman, for this important object.

On the 14th of October we reached the Settlement, consisting of a number of huts widely scattered along the margin of the River. There was an unfinished building, as a Catholic Church; and a small house adjoining, the residence of the Priest: but no Protestant Church or School-House, which obliged me, on my arrival, to take up my residence at the Colony Fort, with the Schoolmaster and the Indian Boys. Here I had Divine Service every Sabbath Day, and my Ministry was generally well attended by the Settlers. I soon afterwards got a log-house repaired, about three miles below the Fort, among the Protestant Settlers; where the School master took up his abode, and began teaching from 20 to 25 of their children.

In January 1821, I visited the Company's two Provision Posts, Brandon-House and Qu'appelle; and, on visiting some Indian Tents on my return to the Colony, I obtained another Indian Boy for instruction.

My residence was now removed to the Farm belonging to the late Earl of Selkirk, about three miles from the Colony Fort and six from the School. Though more comfortable in my quarters than at the Fort, the distances put me to much inconvenience in my professional duties: I resolved, therefore, in the Spring of the year, to yield to no difficulties in seeking to erect, in a central situation, a substantial building, which should contain apartments for the Schoolmaster — afford accommodation for the Indian Children—be a Day School for the Children of the Settlers—and fully answer the purpose of a Church for the present, till a brighter prospect should arise in the Colony, and its inhabitants be more congregated. I became anxious to see such a building arise, as a Protestant Landmark of Christianity, in a vast field of Heathenism.

Acting under the conviction, that, in seeking to propagate the Christian Religion in a Heathen Land, it was of the highest importance to correct the habits of resident Europeans, it afforded me no small encouragement in my Ministerial Labours to meet Mr. Garry, one of the Directors of the Hudson's-Bay Company, in the month of August, at York Factory. I consulted his opinion, and cordially co-operated with him in the establishment of the Hudson's-Bay Auxiliary Bible Society for circulating the Scriptures, with a view of promoting this most desirable object. Many copies of the Scriptures have, in consequence, been distributed, in several different languages, among the Colonists at Red River, and many of the servants in the actual employ of the Company.

In the Spring of 1822, I obtained a room at Fort Garry, for the residence of the Schoolmaster and the Indian Boys, in which I held Divine Service every Sunday; but the distance being so great from the Protestant part of the population, few Children attended the School, and but few adults my Ministry during the winter. I felt greatly the want of accommodation, having received another Indian Boy; and resolved to make another effort in hastening the building designed as a Missionary Establishment.

In June of that year, I received the gratifying information, that a liberal provision was made for a Missionary Establishment at Red River, for the maintenance and education of a number of Native Indian Children, by the Church Missionary Society. I took the first opportunity of telling Pigwis, the Saulteaux Chief of the Indians near the Settlement, of what my countrymen had done for them; and how they wished, with me, to have their Children taught to read White Man's book, which would make them happy in the right knowledge of the Great Spirit. He said, it was "good;" and promised to send some of his children; and once told me, that he would go through his country, to tell the Indians what was to be done for their children.

It was gratifying also to me to find that the Committee of the Hudson's-Bay Company had determined upon educating and providing for the numerous Half-breed Children, whose parents had died, or deserted them; and requested, in an official communication, bearing date Feb. 27, 1822, that they might be put under my care and superintendence at the Colony. This subject was again mentioned to me by Mr. Halkett (a Director, and one of the Executors of the late Earl of Selkirk), who arrived at the Settlement in the beginning of July.

The building, 60 feet by 20, being sufficiently advanced, I opened it as a place of Divine Worship, on the Sunday previous to Mr. Halkett's leaving the Settlement; and, at the same time, baptized two of the Indian Boys who had been under my charge, as able to read the New Testament, and repeat the Church Catechism and the Chief Truths of the Christian Religion. All expenses incurred in maintaining and educating these Boys from August 1820, with the two others whom I obtained afterward, till Oct. 1, 1822, and an allowance to the Schoolmaster of 50*l.* per annum and his provisions, from the time when he embarked with me for Hudson's Bay till he received a Salary from the Church Missionary Society, were paid by a remittance from Mr. Harrison, together with the sum of 100*l.* advanced on my departure from England by that Society, to aid the attempt of educating the children of the Natives.

In the beginning of October 1822, there were six Boys, two Girls, and a Half-breed Woman to take care of the children upon the establishment; and two Indian Boys obtained by me at Fort Churchill were added to this number shortly afterward. The whole expense of this establishment has been charged to the Church Missionary Society from that period.

I had the happiness to see, in June 1823, the accomplishment of the wish, so feelingly expressed by the late Mr. Semple, who fell mortally wounded near the spot where the buildings are erected. In a Letter, dated in the year 1815, he observed —"I have trodden the burnt ruins of houses, barns, a mill, a fort, and sharpened stockades; but none of a Place of Worship, even upon the smallest scale. I blush to say, that, over the whole extent of the Hudson's-Bay Territories, no such building exists. It is surely high time that this foul reproach should be done away from among men belonging to a Christian Nation. I must confess that I am anxious to see the first little Christian Church and Steeple of wood, slowly rising among the wilds; and to hear the sound of the first Sabbath-bell, which has tolled here since the Creation."

As I was returning from visiting some of the Settlers about nine or ten miles below, one evening, the lengthened shadows of the setting sun cast upon the buildings, and the consideration that there was now a landmark of Christianity in this wild waste, and an asylum opened for the instruction and maintenance of Indian Children, raised the most agreeable sensations in my mind, and led me into a train of thought which awakened a hope, that, in the Divine compassion of the Saviour, it might be the means of raising a SPIRITUAL temple in this wilderness to the honour of His Name. In the present state of the people, I consider it no small point gained, to have formed a religious establishment. The outward walls, even, and spire of the Church, cannot fail of having some effect on the minds of a wandering people, and of the population of the Settlement.

During winter, the severity of the weather is such, as sometimes to preclude the Settlers from assembling for Divine Worship; but from the beginning of March till the middle of June, when I left the Colony, my congregation on the Sunday consisted, on an average, of from 100 to 130. The afternoon we devoted to gratuitous instruction of all who would regularly attend; and we had generally 40 or 50 Scholars, including some Adult Indian Women, married to Europeans, besides the Indian Children on the Missionary Establishment.

With respect to the Indians, they appear to me to be, generally, of an inoffensive and hospitable disposition; but spirituous liquors, like war, infuriate them with the most revengeful and barbarous feelings. There are acknowledged difficulties in the way of introducing Christianity among them: but the object might be promoted by educating the Half-breed Children, who generally grow up in a sad state of ignorance, degradation, and heathen immorality; while the existing impediments, it is supposed, might be gradually overcome, by active kindness toward the Indians, and well-conducted Missions among them.

Mr. West placed the Schools on such a footing, as to secure the benefit of them, not only to the Indian Children whom the Society has primarily in view, but also, on the payment of a small sum annually, including books and all expenses, to the children of the Settlers. Fifteen Indian Boys and Fifteen Girls are to be received, for maintenance and education at the Society's charge, as soon as they can be collected from the Indians; while the children of the Company's Officers and of the principal Settlers are educated on the payment of 40*s.* for each per annum, and those of the Company's Servants and of the body of the Settlers for 20*s.* per annum each—half of these sums to go in aid of the Society's Establishment, and the other half to the Schoolmaster.

The charge of maintaining Indian Children is found to be, at the current price of articles, about 5*l.* each per annum for clothes, and 9*l.* each for food.

A Farm is attached to the Church Mission House, under the care of Samuel West, which is cultivated for the benefit of the Establishment.

The Depository of the Auxiliary Bible Society, founded at York Factory Sept. 2, 1821, is kept at the Church Mission House; where are Bibles and Testaments, supplied by the Parent Bible Society in London, in the following languages:—English, French, Dutch, Danish, Swedish, Portuguese, Italian, German, Gaelic, Irish, Esquimaux, and Welch.

The 8 Indian Boys and 2 Indian Girls are under the care of a Half-breed Woman named Agathus. The Day Schools were attended by 7 Children of Settlers: and the Sunday Schools, which are held from two o'clock to four in the afternoon, had an average attendance of 16 Boys, 15 Girls, and 8 Adults. Of the progress of the Scholars, Mr. Harbidge thus reports—

> The two eldest Boys are capable of reading in any part of the Bible correctly, and are advancing in writing and arithmetic: they have learnt by heart the Church and Watts's Catechisms, and the "Chief Truths of the Christian Religion," with many Hymns. The other Children are making progress, in proportion to the time that they have been with us: they are all reading, and learning to write. The two Girls, also, can read; and are being taught needle-work, and acquiring other habits of industry.

Mr. West having sailed, as before stated, from York Factory, Mr. Jones, with the two Indian Boys brought from Fort Churchill by Mr. West, set forward for the Red River; and arrived there about ten days before Mr. West reached the Thames. From the time of Mr. West's leaving the Settlement, Mr. Harbidge, the Schoolmaster had, on Sundays, read the Morning Service and one of the Homilies, and had continued the Day and Sunday Schools.

Some particulars of Mr. West's visit to the Esquimaux at and near Fort Churchill will much interest the Members, and awaken a desire to conduct these dwellers in the ends of the earth to the knowledge of the True God and Jesus Christ whom He hath sent. Of a family which visited Fort Churchill, he writes—

I visited an Esquimaux Family tented at the back of the rock; and was much pleased at seeing them live in the exercise of social affection. The Esquimaux treated his wife with kindness, and there was a constant smile upon her countenance—so opposite to that oppressed and dejected look of the Indian Women in general! Having an interpreter with me, I obtained the following information.

Most of the Esquimaux have one wife, but good hunters sometimes two. They never leave the sick, infirm, and aged, like the Northern Indians, to perish; but always drag them on sledges in winter, and take them in their canoes in summer, till they die. They never burn their dead, but always bury them. They do not know who made the sun, the heavens, the waters, and the earth; nor whether the person who made those things is dead or alive. They know that there is a Bad Spirit among them, which makes them suffer; and they pray to him not to hurt them. When a bad man dies, the Bad Spirit takes him, and puts him into a hole under ground, where there is always fire; but, when a good man dies, the Moon takes him up to a happy place, where he lives as he did below, only he has less to do. The Esquimaux was fond of saying, that, formerly, they were as White Men—like me. I encouraged him in this idea; but observed, that White Men NOW knew a great deal more than Esquimaux, and that many in my country wished them to be taught who made the world &c. Asking whether they would like to have a White Man live among them to clothe and teach their children, the Esquimaux and his wife appeared to be quite overjoyed at this question—laughed heartily, and said that they wished to know the Grand Spirit; adding, that, if I came to live among the Esquimaux, they were sure that they would treat me well—never need be afraid of them, as they would be much pleased in having their children taught what White Men knew; and would bring provisions, as there was plenty of musk-oxen, deer, and salmon. The name of this Esquimaux was Achshannerck: we parted cordially, shaking hands; at the same time observing to him, that if White Man came to live in his country, it was not because White Man's country was not better than his, but because White Man loved the Esquimaux, and wished to teach them to live and die happy.

Of another party, Mr. West says—

As some of the Esquimaux were returning to Chesterfield Inlet, I assembled them, and had the following "TALK," previously to my giving them a few presents. Standing in the circle, I observed—

I speak true. I love Esquimaux; and many in my country love Esquimaux, and wished me to see them. As a proof that I loved them, I came far across the sea (where the sun rises) to see them—not to make house and trade with them, but to ask them (and they must speak true) if they should like White Man to make house and live in their country, that he may clothe and teach their children to read White Man's book, and write, and to know the Great Spirit.

They all, in one body, expressed a great desire that he should—laughing, and shouting "Heigh! Heigh! Augh! Augh!"

Would they treat White Man well? shouted—"Heigh! Heigh!"

Would they bring him provisions? "Heigh! Heigh!"—adding, that they would not steal from him in their country; a vice of which they are sometimes guilty at the Factory. I then shook hands with them; giving to each individual a clasp-knife, a little tobacco, and a few beads to take with them for their wives.

These Esquimaux reported that they had seen Esquimaux at Chesterfield Inlet, who came from the north, who said that they saw the Discovery Ships, Captain Parry, last summer, when there was no ice; and that they ran away from the coast over the rocks, through fear of them.

The Esquimaux Interpreter, who accompanied Captain Franklin in the Northern Land-Expedition, was very anxious that I should see his countrymen conjure; and, immediately after I had given them the presents, he got a blanket and a large knife, and told me that one of them would put the knife through his body and not die, or fire a ball through his breast leaning upon a gun without being injured. I objected to the deception; and told him that if his countrymen could really conjure, they could conjure the whales to the shores, which were then appearing in the river opposite the Fort: it was with difficulty, however, that I prevented the exhibition.

Mr. West visited another tribe of Esquimaux, about 50 miles north of Fort Churchill, who traverse the coast in the neighbourhood of Knapp's Bay. Of this visit, he says—

We pitched our tent with them for two days. I never knew Indians behave so orderly and with so little trouble as they did: they never once came into my tent, without being asked. They partook of their meals with great cordiality and cheerfulness. I invited to my tent seven of the oldest men among them; and repeated to them the questions which I had put to the others: they also appeared quite overjoyed with the expectation of having a White Man among them, to make house, and teach their children; promising to him plenty of provisions, and not to steal. I gave to these, also, a knife, with some tobacco each, and some beads to take to their wives.

In parting with these Indians to return to Fort Churchill, I felt a lively interest for their eternal welfare; and shall greatly rejoice, if any plan can be devised to accomplish the object of seeking the education of their children. They are an interesting race of people, and appear to me to present a fine field for Missionary Labour; and that, with the hope of much success.

In giving a Summary View of the Society's Proceedings, its efforts for the diffusion of Divine Truth among the Heathen may be noticed—

1. In the CIRCULATION OF EXISTING VERSIONS OF THE HOLY SCRIPTURES, which have been widely disseminated, through its Missionaries, in various quarters of the globe, and in different languages; especially in Egypt, Syria, Greece, and other countries bordering on the Mediterranean—

2. In its TRANSLATIONS OR REVISIONS OF THE WHOLE OR PARTS OF THE SACRED VOLUME in various languages; as the Bullom and Susoo, in Africa; the Malayalim, Tamul, Cingalese, and Hinduwee, in India; and that spoken by the inhabitants of New Zealand—

3. In its EMPLOYMENT OF NATIVES AS READERS OF THE HOLY SCRIPTURES to their uneducated countrymen—

4. In the establishment of PRINTING-PRESSES, which, to the number of ten, are actively employed, in various Missionary Stations, in printing the Scriptures and Tracts, and in the supply of Elementary Books to the Schools.

5. In the PROMOTING OF EDUCATION, on a large scale, among the Heathen; in the prosecution of which object, the Society's labours have proved successful, not only directly (in bringing many thousands of children and adults under a course of religious instruction), but indirectly also, in stirring up the Natives to forward the work of education among themselves, by their own voluntary agency—

6. In the ESTABLISHMENT OF CHRISTIAN MINISTERS, the EMPLOYMENT OF NATIVES in the work of instruction, the ERECTION OF CHURCHES, and the GATHERING OF THE HEATHEN INTO THE FOLD OF CHRIST. For the use of such Congregations, the Liturgy of the United Church has been translated into the languages of many of the countries where the Society's Missions are established, particularly the Susoo, Bullom, Tamul, Hindoostanee, Bengalee, and Cingalese; and whilst the Society is thus the means of extending the influence of our Apostolical Church, by teaching the Native Congregations to worship God in the same form of words as ourselves, the Society derives also, mutually, great advantage from its character as an Episcopal Society, especially in the intercourse of its Missionaries with Ancient Christian Churches. The Syrian Christians, in particular, on the coast of Malabar, have received its Missionaries with the greatest cordiality and respect.

In the prosecution of this work, the Society expended, in its last year, upward of THIRTY-SEVEN THOUSAND POUNDS. The Meeting will be gratified to hear, that it now numbers fourteen hundred Clergymen among its Members—that it employs FOUR HUNDRED AND NINETEEN LABOURERS; of whom 106 are Europeans, and 313 were chiefly born in the respective countries where they are employed—that it has TWO HUNDRED AND SIXTY-FIVE SCHOOLS, connected with FORTY-TWO MISSIONARY STATIONS in its NINE MISSIONS: in which Schools there are THIRTEEN THOUSAND SIX HUNDRED AND EIGHTEEN SCHOLARS; of whom 9584 are Boys, 2609 Girls, and 1425 Adults—and that the Word of Salvation is not only published to many settled Congregations formed from among the Heathen, but that it is made known far and wide, by discussions and conversations with the pilgrim and the traveller by the way-side, with the crowds which frequent the market-places of the city, and with the multitudes which assemble at Fairs of vast resort or for the worship of their dumb Idols—and that, by the blessing of God on all these means, not only is Divine Light gradually, but certainly, diffusing itself throughout that gross darkness which has covered the nations, but, in some places, the little one has become a thousand, and the small one a strong nation—giving full assurance that the Lord will hasten the entire accomplishment of all His promises in His time.

From persons in authority, both at home and abroad, the Society has continued to receive the most prompt and kind assistance in its labours. His Majesty's Government has ever lent a ready ear to the statements of its plans and wishes, and rendered assistance to its objects; and in the several Missions of the Society, the Local Governments have continued to furnish facilities to its proceedings.

To the List of Vice-Presidents, the Committee have had the pleasure to add, in the last year, the name of the Very Reverend the Dean of Salisbury, who had long, in various ways, rendered valuable service to the Cause of Missions.

In conclusion, the Committee would remark, that it is obvious to intelligent observers, that the difficulties attending the prosecution of Missionary Labours in a right spirit and with adequate means, multiply as those labours increase. The Committee of one of the Associations have very sensibly adverted to one of these difficulties, arising out of the very nature and progress of the work in which Missionary Societies are engaged:—

Uniformity of labour and effect is, perhaps, implied in that steady progress, which is reported from almost every quarter. Human nature being the same everywhere and at all times—idolatry and paganism, in their various modifications, being also essentially the same in principle and in effects—after a little while, Missionaries will be found fulfilling the like daily task, and pacing almost an unvaried round of toil, of discouragement, and success. The scenery of the moral agrees with that of the natural world in this, that the first striking varieties being attentively marked, the traveller finds the like general features continually recurring; and even apparent discrepancies, when more closely considered, melting down into uniformity and similarity. The effect of this will too often be, that the stimulus of novelty, the impression of strange and unexpected occurrences, not being felt, the Missionary Cause may proportionably seem to decline in interest.

This deadly and blighting effect of uniformity of operations and results, be it remembered, is unfelt by those spiritual foes, who labour unceasingly to maintain their rule and increase their dominion by human errors, ignorances, remissness, and corruption. The strong man armed desires ever to keep his goods in peace. Next to the absolute frustration of a good work, his purpose is served in averting men's minds from it, by begetting the persuasion, that enough of effort has been put forth, and that to carry our labours beyond the present mode or measure may risk altogether their success and efficacy. To guard against these his temptations, let it be often called to mind, that Scripture holds, from one day to another, and from one generation to another, the same positive, the same unvarying testimony—that the unrighteous shall not inherit the kingdom; that there is one only Saviour, and salvation in none other; neither is any other Name under heaven given among men whereby we must be saved.

But the temptations of the Great Enemy are directed against the Missionary Cause, not only through the infirmities of its friends, but by bringing into action in numberless ways the natural enmity of the fallen mind. The Society and all kindred Institutions have to pursue their course under peculiar circumstances. The efforts of these bodies begin to assume such a rank in the affairs of the world, that the Journalists and Historians of the time can no longer pass them unnoticed. And the treatment which they receive at the hands of these persons is such as might be expected. Christian Writers record their progress with exultation; and further their efforts, if occasions require it, by friendly suggestions and counsel: but writers who have little else or nothing else of the Christian but the name, and others who repudiate that name with scorn, treat the plans and measures of these Societies with the ignorance, injustice, or contumely to which their own state of mind naturally gives birth. Anxiety for the spiritual and eternal welfare of others can have no place in the breasts of those who have none for their own.

But, under whatever difficulties this work is to be prosecuted, Christians will rejoice at the encouragement afforded, in every direction, to these benevolent undertakings; and will with more humble affiance repose themselves, while they put forth every power in the service of God, on His promised guidance and blessing. It is not one Society or one scheme, alone, that meets with success, and records instances of the Divine Favour: every prudent plan of benevolence is, in its measure, attended with prosperity. All have their full share of encouragement: their Funds, almost without exception, increase—their Stations multiply—fresh Labourers are raised up—the number of Scholars receives continual accessions—new doors of usefulness are opened—and, here and there, the gracious influence of Heaven on the seed sown, gives promise of the abundant harvest which will arise, when the Faith and Prayers of the Church shall have brought down the full shower of grace on the parched soil.

The state of the world, as connected with the prophetical declarations of Scripture, may, at once, both excite and encourage the determined exertions of Christians in all their plans for its conversion. In respect, either of Instruments to accomplish the Divine Purposes, or of Funds to support them in their labours, the Church of Christ is but beginning to put forth that power which has been palsied for ages, and which will augment in efficiency in proportion as it is exerted. While the Committee do, therefore, gratefully acknowledge, in the Name of Him whom they serve, the aid which their fellow-servants have rendered to His Cause, they press on every one the serious consideration, whether he has done all that it is in his power to do, and which he is bound to attempt, for the advancement of his Saviour's kingdom.

No man can say that he has acted up to the extent of his obligations. Let him but feel, in its full energy, the constraining power of the love of Christ to his own soul, and the first waking thought and the last conscious desire of every day will be how he may best live unto Him who died for him. Let him but know, in the full comprehension of their value, the things which are freely given to him of God, and lay to heart the dreadful state and imminent danger of the perishing world, with his own responsibility for the talents committed to his charge, and the few fleeting moments in which, to all eternity, he will be able to do any thing toward the Salvation of immortal souls—let him feel all this as he ought, and every faculty of body and soul, every hour of his waking life, and every atom of power and influence which he can command, will be devoted to rescue souls from death and to hide a multitude of sins.

But though, in the view of our infinite obligations, the most devoted Christian will ever feel himself an unprofitable servant, yet, animated by an assured forgiveness and gracious acceptance through the merits and intercession of His Saviour, he is not discouraged; but whatever his hand findeth to do for the salvation of the world, he doeth it with all his might. May this sacred desire and this holy determination be awakened in every heart!

While thus called to exertion, the Divine Purposes revealed in the Word, and the Divine Promises there assured to the Servants of God while labouring for His glory, may well animate and encourage us in all privations and labours. The faith ful servant of God may, indeed, with the Apostle, suffer as an evil-doer, even unto bonds; but the word of God is not bound! Nay, he may die in his bonds; but Christ will be glorified by him, whether it be by life or by death.

In patience, then, let Christians possess their souls—in meekness instructing those that oppose themselves, if God peradventure will give them repentance to the acknowledging of the truth; but always labouring fervently for one another in prayers, that they may stand perfect and complete in all the will of God; not counting life dear unto themselves, so that they may finish their course with joy, and fulfil that work which is assigned to them in promoting the Knowledge of Christ, and making manifest to perishing sinners the Gospel of the Grace of God.

CIRCULAR ISSUED AT CALCUTTA RELATIVE TO A CENTRAL FEMALE-SCHOOL.

When the idea of attempting to educate the Native Females of this country was first suggested, it appeared to be an undertaking so vast in its object and so hopeless in its nature, that many of the most zealous promoters of institutions for the improvement of India hesitated as to the expediency of the measure. Difficulties presented themselves on every side, such as seemed to preclude all rational expectation of success: the labour, too, appeared to be interminable; and it was even feared, that the effort to raise contributions for so apparently desperate a cause might not have a favourable influence on Missionary Exertions in general. On the arrival, however, of a suitable person from England, who had consecrated herself to this specific object, the plan was proposed; and a commencement actually made, in the face of all discouragements. A full year has now elapsed, since the Calcutta Committee of the Church Missionary Society resolved on supporting Miss Cooke, in her endeavours to introduce the blessings of education among the Native Females of Bengal.

The Committee announce, with unfeigned thankfulness to God, that much greater success than could have been anticipated has hitherto attended the undertaking. The number of Female Schools already established is FIFTEEN; and ELEVEN SCHOOL-HOUSES HAVE BEEN ACTUALLY ERECTED. In all these schools, for some time after their establishment, the attention is exclusively given to reading and writing; but as soon as a class has been formed who can read lessons in the Bengalee Book of Fables, instruction in needle-work is held out to the Girls as a reward, with a promise that they shall receive the usual remuneration for the work done.

As the fruits of industry began to be enjoyed, the desire of learning to work became greater; so that in six schools, where some proficiency has been made, about 80 dozen of dusters have been hemmed, and some have become capable of executing finer work. In a few of the schools, knitting has been also introduced. Many applications have been made by Women unconnected with the Schools, for permission to attend in order to learn needle-work; but no female is taught to work, until she has made some progress in reading and writing.

Upward of 300 Female Children are now under a course of instruction. As the schools increase, the want of Teachers is naturally felt; and, in this respect, the schools begin to be productive. At first, only one woman could be found capable of teaching. Since the schools were opened, a respectable Widow has qualified herself for the charge of one of the new schools, and three Young Women are preparing themselves to act as teachers.

The Committee have, indeed, every encouragement to proceed. While, therefore, they acknowledge, with great thankfulness, the liberality by which they have been enabled to enter upon this arduous career, they feel assured that the disposition to give support to the cause will gather strength from its success. Under this impression, they would most respectfully and earnestly solicit the contributions of the community IN FURTHER prosecution of their plans.

The time is arrived when a CENTRAL SCHOOL is urgently wanted. Hitherto Miss Cooke's initiatory labours have been carried on among detached schools, some of them separated from each other by considerable distances; in the superintendence of which she has been indefatigable, visiting as many as her time and strength would admit, every day. As her schools increased, the labour of efficient teaching became proportionably greater. It is now become important to provide for the more easy and effectual management of her enlarged numbers. With this view, it is proposed to erect a school in some central spot, to be called the "Central School for Native Female Education." At present, Miss Cooke has to repeat often the same lessons to a FEW at once; whereas in a school centrally situated, the first classes might assemble from all the schools after their morning lessons, and receive together the instruction now given in detached parties. The saving of labour would thus be considerable, and the improvement of the children would also be much more rapid. The advantages of such a school are indeed too obvious to need specification.

The Committee, therefore, solicit the attention of their friends and the public to this point; and hope to be enabled to add the important measure of a Central Establishment, in aid of the schools already so auspiciously commenced. The benefits which must be conferred on Native Society by the improvement of the Female Character will be felt by all: and, now that the first difficulties have been removed, and Providence has so clearly opened the way for attempting this desirable object, the united motives of humanity, policy, and Christian Benevolence urge us to go forward.

FORMATION AND REGULATIONS OF THE CALCUTTA CHURCH MISSIONARY ASSOCIATION.

Circular.

IT is well known that, hitherto, the concerns of the Church Missionary Society have been conducted by a Committee, appointed originally from home, who applied the Annual Pecuniary Grants of the Parent Institution to the support of the Missions at Calcutta and other places in this Presidency; and that although the friends of religion have for several years substantially contributed to the cause, yet they have not been FORMALLY EMBODIED OR PERSONALLY ENGAGED in the work. In Europe, it is scarcely practicable to do more than associate for the purpose of prayer and forming collections for Missionary Objects; but, here, being on the spot where myriads of our fellow-creatures bow down to idols, and witnessing their degradation and misery, something more is required from Christians than pecuniary contributions; something which may tend to engage them in practical Missionary Details, and thus interest their hearts and unite their hands in helping forward the work of the Lord.

The manifest advantages of such an union must, indeed, appear to every reflecting mind. May it not be feared, that much of that indifference to Divine Things, which is so visible in these parts, is to be ascribed to the want of zeal for the cause of Christ?—and that because Professing Christians are backward to LABOUR for the Redeemer, therefore many spiritual blessings are withheld from them? It is, certainly, an ascertained fact, that Associations for the extension of the Gospel abroad have been productive of the best effects in England: the minds of many young persons have been roused to inquire after the Gospel for themselves—the zeal of Christians has been called forth—and many have had reason to bless God for the good which they have themselves received, while labouring, according to their ability, to communicate the knowledge of Divine Truth to their perishing fellow-creatures.

The Church Missionary Committee, therefore, availing themselves of the facilities afforded by the arrival of the Rev. Isaac Wilson among them, are anxious that no delay should take place in forming an Association for the purposes above mentioned.

[On Thursday the 31st of July, at the Church Missionary Meeting, after Evening Service at the Mission Church, notice was given, that the time for maturing an Association in connection with the Church Missionary Committee appearing to be fully arrived, the friends of that Society were requested to consider how that measure might be most effectually accomplished.

After some discussion on the nature and immediate objects of the Association, it was agreed that the further consideration of the subject should be postponed until Monday Evening, the 11th of August, when the friends of the measure were requested to meet again for the purpose of digesting the Rules of the Association.

On Monday Evening, the 11th of August, a Meeting accordingly took place, when Resolutions were provisionally adopted, and the final establishment of the Association deferred till the next Church Missionary Meeting on the 28th of August, in order that time might be allowed for making them generally known.]

Formation of the Association.

At a Meeting held on the evening of Thursday, the 28th of August, in the Old-Church Room, after attending the Weekly Lecture in the Church, the following Resolutions were unanimously adopted:—

1. That the cordial thanks of this Meeting be given to the Rev. Isaac Wilson, for his Sermon preached on this occasion.

2. That the friends of the Church Missionary Society here assembled, deeply impressed with the call now made upon them, deem it their duty as Christians, to co-operate, as far as their circumstances and abilities may allow, with the Missionaries of that Society resident in Calcutta, in promoting the propagation of the Gospel around them.

3. That, with this view, we form ourselves into an Association, in connection with the Corresponding Committee of the Church Missionary Society for Africa and the East, to be denominated the CALCUTTA CHURCH MISSIONARY ASSOCIATION.

4. That the objects of this Association shall be those of the Parent Institution; comprehending, therefore, whatever may tend to advance the Missionary Cause, according to its ability and resources; and, especially, to call forth the zeal of well-disposed persons in the Established Church—to support Missionary Exertions—to collect, and disperse as widely as possible information connected with Missionary Subjects—and to superintend Schools for the poor Native Christians and the Natives of India in general.

5. That all persons subscribing statedly to the Association (to whatever amount) be considered Members; and, as such, be supplied with a copy of the Corresponding Committee's Quarterly Publication.

6. That the business of the Association be under the management of a President—Vice-Presidents—a Treasurer—a Secretary—and a Committee, consisting of not less than twelve Laymen Members of the Established Church, and all Clergymen of the Church of England contributing to the funds of the Association, and all Missionaries of the Church Missionary Society; with power to associate with themselves any friends of the Society, who may be willing to collect contributions in aid of the Association.

7. That Meetings for the despatch of business take place once a month, on the Tuesdays immediately preceding the Church Missionary Meetings, which fall on the last Thursday in the month; five members being competent to act.

8. That the Rev. Daniel Corrie be President, and the other Members of the Corresponding Committee, for the time being, Vice-Presidents.

9. That G. Ballard, Esq. be Treasurer; the Rev. Isaac Wilson, Secretary; and the following Gentlemen, Members of the Committee for the year ensuing, with power to add to their number:—

T. Brown,	J. Richardson,
W. Byrn,	M. D'Rozario,
R. Forbes,	W. E. Rymer,
W. Harper,	J. Sheriff,
H. C. Lee,	T. A. Vickers,
J. Murray,	J. Wood.

10. That a General Meeting of the Association be held annually, on a day to be fixed hereafter; when a Report of the Proceedings of the Year shall be read, a statement of the Receipts and Disbursements presented, and a new Committee chosen, eight of whom shall be appointed from the old Committee, and four from the general body of Members.

Address to the Christian Public in behalf of the Calcutta Church Missionary Association.

So many well-adjusted plans for the benefit of mankind have never been so extensively called into active operation as in the present day.

For a long time, the zealous labours of Christians were confined to objects more immediately within their own sphere, and nearer home; but, of late years, new measures have been adopted, information has been diffused, and the willing co-adjutors of religion and truth have eagerly listened to the calls of human misery and the promotion of vital godliness.

In such noble works of benevolence, the Members of the Established Church have taken an enterprising and praise-worthy part: under their fostering care, many plans for the best interests of our fellow-creatures have been formed, and persevering efforts made to spread the knowledge of our adorable Saviour. Yet, considering that much was still unattempted, some Clergymen of the Established Church, above twenty years ago, planned a Society, in strict harmony with their own sentiments as Churchmen, and in perfect conformity to that standard of Apostolic Doctrine and Discipline which the Articles and Homilies so beautifully express. This they called the "Church Missionary Society for Africa and the East." Since its establishment, several thousand Heathen Children have been educated under its patronage—Missionaries have been sent forth to preach the Gospel—and many have been converted to Christianity.

As there are various claims upon this Society, its friends have solicited the general aid and co-operation of the Members of the Established Church to procure Subscriptions, and enable them to meet the increasing demands of the Society's operations. Persons thus uniting themselves for the purpose of assisting the objects of the Parent Institution are called Church Missionary Associations; and they are now so very general, that every County in England has its Association. By this means much Christian Feeling is elicited, united prayer is offered for the conversion of Heathens, and large contributions are raised for sending the Gospel among Gentile Nations.

Impressed with the urgent calls upon us in this country, and following the example of our friends at home, we have formed ourselves into an Association to be called the CALCUTTA CHURCH MISSIONARY ASSOCIATION. The Resolutions affixed to this Address will fully explain the nature and design of the institution; and we feel persuaded that every candid reader will forcibly see, that the appeal which we now make to our friends is both plain, reasonable, and necessary. The awful scenes of Idolatry which we daily witness, and the great want of instruction among those immediately near us, are subjects which urge upon us the importance of an Association like this. While we acknowledge, with thankfulness, what has been already done for the Church Missionary Society in Calcutta, we cannot but deeply feel that very inadequate means have been attempted in behalf of those, who are not yet brought within the pale of the Christian Church.

Anxious, therefore, to call forth the zeal of well-disposed persons to assist us in this work, we would press upon them the necessity of friendly co-operation and support, in order to carry forward with success the various objects of the Association. The Church Missionary Society has done much in this country by the establishment of Schools &c.; yet, hitherto, nearly all the expenses have devolved upon the Society at home. We have no doubt but the case will be materially altered, as soon as our friends see what we are doing to better the condition of Heathens by religious and general education.

There is one consideration, which renders this appeal peculiarly forcible to every individual residing in India. The Natives of this country do not require us to feed and clothe them: their temporal wants are generally supplied by themselves. The principal call upon us, therefore, is—to benefit them by affording the means of instruction, and thus make them wise in time and happy through eternity.

It is a striking fact, that the Members of the Established Church, according to their numbers and resources, have done less to support Missionary Exertions in connection with their own Establishment, than any other body of Christians. But we trust that a spirit of more general activity is diffusing itself among us; and that we shall not only cordially approve the wise and liberal measures which have been adopted for meeting the spiritual wants of those among whom Providence has placed us, but also become fellow-helpers in the cause of our adorable Redeemer.

ISAAC WILSON,

FORMATION AND REGULATIONS OF THE CALCUTTA AUXILIARY CHURCH MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

ON Monday the First of December 1823, a Meeting of the Friends and Supporters of the Church Missionary Society was held in the Old Church Room, for the purpose of forming an AUXILIARY CHURCH MISSONARY SOCIETY—

The LORD BISHOP OF CALCUTTA in the Chair.

G. Udny, Esq. opened the business of the Meeting, by adverting to the operations of the Church Missionary Society at this Presidency. He stated, that, in 1807, the Society voted 250*l.*

for the furtherance of Missionary Objects; and constituted him, together with the late Rev. David Brown and the Rev. Dr. Buchanan, a Corresponding Committee—that, in 1809, the grant was increased to 500*l.*—and the Society had gone on increasing their contributions as circumstances called for them, and they now remit annually 3000*l.*

With the assistance thus afforded, and further contributions raised in this country, the Corresponding Committee had established Schools in various parts of the country, had supported Missionaries, and had been enabled to extend their operations much beyond their expectation—that in consequence of the increased importance of the labours of the Committee, and of the enlarged measures of the Society, which required additional patronage and support, the Corresponding Committee had, with the advice and concurrence of the Lord Bishop, agreeably also, as they conceived, to the wishes of the Parent Society, called the present Meeting with a view to form an Auxiliary Society, on which the labours of the Committee might be devolved, and which might be able to promote the measures of the Parent Society in a more extensive and efficient manner than had hitherto been done.

The following Resolutions were then proposed, and unanimously adopted: —

1. That with a view to the more efficient and extensive prosecution of the highly important objects of the Church Missionary Society, the Meeting accept of the powers heretofore vested in the Corresponding Committee of the Church Missionary Society at Calcutta, which have been tendered to them; and that a Society be now formed, which shall be designated, " The Calcutta Church Missionary Society, Auxiliary to the Church Missionary Society for Africa and the East."

2. That the labours and functions of the Corresponding Committee, comprehending the superintendence of the Society's Missions, correspondence with the Missionaries and with the Parent Society, and all matters connected with the management of Missionary Operations, be transferred to this Society.

3. That all the landed or other property, now in charge of or under controul of the Committee, be understood as belonging to, and agreed to be held subject to the disposal of the Parent Society, in whom it shall be vested, as well as any other property to be hereafter acquired by the Auxiliary.

4. That the centre of the Society's Operations shall be in Calcutta; and that it extend itself throughout the Provinces subject to this Presidency, as opportunities may offer, by Associations to be denominated "CHURCH MISSIONARY ASSOCIATIONS in aid of the CALCUTTA AUXILIARY CHURCH MISSIONARY SOCIETY," according to the precedent established by the Church Missionary Association in Calcutta.

5. That all persons subscribing or collecting annually the sum of Sa. Rs. 32, or upward, be deemed a Member of this Society.

6. That the business of this Society be conducted by a President, Vice-Presidents, members of the Established Church, Treasurer, Secretary, and a Committee, consisting of all Clergymen of the Established Church who are members of this Society, not being Missionaries, and Laymen, members of the Established Church, not exceeding twelve.

7. That the Committee shall hold monthly meetings for the dispatch of business, and that five shall be competent to act.

8. That all Bills drawn on the Parent Society, after being voted in the Committee, shall be signed by the President and the Secretary.

9. That this Society shall once, at least, in every year, transmit to the Bishop of the Diocese, and to the Committee of the Parent Society, an Abstract of their Proceedings and Regulations.

10. That the Right Reverend the Lord Bishop of Calcutta be respectfully requested to accept the office of President.

11. That G. Udny, Esq. and J. H. Harington, Esq. be Vice-Presidents.

12. That G. Ballard, Esq. be requested to act as Treasurer; and the Rev. Archdeacon Corrie, as Secretary; and that the following Gentlemen be the Lay-members of the Committee:

E. A. Newton, Esq.
Colonel M'Innes,
Captain Hutchinson, Engineers,
Captain Chesney, Artillery, &
M. Gisborne, Esq.

with power to add to their number and fill up vacancies, subject to confirmation at the Annual Meeting to be held on the Wednesday after Whitsunday; and with the privilege of admitting to their consultations the Presidents of Associations and Honorary Members, whom it may be desirable to associate in the discussions of the Committee.

13. That a Report of the Proceedings shall be annually read at the General Meeting on the above-named day, and afterwards published, with an Abstract of Receipts and Disbursements during the year.

14. That the amount collected by Associations be applied, at their option, to purposes of the Society, within the range of such Associations; subject only to the approval of proceedings, tracts, and school-books, by the Committee of the Auxiliary Society, who will afford the use of their press at the Presidency, in printing what may be thus approved.

15. That the Thanks of this Meeting be given to George Udny, Esq., and to the other Gentlemen and Clergymen, members of the late Corresponding Committee.

On the Tenth Resolution being proposed by the Archdeacon, and seconded by J. H. Harington, Esq. and unanimously and cordially adopted by the Meeting, the Lord Bishop expressed at some length the cordiality with which he accepted the office of President of the Society. He observed, that he had noticed the Proceedings of the Church Missionary Society from its formation; and though he had no connection with the excellent men who established it, except a common feeling for the objects aimed at, he had, in common with many others, always admired the prudence, perseverance, and energy with which its operations had been conducted. He also congratulated the Meeting on the success which had attended the operations of the Society in Africa, and, he would add, in this country also, where extensive good is accomplishing by its means, in conjunction with other Societies of a similar nature; and that he should be happy to render it all the assistance in his power.

STANDING REGULATIONS OF THE COMMITTEE OF THE CALCUTTA AUXILIARY.

At a Meeting of the Committee, held December the 8th, in the Bishop's House—present

The Lord Bishop of Calcutta, President, in the Chair—

E. A. Newton, Esq.—Rev. T. Thomason—Rev. G. W. Craufurd—Rev. Dr. Parish—Colonel M'Innes—Captain Hutchinson—and Rev. Daniel Corrie, (Secretary)—

the following Resolutions were adopted, as the Standing Resolutions of the Committee—

1. That all the Episcopal Missionaries of the Society at this Presidency, who have not obtained the Bishop's Licence, be directed to apply to him for the same; and that every Missionary of the Society, Episcopally ordained, be directed, on his arrival from England, to present himself to the Bishop of the Diocese for his Licence.

2. That the Secretary be authorised to draw upon the Treasurer for the amount of the Bills for current expenses, and all disbursements sanctioned by the Committee; and that such Bills, together with all communications addressed to him on the business of the Society, be laid before the Committee at the next monthly meeting.

3. That the Secretary keep a fair copy of the Proceedings of the Committee, in a book for that purpose.

4. That the correspondence of the Committee with the Parent Society in London shall be carried on through the Secretary, who shall receive instructions from the Committee, and sign every Letter with his name and addition, as Secretary of the Calcutta Auxiliary Church Missionary Society.

5. That the Secretary do keep an Account Book, exhibiting an abstract of the Committee's receipts and disbursements; to be made up from time to time by the Treasurer, and produced to the Committee whenever the same may be called for.

6. That the Secretary be empowered to engage a Writer, at a monthly salary of 30 rupees, and also a Hurkaruh at 5 rupees.

7. That the Committee do meet every Third Wednesday in the Month, at half-past nine; of which three days' notice be given by the Secretary.

8. That the Right Reverend the President, or, in his absence, the senior Vice-President then in Calcutta, shall be empowered to call Special Meetings of the Committee, when the affairs of the Society may render it necessary.

9. That every Meeting of the Committee shall commence and terminate with a Form of Prayer, to be approved by the President.

10. That the above Resolutions be considered as Standing Rules for the conduct of the Committee.

It was further Resolved, that 700 copies of the Resolutions of the General Meeting, and the Standing Regulations adopted by the Committee, be printed; and that the President and the Secretary be requested to transmit them to the friends of the Society in different parts of India and Europe, with such recommendations as they may judge likely to obtain further support to the objects of the Society.

MEANS OF PROVIDING EMPLOYMENT FOR NATIVE CHRISTIANS IN INDIA.

It has long been considered a most desirable object, to enable those Natives of India who have embraced Christianity, to obtain a livelihood by their own labour and industry; but the chief difficulty is, to combine with this object another equally important—regular religious instruction, without which they would soon be enticed back by their idolatrous countrymen and relations.

The Jesuits, and the Roman-Catholic Priests belonging to the Society of the Propaganda, appear to have been fully sensible of the advantages of such a plan. At Agra, where there is a Roman-Catholic Church, which, by the inscriptions on the tomb-stones, appears to be of very ancient date, the Native Converts resided on the premises, and probably cultivated the ground with which the Church is endowed. For many years past, however, the religious instruction of these Natives has been so much neglected, that they have little of Christianity but the name.

On the north-east borders of the Zillah or District of Tirhout, and adjoining the District of Goruckpore, near the River Gunduk, is the village of Battiah, inhabited by Roman-Catholic Converts. These people are well known in many parts of Bengal, by the large quantity of poultry which they rear, and carry for sale to a considerable distance. For several years, no Pastor has regularly resided among them, and they are in a very low state.

The most successful modern attempt to employ Native Converts with which the Writer is acquainted, came under his observation during an excursion in the year 1820, in the Dinagepore District. Mr. Fernandez, a Portugueze Gentlemen, whose commercial pursuits are chiefly in the Indigo line, has been the instrument of converting many Natives. On a Sunday Morning in the month of March, 26 women, 13 men, and 20 children were seen assembled at his house for Public Worship: a Chapter of the New Testament was read in Bengalee, and carefully expounded in the same language, which Mr. Fernandez speaks fluently: a hymn was afterward sung by the whole congregation: the Service concluded with prayer: in the afternoon, the number collected was said to be about 150 persons, including those who attended from motives of curiosity. Two Schools, consisting of 150 scholars, were also superintended by Mr. Fernandez. Twenty-four miles from Dinagepore, this Gentleman has an estate where Indigo is manufactured; and it is here, where he chiefly employs the Converted Natives. At the period alluded to, there were 80 persons, including children, residing in a little village on the estate: most of them were converted from Mahomedanism, and the few who had been Hindoos belonged to the caste called Razeebans. Their occupation was that of weavers and petty shop-keepers: at present, some are servants on the farm, others make coarse paper for the village schools—some weave a coarse, narrow kind of canvas for bags and sacks, and many are employed in agriculture. They all appeared very happy and contented, and spoke gratefully of Mr. Fernandez' care of them. Two things deserve particular notice:—they stated that those who held some land of the neighbouring Zemindars, or Farmers, were not at all molested on account of their new religion; and the English Magistrates and principal Civil Authorities stated, that these converts were noted for their peaceable demeanor—they prosecuted no one in the Civil Courts, and no one prosecuted them or even complained of them. Those who are well acquainted with the litigious disposition of the Bengalees will duly appreciate this interesting fact. This little community assembled daily for religious worship, and twice on Sundays. A Native Convert, brought up by the Serampore Baptist Missionaries, was residing among them, and attended to their religious instruction. The villagers often came to hear Mr. Fernandez preach; and five of them were, at that time, applying to be admitted into the Christian Church. The chief cultivation is rice; and provisions are so cheap, that the converts, who were regular servants on the farm, received from one rupee-and-a-half to one rupee-and-three-quarters, or from 3*s.* to 3*s.* 6*d.* per month, for which sum they both clothed and fed themselves.

As the Dinagepore District is thinly inhabited, it is usual to employ Hillmen, termed Dongahs, from the Western or Curruckpore Hills, and Booteeahs from the Eastern Hills in Bootan, during the harvest months; and, as their religion differs entirely from that of the inhabitants of the plains, these inhabitants are probably become more tolerant, and less disposed to molest others who differ from them in religion.

The Church Missionary Society having been eminently successful in the Schools which they have established in the District of Burdwan, it is probable that they would find little difficulty in forming a small village of Native Converts in that part of the country. The Missionaries settled at Burdwan could easily superintend the religious instruction of the little community, which might be placed in some central situation with reference to the Village Schools; but much care would be required in the selection of a person to superintend the Agricultural pursuits and other labours of the Native Converts. A European, who has not long resided in the country, would be very unfit for such a task; and it is scarcely to be expected, that a person duly qualified would be able to give up his time to these people. It would hardly be safe to entrust an unconverted Native with a situation, which would necessarily give him much influence. It is among the class termed Indo-Britons—the offspring of European Fathers—that the assistance required may probably be obtained: a person of true piety, of this class, and of an active mind, may be expected to derive much satisfaction from such a charge.

Agricultural pursuits are so very simple and easy in India, that they are readily carried on when the necessary stock of cattle, ploughs, and utensils for husbandry is obtained; and the expense is very moderate, compared with the importance of the object. As Native Converts would not be restricted by caste to any particular trade, they might easily be taught those most suitable to their new situation. The cultivation of the soil, the rearing of poultry and of silkworms, the manufactory of sugar, tobacco, pottery, and paper, weaving cloths and carpets, spinning cotton, and a variety of other trades, could easily be named, which would furnish full employment; and the produce of which would meet with a ready and profitable sale, without requiring any great outlay.

It must, however, be recollected, that the change of religion will not speedily effect any great change in the character of the Natives: they must still be expected to be indolent, and little disposed to exertion; and will require to be carefully looked after. They will be inclined to trust a good deal to the charitable disposition of their European Friends, to preserve them from being exposed to actual want: and hence arises the absolute necessity of an active and intelligent trusty person, residing among them—superintending their labours, and exciting their industry.

The distance of Burdwan from Calcutta renders it easy for some Members of the Committee of the Church Missionary Association to proceed thither from time to time, and maintain an enlightened and efficient controul over the whole Missionary Establishment in that District.

The plan here suggested will necessarily require the concentration of the Missionary Labours toward that part of the country, which also possesses many local advantages. The adjoining District of Beerboom borders on a hilly country, occupied by mountaineers denominated Peharriahs and Dongahs, who are known for their laborious and industrious habits. The eminent success, which Mr. Cleaveland had in attempting to establish habits of good order and peaceable conduct among the mountaineers residing in the Curruckpore District, is well known in Bengal; and his philanthropic conduct was nobly recorded by the objects of his solicitude, who, on his demise, erected, at their own expense, a lofty Monument to commemorate their gratitude for his fatherly conduct toward them. At a time when these men were notorious for their lawless and predatory habits, and for their perpetual inroads into the plains, Mr. Cleaveland, who held a high situation in the Civil Service of Bengal, determined to go among them in their own hills; and so entirely gained their confidence, that he prevailed on each family to furnish one man as a soldier in a kind of Militia Regiment, which he prevailed on Government to raise, to secure the mountaineers from the revenge of the lowlanders: each man became responsible for the peaceable conduct of his own family; and, from that moment, they have been distinguished by their quiet and good conduct. It is believed that no Missionary has yet attempted to labour among this highly interesting race of men; and it may reasonably be hoped, that when the good seed sown in Burdwan begins to flourish, the neighbouring North-West Districts will afford a most delightful field for publishing the tidings of great joy.

VIEW OF SOME OF THE CHIEF DISTRICTS IN THE MADRAS PRESIDENCY, IN REFERENCE, MORE PARTICULARLY, TO FUTURE MISSIONARY LABOURS.

THE following Questions were circulated, and Answers requested, in order to obtain the information which the Society desired:—

1. Name and Geographical Situation of the District, its principal Towns, and the character of the country in respect to Climate.
2. Religion, Language, Occupations, Number, and prevailing Castes of the people, with the general Character of the different classes.
3. Whether any and what Christian Missions or Communities exist in the District; and, if any, by whom first established; and the numbers, and temporal and moral condition of the Christian Natives.
4. The Facilities or Obstacles presented to Missionary Undertakings—the most suitable situations for Missions—the most eligible methods of pursuing Missionary Plans—and the qualifications desirable for the Missionaries in that particular sphere.
5. Any additional information or observations, which occur as likely to be useful, with a view to the object of the inquiries generally; which is, to possess authentic and comprehensive information for the guidance of measures undertaken by the Society, either for the improvement of the religious condition of the present Christian Natives who are not already under the care of other Protestant Missionary Societies, or for the extension of the benefits of Christianity to the Heathen Inhabitants of the country.

Chingleput.

This District, formerly called the Company's Jaghire, and now the Zillah of Chingleput, surrounds Madras. The population consists of 365,000 souls, and the geographical extent is about 3400 square miles.

The principal towns are Conjeveram, Trivaloor, and Chingleput; and, at these places, I would recommend that Missionaries should be stationed. Conjeveram is situated on the western side, Trivaloor on the northern, and Chingleput on the southern: at these places, there now are, or have been, Schools under the inspection of the Missionaries at Madras; and the diaries of the Missionaries, who have visited them, afford information as to their extent. The whole of the Zillah is considered healthy; and though the heat is considerable, the variation is not great. Through the greater part of the year, the thermometer ranges from 87 to 92: for a few days it may rise to 95 or 96, and fall to 70; but the climate throughout the year is very equal, and rapid changes are unknown.

It does not occur to me, that there are any particular facilities or obstacles, to Missionary Undertakings, of a local nature. The only point which I would venture to notice is, regarding the qualifications of a Missionary for Conjeveram, which is the grand resort of the principal Hindoos, and the constant residence of great numbers of Brahmins, learned and unlearned. True piety is, in fact, essential to a Missionary; and, therefore, I shall suppose that to exist in the person to be appointed. As, however, he may be expected to be engaged in controversy with the learned, he should be, moreover, a sound Divine, and skilled in logic. He should be conversant with Sanscrit, as well as Tamul: it is very desirable that he should be a man of great suavity of manner and command of temper. There are also some Jains at Conjeveram, who, I have been informed, have conversed with attention and pleasure with the Missionaries who have occasionally visited the place.

Wherever practicable, I suppose two Missionaries will be sent together to a Station; especially if it be not the residence of Europeans. The climate, I think, acts so much upon the frame, as to render this measure very desirable. Mutual encouragement is of importance; and our Blessed Lord and Master sent forth his disciples two and two. Having mentioned three Stations, there would be thus required, six Missionaries: but I am aware I must not indulge any such pleasing expectations, as that these will be immediately sent. The introduction of our Holy Religion, and the improvement of the moral condition of the Native Subjects of British India, it is now generally agreed, will be the gradual result of preaching and teaching; and surely six persons, in a country containing 3400 square miles, and 365,000 souls, are not numerically great. Even two, however, in each Zillah would be a great blessing; and though their preaching and stated ministry would be confined, yet they might superintend many Schools—those grand foundations for the melioration of the future race.

It appears to me, that the greatest importance attaches to instruction in the English Language. A Native who can read English, has a key to all our books; whereas a translation of one work gives no aid to the perusal of another. Translation is laborious, and scarcely two persons agree as to the rendering: I do not wish to detract from the merits of translation, but rather to advocate the plan of introducing our own language. Our manners, our arts, our sciences, and above all our religion, will be communicated in a much more rapid manner in our own language, which the Natives are very desirous to learn. Two or three Central Free-Schools in each Zillah would, in a few years, diffuse a great and lasting advantage. Our Native Subjects would begin to feel in common with ourselves: in learning the English Language, they would imbibe an English Feeling, morally and politically; which would render them better men and faithful subjects.

Under the Madras Presidency, we find the use of the following languages:—Teloogoo, Tamul, Canada, Mahratta, Toolaver, Malayalim, Dukhanee, and Coriya; and these having various dialects. We may add to this, that, in every language, there is a vulgar use of expression quite distinct from the learned writings: not merely in a few words or phrases; but so great is the difference, that the correct language is not comprehended by the mass of the people. The learned, indeed, of every country in the Peninsula study Sanscrit; but that language would not answer for common daily uses, even if it were practicable to teach it. Surely it must be desirable that the governors and the people of a country should possess the means of correspondence in one language; and the language of the Governing Power will naturally be the one of fashion, as well as of business, in the higher departments of the State. But I have no doubt that it would be of the greatest benefit, if English could be used in detail. If there were but one man in every village who could speak English, many corruptions would be exposed, much violence curbed, and many of the good intentions of the Government made public which are now unknown or concealed. Our laws and regulations will be best promulgated in the English Language, if it be once publickly taught; and they will never be generally understood until they are. I will only add my recommendation, that Missionaries should make the teaching of English one of their chief duties.

Missionaries should, as much as possible, assimilate themselves with the Natives, and gain their affections. They should attend to their bodily as well as to their spiritual wants. The Hindoos are an observing people; and will notice what the Missionaries do, before they listen seriously to what they teach. If they gain the heart, they will ensure attention; and they may then preach, with the Divine Blessing, to good purpose. Let the ground be prepared, then let the Missionaries plant and water, and pray to God to give the increase. I should wish, with this purpose in view, that every Missionary was instructed in Medicine and Mechanics: I should be glad to see him able to assist the people when sick, and to direct their labours when in health. In agriculture, and in every craft, there is abundant room for improvement. It occurs to me that a Missionary should direct the industry of Scholars between the hours of teaching; to render them able to provide an honest livelihood, and to fashion them into good subjects. This, I know, like many other good things, is easier to advise than to put in practice: but if we are to attempt any thing, we must use the best means which present themselves: the requisite knowledge of Mechanics or Husbandry would not be profound: it should rather aim at being practical. With regard to a knowledge of Medicine, I would suggest that every Missionary, before he proceeds to India, should study one year, in London, the elements of Anatomy, Pharmacy, and Chemistry. A knowledge of the prominent diseases of India, in order to be practically useful, is certainly attainable; and, in a Missionary, very desirable: a person well grounded in the elementary knowledge of medicine may improve himself by reading and experience. I am aware that this will involve a considerable expense; but I state rather what, to the best of my judgment, is desirable, than any matter which is immediately practicable: but if we wish to introduce our own Mode of Worship together with the fundamentals of the Christian Religion, it is high time that some exertions on an extended and systematic footing should be adopted.

There are Twenty-one Districts under the Madras Presidency, which would require the aid of 126 Missionaries, for a very moderate diffusion of general education and religious instruction; calculating three Stations in each District, and two Missionaries at each Station. But even if two Missionaries were stationed in each District, with a sufficient number of Schools under them, much good might be effected. In Vizagapatam, Bellary, Tanjore, Trichinopoly, and Tinnevelly, there are Missionaries; and Seringapatam might perhaps be inspected by the Missionaries of Bangalore: but, still, there are Fifteen Districts, which require thirty Missionaries. I would first notice the district of Madura, because it is situated between Tinnevelly and Tanjore and Trichinopoly. A chain of Missionary Stations is very desirable: if a Heathen becomes a Christian, the temporal loss which he most feels, is the difficulty of marrying or procuring alliances for his children; but this will gradually be less felt, if there be a chain of Missionaries affording to the Native Christians the means of communicating with one another.

The condition of the Country-born portion of our Indian Subjects well deserves, and I am sure receives, the attention of the Committee. A certain number of pious Young Men might be selected from among them, and educated as Missionaries at the expense of the Society. One Country-born Missionary, joined with a European Missionary, would lessen the labour and increase the utility of both. If a Seminary was instituted, there should exist the means of instruction, not only in Divinity and general Literature, but in the elements of Medicine and the useful Arts. The inculcation of the Christian Religion should go hand in hand with the promotion of morality, the restoration of health, and the encouragement of industry. A great part of the duties of Missionaries will be with the poor; and their management requires much consideration. It is obvious that those who pretend to teach and improve others, must be themselves instructed and intelligent; and if the Parent Society can furnish funds, they might be most beneficially used in the formation of a Seminary for finishing the education of Country-born Youths. It will ultimately be a great aid to the Parent Society, because the difficulty of procuring the services of approved Missionaries is confessedly great: it cannot, indeed, under human infirmity, be otherwise; for a truly-devoted Missionary, with the necessary qualifications, ranks among the great and good men which are rarely to be met with, and which those who consider them at all must for the most part be contented to assist and admire.

Whatever disagreement may exist as to the fittest mode of improving our Native Subjects, and as to the employment of Missionaries, there is one common expression of regret at the total Want of Truth, experienced daily in almost every business and in all quarters, from the highest to the lowest. This evil strikes so deeply at the root of every practical duty, that it is universally lamented: the Love of Money, and entire want of shame in receiving bribes, are scarcely less injurious to the State. Selfishness is the third prominent feature of deformity which I shall mention: this operates extensively, and is a bar to most attempts to improve society: so long as this vice reigns paramount, there never can be an efficient police in the country.

These practical evils may, possibly, attract the attention of some, to the necessity of attempting to improve the moral condition of the Hindoos. I imagine that there will not be found any one to deny the improved state of society in Europe, consequent upon the introduction of Christianity; and yet, in Pagan Rome and Greece, there was found a love of truth, a disregard of wealth, and sometimes a noble spirit of self-devotion, worthy of a better principle. Patriotism was a common virtue. If, then, in these countries, there was a radical deficiency in morals, and the absence of all those principles which Christianity enforces, what shall we say to the indifference with which some regard the necessity of raising the character of the Native Subjects of British India? Is it really nothing to endeavour to substitute truth for falsehood, to teach men to love their neighbours, and to implant a fear of the Almighty Maker of Heaven and Earth which shall check a crime known only to the Omnipresent and All-seeing God?

Those who desire further information relative to the domestic manners and religious observances of the Hindoos, will do well to read the work of the Abbé Dubois, and the powerful History of India by Mr. Mills: the latter is, truly, Philosophy teaching by Examples. Innate Modesty will blush at the impurities strangely styled religious. The philanthropist will lament, to weeping, on the perusal of the accounts of the degradation of his fellow-men; and the Christian, while he rejoices in God his Saviour, will pray to the Father of Mercies, that the day-spring from on high may dawn upon the Nations which lie in darkness.

Tanjore.

The Province of Tanjore lies about 150 miles to the south of Madras: and is bounded, on the north, by the Southern Province of Arcot; on the south, by that of Madura; on the east, by the Sea; and, on the west, by the Countries of Trichinopoly and Tondiman. It is divided into Nine Talooks, which respectively take their names from the largest towns in each; and of which the principal are, Tanjore, Combaconum, Manargood, Trivear, Putticottah, Marjeveram, and Trivalore; to which may be added, separately, Nagore and Negapatam. The general character of the climate is salubrious, and the amount of population is within a million.

The prevailing religion is Hindooism—the language, Tamul—the occupations, chiefly husbandry and weaving. Of the castes, an unusual number is Brahminical: the character of the different classes is unfavourable. When under the Government of the Palace, from imbecility and mismanagement the people groaned under a system of the most oppressive tyranny and extortion, exercised by the usurped power of a few mercenary individuals, which that imbecility could not curb or restrain: and such was the confusion reigning everywhere, that, on the territory falling under the controul of the present Government, there were not in any two villages corresponding weights and measures; but, since that period, the face of things has undergone a material change for the better, leaving still a sediment of vice and corruption in the majority, which is fostered and encouraged even by the existing mode of managing affairs.

There are two Christian Missions in the province; one at Tranquebar, and the other at Tanjore. That at Tranquebar was instituted in 1706, by His Danish Majesty, Frederick the IVth; and was supported by the Royal Treasury, till it was transferred to the superintendence and charge of the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge: those Natives who are attached to it are now very few and scattered—an effect apparently, in some measure, from the pressure of the fall of trade there. Of the Tanjore Missions I have no precise information.

The obstacles to Missionary Undertakings are obviously many, while the facilities are proportionably limited. A Missionary cannot reside in the houses of Natives: light and air are too much excluded. He cannot eat with them; and, in fact, there is hardly any thing which he can do in common with them: and, to win his way to their attention and regard, he requires a very exact knowledge of their language, manners, and customs; and an entire abstinence from all attempts to ridicule their prejudices and maxims. Wherever these have been conformed to, consistently with the Christian Character, some progress has been made in gaining their affections. A studious care is absolutely necessary to cultivate the acquaintance and friendship of the principal inhabitants, among whom he happens to be situated; both by going to their houses, and by receiving them into his own, and by aiming to be master of whatever works are in general perusal and esteem—by selecting the choicest part, by transcribing them after the usual mode upon Cadjan, and by teaching them at Schools together with other things, tending to fit them for the various situations which coincide with the interests of the castes, whether judicial, revenue, manufacturing, mercantile, or military. I lay particular stress on making things as closely as possible to wear a native aspect, to bear the impressions of their own customs, and to be modified by their own manners. The ends in view are, I conceive, to lead them, by easy natural steps, to see the error of their ways, and to acknowledge truth in every form, and, as real Christians, to become useful members of society.

I am, on every account, an advocate for Missionaries to labour in those places where there are no Europeans; and, as of old, to go forth in pairs. I have many reasons to support this opinion, but to state them in detail is unnecessary.

The most suitable situations to be recommended for Missionary Stations, are in either of those towns before mentioned, excepting Tanjore, Combaconum, Nagore, and Negapatam.

The Missionary's path is very narrow, and exacts extraordinary circumspection. A multitude of discouragements are at the entrance, and along the way; but, anxious for the salvation of souls and for the extension of the Redeemer's kingdom, he must gird up the loins of his mind with the promises, and strengthen himself with might by the Spirit in the inner man.

Tinnevelly.

The name of this District or Province, Tinnevelly, or, more correctly according to the native orthography, Tirunelvely, means "a hedge of sacred rice;" a name given to its principal city, from the large rice-fields which surround it.

Its geographical situation is between the 8th and 10th degrees of North Latitude, and between 77° 30′ and 78° 30′ East Longitude—bounded, to the North, by the Madura District and the Ramnad Zemindary; to the east and south, by the Sea; and, to the West, by the Ghauts.

Its principal Towns are as follows:

Tinnevelly, about 30 miles westward from the sea; and about the same distance eastward from the Ghauts: the distance from both greatly lessens as we proceed southward. This city has about 23,000 inhabitants, of whom one-tenth are Brahmins.

Palamcottah (or, more correctly, Paleyamkottey, which means a Fortress) is about four miles from Tinnevelly, eastward, and contains about 9400 souls.

	Inhabitants about
Streevillipoottoor.	11,800	mostly Brahmins.
Sivakavy.....	10,900	mostly Shanars.
Tenkasy	6,300
Sankaranina Coil.	4,100
Veeranalloor	4,800
Shermadevy	5,000
Kallakadoo.....	5,000
Nangoochery	2,500
Eeroovady	3,000	mostly Moormen.
Tuttecoryn (or more correctly Tootookoody), a Dutch Settlement near the Sea.
Savaramangalam .	1,500	mostly Moormen.

The climate of this province, judging from Palamcottah which lies nearly in the middle of it, is comparatively temperate and healthy; excepting in March, April, and part of May, when it is very hot: afterward, till October, the heat is much abated by the wind which blows from the mountains; and which, in August and September, is rendered even cold, particularly at nights, owing to the rains that fall about that time. During the Monsoon in October and November, lasting sometimes till December, the rains are not very violent: after which the weather is, in January and February, as everywhere in India, very pleasant; which is increased by the sea-breeze, though that is not so refreshing at Palamcottah as near the coast, because of the distance which it has to travel over land. When the east and west winds fail, which happens occasionally, the days and nights are very sultry, and trying to the strongest constitution. The resident Gentlemen here, usually spend the time from May till October at Courtallam, a place at the foot of the Ghauts near Tenkovy, about 30 miles north-west from Tinnevelly; during which time it is very cool there, resembling the European Climate: a waterfall renders the place very pleasant, and beneficial to the invigoration of health.

The principal language spoken here is the Tamul. The Teloogoo, Mahratta, and Hindoostanee are comparatively but little in use. Moormen, indeed, abound in several parts of this district: they speak, however, mostly the Tamul.

The Brahminical Religion obtains through the country. The worshippers of Vishnoo and Siva are found everywhere here, as throughout the Peninsula. There are, besides, worshippers of Demons; called Vedalam, Maden, Soodaleimaden, &c., which they represent by a heap of clay in a pyramidical form, on the top of which they put the pot which the devotee had on his head while serving the Devil on the festival-days. The figure is in some places high; in others, low: they whitewash it, and enclose it by a low mud-wall, leaving the figure in the open air: in general, trees are planted about it: they worship it most frequently at night, when they make a fire near it, with which they boil rice &c., which they offer to the idol and eat: their worship is attended with shocking music and howling of the people. They expect from the Devil every blessing that we crave from God, excepting spiritual blessings, which they do not seek: all their desire is for exemption from sickness and other bodily evils, and for the enjoyment of health and prosperity in this life. On their festival-days, they offer to the idol, cocks, goats, or sheep; and a devotee gives himself up on the occasion to be possessed of the Devil, when he is filled with the greatest phrensy, and exhibits the most shocking figures and gestures*.

The worship of these Demons is principally performed by the low castes: "No intelligent person," say the rest, "will worship them."

We observe, with pleasure, that the burning of widows and the drowning of infants is not at all common in this part of India: the burning of widows occurs very rarely.

Of the four chief Castes, all abound in this district, except the Cshatriyas: the Soodras most prevail. Of the Soodras, the Pallers and Parriars are most numerous: and, next to these, the Shanars and Eloovers. After these classes of Soodras, the Brahmins are most numerous, then the Moormen, and then the Christians.

A List of the Divisions and Subdivisions of Caste here follows, in which they are placed according to the rank which they hold among the Natives of these parts. The orthography is according to the pronunciation in Tamul.

I. Bramaner—or BRAHMINS.
II. Sattriyer—or CSHATRIYAS.
III. Vanniyer—or VAISYAS.
IV. Soottrer—or SOODRAS.

The SOODRAS are divided into High-caste Soodras and Low-caste Soodras.

The High-caste Soodras are called Vellaler, and comprise the following:

1. Moodelliar.
2. Kareikattar.
3. Vellaler.

These last are the Gentlemen, as it were, among the Soodras, and are distinguished by the title of "Pilley."

* A description of this Devil Worship, by Mr. Rhenius, is given at pp. 447 & 448 of the Missionary Register for 1823.

The Low-caste Soodras comprise the following:

1. Vadooger—or the Gentoos.
2. Rettigel—a sort of superior householders.
3. Tottiyer—another sort of householders: they are also used for bold undertakings.
4. Ideizer—or Cowkeepers.
5. Kooyaver—or Potters.
6. Solooper—or Weavers in hemp, Ropemakers.
7. Savalakarer—or Fishers.
8. Maraver—or Watchers: they are also used as Guides, and are sent on exploits.
9. Kaikoler—or Weavers.
10. Kammaler—or Mechanics: these comprise—
    (1) Tatcher—or Carpenters.
    (2) Sippiyer—or Architects.
    (3) Koller—or Ironsmiths.
    (4) Tatter—or Goldsmiths.
    (5) Kattacher—or Stone-cutters.
    (6) Kanner—or Brasiers.
11. Vaniyer—or Oilmongers.
12. Vannar—or Washermen.
13. Navider—or Barbers.
14. Panar—or Tailors.
15. Shanar—or Toddy-drawers; cultivators of the palmira-tree.
16. Eeloover—or Rack-distillers.
17. Semmar—or Shoemakers who do not eat cows' flesh.
18. Sakkiliyer—or Shoemakers who do eat cows' flesh.
19. Paller—or Labourers in the field.
20. Parriar—of no particular employment, but esteemed the lowest of all. The original destination of the Parriar Class was to burn the dead; but every caste now burns its own dead, except that the Navider, or Barbers, are occasionally employed for the purpose.

As the district abounds with palmira-trees, the subdivision of Shanar is here more numerous than in other parts of India: the cultivation of this species of tree is their whole employment and means of subsistence.

This district is, likewise, famous for cotton; the cultivation of which occupies a large proportion of the population, including the Moormen: in consequence, the fabrication of cotton cloth is, likewise, extensive; in which the women and children largely partake, preparing the cotton for the men, who are the weavers. The Weaver Caste is, therefore, numerous.

Large portions of land, or whole villages, are possessed by many rich Natives; who cultivate it by the Pallers, who are mostly their slaves, and whom they have a right to sell as they please.

The occupation of the Maravers is to watch at nights, to be way-guides, to go out on enterprises, &c. by which they earn their bread: they are famous for thieving, and are, therefore, called Kallers, or Robbers. It is singular that Gentlemen, who have gardens outside the Fort, must pay something monthly to such men, for watching their houses and gardens at night: if they do not, they are sure to be continually vexed by thieves. It is as much as if we paid these men for not stealing; but if, while they are paid, something be stolen, they must make restitution. Of this caste are the Poligars (which ought to be written Paleyakarrer, i.e. possessors of Camps or Troops), who were formerly the petty chiefs of this country, and who still disturb its peace by their depredations, in conjunction with the other Maravers; which render travelling unpleasant and unsafe, particularly to the Natives.

The number of all the inhabitants in this district cannot be accurately stated: the total may be estimated at 700,000.

The general character of all classes of Heathen, in point of religion and morality, is deplorable. They have no idea of the True God, except that there is such a Being, and even that is but speculative and imperfect: nor do they, in general, exhibit any desire to know Him; but feel themselves perfectly contented with their state, being persuaded, that, in the present age of the world, it cannot be otherwise than miserable—that all the various transactions, whether good or bad, must come to pass so as they do, because the "fatum" is written on every one's head, which none can deviate from—that the soul is a part of the Divinity, on which account every thing that they do is a necessary act of the Deity—and that though there will be rewards and punishments, yet at last all souls will be absorbed into the Deity again.

The Heathen Pagodas in this district it would be hard to enumerate. There are 96 large Pagodas: 13 of which are more celebrated than the rest, because, as the Heathens say, the principal Idol of each sprang out of the earth of itself; whereas they allow the others to be the work of men's hands.

One of these great Pagodas is that at Tinnevelly, and its chief swamy is said to have been discovered in the following manner:—a cowkeeper, walking one evening across the ground where the pagoda now stands, with a pot of milk in his hand, struck his foot against what he supposed to be the root of a tree; which threw him down, and overturned his milk: the same accident happened to him for several evenings; till, at last, he resolved to remove the stumbling-block, and fetched a large hatchet for the purpose: but blood sprang out of the stone at the first blow; and the man ran away, in astonishment and horror, to relate the circumstance. The people of the adjacent country flocked to the place; and, when they saw the bleeding stone, were filled with wonder and adoration, concluded it to be a God, and erected a pagoda on the spot to its honour. The Brahmins tell the people that this stone is like a rolling-stone: some persons say that they have seen it in the pagoda; and one (i. e. a round stone) is anointed every day with a fragrant ointment.

The history of the other twelve self-produced Gods is, probably, something like this for absurdity.

There is so great a similarity in the ceremonies of Heathen Pagodas, that a description of those at the pagoda of Tinnevelly will serve for all.

Pooja, or worship, is performed as follows, every twenty-four hours:—one pooja, at five o'clock in the morning; three, from six to nine; one, at noon; one, at seven in the evening; and one, at midnight. These poojas have all different appellations.

The ceremonies performed in these Poojas are as follows:—

Some brass idols are, first, washed with water, milk, and honey: they are, next, rubbed with sandal and ashes of cow-dung; afterward, milk, fruits, plain boiled rice, rice boiled with tamarind-water and ginger-oil, small round cakes made of ground-rice, sugar, and oil or ghee another kind made of black grain and rice, and other various kinds of cakes, are placed before the idols, and garlands of flowers hung round their necks: incense of camphor is then burnt before them; and the drums beat, the music plays, and the women of the pagoda dance at the same time in the idols' presence. The Brahmins present some of the water, flowers, ashes, sandal, &c. which were offered to the idols, to the people who come to the ceremony.

Besides these daily ceremonies in the pagoda, the Brahmins go through the ceremony of washing themselves early in the morning, rubbing their bodies with ashes, saying their prayers, &c.: all of which, except the ablution, are repeated in the evening.

The Festivals, for every month throughout the year, are as follows:

January 1st—The Feast of Pongal; which is observed with the boiling of rice, great ceremony, and mirth, for two days. The rising of the constellation Teipooshum in this month is observed as a public festival, in the usual way, with pooja, music, processions, and noise.

February—A Festival called Sevvaneshipooja, as usual.

March—The rising of the constellation Utterum is observed, as usual; except that they perform the additional ceremony of bringing forth a sceptre that is kept in the pagoda, and putting it into the hand of the chief native of the place in authority.

April—The Festival of Nynar, who, they say, was born in this month, as usual.

May—The Festival of Vussundumteruverlar.

June—The Festival of Nilliarper, a name of Siva. This is the Festival when the rutts are drawn round the pagodas, and lasts about ten days.

July—The last day is celebrated as a festival.

August—The rising of the constellation Avuttum is observed as the rest.

September—The Festival Mawnomboo, when every man makes pooja to whatever instruments he may use in his daily occupation—the bricklayer to his trowel, the husbandman to his plough, the tailor to his needle, the soldier to his arms, the writer to his books, &c. This festival lasts two days.

October—In this month there are two festivals: 1st, Appistiervishi. 2d, The nuptials of their God.

November—The Festival Chokerpunny. Those who have a desire to fast every Monday, for one or two years, or more, must begin on the first Monday of this month.

December—The constellation Tiruvardirai is celebrated; when Swamy is worshipped in the form of an idol dancing.

Every fifteenth day throughout the year is called Yeykerdeysee; when the people fast, and perform their ablutions in the river.

The new-moon is observed by such as have lost father, or mother, or both, by fasting, ablution, and offering libations of water, mixed with rapeseed and long grass, to the manes of their departed parents. This offering is called Tarpana.

The eclipses of the sun and moon are observed by all castes; when they perform ablution in the river, with other ceremonies. They say, that there are seven seas and fourteen worlds; that heaven is supported by a five-headed snake; and that the eclipses of the sun and moon are caused by the snake's covering them.

When they celebrate a festival, the idol is placed, with a Brahmin, under a canopy, gorgeously decorated, and borne about in procession on men's shoulders.

Many other days are celebrated, too tedious to enumerate; but these are the principal.

About ten days' journey to the northward, there is a pagoda consecrated to Pullernee-Arndee, a name of Siva; in which several beautiful young women are kept as wives to the god. At the Festival of Teipooshum, in January, people flock thither from all parts; and, during their stay there, if Swamy sees a handsome young woman in the crowd, and desires to retain her, they say that he makes known his will to her parents in a dream or vision of the night; and every one, who fancies that he has received such a revelation, leaves his daughter behind, and returns quietly home. A separate apartment is allotted to each woman; and, though they live in a state of adultery, rice, milk, fruit, and flowers are offered to them as the wives of the Deity!

At every pagoda, there is an establishment of women, called Dancing Girls; whose employment is to dance before the idols at the different festivals, when they are richly clothed, and adorned with costly jewels. These women are presented to the pagodas at an early age, and are common prostitutes.

At Shunkernacoil, in this district, there are vast numbers of the cobra-capella, or hooded snake; which, the people say, are slaves to the swamy of that pagoda; and they go thither from all parts of the district to make pooja to the snakes, and feed them with milk, fruits, &c. Snakes of this species are treated with respect everywhere, and it is thought very sinful to strike them. People who have no issue, make a stone image of the cobracapella; and, placing it under the Arasum-tree, worship it, in order to obtain children.

The Superstition of the people is excessive.

They worship images of gold, silver, copper, and of a composition of these and other metals; with the lingam, the brahminy-kite, gooroos, and even the lamp which they keep in their dwelling-houses.

They make images of deceased kings, of women who burn themselves on the funeral pile of their husbands, of persons who pull out their tongues, and of those who are killed with a sword or pike. They build pagodas in which they put these images; and if the door is eastward, they prostrate themselves with the head to the northward, and perform adoration before the door.

When a young person dies between the ages of 10 and 20, the nearest relative sacrifices, in a corner of the house, cocoa-nut, cloth, fruits, rice, and (if they be of a caste that eats flesh) fowls, &c. to the manes of the deceased, and worship them. This is repeated on every festival throughout the year: but, should the deceased be a widow, this ceremony is not performed.

They consider it very unlucky for a traveller to set out on a journey to the westward, on Sunday or Friday; to the eastward, on Monday or Saturday; to the northward, on Tuesday or Wednesday; or to the southward, on Thursday.

When going any whither on business, if they meet an oilmonger, a barber, a parriar washerman, a lame or blind man, a single brahmin, a potter, a widow, a person carrying a new pot, or a pot of butter-milk, or an empty water-pot, or oil-pot; or, if a fox or cat run across the road; if a crow fly upon the left side; if they hear the sound of only one person crying, a lizard squeaking, or an owl screeching but once—all these they regard as bad tokens of success; and, if they can, discontinue their journey.

But if they meet a married woman carrying water, a washerwoman carrying dirty clothes, a cowkeeper's woman carrying milk, two brahmins together, a single Malabar man, a person carrying fruit, a king's palankeen, a corpse, a man blowing the shank or with tom-toms, or a woman with her hair properly combed and tied; if they hear an ass bray, a horse neigh, an owl screech twice, or four or more women crying together; if they see a brahminy-kite fly on the right side, a bird called Bulleyarn fly across the road from right to left, or a crow from left to right, a blackbird fly on the left side, a dog run across the road from left to right, or a fox from right to left—all these they think good omens; and pursue their way with fair hopes of success.

Idolatry and its various festivals engross, next to the means of livelihood, all their attention: superstitious belief in the course of the stars, &c. directs nearly all their movements for the support of this life, which alone they think it is necessary to care for. They have little or no idea of the soul: they identify it with life; and if they have but wherewith to eat and to drink and to clothe themselves, they think themselves the happiest of beings: whoever provides them with these necessaries, they regard nearly as their God! They will strive, indeed, to gain more than they need, but it is only to gratify their sensual passions: not the basest method is left untried, if it will but lead to that end; as, according to their opinion, lying and cheating are privileged in this age.

In their temporal affairs and employments, they shew much ability; and, if they have first received the stimulus of self-interest, they are able to undertake and carry on any thing, except it be contrary to their respective castes; out of regard to which, there is rarely one found, who, besides the business of his father, would venture to learn another, be his distress never so great. This, however, may be mainly ascribed to the fear of persecution, which would surely follow his attempt to tread out of his father's business.

They have a great love of money; so much so, that not a few will scrape money together, merely in order to have it: for that purpose, they have a hole in the floor of their houses, with a pot which they fill with money as they receive it. Rich people, when they have laid up vast treasures of this kind in brass pots, put watchmen to guard it, and have a lamp continually burning near it.

So long as the Native is observed, so long will he appear faithful in his dealings and services; but, turn away from him, and he will surely deceive you. Perjuries are frequent: and, in every class, conspiracies against the welfare of others, either from envy or vengeance, are nearly of daily occurrence. The rich enslave and oppress the poor—the poor crouch hypocritically at the feet of the rich. The learned haughtily despise the ignorant, as if they were never ignorant before they became learned—and the ignorant man thinks the voice of the learned as the voice of the Gods.

Among these, the Brahmins stand foremost: in them the people here have still much superstitious belief, and are blindly guided by their dictates. The Brahmins study principally the first three Vedams; but many of them are poor and ignorant, knowing hardly any thing more than the ceremonies which they have to perform. There are rich Brahmins, who care little or nothing at all about study; contenting themselves with their rites and their pleasures. The Brahmins here seem to have hitherto attended very little to religious investigation: despising Christianity, they do not examine it; and thus remain ignorant of its excellency, and blind to the defects of their own religion. Having had mostly very unfavourable specimens of Christianity before them, they have also received little inducement hitherto to examine it. In fact, they seem to shun investigation: lately, only, a few instances have occurred of some of them listening to what was said about Christianity. The Brahmins in this district seem to be twenty years behind those at and near Madras: even the poorest among them here will not yet dare to take an employment as a Schoolmaster, for fear of the rest; who would greatly despise him, because of his taking so degrading an office as teaching Soodras!

The Soodras discover a much more promising spirit. They like discussions on religious subjects, and to hear explanations of the Scriptures. Among them, a great many, particularly in cities, know how to read and write; and they have not a few Tamul Schools, in their respective places: those in the villages are less anxious on the subject. The Soodras, in general, maintain a respectful behaviour to their superiors: toward their inferiors, they are usually proud and insolent. The virtue of humility is not known among them; nor among any of the other classes. They encourage, however, more hope of improving them, than the Brahmins. There are some learned people among the Soodras; but each one confines himself, usually, to one branch of learning. They exhibit a sound understanding: still, their learning does not profit them in respect to true religion and morality: they go along the road of superstition with the ignorant.

The Maravers, Shanars, Pallers, and Parriars are, usually, very ignorant and dirty; sometimes, of a wild appearance. All kinds of vices are common among them. They have little estimation of learning, though they are not without abilities; and, when once roused, they are capable of becoming intelligent. Still, they are several degrees behind the other Soodras in cultivation of mind: the reason of which doubtless is, the abject condition of slavery, in which they have been held for ages by the superior castes. Their wants are few, and their desires reach not beyond the feeding of their bodies: their ideas, likewise, are principally confined to the sphere in which they move. However, they have persons who may be called learned: these are Pandarams among the rest, who know how to read and write, and to sing some stories of their gods; and especially practice astrology, whereby they gain their livelihood, and great ascendency over other people.

The Moormen maintain their usual character of haughtiness and contempt of other religions: they live, as their Korân teaches them, in all sorts of sensuality, and are content with their religious ceremonies. They speak Tamul; and, in general, wish their children to learn to read and write. In their belief in Mahomed, they are still very obstinate. They have Fifty Mosques in the district. The poorer classes are weavers and merchants; but the more respectable are landholders and farmers.

Besides the Society's Mission, there are, in this district, Christian Congregations belonging to the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge, as branches of the Tanjore Mission; and many Roman-Catholic Churches.

The Christian-Knowledge Society's principal Station is Palamcottah; where a Mission was commenced about 25 years ago. Their congregations are scattered over the whole district, but particularly toward the south of Tinnevelly: they consist principally of Shanars, Pallers, and Parriars, and are said to have formerly amounted to about 10,000 souls: but they have greatly diminished for several years past, many having relapsed into Heathenism, so that scarcely 4000 remain at present. Much labour and expense will be required to raise them from their wretched condition; and, above all, the showers of Divine Grace must quicken the seed of the Word which is sowing among them.

The Roman Catholics have 53 Churches in this district: the congregations consist of 30,000 persons: to each Church, a Catechist is attached; and, sometimes, there are more than one: the Churches are formed into Eight Jurisdictions, each of which is committed to the charge of a Country-born Portuguese Priest, educated at Goa; but about half these Jurisdictions are, at present, vacant. For these 30,000 souls, there is but one School, which contains about 40 Scholars: it is situated 18 or 20 miles to the southward of Tinnevelly. Besides the idolatrous ceremonies which Rome sanctions, they add such others as their heathenish inclinations and the customs of the country suggest: at all the great festivals of the Church, they conform to the customs of the Heathen; except that they call their "Swamies" by the names of the Apostles and other Saints, instead of Rama, Siva, &c.: they draw the Rutt, and carry their Idols in procession, exactly like the Heathen. The distinction of Heathen Castes is observed among them. The temporal condition of many of the Roman Catholics is respectable, being landholders or merchants; but many, also, are poor and wretched: they abound along the coast, and are chiefly fishermen.

There are, at present, no other obstacles to Missions than what arise from the general corruption of men and the Brahminical influence on the minds of the Natives. Many of these can read and write, are willing to accept and able to read Religious Tracts and the Scriptures, and have, on the whole, an inclination to hear discussions on religious subjects.

The Town of Tinnevelly seems to be the most eligible situation for a Mission in this district. The Society's Mission-House is about four miles eastward of Tinnevelly, near the Fort of Palamcottah, and close by the village Mooroogenoorchy. Should, at any future period, a suitable place for the establishment be found in or nearer to Tinnevelly, it would, in several respects, be advantageous to transfer it thither. From Tinnevelly, the other parts may be well supplied with the Word of God; particularly when Native Missionaries can be sent in different directions; who may also find, more easily than Europeans, a place of residence in any other part that may call for it. As the Christian-Knowledge Society's principal Station is in the fort of Palamcottah, with many Christian Congregations toward the south and south-east, the Society's Mission seems best confined to Tinnevelly and the west, north, and south-west.

The establishment of Schools in the villages makes access to the people easy: whenever these Schools are visited, a larger or less number of the inhabitants assemble, to whom are made known the things pertaining to their everlasting peace. If they do not come, the Missionaries go into their sheds, and begin a conversation with whomsoever they may meet; when they are sure to get a number of other people about them, to whom they preach the Gospel: indeed, in any place where a Missionary comes, curiosity to see a White Man, particularly when he speaks Tamul, attracts a number of persons with whom he may converse. Religious Tracts in the native languages, and parts of Scripture, are found to be very useful accompaniments on visits to the villages: as there are, usually, some everywhere who can read, the attention of the people is, by distributing them, the more excited to what may have been spoken to them. As the customs and prejudices of the people preclude the Missionaries from seeing them in their houses, the streets, the choultries, and the mandapams are usually the places where they make known the good tidings of the Gospel. Willing to improve the inclination of the Natives to curiosity, the Society's Missionaries have turned the former English School-house of the Mission in Tinnevelly into a Chapel; where, every Wednesday Evening, by lighted lamps, they read and preach the Word of God to all who come together, and these are often not a few: at the same time, Tracts are distributed, by which they continue to speak to them after they have left the Chapel, and for days to come, and, through them, with their families and neighbours: thus the Word of God runs through the city. May it be glorified!

As the Prophets, John the Baptist, our Saviour Himself, the Twelve, and the Seventy, prepared the Jews for the Day of Pentecost; so are Missionary, Bible, Tract, and School Societies, at present, preparing the Nations for a day, in which the power of the Spirit of God will, through the preaching of Christ Crucified, be still more gloriously displayed—to the throwing down of the strongholds of Satan—to their casting of their idols to the moles and to the bats—and to their loving their God and Redeemer in sincerity and truth. We cannot know when the time of preparation will be finished—It is not for you to know the times and the seasons—abide ye, waiting for the promise of the Father. So long as the Nations do not turn from the service of Satan to the Living God, so long it is our duty to prepare them: and who is there among Christians, that, knowing the lost and wretched condition of the Natives in their slavery to sin and Satan, on the one hand, and the deliverance which the Gospel affords when once accepted, on the other—would not lend his aid in furthering these preparatory measures?

conversion will, probably, be effected by the instrumentality of Preachers raised up from among the Natives themselves: yet it seems that the clearing away of the vast mass of rubbish which is heaped round the native mind, and the bringing forward of the principal stones necessary to the rearing of the Temple of the Lord among them, is the work assigned to European Missionaries—a great work indeed! But where are sufficient workmen? Here, in this District of about 700,000 souls, there are, at present, but two European Missionaries!

Allepie.

The town of Allepie is in 9° 30′ North Latitude, and 76° 30′ East Longitude. The District extends to a town called Chestalah, 12 miles north; to Amblapullah, 9 miles south; inland, as far as the Mission is concerned, 3 miles—in all 63 square miles.

The principal towns are, Allepie, Amblapullah, and Chestalah. The climate is very good: the atmosphere is clear; and frequently, in the hot season of the year, is cooled by refreshing showers.

The prevailing Religions are Hindooism, Mahomedanism, and Popery, with a little Zoroasterism.

In respect of Languages, the Hindoostanee, Malayalim, and Tamul are extensively spoken; Guzerat, Gentoo, Arabic, and Persian, but little; Portuguese, much more. Of the Occupations, Merchants are numerous; with Shroffs, Carpenters, Bricklayers, Blacksmiths, Silversmiths, Sawyers, Fishermen, Boatmen or Rowers, Coolies or common labourers, Pullamars or writers, Oil Factors, Toddy-drawers, Washermen; Shoemakers, Mat-makers, Rope-makers, Cotton and Thread-Spinners, Hunters, Brig and Pattamar (or Country-Vessel) builders, Weavers, and Servants.

The number of Families is as follows:—

Brahmins	60
Soodras	7000
Congenies	300
Mahomedans	6000
Christian Mapollis	8000
High Washermen	100
Low Ditto	150
Weavers	30
Fishermen	8000
Chegoes	10,000
Parriars	150
Hunters	30
Pooliars	500
Fishsellers	150
Barbers	50
Carpenters	400
Portuguese and Country-born	47
Total Families	40,967

The prevailing castes will appear from this list. Of the Fishermen, perhaps half, at least, are Roman Catholics; those called Mapollis are considered the more respectable.

On the Character of the different classes, the report must be painful.

The Hindoos are naturally indolent: there is no reason to suppose that they would trouble themselves with any thing which occasions care or concern, if they could be supported without it. They are even studious of fraud; and falsehood follows, in course, to support and cloke it: their Courts are full of perjury. Their marriage ceremony is mere form: it is not considered as binding them to conjugal fidelity: when a man marries a woman, if another man throws a cloth over her shoulders, she understands it; and he is received by her, and not the man who married her: the man does not consider himself bound to the woman whom he marries, but takes whom and as many as he chooses, and repudiates those whom he may have married as often as it suits him. The Nair or Soodra Woman is authorised, by the rule or law of her caste, to have as many husbands as she pleases: hence, you cannot give a greater provocation to a Nair, than to ask him who is his father. This looseness of conduct runs through all their castes; and is an awful illustration of Eph. iv. 19. Among the lower castes at least, many may most strictly be said to be without natural affection; for nothing is more common than for parents to offer their children for sale. With regard to religion, the Hindoos, in general, may be considered as not much prejudiced against Christianity, but rather as indifferent to religion.

The Mussulmans are much more industrious than the Hindoos: there is a spirit of activity in them: most of the trade of Allepie is in their hands, and some of them are considerable merchants. They are not given, like the Hindoos, to cast off and change their wives; but they know no bounds in concubinage, and have a plurality of wives. In common with the Hindoos, they are given to fraud and false-swearing. In respect of religion, they are much prejudiced in favour of their own and against others; but think much better of Protestants than of Papists: they exonerate Protestants from the charge of idolatry, and frequently speak very favourably of the Protestant Religion, confessing it to be very good.

The Roman Catholics, with little exception, are in a most degraded state as to morals, while they are ignorant of Christianity, and exceedingly prejudiced in favour of their own superstitions. Within the last few years, however, some of the most respectable have begun to read the Scriptures, and have acquired considerable knowledge of the leading truths of Christianity.

There is no other Protestant Mission in the District except that of the Society. The British Resident, Colonel Newall, has manifested a warm friendship to Missions in these parts: the present Dewan, also, has shewn himself studious of the real good of the country and the happiness of the people. The obstacles are such as are common to human nature: the Hindoo has his cold indifference, and the Mussulman his prejudice; but these, with some local varieties, exist everywhere.

Chestalah is a very suitable place for a Missionary Establishment. It is a large native town; and is, in this respect, next to Allepie.

The most eligible means of benefitting this District are Schools, with Readers of the Scripture and Catechists—intelligent and decided men, warmed with the love of truth and of the souls of others. There is good reason to believe that such men would be highly useful.

Many of the Natives would, it is believed, avow themselves Christians, if they could be certain of obtaining employment for their support. If a Heathen be out of employ, the rest of the family support him and his wife and children until he can obtain employment; but should he become a Christian, his family would give them no relief in case of want. This is the case with the high castes as well as the low. It would be well, therefore, if some plan could be devised to meet this exigency; as there is reason to believe that many would then gladly embrace Christianity, and that for its own sake, being fully convinced of its excellence and its superiority to their own.

An Institution, well established and regulated, for the support and education of Native and Country-born Youths, is greatly needed; and would prove, in time, of incalculable advantage, as it would furnish good Schoolmasters, Catechists, and Readers. These are much wanted; but they are not likely to be procured, unless thus fitted and prepared. Females also should be included, with the view of obtaining suitable persons to promote the education of their own sex.

Malabar.

Malabar, properly so called, is bounded on the north by Canara, on the east by the Ghauts, which separates it from Mysore, on the south by Travancore, and on the west by the Sea. Its native appellation is Kayrul. Its principal towns are situated on the coast; and are, beginning at the north, those of Cannanore, a fort and military cantonment, and the residence of the Bebee of Cannanore, who is also owner and Queen of the Laccadives—Tellicherry, a Zillah, and the seat of the Provincial Court, the jurisdiction of which extends over the western division, including Canara as well as Malabar—Calicut, the ancient metropolis of the Zamorin Rajah, where the Royal Family now reside; the principal station of the Collectors of the revenue and customs, and also a Zillah—Pannany, a place of considerable trade in grain and timber, the wood from the extensive forests in the interior being floated down the Pannany River; and the chief residence of a Head of that sect of the Mussulmans, who bear the name of Moppilas—and Cochin, if that formerly flourishing Dutch Settlement may be said to be within the boundary of Malabar, as it certainly is at present under the jurisdiction of the Southern Zillah of the Province.

The Climate is decidedly healthy; whether this is to be attributed to its contiguity to the sea, or to the influence of the refreshing north-westers during a great proportion of the year, or to the general comparative coolness of the earth and atmosphere, from the great quantity of water which annually falls during the long monsoon experienced on this side of India, and which causes an almost perpetual verdure. Tellicherry is especially, and has been for years, on account of its peculiar salubrity, an ordinary resort for invalids from Bombay.

The language is Malayalim, which extends into the Travancore Country to the south; where, however, it differs considerably from that spoken to the northward of Cochin, partaking more of the Tamul, probably on account of its greater proximity to the Coromandel Coast. The Malayalim does not extend into Canara northward: there the language is Canarese; while, still further to the north, about Goa, it is the Concany. On this point, it is proper to note, that the Malayalim is the pratique or vernacular tongue: the learned language is pure Sanscrit; written in the Malayalim character, not the Nagree. The letters of the Malayalim alphabet are the same in number, power, and pronunciation, with those of the Sanscrit; with the addition of a few others, to distinguish a slight variation in the pronunciation of two of the liquids: these additional letters are never used in writing Sanscrit. The Malayalim, however, of the high and literate classes, is very different from that of the vulgar and unlearned; consisting, in fact, of a great proportion of Sanscrit words with Malayalim terminations. The learned, however, will scarcely condescend to read a work unless written in pure Sanscrit; much less to write in the pratique.

Till very lately, learning was confined to the few Brahmins in the Province, and the Soodras or Nairs. The lower classes were not permitted to attain knowledge. Those who teach appear to be a sort of itinerating Schoolmasters. Should instruction in the Sanscrit be required in a family (instruction in the pratique is not cared for, or rather supposed to follow of course from a knowledge of the Sanscrit; much in the same manner as, not many years ago, a grammatical knowledge of English was supposed, in our country, to follow from a knowledge of Latin), a Schoolmaster is invited to the house, where he exercises his profession as long as the party is willing to afford him employment. About 15 years ago, however, three brothers, Tiers, having by some means made themselves masters of Sanscrit, established two Schools in the neighbourhood of Tellicherry, offering to give instruction to all indiscriminately. This, as it may be supposed, gave great offence to the privileged class; inasmuch as they themselves had no business with that knowledge which they offered to communicate to others. They, nevertheless, persevered; and, as their pretensions bore the test of examination, their Schools were not only filled with Tiers, but many Nair Youths also condescended to become their pupils. The two Schools together generally averaged about 200. They were supported by monthly payments, of from one to five fanams (Tellicherry, of which there are five to a rupee) from each pupil, according to his pecuniary ability; besides a quarterly present, of from one to five or more rupees each, at the four sacred festivals in the year. From these Schools, 12 other Schoolmasters have issued; who, in various places within a distance of about 20 miles from Tellicherry, have, in their turn, set up Schools; but how many Scholars they average has not been ascertained. Of these Schoolmasters, two are Nairs, the rest Tiers. It is but a short time since, that two out of the three original Schoolmasters departed this life, within a month of each other; and such was the respect and gratitude with which they were regarded by their pupils, that they assembled to the number of 400 to assist at the funeral obsequies; and after having, according to custom, distributed rice to all comers, there remained of their voluntary offerings over and above what was required for the occasion.

Though the dialect of the country is Malayalim, yet there are other tongues spoken on the coast. The Moppilas, or Mussulmans, so called, who are considerable both in number and wealth, speak and write the Maylayalim, but in a very corrupt manner. That part of the population which is composed of descendants from the Portuguese, and they are very numerous all along the coast and especially at those towns where the Europeans reside, speak the Portuguese; and that more purely perhaps than in any other part of India, Goa excepted. Hindoostanee is spoken but by few; and those generally connected with the Offices of Government: in fact, Hindoostanee is less known on this coast, than in any other part of India. Neither Hyder nor Tippoo could obtain a firm footing in this country.

With regard to Religion, it may be supposed to vary with the people. The descendants of the Portuguese are Roman Catholics: the Moppilas are Mussulmans: the Nairs, Tiers, &c. are Heathens. A great body, however, of the Fishermen are proselytes to Popery; and, in Tellicherry, perhaps in other places also, they have a separate Chapel and Priest: they are denominated Kollahur, to distinguish them from the Heathen Fishermen who are termed Muckwar: some few also, of late years, have been brought over to Islamism.

The Moppilas are not to be found at any great distance from the seaside, though, from their growing power and wealth, and the spirit of proselytism with which they are imbued, they are spreading more widely over the country: they are, for the most part, merchants and traders; and their character, whether the report be false or true, does not stand very high for fair dealing: they are vulgarly said to be the Jews of Malabar. The better educated among the Portuguese are writers and accountants, in the public offices and merchants' houses: the remainder are tailors, shoemakers, servants, &c.: they are said, nor is the assertion without foundation, to be exceedingly immoral. The Brahmins, who are but few in number, merely enough to attend on the duties of the pagodas, are found more in the interior: their moral, as well as their literary character, is confessedly low. The Nambouries form another class; with the exception of the Brahmins and Rajahs, the highest caste in the province—the Lords of the country; as the Nairs may be considered the Gentry. The Tiers are regarded as the servile class. The occupation of the Nairs and Tiers is that of farmers; the Tiers being either labourers or renters of land, and the Nairs generally the landlords. Almost every one of both these castes has a dwelling, with a small portion of ground round it, on which he cultivates the jack-tree, cocoa-nut, areka, and pepper-vine: this is generally correct; but it is more applicable to North Malabar, where the Hindoos have a better moral character than to the southward: since the protection afforded by Government to property and persons, irrespective of caste, the Tiers, who are confessedly industrious as a body, have been rising in the scale of respectability: if the question be put to any one, from a Rajah downwards, as to the security of men's lives and property previous to the establishment of British Authority, the answer will for substance invariably be, "Might constituted right." Below the Tiers, there is another class of people, denominated Churamas; the slaves of the soil, and as such attached to it and sold with it: they are similar to the "knaves" of Europe, during the existence of the feudal system.

Still lower in the scale, is a race of people called Nayadechal, only found to the southward of the Pannany River. They live independent, indeed; but a miserable independence it is: they are scarcely a remove from the monkeys, among whom they dwell in the depths of the jungle; trusting, for the most part, for their subsistence, to the spontaneous productions of the earth along the road. But, at some distance between Pannany and Chetwa, a Nayadechal is generally found begging from the passing traveller, with a most hideous voice: he will not, however, approach to take the alms, till the donor, having dropped it on the ground, has passed to some distance. The purchase of provisions is conducted in the same manner: having beckoned or called to the trader, he lays his money on a stone, and retires to a distance, returning again when the trader has left what he considers an equivalent (though it is said to be very seldom so), and has withdrawn himself in his turn. They are evidently a timid race of people, though there is a common report of them that they ride tigers &c.; and there is little doubt that they feed on wild carnivorous animals. Their timidity with regard to those of their own species may be imputed to their non-intercourse with them, as well as to the pollution which the lowest castes would contract by their touch, or even their near approach. Their courage in regard to wild beasts—and it can scarcely be questioned by those, who know that they will, for a trifle, go into the thickest of the jungle, armed with a stick only, to rouse the game for Gentlemen on hunting parties—may also be accounted for by the force of habit: they live in the forest, surrounded by beasts of prey. The only occupation which they seem to have, is that of making small cord. They are short of stature; but active, and not ill-made. They seem to be a people whom it would not be difficult to civilize and teach better things. But, alas! however plenteous the harvest may be, the labourers are miserably few!—from Cochin to Bombay scarcely any to be found; and, yet, can reaping be expected, where there is no sowing?

There are other castes besides those already mentioned, who would not properly be denominated Nairs or Tiers, that are nevertheless Hindoos: such as the Weavers, Carpenters, Smiths, Masons, Barbers, Oil-manufacturers, Toddy-gatherers, &c. Each of these castes forms a distinct body, having a peculiar temple and particular customs.

The comparative numbers of the chief castes are here stated with diffidence; but may, probably, be as follows:—the Brahmins are fewest—the Nambouries not many more—the Nairs considerable, but inferior to the Tiers—the Moppilas very numerous; but not to be compared, probably, with the Nairs, much less with the Tiers—and the descendants of the Portuguese, perhaps half as many as the Moppilas.

Besides the little Society of Native Christians under the care of the Catechist Jacob Joseph, at Cannanore, there is a small town of Native Christians in South Malabar. But the whole province nearly may be considered fallow ground. At Tellicherry, indeed, the labours of the Chaplain have opened the way for the establishment there of a Mission. The Christianity of Protestants has been there brought a little closer under the view of the Natives: they have seen a School established: they have seen a Church erected: they have seen hundreds of poor fed weekly by those who bear the Christian Name: very many have also heard, in their own language, some portions of our Gospels read to them at their own houses, by one especially, who is, it is believed, not only almost but altogether a convert: they have acknowledged the excellency of our Shasters: they have disputed among themselves on the subject, and they are now frequently doing the same thing; and they cannot gainsay the arguments with which they have been assailed. There is an evident stir among them; neither is there any more unwillingness to receive these things (speaking after the manner of men) than what may naturally be expected from those, to whom the matter is new; and who have, besides, clouds of prejudices to disperse, and closely-woven coverings of superstition and ignorance to throw off. A manifest opening is, therefore, made: which is not the case elsewhere. There is no Missionary from any Society within 200 miles of Tellicherry: the nearest are in Travancore: and we must go as far as Bangalore eastward and Bellary north-eastward, ere we find another. There is, also, a little body of Natives, who, though not all Christians, are almost persuaded openly to become so. There is strong ground, therefore, for making Tellicherry a Missionary Station. As being, moreover, the seat of the Provincial Court, Tellicherry is the principal place in the country, not even excepting Calicut: at all events the two places are so near each other (a distance of only 40 miles intervening, that Calicut might, in due time, be visited from Tellicherry. Yet more, the Tier Schools, mentioned before, being established in this neighbourhood, offer some hopes of good being more widely diffused through their means; for there would, probably, not be much difficulty in introducing into them the Malayalim Version of the New Testament, when completed and printed, as a useful School-book.

In considering the most eligible methods of pursuing Missionary Undertakings, it is obvious to remark that a man can do but little till he become sufficiently acquainted with the language of the country to converse with some degree of freedom: and this is neither easily nor rapidly acquired; especially where there is a total want of assistance from books, and no standard of correct speaking, and where the idiom is totally different from any thing European. Public preaching, even if it would be advisable as tending to advance the object in view, is, for a length of time, naturally impracticable: nor is it probable that the great efficacy of public preaching will be shewn, until some able and zealous Natives go forth with the Bible in their hands. That Missionary will, therefore, have wrought effectually, who, though he should have apparently made but few converts, shall find these converts firm, intelligent, and conscientiously sincere; with hearts zealously moved to communicate the glad tidings to all around; and that Missionary will, himself, have the fairest prospect of success, under the blessing of God, who shall be enabled to hold free intercourse with whomsoever he may meet: yet even if a Missionary be able to speak the language ever so well, he will not speak it otherwise than as a foreigner: those only who are in the habit of conversing with him, will readily perceive his meaning, and enter into his arguments.

It only remains to add a few words, relative to the qualifications desirable in a Missionary for this part of India.

A readiness in anticipating, meeting, and answering objections to any part of the Christian System, and in explaining difficult or obscure passages, seems so requisite in a Minister everywhere, that it can scarcely be regarded as anywhere especially necessary. The Natives of Malabar are no less shrewd than other Hindoos; particularly men of reflection, with whom a Missionary will have most to do. As the grand obstacle in the way of Missionary Success (humanly speaking) is, ignorance of the native language, any thing which may at all facilitate its attainment is, doubtless, most desirable. Whoever, then, should be destined for Malabar, would do well to make the Sanscrit his study; which can now be done in Europe. The Hindoostanee is of no use here: neither is a previous knowledge of Tamul advantageous; perhaps the contrary: for though the Malayalim and Tamul are kindred tongues, the character of the pronunciation is very different; especially if that be considered the better pronunciation of the Maylayalim, as indeed it appears to be, which is spoken more northerly.

Coimbatoor.

Coimbatoor is situated between the parallels of 10° 10′ and 12° 15′ North Latitude, and of 76° 55′ and 77° 15′ East Longitude. It contains an area of 7700 square miles, 2600 of which are occupied by mountains and forests: and is bounded, on the north-east, by the Salem District and Mysore; on the south-east, by Trichinopoly and the Dindegul Provinces; on the south, by Travancore; and, on the west and north-west, by Cochin, Malabar, and a small portion of Wynad. It is surrounded, on three sides, by lofty ranges of mountains, and is open only to the east. Its principal towns are Coimbatoor (the Capital), Ordamulcottah, Coligul above the Ghauts, and Bhowani. The population of Coimbatoor does not exceed 12,000 souls; and the other three towns contain about half the number.

From its proximity to the Western Coast, the sea not being more than 70 miles from Coimbatoor in a direct line, a large proportion of the Province enjoys a very temperate climate for eight months in the year. The hottest and most unhealthy season, in the plain country, is from the middle of February to the beginning of June: the climate, however, compared with the Carnatic and the provinces to the North and East, is then comparatively cool. The most prevailing diseases at that season are fever and ague: the Natives are very subject to these, but I cannot charge my memory with a single instance of the European Residents at Coimbatoor being attacked by them. On the whole, Coimbatoor may be considered a healthy climate. The temperature of the air on the Nilghery Mountains is, throughout the year, below that of an English Summer; and it is now proved, beyond question, to be one of the most salubrious regions of the world.

The population of the Province of Coimbatoor is about 700,000; giving, upon an average, about 91 souls to every square mile: it is mainly agricultural; and is made up almost entirely of different castes of Hindoos, the most numerous of which is the Conjoo Vellal: a striking peculiarity in the manners and customs of this caste, is the ascendancy which the women exercise in it: the management, not only of the house, but of the property of the husband, is left exclusively with the wife: the usual order of things is reversed with these people:—the wife is every thing—the husband a subordinate person, who is content with performing the manual operations of the farm: the language of the Vellalees is Tamul: they are a very industrious race, and many of them opulent. Next in numbers to the Vellalees are the Cumuwars, the descendants of a race of emigrants who came from the provinces north of the Kistna many centuries ago, and settled themselves in all parts of the south of India: they retain the language of their ancestors—Teloogoo; but Tamul, the provincial dialect, is also familiar to them: the physiognomy of this class of people is striking, and often noble: the women are entirely secluded, and take no part in the labours of the men: feuds among themselves are frequent and deadly: they are remarkable for industry and agricultural skill; and are, in general, more opulent than the other cultivators of the soil. These are the two principal castes of Hindoos: there are several others, whose numbers are comparatively small. In the District of Coligul, which is situated above the Eastern Ghauts, Canarese is the only language: it is also spoken in the Districts immediately below the Ghauts, but the prevailing language of the province is Tamul.

The population is much scattered. The agricultural classes live in small hamlets, consisting of from 10 to 100 houses: there are not a dozen TOWNS in the whole of Coimbatoor, and it is almost exclusively in these that Brahmins are to be found. The number of Brahmins, indeed, throughout the district is remarkably small, and they come but little in contact with the great mass of the people: to this cause may be attributed, in a material degree perhaps, the comparative indifference with which the Brahmins and their superstition are treated in this district: another cause is to be found in the industrious habits of the peasants, who are employed almost throughout the year in agricultural pursuits, and who have, in consequence, but little time to go from home.

It was the practice, formerly, for the Civil Authorities to issue orders for the attendance of a certain number of persons at the great festivals, whose business it was to assist in drawing the Swamy Coach round the pagoda: this was an established custom. But, seven years ago, these Authorities, conceiving that they had as little right to order the attendance of people at a Hindoo Festival as they confessedly would have to make them attend a Christian Festival, declined compliance. A multitude of calamities were threatened, and the rise of the country was predicted, if the coach was not dragged its usual round. The resolution was, however, persevered in; and there is reason to believe that the attendance of the people, now that they are left to themselves, is by no means so numerous as it used to be. Not that this decrease of numbers at the religious feasts proceeds from any higher motive, than a regard which the people have to their own interest and convenience: if they had more leisure, there can be no doubt that they would flock in crowds to the ceremony, without any orders from the magistrate; more, however, perhaps from a love of pleasure and diversion, than attachment to the superstition and its priests. In the neighbourhood of large towns, a marked difference is observable: here the influence of the Brahmins is perhaps on the increase; at least the appearance of several new Pagodas in the vicinity of Coimbatoor, in the last few years, has been remarked with concern: they were erected by landholders, who have acquired considerable property under the British Government.

Roman-Catholic Christians are to be found almost in all parts of the province; and, occasionally, in considerable numbers: they are principally Weavers, Boatmen, or Fishermen. Their chief station is at Curemuttumputty, a village distant about 15 miles from Coimbatoor, where they have a neat Chapel and other buildings, and a house for a Malabar Priest who occasionally resides there. The Mission is of the Propaganda; and is under the immediate superintendence of the Vicar Apostolic, the Bishop of Verapoli. Applications have been lately made for the Bible, by the heads of a few families there; and the partial distribution of the Word of God, and of a few Tracts, has led to the happiest results. Eight or nine of the Papists have regularly attended the Divine Service, which is performed every Sunday, in Tamul, at Coimbatoor, by a few Native Protestants: the demand for Books has increased; and the most intelligent of the number are about to open a School for the children of the Converts, and of such Roman Catholics as may choose to avail themselves of the privilege.

Coimbatoor offers a field peculiarly favourable for Missionary Labours. The comparatively small number of Brahmins, the absence in a great measure of Brahminical influence and of large towns, the scattered population—are all circumstances which are likely to facilitate the work of a Missionary. The Native Roman-Catholic Christians who have little connection with the Priests of their own order, and who appear heartily to wish for instruction in the doctrines and duties of our common Faith, would, doubtless, receive with joy any Protestant Missionary, who would devote himself to his sacred calling among them.

The inhabitants of the Nilghery Mountains, from 5000 to 6000 in number, have nothing whatever to say to the Brahmins below: they have neither Priests nor Dancing Women: here and there is to be found a little Swamy House, in which oblations of corn, milk, &c. are made to Runga Swamy, who is considered to be the local deity. Of the Hindoo Mythology, and of the complicated wickedness which is practised under its sanction by the Hindoos in the low country, the Hill People are happily ignorant: they know little, and their "ignorance is bliss:" unquestionably, there is, in the aggregate, less vice among them, than any of their brethren the lowlanders: this is the state of the Bergies, or the Cultivators, which is the most numerous class. The Herdsmen, or Todies, who are the descendants of the original settlers on the mountains, have nothing whatever to do with Hindooism: they have neither idols, nor temples, nor rites: offerings and oblations of the produce of their dairies are made to Runga Swamy, the God of the Nilgheries, by one of the caste who lives in some retired part of the woods, separate from his brethren, and unmarried: when tired of this secluded life, he quits it, and marries; and another is selected to fill his place, pro tempore. The practice of polygamy obtains among this people: a wife is common to all the brothers of the family; and there is too much ground for believing that female infanticide was practised among them. Great pains have been taken to make the mountaineers acquainted with the enormous guilt of such a practice; and there is good reason to hope that it has altogether ceased.

There are many facilities; and no difficulty appears in the way of a Missionary Undertaking in this province. The immediate establishment of one is strongly recommended; and if no European Clergyman can be spared, that a Native Catechist be sent. Coimbatoor would be the most eligible station for the head quarters of the Mission: suitable buildings could easily be procured, at a small expense. A School has been established, for some years; and there is already on the spot a small congregation of Native Protestants to cheer the Missionary on his arrival.

It would add greatly to the influence and usefulness of any Missionary settled at Coimbatoor, to be acquainted with Medicine, in ever so slight a degree: the people, in general, are ignorant of the most common remedies; and suicides are very frequent among them, merely because they have no means of alleviating pain.

Bellary.

The Bellary District comprehends the largest and west division of the Balaghaut Ceded Districts. Its principal towns are, Bellary, Adoni, Harponully, and Gooty; to which may be added Cumply, Anantyoor, Dhurmaver, Rydroog, &c.

The Climate of the district is very healthy: toward the western extremity, and along the banks of the Tambadra, fevers are occasionally prevalent, but in a slight degree: in the remaining parts of the district, as there is little jungle or low ground, there is but little disease. The rains are scanty, and seldom fall together; an entire day's rain being of rare occurrence. In May, June, and July, rain is expected; again in the months of September and October: but the seasons are far from being constant. With regard to the European constitution, the climate of Bellary is to be considered favourable: the health is tried, neither by the continued heat of the Carnatic, nor the nearly incessant rains of the Western Coast. The hot months are three—March, April, and May; at which season, the heat is very oppressive: from June to October, the heat gradually becomes less, and the temperature varies with the quantity of rain that falls. The months of November, December, and January are esteemed the cold months, during which the cold, at night and until the sun rises, is frequently intense; but the sun, in the middle of the day, continues powerful. During February, the cold gradually decreases, until we get into the hot weather of March.

The Religions observed by the Natives of the district are susceptible of three main divisions—the Brahminical, the Linga-Bulejah, and the Mahomedan. The Brahminical, in its various ramifications, may be considered as the most prevalent; and is universal in all parts of the district where the Telinga Language is used. The worship of the Lingam prevails chiefly to the west of the River Haggery; in parts of the Adoni District, and in the most southern districts on the boundary of the territories of Mysore. The extent of the Mahomedan Religion is very confined: it is principally found in the vicinity of Adoni, Taurputry, and Pencondah; and is scattered very thinly in other parts of the province: it may, however, be remarked, that the Mahomedan Religion appears peculiarly corrupted in the Bellary District: there are few endowments for its support; and the lower classes of this faith, lost in the number of Hindoos who surround them, appear to have admitted into their own belief, of which their knowledge is exceedingly confined, a variety of the superstitions practised by the Hindoos.

The Languages spoken are Telinga and Canarese; and the limits of each are co-extensive, respectively, with the Brahminical and Linga-Bulejah Faith, as before specified. These languages are perfectly distinct; but it may be observed, that the characters and idiom of the one bear so great a resemblance to those of the other, as to render an acquaintance with either of them a great assistance in the acquirement of the other: nor does it appear, considered with regard solely to the Bellary District, that the superior utility of either of them renders it advisable for a Missionary to study IT to the exclusion of the other. To a Missionary, who would extend his evangelical labours from one extremity of the district to the other, both are indispensably and equally necessary. As of easier pronunciation—of more general and extensive utility in other districts under this Presidency—as the language of which the acquirement has been the most facilitated by able elementary works—it may be recommended, as the first language, that he should attempt the Telinga.

The principal Occupations of the inhabitants of the district may be divided, as may the chief classes of the people, into three:—the Brahmins, whose principal occupations consist in the duties of the official stations under Government which they hold —the Merchants, whose name bespeaks their employments—and the Cultivators, who form a great majority. From various circumstances, and the general poverty of the inhabitants, there are few who can afford to live without any occupation. The religious endowments supported by the Government in this district are few: hence, comparatively speaking, the class of religious Brahmins living in indolence and idleness, and yet from their supposed sanctity possessing much influence over the people, is not numerous: of the general character of the Brahmins little need be said, for they differ in little from those of their caste in other parts of India. Of the class of Merchants, there are few whose wealth allows them, rather to superintend the labours of others, than to conduct the detail of their trade themselves: hence the class consists chiefly of petty traders, who appear absorbed in their occupations with a peculiar intensity. Of the Ryots, or Cultivators, the prevalent character is to be found in the occupations which they pursue: their thoughts and actions almost exclusively are directed to works of husbandry: in a moral point of view, they present the appearance of men so far retired from scenes of cruelty or gross immorality, as to be neither cruel nor grossly immoral: to a certain extent, they practise the filial and domestic virtues, and are temperate and industrious; but they are so, not because religious fears operate upon their minds, but because, not to be so is disreputable and unprofitable: of the tenets, arguments, veracity, or otherwise, of their own religion, they are very ignorant; but practise it with regularity, because their parents have done so before them; and they are proportionately prepossessed in its favour, and jealous of it, if attacked; but thoughts of the future world, or of the judgment to come, probably never enter their minds: in a word, the objects of sense seem exclusively to occupy their attention: as it relates to education, they are very deficient, few of them being able to read or write; nor are their external circumstances at present favourable to their education, the means thereof being few, and their poverty such, as, at a very early period of life, to call for the assistance of their children in their daily labours.

With regard to the Numbers of the inhabitants of this Zillah, the inhabitants of the two Collectorates of Cuddapah and Bellary were, in 1807, estimated at 1,917,376: of this number, two-thirds may be apportioned to Bellary; and that result may suffice to convey a general idea of the number of the inhabitants at present.

In the Bellary District there are, at present, three Missionaries supported by the London Missionary Society. The Committee are too well acquainted, personally, with these Gentlemen, to render here requisite any allusion to their Christian labours, qualifications, or pursuits. The converts hitherto made by them are but few. In Adoni, and in parts of the country near Anantpoor, it is said that there are a few Native Christians of the Roman-Catholic Persuasion; but their number is very confined.

The Facilities, or Obstacles, presented to Missionary Undertakings have here little to distinguish them from the scenes presented in other districts. The main obstacle, is the carnal enmity of unrenewed man to God. Indeed the facilities which exist are sufficient to excite lively feelings of joy and gratitude.

The pious Missionaries, who have, for the last 12 years, with silent but laborious zeal, tilled the ground for the reception of the Gospel, have removed, by their judicious conduct, nearly every prejudice which existed in the minds of the Natives, to the listening to the Gospel Sound and the consideration of its doctrines. This fact cannot be better illustrated than by remarking, that one of them, on a long journey which he lately took, and which led him through large portions of this District and likewise through parts of the neighbouring District of Carnoul (not immediately under British Controul), experienced, in the inhabitants of Bellary, the greatest readiness to hear instruction, and to receive and to read Religious Tracts; while, in Carnoul, the people were very shy in coming round him, and were backward in receiving books; and some who had ventured to take them returned them again, stating that they were afraid to retain them. To what can this be ascribed, but that, on the one hand, greater freedom from prejudice existed, while, on the other, its power remained unimpaired? And what can have, in the one instance, impaired the power of this enemy to truth, but the labours of Missionary Zeal, blessed of the Lord? Can we then err, in stating the tillage which the Heathen Soil in this district has received as a signal facility and assistance? One remark, however, should be made, connected with this subject: the readiness with which Natives flock round a Missionary in his journeying, and the promptitude with which they receive books, form, sometimes, a conspicuous feature in Missionary Reports. That, by any laudable means, attention is excited—that prejudice is forced to retreat—that an opportunity is afforded for the sounding of the trumpet of Salvation in the ears of the Heathen—and that, humanly speaking, the inevitable result of such awakening must terminate in the advancement of the truth—these are undeniable and consoling facts: but, considering the small effects which have hitherto accrued, and the deductions which must be made for curiosity, for the respect which always attends an European, for the love of novelty, and for the force of example—we should pause ere we attribute to the sensations, certainly awakened, much of religious sensibility.

A second circumstance, which affords additional facility to Missionaries, is, that the Natives of this district are familiar with the European Character; and more accustomed, than in some other parts, to have access to European Gentlemen: and the result has been, a decided impression of the value of the European Character, and a sense of being safe under its influence.

The last circumstance, which appears worthy of notice, is, that the Institutions of Caste, and the influence of the Brahmins over the people, appear much less prevalent here than elsewhere. The Brahmins are neither numerous nor wealthy: the Institutions for their support maintained by Government are few: their temporal condition appears to be daily deteriorating; and, with it, their rank, estimation, and influence in society: and our Institutions seem tending to increase this result.

The Committee inquire which are the most desirable situations for Missions. The Missionaries, of whom mention has been already made, have Missions of their Society at Bangalore and Darwar: they themselves occupy the central position of Bellary. The language, with which they are most familiar, is the Canarese: accordingly it will be observed, that the prevalent language of the country in which the three branches of their Missions are placed, is likewise Canarese. With a view to the comparative paucity of the Labourers in the Missionary Field, it may be said of Canarese Missions, that there is a sufficiency. But it will be observed, that, of the countries in which the Telinga Language is the most prevalent, that portion to the eastward of the line formed by the three Canarese Missions above specified—comprising the eastern and southern parts of the Bellary District, and the whole of the Cuddapah and Nellore Zillahs —is the field in which Labourers are most needed. Our hands are few: but they should be widely spread; so that the seed being sown in many places, it may fructify in some. From these observations it will be obvious to the Committee, that Nellore, Cuddapah, and Cummum afford favourable situations for Missions in those districts. As far as relates to the Bellary District, Anantlpoor may be considered as the only spot where Missionaries can with advantage be stationed: it is a place where Europeans have been accustomed to reside—at a distance which affords easy communication with Bellary or Cuddapah—in the neighbourhood of the Roman-Catholic Christians, spoken of above—and where the means of subsistence and comfortable house-room may, at present, be easily and cheaply obtained.

On the most eligible methods of pursuing Missionary Undertakings, and the qualifications necessary for a Missionary, it has been already remarked that a Missionary should be acquainted with both the Canarese and Telinga Languages. As he is required to travel much, and in a country where there exist little aids to travelling, he must possess a good portion of health and activity of body. Of the qualifications of his mind, the spirituality of his affections, his determination to know nothing but Jesus Christ and Him Crucified, I forbear to speak. A critical knowledge of the languages, save for literary pursuits, does not appear so requisite, as an intimate acquaintance with their colloquial powers, provincial and vernacular corruptions, and idiomatical expressions; and a familiarity with the means of illustration, metaphorical and emphatic, used by the Natives themselves. A European, who has a thorough acquaintance with Sanscrit, the Shasters, and the Mythology of the Hindoos, is an object of great respect with the Natives; and, in conversation with any of the Religious Brahmins or Gooroos of a higher rank, it is observable, that, when pressed with any remark which they cannot conveniently controvert, as well as to maintain an appearance of learning among their companions, they frequently quote a Sanscrit verse or some moral saying in that Language; after which they look round on the parties present, who do not understand its meaning, with the greatest conceivable superiority and pride. It is an object with a Missionary to excite respect: if he were able to understand these quotations, often misapplied—to reply to them—to confute them; if he could point out the dreadful obscenity and depravity of the Hindoo Mythology, CORRECTLY—it would be one of the most advantageous acquisitions toward the discharge of his office.

Cuddapah.

The Cuddapah District, which is sometimes also called Kirpa, extends, as at present limited, north and south about 220 miles, east and west about 60. The whole pretty nearly equals the united extent of seven of the Southern Counties in England; viz. Kent, Surrey, Sussex, Hampshire, Wiltshire, Dorsetshire, and Somersetshire. It is bounded, to the north, by Carnoul; and to the west, by Bellary and Mysore, or part of the ancient Kingdom of Chandragiri. The district is divided into thirteen Talooks, or Departments: its principal towns are Cumbum, Rachouty, and Punganoor. Extensive as this district is, it is easily governed by five Englishmen, servants of the Company; being a Judge, a Collector, and their assistants, who are also Magistrates. The subordinate offices are filled by Natives. A small military force is also stationed here.

The country is far from being fully cultivated: probably not one-fourth is, at present, in tillage: this partly arises from the great proportion which is mountain or rock. The quantity of arable land in cultivation is gradually increasing, under the noble and beneficent Government which they have now enjoyed under the English for more than twenty years.

In the Climate there are great variations; the utmost heat being about 104°, and the lowest about 70° of Fahrenheit. In the southern parts of the the district, the cold is very great during the whole year; but the coldest situations are also those most liable to fever. A person able to travel at pleasure might, with ease, enjoy a favourable climate here for the whole year.

The prevailing Religion is Hindooism, with a considerable portion of Mahomedanism. The Hindoos are nearly all Teloogoos; who speak an easy and elegant language, often termed the Italian of India. There are also a few Canarese (or Canadis) and Mahrattas, who use their respective tongues; but are very inconsiderable in number. The Hindoo Religion is here in a very low state indeed: the Brahmins pretty well retain their usual superiority, but this seems to rest almost entirely on their education; and nearly all the Government Offices, that require a knowledge of writing, are filled with them alone: but the days are gone, in which they were demigods here: the Brahmins are generally very poor; and the lowest Hindoo does not scruple to assert his rights against them, either personally or in the Judicial Courts. In a temple at Nundaloor, the great bucket of the cistern is of leather; which the priest said was sheep or cow-skin, he did not know which: filthy as the principles of their religion are, it was matter of surprise to see this direct breach of its most sacred precepts, in a temple.

The people are distinguished into about Twenty different Castes, of which the principal are these :—the Canoo Ryot (or Farmer) numbered at 280,000: the Teloogoo Baljas are reckoned at nearly half that amount; and so are the Parriars, whom we distinguish into Mals and Madigas; the Mussulmans, 60,000; Brahmins and Merchants, each 50,000. A late census estimates the whole population at 1,070,000 souls: a still more recent census gives 1,094,000. Mr. Ward and the Abbé Dubois (particularly the latter) have so amply described the marks and qualities of the various sects, that it is not necessary here to attempt the task. The Farmers are considered the best and most honest part of the people; and the Merchants nearly the worst and most depraved. Members of one caste, alone, can eat together, or in one another's houses. As for the Parriars, they are much debased; yet are so numerous, as to form whole villages, and enjoy their religion and its conflicting sects quite as much as the more-privileged Soodra or Brahmin: they have their own temples, priests, and festivals; and are far from being scorned and abhorred, as it is said they are in Bengal: the offices of Village Watchmen, Shoemakers, and some others are generally hereditary in Parriars; and other castes treat them with great indulgence: their practices, however, are very disgusting; and they usually have not the smallest objection to feeding on the vilest carrion.

The poverty of the inferior classes, though less than that in the neighbouring districts, is often extrem ; a great proportion of the people, in short, live from hand to mouth: which is partly produced by the grinding extortion of their former Mussulman Rulers.

Very few of the ancient temples remain, and these are greatly impoverished. As for their religion, they do not seem to know, even tolerably, any part of it: one god is worshipped in one village or one street of a town, and another in the next. A village god is often so modern and obscure, that his name is known nowhere else. Some time ago, two persons were apprehended who were worshipped as gods. One was a man, a poor contemptible creature. The other was a woman, who travelled in a litter borne on the shoulders of 12 men: she pretended to cure diseases, and to inflict them: the poor creature certainly seemed to believe her own lie: her followers said that she had lived without food for five years: she certainly neither ate nor drank during the fortnight she was in prison as a vagrant. The use of magic is not uncommon: a curious instance of it has just occurred: a servant died in the family in which I live: the rest declared that a rival servant had destroyed him by magic; and, last night, they shewed me the place where incantations had been performed for the purpose: the instruments were still lying there, and all I could say to them persuaded them only of my own incredulity. The morals of the people are as bad as Hindooism can make them: the most striking mark of their depravity is their total carelessness about truth: if it were possible to punish perjury every time it occurs, no prisons could contain the offenders: they do not consider a lie as at all disgraceful: they have hardly any reliance on one another; and the most respectable man or woman among them will not hesitate, when angry, to utter such abominably filthy terms of abuse, as would probably shock the most-depraved wretches of more-favoured lands. It is very remarkable, however, that they never use blasphemous expressions.

The Mahomedans are sunk nearly as low as the Hindoos, in their tenets and practices. The two creeds have, by degrees, assimilated so closely, that neither party seems to know why the other is in the wrong: they perceive that their creeds differ, only on occasions when their respective feasts happen to clash, by falling on the same day. The Mussulmans are not then easily pacified without breaking some of the Hindoos' heads; but the severe justice of the English Law under which they live, and which they greatly value, curbs these outrages very effectually. Both are equally good subjects, and appear much attached to our Government. Which is most ignorant, it is hard to say: probably not one in, at least, five thousand of the common people can read or write.

Goorumcondah, July 5, 1822—The Mufti of this place paid me a visit: he was very proud and empty, and talked Persian but badly: however, he spoke rather elegant Hindoostanee: he does not seem to know a word of Arabic. In the evening I climbed up the hill to examine the Fort, which is somewhat celebrated. I was accompanied by a Mussulman Guide, a remarkable specimen of the brutish ignorance so common among them: we soon fell into conversation. From the brow of the hill I pointed out a pagoda, and asked whether he ever went there to worship. "No," said he, "it is not our custom"—"Where do you worship?" "I do not know"—"There is a Mosque," pointing down: "do you worship there?" "Yes: but it is overgrown with brushwood and full of snakes, so nobody goes in there"—"Whom do you worship?" "Almighty God"—"Whom do the Hindoos worship?" "God also"—"Then in what do you differ from them?" "I do not know"—"Do you worship Idols?" "Oh no"—"What do the Hindoos worship?" "Idols"—"But do not you worship the Peers?" (images of saints' tombs) "Of course"—"Are not the Peers idols?" "Yes, I suppose so"—"Then you are idolaters, as much as the Hindoos?" "Yes, I think so: we are all, in fact, one"—"What! are Mussulmans idolaters? then what is the meaning of your Creed?" (quoting it) "It is about Mahomed"—"But it means, 'No God, but God; and Mahomed the Prophet of God?'" "Yes, Sir, that is the Creed"—"How is Mahomed the Prophet of God? Who is Mahomed?" "I do not know: Adam I suppose." I then asked him about Death and Judgment, Heaven and Hell; and found his want of ideas about them truly deplorable. A week ago, I had a similar conversation with a Brahmin, whom I found in a solitary temple on a hill, worshipping the print of Vishnoo's foot; and indeed there was not the smallest difference between him and this Mussulman. Both these conversations made me melancholy; and, I suppose, did them no good.

The only Christian Faith, so to call it, here known, is a remnant of Roman Catholicism; very greatly debased, and rapidly reverting into Hindooism. These Christians appear to be in great poverty, and very ignorant. Their creed appears peculiar, in adding to the belief of heaven, hell, and purgatory, a place for infants dying unbaptized. Here appears a field, quite clear from obstruction, for Protestant Teachers.

Suitable situations for Missions might be easily chosen. Cuddapah City, Rachouty, Kudree, Madenpully, Cumbum, Pudatoor, and many others, are eligible. Every village or hamlet contains from one to four or five schools, of 10 or 15 boys each; but the scholars form a very small proportion indeed to the body of the people. The schoolmaster never seems to trouble himself about the morals of his pupils, who are often extremely licentious. The Hindoos never have Girls' Schools; and probably about one woman in thirty thousand can read and write.

Opposition or insult need not be contemplated. The life of a Missionary here would probably be quite peaceable and free from annoyance.

In connection with preaching and schools, the system of establishing Public Readers of the Word of God would be very profitable: this was a favourite plan of the late Rev. David Brown: see "Memorial Sketches," 1816, p. 61.

The difficulties which Missionaries would here meet with may be less than in other parts of India, because the present idolatries are so much impoverished and weakened. All the Natives are excellent subjects, very peaceable, obedient, and industrious. Much poverty still prevails; but, on the whole, they are pretty comfortable. They are grossly ignorant of their various creeds.

About a year ago, I opened two Free Schools on the Madras System. One of them is under a Brahmin, who teaches his pupils Teloogoo: he, last week, had 32 boys and five class-leaders. The other is under a zealous Mussulman, who teaches Persian and Hindoostanee: this school prospers far better than the other; as it is easier to induce a Mussulman, than a proud Brahmin, to use the novel systems of Bell and Lancaster. Each of these schools cost me seven rupees a month in wages to the Master, until lately, when the superior success of the Mussulman induced me to advance his salary to 10 rupees a month, beside which I allow a trifling sum monthly for paper &c.

I had wished to begin a Christian Teloogoo-School, but have not met with a competent Master. Some Natives lately asked me to open a School for the English Language: I have not yet found a competent Master, being a Brahmin, or I should probably have done so: this, if once effected, would be a most noble means of improvement; and might, under the blessing of God, immediately lead to a knowledge of the Bible itself. I have not yet ventured to introduce Christian Instruction into my present schools; but a few Proverbs from Solomon and Psalms from David might be introduced, without any suspicion.

You will be gratified by the following Letter, addressed to me by Nanah, the eldest son of the Rajah of Punganoor. It is dated Sept. 24, 1822, from the Palace of Punganoor:—

I had the pleasure to see your friend Captain Miller, a week ago, at Goondagull, proceeding with a detachment to Bangalore; and I had the felicity to pass a Sabbath Day with him, his Officers, and men, religiously: his exhortation to them, regarding the duty of Christians, gratified me much. I regret in having been apprised by Captain Miller that you have lost your Mother: such an irreparable loss, my Dear Sir, I need not say, but you know best, we ought to bear with exemplary resignation, as we are always prepared to go to our next happy abode, when it pleases our great Creator to call us.

This Letter from a Hindoo Prince will, probably, surprise you. I have not altered a word in it: you see it is in very good English. This Gentleman's Father had formerly considerable power: he now governs his own district, which is subordinate to Cuddapah. The Father and his whole family (excepting, I think, one son) have adopted the English Dress; and are so warmly attached to us, that the numerous Englishmen travelling that road meet with the most bountiful hospitality in the palace, and the kindest possible attentions throughout the district. The Father knows and thinks little about Christianity; but Nanah reads the Bible regularly in English, and you see how he expresses himself. A year-and-half ago I had some interesting conversations with this Young Man, on the truths and glorious prospects of Christianity. Punganoor, itself, would perhaps be an excellent station for a Missionary: the climate there is sharply cold.

Masulipatam and Rajahmundry.

With respect to the legal authorities, the Zillahs of Masulipatam and Rajahmundry have been thrown into one; though the Collectorates still remain separate. The Collectorate of Masulipatam is bounded, on the north, by the Nizam's Territory; on the south, by the Sea; on the east, by the Rajahmundry Collectorate; and, on the west, by the river Kishna, on the other side of which is the Collectorate of Guntoor. The Collectorate of Rajahmundry is bounded, on the north, by the Nizam's Territory and the Mahratta Country; on the south, by the Sea; on the east, by the Vizagapatam Zillah; and, on the west, by the Masulipatam Collectorate. These two Collectorates comprise a tract of land lying between the 16th and 18th degrees of North Latitude, and 78°. 30′ and 81° East Longitude.

The Religions of the inhabitants of the two Collectorates are the Hindoo, Mahomedan, Roman-Catholic, and Protestant.

The Languages generally spoken throughout the two Collectorates are the Gentoo, the Hindoostanee, and the Portuguese.

The generality of the Natives are not thought so rich as to the southward. The Mahomedans and Hindoos are more at variance here, than I have seen them at other places: the Mahomedans endeavour to interrupt the festivals of the Hindoos, pretending a great hatred for idolatry and contempt of the gross conceptions of the Deity entertained by the Hindoos. It is, however, to be feared, that political prejudice, and a galling remembrance of departed empire, have a greater share in producing this abhorrence of idols, than any love of spiritual worship. If the Committee call to their remembrance the annals of this country, they will recollect that the Deccan, in which is comprised the tract of land now under consideration, was early subdued by the Moguls, after they obtained a footing in the North of India: and that, from the great distance of the Provinces from Delhi, the persons delegated from that Court soon threw off the yoke, and established many petty but independent principalities throughout the country; and, when no longer subject to the controul of the enlarged views which more or less influence the counsels of an Empire, they gave loose to all the bigotry, malevolence, and profligacy of the Mahomedan Character; and their concentrated, though confined power, not feeling the national importance of their Hindoo Subjects, took advantage of their personal insignificance, and trampled with unexampled ferocity upon those religious prejudices which Protestant Toleration has always protected and worldly policy has humoured. These considerations afford some clue to enable us to account for the peculiar hostility, which exists between the Mahomedans and Hindoos in this part of the world.

I have written thus at length respecting the clashing feelings of these two great sects, because the Deism of the Mahomedans appears to me to be the great link of connection between the Polytheism of the Hindoos and Christianity. Those who abhor idols and testify against them, are, in the literal sense of the words, not so much the Christians taken as a body, as the Mahomedans; who, being more literal in understanding the prohibition against idolatry, level their anathemas, not against the spiritual worship of the creature, but against the outward reverence shewn to wood and stone. This mode of preaching is more offensive to the Hindoos, than any reproof that is founded on a moral theory.

Any thing that tends to separate these two classes of unbelievers in feeling and interest, is—allowing the premises, that I have assumed, to be true—of the deepest importance.

The Christian Inhabitants of the Masulipatam Collectorate, inhabit Masulipatam and Ellore: they consist of Roman Catholics and Protestants. Their languages are, the Gentoo, Portuguese, and Malabar. Their occupations are those of Writers, Sepoys, Fifers, and Drummers.

In the Rajahmundry Zillah, Christians inhabit Samulcottah, Palancole, Jaganathpooram, Yanam, and Coringah. Of the actual state of these people, their numbers, or by whom they were founded, I have not been able to obtain any authentic information. I should imagine that the French, Dutch, and Portuguese, who have small settlements about here, must, at different periods, have brought a good many Natives within the pale of the Catholic and Calvinistic Churches. The Dutch, if I mistake not, had a Settlement in this District, as early as the 16th Century. The languages of Christians in the Rajahmundry District, are, French, Gentoo, Malabar, and Portuguese. With the exception of Dutch Servants in different occupations, Merchants, and Mariners, the rest of the Christians in the Rajahmundry Collectorate follow the same occupations as those in the Masulipatam.

If there was any peculiar feature in the character of the Natives of this district, I should say, that they had a mixture of the political profligacy which they acquired from the Mahomedans, and of the absence of moral feeling which is interwoven with the genius of Hindooism. They have, however, many of the quiet virtues; and I have, even in the short time that I have been in this Zillah, seen instances of courage and independence that I rarely saw to the southward: and when we add to this, the characteristic and even elegant appearance of the meanest Ryots who till the soil, the Natives of this country have an imposing appearance, which is grateful to the eye of the philanthropist. Oaths, at Masulipatam, may be purchased as easily as rice; and the venders of both consider themselves as equally following a lawful calling: the consequence is, that witnesses in Civil Suits are considered as of no value. The Natives here have extracted from their obscure books of divinity an opiate for the conscience, as politically mischievous as it is morally absurd: it is this—they consider the common oath, as administered in the Company's Courts, as of little obligation, though they themselves appeal to it as the test of their veracity; and an oath, called "Ghora Primanum," is frequently resorted to by the parties in a suit, where the points of a case are proved by evidence and not by documents. This form of oath consists in the witness being taken to a Hindoo Temple, and being required to repeat his testimony before sacrificial fire: when this has been done, persons have been known to contradict every word which they uttered when only under the terrors of the common oath. This is rarely resorted to, except among the Natives themselves; but some of the Company's Judges have permitted it.

The Brahmins, in these two Collectorates, appear to be more employed in the active business of life, than they are to the southward. The Videkooloos, or Begging Brahmins, who are the only persons who abide by the letter of the Hindoo Law, which prescribes begging as the only lawful means by which the sacerdotal caste can earn their livelihood, are universally considered as a degraded people, by their fellow Brahmins who conform more to the fashion of the world, and by engaging in business acquire pecuniary independence and theological indifference. One of the causes of this contempt of the people who devote themselves more especially to the service of the Heathen Deities, arises from their not having any lands free from all kinds of tax granted to them; as they have to the southward, and even so near this place as the Nellore Zillah. What effect this may have upon the religious feeling of the Hindoo Inhabitants of this part of the country, is for the consideration of the Committee.

With regard to the qualifications of Missionaries who might be sent hither, a thorough grammatical and practical knowledge of the Gentoo Language is a chief requisite. They ought to be men of judgment, temper, and pleasing affable manners. A knowledge of the Hindoo Mythology would give them an insight into the causes, which operate in making a Hindoo the moral anomaly, that the ablest Missionaries have pronounced him to be.

Vizagapatam.

The towns of this District are Vizagapatam, Chicacole, Ganjam, Berhampoor, Vizianagram, together with many considerable villages filled with inhabitants; the general character of whom is, industrious, but poor. The climate is good, and generally healthy for the European constitution.

The Hindoo is the most prevalent Religion; and the Language, Telooguo. In respect of Occupation, the people are pretty generally Weavers and Cultivators. The castes are of all those of India: there are many of the Brahminical, who are as well taught as in most other parts of the country, and strongly attached to their own system.

There has been a Protestant Mission at Vizagapatam for upward of 12 years. Some few Roman Catholics are here, among whom may be numbered a few Natives who are from Madras: they do not appear to direct their attention to the Natives in any way. This is the only place in the district where any attention is paid to the instruction of the Natives: even here, there is room for many more Labourers: multitudes are perishing for lack of knowledge.

Chicacole is a field, which might be occupied to great advantage by a Protestant Missionary. There is a Native School, established by a pious Lady, who has long been desirous of the aid which an active Missionary might afford. The character of the Natives there, as has been found by the visit of the Missionaries from Vizagapatam, is docile, and ready to receive instruction in Christianity. The town is very thickly inhabited, and generally by Hindoos: there are some Mahomedans, but they are very indifferent respecting their faith. This town is a most eligible place for a Missionary Establishment; as, from it, in every direction, the residents might itinerate to a considerable distance, among numerous and closely-inhabited villages, which have been found ready to hear the truth.

Some years ago a Mission was commenced at Ganjam; but, in consequence of the sickliness of the place, it was abandoned, and has not since been renewed. It promised very fair at that time: a small Chapel was built, and a School or two begun; but, although the healthiness of the Station has returned, no attempt has been made to revive the Mission, nor is there the least present prospect of its being again occupied. From this town, too, which is well situated for itinerating, Missionaries might, in every direction, go forth and declare the glad tidings of the Gospel: they might make frequent visits to the far-famed Juggernaut, and disperse the Scriptures and Tracts in various languages.

In a journey, made some time since by one of the Missionaries of Vizagapatam to the north-west, at Vizianagram and around it were found many very populous towns and villages, where, in consequence of the inhabitants being poor, very few Brahmins were observed: the people were generally attentive to the Gospel, and seemed desirous of instruction. Here are thousands and tens of thousands, who appear like the fields white unto the harvest.

To the southward of that station, the towns and villages are very numerous and populous; but no means are employed for their improvement in Christian Knowledge. Schools might be established in each; and a Missionary, centrally situated, might employ himself to great advantage among them: from thence, to the distance of 300 miles, the same language is universal, over which space are scattered hundreds of thousands, without one to declare, in their hearing, that there is a Saviour willing and ready to embrace, in the arms of His love and mercy, the guilty and the helpless.

The Facilities are many in this district. The Teloogoo is spoken, with greater purity than to the southward. The New Testament is translated, and circulated to a considerable extent; and the Old Testament is in a considerable state of forwardness. There are Grammars and Dictionaries of the language already prepared, so that a Missionary would have nothing to prevent his immediate entry on his work.

The Obstacles are no other here, than what Satan has long presented to the conversion of the Heathen; and men of faith, patience, prayer, and diligence would overcome them, by the blessing of heaven on their persevering labours. These are the principal qualifications requisite for a Missionary in these parts: it is presumed that he understands his Bible, and has love to his work and the souls of the perishing Heathen.

In some places, the people have frequently expressed their desire that Schools should be set up among them; and, in their visits to Vizagapatam, have addressed the resident Missionaries on the subject: but, either for want of means or the difficulty of attending to them personally, (for nothing, in this way, can be of any real or lasting benefit without personal superintendence,) they have not extended the establishment of schools beyond the town and villages around where they reside.

In a journey, some little time since, as far as Innacondah, it was found that the Teloogoo is the prevailing language of the people. In the different towns and villages at which the travellers halted, the Scriptures and Tracts were distributed, and frequently an apparent interest was excited to what was said on their contents; and, in many places, considerable concern was expressed that they had none to instruct them: even Brahmins have seemed to desire to know more than the residence of a Sabbath or evening among them gave an opportunity to impart. The traveller was often delighted to find them so ready to hear; and the readiness with which many received the books, and the eagerness with which groupes of them were seen reading and conversing on their contents, gave a pleasing hope, that, if there were persons among them competent to afford them instruction, they were ready to receive it. Over that whole extent of country, only two places of Christian Worship were observed: they were of the Roman-Catholic Faith, with not more than 10 or 12 families attached to them. Some of the principal towns in this line are, Samulcottah, Rajanagrum, Petapooram, Rajahmundry, Ellore, and Guntoor—containing from 90,000 to 100,000 inhabitants, generally poor; consequently not much under Brahminical influence. Around these large towns, are scattered many villages, among which a Missionary might itinerate—establish Schools—and, without any difficulty, introduce the truth as it is in Jesus. Myriads are crying, by their helpless and ruined condition, Come over, and help us!

 In estimating, at pp. 130 & 157 of the preceding Report, the amount, in pounds sterling, of the expenditure in the North and South India Missions, the value of the Rupee has been taken, as in former Reports, at 2*s.* 6*d.* in Calcutta and at nine in the pound sterling in Madras: but its value has been so much reduced, that the respective amounts in pounds sterling should be reduced by about one-fifth.
